C. L. Doose, a Lieutenant of the Guard at San Quentin Prison for about seven months, in charge of the reception of visitors at the prison, was questioned concerning the visitors who called at the penitentiary to see King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace. (Volume VII, pp. 2078-2083.) Doose identified many visitors' slips and explained the manner in which they were filled out. He stated that visitors were allowed to stay one hour which was an invariable rule, although the slips showed that the visitors stayed a much longer time with King, Ramsay and Conner. Doose admitted that he had permitted the members of the King, Ramsay and Conner Defense Committee to interview these prisoners in his office instead of in the usual visitor's room. He had become acquainted with the members of the defense committee but could not remember their names. The only member of the King, Conner, Ramsay Defense Committee remembered by Doose was Miriam Dinkin. He stated that he did not know of any defense committee for Wallace. Wallace had to greet his visitors in the regular visiting room. Doose stated that he only permitted attorneys to see prisoners in his office and that he only gave this permission on other occasions for special business, such as the members of the King, Conner, Ramsay Defense Committee.

Victor Nelson is a Sergeant of the Guard at San Quentin and has been employed at the penitentiary for 13 years. (Volume VII, pp. 2074-2078, and 2084.) He is a guard on the waterfront at night and his watch starts at 4 p.m. and finishes at midnight. No barges unload during his watch. He testified that King cooked his own meals in a cabin on the waterfront and secured his food from the commissary. Ernest G. Ramsay, Mr. Nelson testified, relieved King for one night outside the wall.

EMPLOYMENT FOR PAROLEES

Your committee was interested in learning why King, Conner and Ramsay had been released without having immediate employment. It is generally understood that the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles never parole convicted felons unless the board is assured that bona fide employment awaits them upon their release from prison. For this purpose, among others, the committee subpoenaed John E. Chadwick, a State parole officer since September of 1940. (Volume V, pp. 1631-1639.) Chadwick stated that it was quite true that the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles must be assured, in every case, that released felons will immediately be employed. Chadwick had personally ascertained that King and Ramsay had employment before they were released from San Quentin. He stated that Earl King had been offered a job by two C. I. O. Unions, one as a longshoreman and the other as a maintenance man in a union building on Golden Gate Avenue. King had accepted the latter position and had reported for work. Ramsay had furnished bond and was released to the immigration authorities for deportation and the entire matter was referred to the Attorney General's office. Meanwhile, Ramsay was "working on the waterfront" handling freight. He was employed by the C. I. O. Warehousemen's and Longshoremen's Union in a classification of employment which was not subject to the approval of the Employers' Association. Conner was in the Stanford Hospital under the care of a Dr. French for mental and emotional instability.

Chadwick stated that he had found the unions reliable in placing men in employment when they agreed to do so upon their parole from prison. Some unions were very reliable in placing released convicts, such as the Marine Firemen's Union and others were very uncooperative such as Local 47 of the Musicians' Union in Los Angeles.

In probing the matter of the alleged employment of King, Conner and Ramsay upon their release from San Quentin Prison, Frank P. Foisie, the President of the Waterfront Employers' Association of San Francisco, was examined. (Volume V, pp. 1342-1349.) Foisie had been president of the association since 1938 and presides at all of the board and membership meetings. He stated that no one can obtain a job on the waterfront unless that employment is considered by a joint committee of the Longshoremen's Unions and the Waterfront Employers' Association. He personally examined the records of the association and found no indication there of an application for employment of Earl King, Ernest G. Ramsay or Frank Conner for work on San Francisco's waterfront. He submitted minutes of the last meeting of the association to the committee. He concluded his testimony by stating that he knew the Defense Committee for King, Ramsay and Conner was organized by the Communists on the waterfront and in the waterfront unions to secure a pardon for the prisoners.

The subterfuge used here should be obvious without comment. The board had no assurance that the men would receive legitimate employment. They were released to certain unions which, according to Chadwick, were to secure employment for them.

THE PAROLE BOARD

The committee made every attempt to subpoena Archie Lyons of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles but was unable to serve him. Booth B. Goodman, the chairman of the board, testified December 2, 1941. (Volume V, pp. 1573-1616.) Goodman, in addition to being Chairman of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, was also a Director of Penology for the State of California, and had been appointed to both these positions by Governor Culbert L. Olson. He had been appointed to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles October 14, 1941. He admitted that he had no experience with penology before accepting this appointment.

He presented a picture of a kindly gentleman, befuddled and confused; caught in a morass of plotting and intrigue. The weakness and flimsiness of his own position fluttered through his testimony from time to time like loose papers caught in a wind. It was apparent to the members of the committee that Goodman was continually fitting arguments and fictions to the board's decision in the case, rather than applying the facts to the decision. He stated that he had voted for the parole of King, Ramsay and Conner after a prolonged study of the case. George Wallace had not been paroled because, stated Mr. Goodman, George Wallace had fled the scene of the crime and, therefore, was more apt to be guilty than King, Ramsay and Conner, who had remained in San Francisco or its environs. Goodman recognized the public interest in the matter and had heard it said that the case against the men was a "frame-up." His examination of the testimony had revealed conflicting evidence to him. He wondered why Murphy, who had helped Wallace and Sakovitz escape, had never been prosecuted. He considered this "reprehensible conduct" and therefore was inclined to disregard Murphy's testimony.

At one point in his testimony Goodman stated that he was not claiming that the men were not properly convicted although he had so indicated at another point. He believed that the men had started out to commit a simple assault, and therefore should not have been held responsible for the murder of the Chief Engineer of the Point Lobos. He did not recall Matthew Guidera's testimony in reference to the plot to "get" Alberts when the Point Lobos was on its way up the West Coast.

Goodman disclaimed any knowledge of Communist pressure for the pardon or parole of King, Ramsay and Conner. He emphatically denied that Governor Olson had ever discussed the case with him. He knew of no pressure on the Governor for the pardon or parole of the convicts. Although, in the beginning of his examination Goodman had stated that he had been appointed to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles on October 14, 1941, he became confused later in his testimony and stated that he had been chairman of the board for 18 months.

He believed that the prison records of King, Ramsay and Conner were good. He believed that their past records were good. He stated that George Wallace had a record of previous arrests and that his testimony and statements conflicted on occasion. He did not believe in a "spirit of revenge" in penology and personally believed that the continued incarceration of King, Ramsay and Conner belonged to that category. He did not believe that the murder of George Alberts could be properly termed "cold-blooded." He distinguished between men who struck blows and men who planned such an assault, although he believed the evidence in this case did not show any "planning." He later admitted that there was evidence of a plan to have Alberts "beat up." Under examination, he later admitted that Conner and Ramsay did have previous records of arrests, bail-forfeitures, et cetera, as well as George Wallace. He reasoned that if convicts such as King, Conner and Ramsay were held in prison unnecessarily they might become martyrs. He believed that a man like Earl King had been punished sufficiently by the time served because he had not planned to murder the chief engineer. He concluded his testimony by stating that he did not read or pay any attention to the mass of letters, telegrams and communications which had poured into Mark Noon's office in San Quentin, urging the release of King, Ramsay and Conner.

Mr. J. H. Stephens, veteran member of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, testified at length concerning the efforts made to parole the men. (Volume V, pp. 1471-1494.) He stated that Warden Clinton Duffy of San Quentin Prison took exception to the members of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles in making investigations of prisoners coming up for parole. He stated that this had been the procedure followed by members of the board for many years. In spite of Warden Duffy's objections, Stephens investigated the King, Conner, Ramsay case. He ascertained where each prisoner was working in the penitentiary, and learned that King had been working on the waterfront and sleeping outside of the prison. Ramsay was also working on the waterfront and Conner was a sweeper in one of the cell blocks. King was operating a donkey engine, as was Ramsay, and both prisoners had ample opportunity to contact people on incoming boats.

Stephens stated that King, Ramsay and Conner first came before the board after serving approximately two years. At that time, John Gee Clark was the chairman of the board and desired to parole the men. Mr. Escola, third member of the board at that time, felt that the men should receive a minimum of 20 years. Escola and Stephens voted for a 20-year sentence and Clark, the chairman of the board, voted "no." The minimum time to be served under a 20-year sentence would be 12 years and 8 months.

Stephens told of the $10,000 bribe offered to Archie Lyons, present member of the board, to vote for the parole of the convicts. After Paul Yarrimain, the man accused by Lyons of offering the bribe, was acquitted, and after Booth Goodman had been appointed to the board, the case was again brought up and Lyons voted for the parole of the men. Stephens stated that they had served only four years and seven months. He stated that Lyons and Goodman denied Wallace a parole "because he had a former record," and that this procedure was contrary to the action of the board for a period covering some 10 or 11 years. Stephens also stated that King and Ramsay had been released from San Quentin without the usual investigation concerning jobs, places to live, and other important matters. The parole officers had announced that "some one had telephoned" who said that the men would be given jobs.

MENTAL CONDITIONS OF MEN

The committee was interested in learning the mental and physical condition of King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace. It had been stated that Wallace was mentally inferior to the other three, although it was known at the time of the hearing that Conner was being hospitalized in San Francisco. For this purpose the committee examined two of San Quentin's physicians.

Dr. Leo L. Stanley has been a physician at San Quentin for some 28 years. He had examined George Wallace and was acquainted with his physical and mental condition. (Volume VII, pp. 2067-2071.) He stated that Wallace had shown a pronounced "anxiety neurosis" at a time when he had refused to see George Andersen, attorney for the Communist Party of California. Herbert Resner, attorney for Conner and another chap by the name of Karse, on January 16, 1939.

Dr. Stanley also testified that Wallace had been struck by an inmate of the prison, on October 15, 1940, by name of Daban.

Dr. David G. Schmidt is the Chief Psychiatrist at San Quentin Penitentiary. (Volume VII, pp. 2045-2067.) The usual procedure with prisoners was followed in the case of Earl King, Ernest G. Ramsay, Frank Conner and George Wallace when they entered San Quentin Prison. Dr. Schmidt made the entry examination and his subsequent contact with prisoners is at such times as they are confined in the prison hospital or when their mental conditions seem to warrant a further examination. He also has an opportunity to examine prisoners when disciplinary problems arise in relation to them. It is the duty of the chief psychiatrist to make a check on the prisoners when they are scheduled to appear before the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

He testified that Wallace was not mentally active, that he had an inferiority complex and that his intelligence was retarded. Wallace had been hospitalized in 1937 suffering with an "anxiety neurosis." He appeared to have "vague delusions" of persecution and believed that he was being framed by Communists. The doctor stated that Wallace had told him that the Communists were interested in King, Ramsay and Conner but that they were not interested in him; that they wanted to injure him and were keeping him in San Quentin. The doctor stated that worry over the Communist situation appeared to be the chief cause of Wallace's "instability." He admitted that "an average man" would, in all probability, crack up in the same way under the same circumstances. He believed that the fact that Wallace has received poorer treatment than those he helped to convict has tended to "retard" him.

The doctor stated that Wallace is in dread fear of bodily harm from the prison inmates and believes they are influenced by Communists. (The prison records show that Wallace was hospitalized for a wound inflicted by an inmate by name of Daban (No. 60,069) whom Wallace accused of once being a bodyguard for Harry Bridges.)

Frank Conner, in contrast to George Wallace, according to Dr. Schmidt, is "emotionally unstable," which is to be distinguished from "mentally unstable." The doctor said that Conner felt as though he had been used as a "catspaw" in the case. Doctor Schmidt stated he believed Wallace and Conner were not equal in responsibility; that Conner was of a very simple mind, but a thoroughly satisfactory worker, while Wallace was of marked "mental instability" and therefore not reliable.

It should be stated here that Dr. Schmidt had once classified Conner as a "moron" in the prison records, and although the questions of your committee were directed toward bringing out this point, Dr. Schmidt appeared to evade the issue.

JOHN MUSTAK

John Mustak, a prisoner in San Quentin Penitentiary, was called before the committee at the request of George Wallace. He stated that he had been doing undercover work for the American Legion, connected with Post 347 of this organization, located on Mission Street in San Francisco. He stated that he reported his undercover work directly to Stanley (Larry) Doyle and Harper Knowles and that they had picked him for this work because of his experience in the Military Intelligence during the World War. In connection with the work, he became acquainted with Earl King, whom he met at the Terminal Hotel in San Francisco in 1931, and again at the Communist Party State Headquarters in the latter part of 1935. He also knew Ernest G. Ramsay, Frank Conner and George Wallace. His activities in connection with his work for Doyle and Knowles was to investigate Communism. He joined the Longshoremen's Union and was sent to San Pedro.

Lawrence Ross, a Communist functionary and the Editor of the Western Worker, selected Mustak as the Communist Party member to help in sabotaging the Merchant Marine. Ross introduced Mustak to Harry Bridges and Earl King and was told to take his orders from them. He stated that Earl King was introduced to him as "Comrade" and as a member of the Communist Party. Mustak had taken the name of "Merich" in the Communist Party and had turned his Communist Party book over to Knowles. In the Communist Party meetings he attended, he heard the names of Ramsay and Conner from time to time as accepted members of the Communist Party, but stated that he had no personal knowledge of their membership.

He stated that he believed the Communist Party "smelled a rat" along toward the last of his activities. Although he had fooled them for some nine months, he stated that they finally kidnaped him and marched him at the point of two guns to the office of George Andersen, the attorney for the Communist Party of California. He did not prosecute his kidnapers on advice of the American Legion. Although he believed that the Communist Party suspected the true role he was playing, nothing was done about it at the time. He believes, however, that they laid the trap into which he ultimately fell and for which he is now serving time in San Quentin.

In July of 1939 plans were laid to hold up a grocery store in San Pedro in order to raise funds for the Harry Bridges Defense Committee. Mustak stated that the grocer was supposed to be in collusion with the plan and that the money was to be turned over to the men without a struggle for the use of the Communist Party in its defense of Harry Bridges. The grocer was to be reimbursed by the Insurance Company. Mustak stated that he was assigned by the Communist Party to participate in the holdup and that other Communist Party members drove him to the scene of the robbery and left him there alone. Following instructions, Mustak took $1,600 from the grocer, was arrested and charged with the robbery and convicted.

He stated that Knowles and Doyle failed to come to his rescue and that he was advised to protect the American Legion and "take the rap." He had never been convicted of any crime before. He concluded his testimony by submitting letters from Harper Knowles of the American Legion and the Chief Investigator of the La Follette Committee.

GEORGE WALLACE

George Wallace seems to be the forgotten man in the King, Ramsay, Conner case. He is still in prison. Certainly, if King, Ramsay and Conner deserved to be paroled, so did George Wallace. The committee examined the previous records of all four men and reports that Wallace's record was no worse, in any respect, than the others. We saw and questioned him at San Quentin Penitentiary December 6, 1941. (Volume VII, pp. 2099-2112, 2114-2128.) We believe that he has real cause to be in fear of bodily harm from members of the Communist Party, regardless of Dr. Schmidt's estimation of his mental condition. We believe that there is a real reason, and not an imaginary one, for his "anxiety neurosis."

Wallace first met "Wimpy" Ben Sakovitz in January of 1936 at the Union Hall of the Marine Firemen. Wimpy told Wallace that he was a member of the Communist Party. After the murder of George Alberts, Wimpy induced Wallace to accompany him to New York to see Roy Hudson. Earl King also told Wallace and Sakovitz to see Hudson in New York City. Wallace stated that he went to New York with Sakovitz and there met Roy Hudson. Wallace stated that Hudson would do nothing for them and referred them back to Harry Bridges in San Francisco. This occurred about one month after the Point Lobos murder. Hudson gave Sakovitz some money and Wallace and Sakovitz parted. Wallace subsequently returned to San Francisco.

Harry Bridges paid Wallace a visit in San Quentin Prison and Wallace stated that Bridges told him that as long as he was against Communism and Communists that Bridges would see to it that the Communists in San Quentin Prison "undermined" him. Wallace feels that the Communists in the prison have followed these instructions. He believes that Earl King exerts considerable influence over the party members within the prison walls. He stated that his life had been threatened because he refused to subscribe to the People's Daily World and other Communist Party publications which, he claimed, are circulated within the walls of the Prison. Herbert Resner had called to visit him but he had refused to see him. He stated that George E. Bodle, an attorney, wrote to him expressing an interest in his case. Miriam Dinkin, of the King, Conner, Ramsay Defense Committee, came to see him. He stated that Miss Dinkin "used to hang out here" and that she was very popular and had dinners at the prison. When Miriam Dinkin came to see him she tried to induce him to accept her judgment in the selection of an attorney but he refused. He stated that he told her that he was not a Communist and never would be.

George Bodle testified before the committee (Volume IX, pp. 2799-2808) in Los Angeles, February 24, 1942. He stated that Wallace had communicated with him. He went to San Quentin to see Wallace but never represented him. He stated that he had no connection with the King, Ramsay, Conner Defense Committee.

At the time of his trial, Wallace stated, a Robert Cole offered to secure an attorney for him if he would place his entire case entirely in the hands of the attorney selected. Wallace refused to accept this offer saying that he believed the attorney selected by these people would sell him out. Robert Cole offered to spend $5,000 for an attorney for Wallace, but did not offer him the money. Cole stated that the Marine Firemen would raise the money. Wallace did not know that Robert Cole was a member of the Communist Party.

Rena M. Vale, former member of the Communist Party, (Volume VII, pp. 2112-2114) testified that she knew Robert Cole as a member of the Communist Party in Los Angeles in 1938. She stated that his real name was "Cohn" and that he was the organizer of the Professional Section of the Communist Party in Los Angeles. He was known by both names, although he had asked the Communist Party to drop his real name because he did not want to involve his family.

Testifying regarding his previous record, Wallace stated that he had never been convicted of any crime prior to his conviction in this case. He had waited four months in a county jail in New York for trial on a misdemeanor charge but was released.

He told the committee of being attacked by a man by the name of Daban in the Prison.

He concluded his testimony by presenting a sheaf of letters written and received by him during the time that he had been in the penitentiary. He stated that he felt that he had been discriminated against by both the prison authorities and the parole board. He concluded by stating:

"I referred a question to the last record of this board—referring to this; I was an American citizen, and came into this board, and I respected justice; but I did not get justice; I did not have any Communist influence; and I still have in my mind—that's the reason I didn't get no break, which I deserve."

CONCLUSION

All of the testimony taken by the committee in reference to the King, Ramsay, Conner case, together with the uncontroverted and established facts of the case, brings the committee to the conclusion that the murder of Chief Engineer George Alberts on the Point Lobos was Communist inspired and planned. At least King and Sakovitz were members of the Communist Party. Wallace was merely a tool used by the others. Conner, undoubtedly, was under the influence of King and the group with whom he worked and was possibly friendly to the Communist element on the waterfront. There is no doubt of the guilt of all four men. Both Conner and Wallace confessed, although Conner later attempted to repudiate his testimony. The logic of the law governing such cases is hard to attack and possibly has never been attacked heretofore in the many, many similar cases scattered throughout California's high court decisions. So that the record is complete in this instance, we quote from the opinion of the appellate court, 30 Cal. App. (2d) 185 (85 Pac. (2d) 937:

"In the present case there is presented no question of death resulting from the commission of a simple assault or occurring in the commission of a misdemeanor. There is here a death resulting from the use of a deadly weapon which the appellants say they never intended. Such weapon was, however, actually used, and by one who joined with them in the plan to beat up the deceased, which plan they counseled. The question is whether the use of such a deadly weapon upon the person of Alberts and his resulting death was a natural or probable consequence of the plan or agreement among the actual assailants and for which the appellants may be held liable, two of them, Ramsay and King, not being present.

The character of the plan is of great importance. Here, several men set out to beat up another. In the words of King, he 'sent them over to tamp the chief.' Preparations were made for trouble. It was known that he was vigorous and strong. One, at least, prior to setting out on the expedition, equipped himself with a bludgeon. At the scene of the expected trouble others were asked to stand by. Not being able to get at the victim the first day, the majority returned the second day and proceeded to the victim's place of abode aboard ship. They prepared and were prepared, to meet force with force and to overcome resistance at any cost. The natural and probable consequence of such an undertaking is homicide, and the homicide here committed by one of the conspirators is nothing less than murder. All who combined to commit the unlawful act of violence are equally guilty. The law makes no distinction between them and each is responsible for the act of any other of the party in the prosecution of the original design. All joining in the enterprise are as guilty of murder as the person who actually caused the death."

The participation in the case of Lawrence Ross, Communist Party functionary and the Editor of the Western Worker, should leave little doubt in the mind of anyone regarding the design of the Communist Party to make the King, Ramsay, Conner case a celebrated one. The cry of "frame-up" on the part of Communist publications re-echoed only in those labor organizations controlled and dominated by Communist Party fractions and expanded "progressive" caucuses. Communist pressure and influence was strong enough to find its way into the State Government of California. There is no doubt in the minds of the members of your committee but that this pressure was exerted on the Chief Executive of this State. The committee concludes that King, Ramsay and Conner are free today merely because the Communist Party had obtained great influence in the political arena of the State of California. George Wallace is still in San Quentin because he refused to program with the Communist Party.

PART III

SINARQUISTAS

Since the middle of 1941, your committee and its representatives have been gathering information in reference to the so-called Sinarquist movement in Mexico and its spread into the southwestern part of the United States, including California. During December of 1942 the public became acquainted with this organization through the efforts of the Communists. The investigation of the Sinarquist and its leaders and members in California is continuing but, at the writing of this report, the committee has not come to specific conclusions concerning it. Data received from Mexico has not been sufficiently checked for obvious reasons. The leaders and members of the movement in California have not yet been subpoenaed and examined. Because of the anti-Communist character of the Sinarquist movement, the Communist press has vigorously and viciously attacked it. The methods of the Communists in attacking every movement that is anti-Communist is well known and the subject of such attacks are to be given reasonable doubt in the beginning of any investigation. These attacks, however, can not be ignored in view of the present world conflict and the present needs of Soviet Russia. Anti-Communist movements, unchecked, uncontrolled and in irresponsible hands gravitate rapidly into Fascist organizations. If history has taught us anything during the last decade, it has taught us this. Mussolini's Black Shirts were anti-Communist and Hitler's crusade in Germany was directed against the Communists. Just as the Socialism of Karl Marx seems to demand a dictator and a ruthless totalitarian government for its progress and achievement, anti-Communist movements likewise, wittingly or unwittingly, move toward a totalitarian dictatorship for the crushing of Communism.

BACKGROUND AND HISTORY

Your committee is in possession of several confidential reports on the history of Sinarquismo in Mexico, its origin, leaders and objectives. The committee is also in possession of some of the publications of the movement, both in Mexico and in the southwestern United States and California. Communist Party publications containing articles on Mexico's Sinarquists and reports in general on the activities of the organization, have been carefully examined and checked as far as possible. Many of the Communist articles are obviously vehicles for subtle libel of the Catholic Church.

Certain facts appear to be well established. The leader of the Sinarquismo in Mexico is Salvador Abascal. He is reported to be a man about 32 years of age. He is a lawyer and was a district judge in a village in the State of Guerrero.

In 1936 a German engineer by the name of Oscar Schreiter, teaching at a college in the State of Guanajuato, is reported to have organized a movement called the Centro Anti-Communistas. Abascal and two of his lawyer friends, Manuel Zeremeno and Jose Urquizu, joined Schreiter's Centro Anti-Communist. In 1937 Centro Anti-Communist became the Union Nacional Sinarchista. Jose Urquizu became the first Chief—El Jefe. It is reported that Urquizu was killed in a running gun-battle with a government man. Manuel Zeremeno succeeded Urquizu and Abascal finally succeeded Zeremeno August 15, 1940.

As far back as the Summer of 1941, the Communist press in the United States asserted that the Sinarquist movement was being financed by the Nazis. The German origin of the movement appears to lend some authority to this statement. The articles of incorporation of the Centro Anti-Communist under the laws of the State of Guanajuato was signed by Oscar Hellmuth Schreiter, Adolfo Maldonado and Isaac Guzman Valdivia. Otto Gilpert and Friedrich Heim are reported to have assisted Schreiter, in establishing the Centro Anti-Communist.

The organization is reported to have been semi-military from its inception. The Communist press charges that the military instructor of the organization in Mexico is a Spaniard, a member of the Falange, by the name of Bilbao. The Sinarquist uniform is described as very similar to the one worn by Nazi storm-troopers. An armband worn on the left sleeve of the uniform is said to be red bearing a white circle in which is contained a green map of the country of Mexico. The flag of the organization is said to be a red banner with a white circle, also containing the green map of Mexico. The salute of the Sinarquistas is made by crossing the left arm diagonally over the chest.

The Sinarquistas in Mexico are reported as proclaiming: "Our leader is chosen by God; this is the keystone of our unity and discipline." The official organ of the movement, El Sinarquista, in its issue of November 7, 1940, declares: "The Sinarquists carry firmly engraved this truth because it is the cornerstone of our unity and of our discipline: the Jefe is imposed by God."

The proof of the Fascist tendencies of the Sinarquistas is expressed in El Sinarquista for September 28, 1939: "The members of the same trade or professions unite, constituting corporative groups. Above these professional groups or corporations there must exist a superior power charged with ordering their mutual relations and direct them to the good of the collectivity. Similar professional corporations must unite among themselves and must submit to a supreme authority which is incorporated in the political structure of the Nation." Certainly, there is a close similarity in this language of Sinarquism with Mussolini's corporate State.

Authoritarianism is indicated in the following, from El Sinarquista of June 18, 1940: "Among ourselves we do not discuss about what to do with our strength. Take away our discipline, take away our loyalty to the Jefe, and Sinarquism is nothing."

SINARQUISM IN THE UNITED STATES AND CALIFORNIA

Your committee has secured a list of the members of the Sinarquistas in southern California together with the names and addresses of its leaders and officers. We have learned that the organization contains branches at San Fernando, Oxnard, San Bernardino, Ontario, Azusa, Pomona, La Verne, Pacoima, and Watts. The general membership is apparently made up of middle-class Mexicans. Some of the principles of the movement, examined by the committee and its representatives, appear contradictory, and, therefore, demagogic. The movement ostensibly stands for religious freedom and the right of religious worship and is frankly anti-Communist.

The Communist press carried quotations from El Sinarquista of October 16, 1941, indicating Sinarquista activities in California. We quote from El Sinarquista as reproduced in the Daily Worker of November 24, 1941:

"Noticias de Toda la Republica

"United States—California—Los Angeles. For 10 days Felite Navarro visited the Sinarquist centers which function in this region, which less than 100 years ago formed part of the Mexican Republic. He reports: September 21, meeting of the chiefs. Participating: Pedro B. Villasenor, Regional Chief Los Angeles; Porfirio Rivera, Regional Chief of Northern California; the members of the Regional Committee of Los Angeles and the municipal chief of the region. Rivera, Villasenor and Navarro spoke, explaining the extent of the colonization work of Baja, California. A plan of work laid out. Sinarquist song.

"San Fernando, September 22. Consecration of the flag. Regional chiefs and Navarro speaking. Local Chief Jose Macias received them. Oath of loyalty. Showing of movies. Enormous rejoicing. Confidence, faith and love. Rivera, Arroyo and Navarro left for the north. They slept briefly at Bakersfield and continued to —.

"Fresno, September 23. Meeting in the house of Chief Piedad Atilano. Sinarquists from various places participated. Great soldiers. Movies. Songs. September 24, run to San Francisco by way of Pittsburg and Antioch. Preparations of meetings at these places and return to Antioch this week. * * *

"Bakersfield, September 26. Fiery morning. Magnificent group like all those of California. Children have a disciplined group. All hearts desire the Sinarquist fatherland. September 27. Invitation to speak at the party for Iturbide, organized by the Mexican colony. Triumph. Showing of movies. Sinarquist song.

"Los Angeles, September 28. Sinarquist concentration. Chief and soldiers of the entire region are present. Women, who fight for Mexico. Everything to work for a Sinarquist Mexico. Fight for it from there. Iturbide is being exalted. Vivas to Mexico, filled with praise. Mexico ardently palpitates in all those men. Affectionate salutations for Chief Abascal. And for all the Sinarquists. Mexico will save herself!

"The Fatherland is joyful over its good sons who fight for it from the other side of the frontier. Viva Mexico!"

In April of 1942 the Vichy Government announced that Jacques Leroy-Ladurie, Chief of the French Sinarquists had been appointed to the Cabinet of Pierre Laval.

The above facts, out of a morass of propaganda, Communist Party venom and confidential reports, investigations and checks possible in California, together with the examination and translations from the Sinarquist publication available, definitely bring this organization within the jurisdiction of the committee.

"ZOOT-SUIT" CRIMES IN LOS ANGELES

The Communist Party press and its members began an intensive agitation against the Sinarquistas in Los Angeles in the Fall of 1942. A number of Mexican boys had been arrested and charged with various crimes, including murder, and because of their peculiar manner of dressing, became known as the "Zoot-Suit Gang." This appellation was suggested by the style of dress effected by certain of the Mexican colony's boys and some of the Negroes in the eastern part of the City of Los Angeles. It consists, generally, of more or less baggy trousers, drawn tightly and cuffed at the ankles. When coats are worn they are of an extremely long cut, closely fitted at the hips and reaching in many extreme cases to the knees. A pomaded hair dress with the hair grown long and brushed toward the back forms what has become known as the "duck tail" hairdress.

The first publications of any consequence regarding the Mexican situation in Los Angeles consisted in a series of articles run in the People's Daily World, Communist West Coast publication, signed by Tom Cullen. The first of these articles appeared in the issue of October 3, 1942. Cullen quotes Guy T. Nunn as stating that the Sinarquista's principal weapon against Democracy "is to discourage all war efforts in every way. Their seeds are sown in fertile soil among the boys and girls brought up on the east side of Los Angeles." Guy T. Nunn is an employee of the War Production Board in the Minorities Division.

In the issue of the People's Daily World for October 5, 1942, Carey McWilliams is reported to have stated that the Mexican boy gangs are the result of an economic situation and he accuses police officers of attaching razor blades to sticks for the purpose of ripping the peg-top trousers and "zoot-suit" coats off the Mexican boys. In the issue of October 8, 1942, Tom Cullen cites newspaper articles and statements by certain individuals charging Fascist influence on the Mexican youth of Los Angeles County. In the issue of October 14, 1942, Cullen charges that the fifth column of Fascism is working among the Mexican population, egging on the Mexican youth. In the October 20, 1942, issue of the Communist paper Mrs. La Rue McCormick labels Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney as a "Fascist" and urges the purging of Nazi agents whom she asserts are operating in the Los Angeles Mexican community and inciting racial antagonism. In the issue of the same paper for October 22, 1942, Tom Cullen states that Mrs. La Rue McCormick is engaged in investigating the Sinarquistas as the central point in her campaign for State Senator.

The following chronology of agitation is taken from the columns of the People's Daily World. (The date of issue is appended in parenthesis.)

La Rue McCormick is reported as stating that Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney is attempting to blow down the Fascist fifth column working among the Mexican boys of Los Angeles County. Mrs. McCormick initiated a committee of 14 to defend Mexican youth and to expose the fifth column elements using the Mexican boys as dupes. Mrs. McCormick was elected secretary of the committee, representing the Spanish-Speaking People's Congress. (October 24, 1942.) On October 26, 1942, Philip M. Connelly is reported as stating that "Crime waves are turned on and off by newspapers like water in a spigot and when the city editor is short of news he orders police reporters to round up attack cases and if the sheriff's office is not deliberately participating in the fraud, it is being duped." On October 28, 1942, Philip M. Connelly, Leo Gallagher, Carey McWilliams, La Rue McCormick, Jesse L. Terry, George Shibley and Mart Cazares are reported making a call on the District Attorney of Los Angeles County charging that the district attorney's office is prejudicing the rights of the Mexicans on trial. This delegation requested the district attorney to permit the "zoot-suit" boys to get their hair cut and to tidy themselves up while on trial. About the same time Congressman Vito Marcantonio is reported as having sent a wire to Mrs. La Rue McCormick, stating that the Sinarquistas are responsible for the situation and are undermining the morale of America. On November 2, 1942, Mrs. La Rue McCormick is reported as quoting a Mexican attorney regarding the outbreak in Los Angeles County, comparing it with a similar outbreak in Mexico among Mexican youth: "The fault lies, not with the Mexican boys but with the fifth column working in our midst."

The issue of the People's Daily World for November 17, 1942, carries a picture showing Mexican youths in the office of the California Eagle, Los Angeles Negro newspaper, writing a letter to Vice President Wallace, contending that they have no playground to play on. Ed Robbin, Communist commentator, is reported on November 19, 1942, quoting an article by Clem Peoples, of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Office. Robbin claimed that the Mexican youth is being terrorized by police and the sheriff's office.

On November 30, 1942, the People's Daily World reports a committee appointed by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors to investigate the Mexican youth problems. Monsignor Thomas J. O'Dwyer is reported as the chairman of the committee.

On December 4, 1942, Orson Welles, John Bright, Guy T. Nunn, Carey McWilliams, and others are reported as holding a meeting on behalf of the Mexican youth. Guy T. Nunn is reported as stating that unless the Mexican boys now on trial are given a fair trial that this case will set back the entire work of the War Man Power Commission on Minorities.

The issue of the People's Daily World for December 10, 1942, indicates a change in the Communist Party line. This and subsequent issues indicate a new line of attack, claiming that the cause of the disturbances among Mexican youth is because of discrimination against minority groups. The Sinarquista attack appeared to have been abandoned for the moment.

On October 23, 1942, an article appeared in the Tidings under the title "Public Mass Meetings to Be Called in Challenge to Red Anti-Sinarquistas in Los Angeles." The entire article follows:

"Los Angeles, October 26—

"Plans for a series of public mass meetings which will inform the American public of the true character of the organization known as Sinarquistas and refute the charges made by Communists, communist newspapers and fellow travelers that crimes committed by youth gangs in the east side of Los Angeles are the result of Sinarquista influence have been made by executive leaders of the Catholic Industrial Conference.

"The Industrial Conference, organized here early this year under the leadership of Mr. Thomas O'Dwyer of the Catholic Charities Bureau, has aims which are similar in scope to those of the Sinarquistas in Mexico, who seek social justice in the Christian manner and are striving to stem the spread of communistic influence there. The Sinarquistas is a purely lay organization, whose name translated means "without anarchism."

"Impetus to a smear campaign by which the Communists seek to link the Sinarquistas with first the Falangists of Spain and then with Fascism and Nazism was given in a series of articles in the People's World, Communist daily newspaper published in San Francisco and Los Angeles, which quoted Guy T. Nunn, an official of the United States War Manpower Commission for the minority groups, with offices in Los Angeles, as a principal authority for its charges. These were followed by the importation from Mexico of an alleged anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi leader, who, while not speaking English, was reported in the Los Angeles Times to have for his purpose the organization of meetings and groups that would seek to curb Sinarquism here. He was introduced locally by Communist leaders.

"The charges made by Mr. Nunn were emphatically denied by Rev. Manuel Canseco of the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe, who, while not a member of the Sinarquists responded to an appeal of La Opinion, Spanish language daily newspaper, to vindicate the Spanish-speaking Catholics.

"Mr. Nunn's original statements were published in the Los Angeles Herald Express and widely republished by newspaper wire services.

"When interviewed he first maintained that he was misquoted but when asked for a correct statement of his charges averred that he did not want to engage in any newspaper controversy.

"Subsequently Nunn declared that in making his original charges he was under the impression that he was talking with a publicity representative of the government, explaining that the Manpower Commission had only recently moved into its offices, and he was not familiar with his surroundings or the personnel.

"This allegation was scoffed at by the Herald Express.

"That the Communistic leaders and the Communist newspapers should seek to smear the Sinarquistas and discredit them as American citizens and in Mexico is evidence of chagrin and humiliation they have felt and still feel over their unsuccessful attempts to invade Spain and their defeat at the hands of General Franco.

"Their present line is apparently to seek to delude the public into the belief that those who opposed them in Spain and who oppose their efforts in Mexico are enemies of the United States war effort.

"First plans for the mass meetings in which the Catholic Industrial Conference will seek to meet these attacks were made last week.

" 'We will seek,' said a spokesman for the organization, 'to provide every public opportunity for any person, government official or otherwise, to prove any charges made. We will call upon all public officials of Los Angeles County and of the State to take cognizance of these charges and if they cannot be proved will request that these persons and newspapers responsible for them publicly to repudiate them as in decency they should'."

In view of the agitation raised as quoted above your committee decided to hold a hearing on the matter December 16, 1942. Resolutions had been passed by the C. I. O. Council in Los Angeles demanding an immediate investigation of the situation. It was not felt that subpoenas were necessary in this case, in view of the demand for the investigation. The chairman of the committee, therefore, invited Mrs. La Rue McCormick, John Bright, Josephine de Bright, Oscar Fuss, Philip M. Connelly and Guy T. Nunn to testify. The committee met in the State Building in Los Angeles at 10 o'clock in the morning, December 16, 1942. Not a single individual invited put in an appearance. The letter of invitation sent to each of the above-named persons, is as follows:

"It has been called to the attention of the Fact-Finding Committee Investigating Un-American Activities in California, that you have recently demanded an investigation of an organization known as the Sinarquistas. It is further publicly reported that you have alleged that the recent gang disturbances by Mexican youths in the County of Los Angeles have been instigated and fomented by this organization. It is further reported that you have publicly declared that the so-called Sinarquistas movement is in fact 'an Axis fifth column in our midst, undermining the morale of American-Mexican boys charged with murder, and the recent arrest of nearly 200 Mexican youths on felony charges have been stage-managed by Hitler's fifth column.'

"If you have any information or evidence to substantiate these or similar charges, the Assembly Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California is most anxious to receive same. Therefore, the committee is inviting you to appear before it in Room 706 of the State Building, located at First and Broadway in the City of Los Angeles, at the hour of 10 a.m., Wednesday, December 16, 1942, and there lay before it such information and evidence as may be in your possession. The committee is not issuing subpoenas at this time on this matter, feeling that your responsibility to your State and Nation in this critical time will be all sufficient for the assurance of your prompt appearance."

The above-named individuals sent telegrams and letters stating in substance that they were not accepting the committee's invitation because it was "understood" all information had been turned over to Federal agencies, and that the OWI (Office of War Information) believed publicity attending the hearing would be inadvisable. Philip M. Connelly wired in detail:

"I understand all available evidence regarding Sinarquistas activities is now in hands of Federal agencies also that the FBI is conducting official inquiry therefore I believe it inadvisable and possibly dangerous to war effort to respond to your invitation to participate in public hearing on same subject matter further understand OWI feels hearing such as you propose is inadvisable I agree with this view believing that Sinarquistas and other Fascist elements might well utilize publicity attended to your proposed hearing to stir up additional unrest and create new strain in relation between Mexican-Americans and Anglo-Americans who must be thoroughly united in order to effectively win war."

Although Guy T. Nunn of the War Manpower Commission was appearing at meetings throughout the County of Los Angeles in reference to the Mexican youth situation and was reported to have been making statements concerning the situation, he wrote the committee that he had been instructed by the chief of his agency that it would be inadvisable for him to accept the committee's invitation. A motion was then passed by the committee for the issuance of subpoenas for Mrs. La Rue McCormick, John Bright, Josephine Fierro de Bright, Osear Fuss, Philip Connelly, Guy T. Nunn and such other people as might be necessary, and the committee continued the meeting until December 19, 1942, at the hour of 10 a.m. in the State Building.

Pursuant to the order of the committee, all of the above-named individuals were subpoenaed for the December 19, 1942, hearing. In addition, a number of the officers of the Sinarquistas in Los Angeles County were subpoenaed. The representatives of the committee were only able to serve Philip M. Connelly, Oscar Fuss and Mrs. La Rue McCormick. Prior to the hearing the committee issued the following press release:

"The Mexican people and Americans of Mexican origin are not under investigation by the committee investigating un-American activities in California. So that there can be no doubt in the mind of anyone, the committee wishes to emphatically state its position in this regard. Mexico and the United States are allies in this present world struggle and the members of the committee investigating subversive activities hold Mexico, its people, its government and the Americans of Mexican origin in our community, in the highest esteem and with the greatest affection. No doubt of the loyalty of the Mexicans or Mexican-Americans exists in the minds of anyone acquainted with these splendid people.

"It is rather significant that the agitation and turmoil, heard for the past several months in Southern California, has been raised by American Communists and close fellow travelers. It is this group that has continuously demanded an investigation of the so-called Sinarquista movement, alleging that recent disturbances among Mexican-American youth in Los Angeles are the result of the Sinarquistas. This same group, headed by a known Communist, La Rue McCormick, has continuously alleged that the Sinarquistas are dominated by, linked with, financed and stage-managed by Hitler's Nazis. It is further significant that this same group refused to testify voluntarily before the committee last Wednesday, when invited by the committee to do so, and as an excuse for failure to testify, attempted to hide behind the FBI and OWI (Office of War Information), on ground that a public hearing might strain American-Mexican relations.

"Recent articles in the public press quote outstanding citizens, whose patriotism can not be questioned as charging that American Communists are attacking the Sinarquista movement solely because of its anti-Communist character. Some of these leading Americans have stated that the Sinarquista movement is one that merely seeks social justice and strives to weaken Communistic influence.

"The Fact-Finding Committee on un-American Activities in California is therefore interested in but one phase of this matter. We are desirous of learning:

"(1) Is the Sinarquista connected with, dominated, controlled or directed, in any way, by Hitler or his fifth column in this hemisphere, or

"(2) Is all the hullabaloo and shouting merely another smear campaign raised by American Communists for their own sinister purposes?

"Our neighbors and allies, the Mexican people, both here at home and below the Rio Grande, are just as much concerned with this question as are the loyal and patriotic American citizens of California and the United States. The Fact-Finding Committee on un-American Activities in California intends to determine the facts."

The committee met in executive session and Mrs. La Rue McCormick was the first witness called. The Communist Party background and activities of Mrs. McCormick were read into the record. (Volume XIV.)

Mrs. McCormick proved to be a very hostile and non-cooperative witness. Her memory was vague on most Communist matters and, although she admitted having made similar statements to those quoted in the People's Daily World, her recollection of them was very inaccurate. She believed most of her statements to be true, but could not give the committee factual bases for any of them. The following is typical of Mrs. McCormick's testimony on the Smarquista matter (Volume XIV, pp. 3744-3745):

"Q. Well, we have some disturbances here among the Mexican youth and people are killed or injured, and Mexican youths are arrested and then you state that you believe that those activities are the result of a fifth column. Is that just your opinion?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) I think that is stating it a little wrongly.

"Q. I don't want to put words into your mouth; you state it.

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) I might state this: I think such things are being utilized by the fifth column in order to convince the Mexican people that the abuses and injustices from which, I think, they have suffered for many years here, should cause them to withdraw from any participation in the war effort and I think also that there are many instances in which they are able to utilize such as the mass arrests of Mexican youth in order to prove to them the American people are not sincere in their desire to have Pan-American unity.

"Q. Well, have you any information with reference to any individuals who have been carrying on that type of work?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) No, I don't.

"Q. Then your entire approach to the matter is clearly one of your own inner conviction or thought and belief in the matter?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) That is right.

"Q. Rather than any factual information that you might be able to base it on?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) That is right."

"Q. * * * but a citizen who makes a statement as to a certain thing must base the statement upon something other than imagination.

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) I told you what I based it upon.

"Q. And that was your opinion?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) Yes, sir, and I have a certain opinion about you and about this committee.

"Q. That is right.

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) I have an opinion about a great many things.

"Q. Is it a substantial opinion?

"A. (Mrs. McCormick) No."

The personnel of the committee organized by Mrs. McCormick as set forth in the People's Daily World of October 26, 1942, was identified by Mrs. McCormick. The committee is as follows:

Philip M. Connelly, State C. I. O. President; C. Warne, President of the Local Branch of the National Lawyers' Guild; Al Waxman, Editor of the Eastside Journal; Leo Gallagher, labor attorney; Jess Armenta, Organizer of the Laundry Workers, Local 357; Bert Corona, President of Warehousemen's Union, Local 26; Jerome Posner, Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Anthony Quinn, Mexican screen actor; John Bright, Representative of the Council for Pan-American Democracy; Mrs. Josephine de Bright, Executive Secretary of the Spanish Speaking People's Congress; Carey McWilliams, Chief of the State Division of Immigration and Housing; Guy T. Nunn, minority groups representative of the War Man Power Commission and State Senator Robert W. Kenny.

Philip M. Connelly was the next witness called. Connelly, like Mrs. La Rue McCormick, was also a hostile witness, extremely faulty in memory and cautiously technical. The following quotations from the transcript are typical of the type of testimony given by Mr. Connelly (Volume XIV, pp. 3784-3785):

"Q. Then * * * if I understand your testimony correctly, you have no interest or have you made any allegations in reference to the Sinarquista movement?

"A. (Connelly) We would be interested and are interested in any fifth column activities which might manifest itself in our unions, either to the detriment of the unions or the detriment of the country.

"Q. Any organization that would be disruptive to the organization?

"A. (Connelly) Any fifth column organization, indeed.

"Q. Would that include the Communist Party?

"A. (Connelly) In the event the Communist Party proved to be such a disruptive and fifth column organization, it certainly would.

"Q. Do you feel that it is such an organization?

"A. (Connelly) I am in no position to pass judgment on that. I have no evidence on which to base an answer.

"Q. You have had no connection with or knowledge of the Communist Party and its activities?

"A. (Connelly) That is a broad question. I have general knowledge that there is a Communist Party.

"Q. Well, from your knowledge of the Communist Party would you say it would be a subversive organization?

"A. (Connelly) I have no knowledge to indicate it is.

"Q. In other words, so far as you are concerned, or from your knowledge, you wouldn't consider the Communist Party as a subversive organization?

"A. (Connelly) I have no knowledge on which to give an answer on that."

(Volume XIV, p. 3788.)

"Q. You knew, of course, that Mrs. McCormick was and is a member of the Communist Party?

"A. (Connelly) I don't know that.

"Q. You don't know that?

"A. (Connelly) No.

"Q. Did you ever hear it?

"A. (Connelly) That she was a member of the Communist Party?

"Q. Yes.

"A. (Connelly) I don't think I have ever heard it. I know that she was a Communist candidate for the office which you hold, at the last election.

"Q. That would indicate, of course, she was a member of the Communist Party?

"A. (Connelly) I don't know whether that is so or not."

(Volume XIV, p. 3798.)

"Q. You believe then that the Sinarquista movement is actually a Nazi dominated and controlled organization?

"A. (Connelly) I am not prepared to pass judgment on that.

"Q. In conclusion then, you have absolutely no information whatsoever to give the committee with reference to the Sinarquista movement?

"A. (Connelly) I don't know of any information that would be particularly helpful to the committee. I am generally advised that what information there does exist is in the hands of the Federal bureaus charged with such investigations in time of war, and it seems to me that that is the proper place for it.

"Q. But you have no knowledge as to what that information is or its scope or anything about it?

"A. (Connelly) Only in a general way.

"Q. Just the general allegation that the Sinarquista movement is a Nazi dominated organization, being used to stir up trouble between Mexico and the United States. Would that express your knowledge of it?

"A. (Connelly) Not necessarily. I would not want to subscribe to your formulation of it, no."

Oscar Fuss was the last witness to be called and he proved of as little assistance as did Mrs. La Rue McCormick and Philip M. Connelly. It was glaringly apparent to the members of the committee that the three witnesses, while making positive and spectacular charges through the columns of the Communist paper, the People's Daily World, had absolutely no information of a factual nature upon which to base their charges.

At the conclusion of the hearing the committee issued a prepared statement to the press stating that the three witnesses who appeared before the committee admitted that they had no factual ground upon which to base their former allegations. The Communist press immediately, pouncing upon this statement, declared that the committee had "white-washed" the Sinarquistas. The fact is, regardless of whether the Sinarquista movement is subversive or not, the Communist Party has tied it in with its agitation in the Mexican communities of the State in order to recruit Mexicans into the party.

Because the testimony of Philip M. Connelly, Mrs. La Rue McCormick and Oscar Fuss touches on various other aspects of this report, a digest of the testimony of each is herewith included.

DIGEST OF TESTIMONY OF CONNELLY, FUSS AND McCORMICK

Philip M. Connelly (Volume XIV, pp. 3777-3816) is the President of the State Congress of Industrial Organization in California.

On being read an article from the Communist Party paper, The People's Daily World, of October 22, 1942, reporting that the Los Angeles Industrial Council of the C. I. O. and the Spanish Speaking People's Congress had demanded an investigation of the Sinarquistas by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Connelly stated that he had no recollection of same.

He had no information of any kind for the committee in reference to the Sinarquistas. He was, in fact, a member of the so-called "Citizens Committee," organized by Mrs. La Rue McCormick, a Communist functionary in the County of Los Angeles.

He had general knowledge of the existence of the Communist Party but was in possession of no knowledge to indicate that the Communist Party was subversive.

He called on the sheriff and the district attorney in company with Mrs. La Rue McCormick, Carey McWilliams, Leo Gallagher and others, protesting the conduct of the prosecution of certain Mexican boys on trial for murder, and complained to the sheriff and district attorney of the treatment being given the defendants. He is acquainted with Guy T. Nunn and stated that he saw and first knew Mrs. La Rue McCormick when he was a reporter for the Los Angeles Herald-Express. Mrs. La Rue McCormick was connected with the International Labor Defense at that time. He knows John Bright and Mrs. Josephine de Bright. He stated that he was not aware that Mrs. La Rue McCormick was a member of the Communist Party, although he admitted knowing that Mrs. McCormick had been a Communist candidate for the office of Senate in the last election. He did not know whether that made her a Communist or not. He claimed that he knew nothing of the Communist Party affiliation of Mr. and Mrs. Bright. He had no knowledge as to the Communist Party affiliation of Oscar Fuss. He knew Bert Corona as the President of the Warehousemen's Union of the C. I. O. He has known Roger Johnson since 1937 or 1938. He remembered Morris Smolan as some "guy" who was formerly the circulation manager for the People's Daily World, but could not state whether Morris Smolan was a member of the Communist Party or not. He was shown the sworn affidavit of Rena M. Vale in which the circumstances of his affiliation with the Communist Party was described. He read the document and then denied that he had ever made application to join the Communist Party or that he had ever, in fact, joined, or that he was presently a member. He admitted having known Hugh Ben Inzer as a member of the United Automobile Workers' Union of the C. I. O. but denied Inzer's testimony as to Hans Diebel and Pettis Perry. He admitted being acquainted with Pettis Perry but could not state whether Perry had been the Secretary of the Communist Party for Los Angeles County or not. He denied ever having met Hans Diebel and denied having a conference in the offices of the C. I. O. with Lew Michener, Hans Diebel and Pettis Perry. He branded Inzer's testimony as completely false.

He admitted having attended several meetings of the American Peace Mobilization. He evaded answering inquiries as to whether or not he was in agreement with the American Peace Mobilization policy at the time he attended their meetings, but stated that he was interested, as was the C. I. O., in attempting to avoid the spread of war. He claimed that he had not changed his opinion on this subject.

He was shown an article from The Tidings, a Los Angeles County Catholic publication, and an article stating in effect that the attack on the Sinarquistas was instigated by Communists as a "smear campaign" in an effort to link the organization with the Falangists of Spain and the Nazis. Connelly disagreed with the article and the committee's interpretation of it and stated that he had some knowledge to the contrary. He stated that he was not prepared to pass judgment upon the Sinarquistas, particularly as to whether or not it was a Nazi dominated and controlled organization and that he was "always leary of newspapers, even The Tidings."

Oscar Fuss (Volume XIV, pp. 3817-3839) is the Legislative Representative of the C. I. O. County Council. He is a member of the Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists and Technicians, although he is neither an architect, an engineer, a chemist or a technician. He was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and came to California in the latter part of 1938 upon the request of Alexander Noral, California President of the Workers' Alliance and the National Executive Board of that organization. He had been connected with the Workers' Alliance in New York City before coming to California. His duties in Los Angeles with the Workers' Alliance were those of an organizer. He held this position up to 1941.

The Dies Committee bluntly branded the Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists and Technicians as distinctly a Communist organization. (Dies Reports, Volume 3, p. 2050.) This organization has established a nuclei of Communist members in the various Navy yards on the Pacific Coast, in airplane factories, and various industries essential and necessary in National defense.

Fuss stated that he had been trained for newspaper work. His reason for joining the Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists and Technicians was to act as an organizer for a chapter of that union. He stated that the organization had no requirements for joining, and that an applicant did not necessarily have to possess a particular skill in any of the categories listed in the name of the union.

He was read certain published statements in regard to the Sinarquista movement allegedly made by him. He stated that he made these or similar statements on the basis of information received by him to the effect that some one "had gone around in the Mexican neighborhood and had seen signs painted upon the walls or chalked up reading: 'Down with the Jews, they started the war, let them finish it,' and things of that nature." He could not recall who had given him this information. He believed the difficulty in the Mexican community is being caused by a fifth column. He could offer the committee no further information on the subject. He stated that he was not officially a member of the so-called Citizens Committee, headed by Mrs. La Rue McCormick, but that he had attended some of their meetings.

He learned that Alexander Noral was a member of the Communist Party and stated that he knew Mrs. La Rue McCormick was also a member of the party. He denied ever having been a member of the Communist Party himself, either secretly or as a registered voter, either on the West Coast or in the East or anywhere else. He admitted being acquainted with Josephine de Bright and John Bright, her husband. He could not state whether or not they were members of the Communist Party.

Upon being questioned as to how he came to believe "that the Office of War Information thought a public hearing inadvisable," he stated that he was told so by Guy T. Nunn over the telephone.

Mrs. La Rue McCormick (Volume XIV, pp. 3738-3776) was born in Louisville, Kentucky, November 1, 1909, and came to California in 1910. Her maiden name was Mandy. She was very reluctant to admit that she was a member of the Communist Party. She stated that she did not accept the invitation of the committee to appear before it prior to being subpoenaed because she expected the hearing to be just a "cheap, red-baiting meeting." She finally admitted that she was a member of the Communist Party but refused to state how long she had been affiliated.

She admitted that she may have made statements similar to those quoted in the People's Daily World to the effect that "Nazi agents are operating in the city's Mexican community and inciting racial antagonism and corrupting the Mexican youth." She frankly stated that such a statement of hers was based on nothing that she knew. When asked if she had any information in reference to any individuals who have been carrying on fifth column work among the Mexicans, she answered that she did not have such information. She stated that her entire approach to the matter was based on her own inner convictions or thoughts and beliefs in reference to the subject. She had no factual information in her possession. Although she admitted being acquainted with Tom Cullen, she did not remember ever having made a demand together with the Los Angeles C. I. O. Council for an investigation on the Sinarquista movement, as reported by Tom Cullen in the People's Daily World.

She admitted that she had initiated an organization composed of 14 to defend the Mexican boys on trial in Los Angeles County and to expose the fifth column element that were using them as dupes. She was not acquainted with any of the members of the Sinarquista movement and was not acquainted with Pedro De La Villaseñor. She had no personal information of any activity on the part of the Sinarquistas or their members in discouraging participation in the war effort among the Mexican people, and again reiterated that her statements were based only upon her opinion, and admitted, in substance, that this opinion was not a substantial one.

She admitted having made a statement urging the purging of Nazi agents operating in this city's Mexican community, creating opposition to the United States war effort, inciting racial antagonism and corrupting American-Mexican youth, as quoted in the People's Daily World of October 19, 1942. When questioned upon what factual data or evidence she based such a statement she answered that it was because of a great deal of anti-Semitism being spread among the Mexican people. When asked who was spreading anti-Semitic propaganda she stated that she had in mind a particular person who goes under an assumed name and who works for the newspaper La Opinion.

Mrs. McCormick stated that she had seen a little paper called El Sinarquismo, which, when translated, was found to contain an article on Sinarquism patterned after the 16 points of Social Justice of Father Coughlin. She believed this to be subversive material, and she stated that she had turned the paper over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

When asked if it was not part of the current Communist Party line to stir up matters among minority groups in order to make the Communist Party appear a champion of the group, she answered indignantly that such a statement was ridiculous.

Mrs. McCormick admitted that she was a member of the International Labor Defense on the Pacific Coast, but, of course, denied that the organization was a Communist Party front.

She testified that the meeting called at the Alexandria Hotel in Los Angeles was at her request and that she had sent personal letters to a number of individuals in the City of Los Angeles, asking them to attend. The "Citizens' Committee" was elected from those who attended the meeting. She was not sure whether Carey McWilliams and Guy T. Nunn had accepted the nomination to serve with the committee or not. Senator Robert W. Kenny, she stated, declined to become a member or to serve with the committee.

She admitted having called on District Attorney John Doekweiler and Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz of Los Angeles County to call the attention of these officials to certain abuses and "cases of brutality" in law enforcement. Under close examination, the witness failed to cite specific instances of brutality in the Mexican youth cases. She admitted having complained of police brutality in some instances but stated that she could give no illustrations or examples. Being pressed for details, she stated "It was just a kind of police brutality, that was all."

Questioned regarding the size of the Sinarquista organization, Mrs. McCormick stated that she did not know; that she knew nothing of the meeting places of the group; that she had no knowledge of a headquarters and that she did not know any of the leaders.

She distinguished between the committee she had been responsible for organizing and a Citizens' Committee appointed by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors. She stated that the committee appointed by the supervisors was headed by Monsignor Thomas J. O'Dwyer.

Being read an article entitled "Public Mass Meetings to Be Called in Challenge to Red Anti-Sinarquista in Los Angeles," which appeared in the Tidings, a Catholic publication of the County of Los Angeles, the witness refused to make any comment. Questioned concerning the current Communist Party "line" in the matter, Mrs. McCormick stated that she was not speaking for the Communist Party. She refused to either affirm or deny the allegations made in the Tidings' article concerning the program of the Communist Party in relation to the Sinarquista movement.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE FOR THE DEFENSE OF MEXICAN-AMERICAN YOUTH

Mrs. La Rue McCormick's Citizens' Committee is still operating, even though 17 of the Mexican boys have been convicted in the Superior Court of Los Angeles on the charge of murder. Five of the boys were convicted of assault and five were acquitted. It is not the province of your committee to comment on the trial of the case or on the merit of any appeal now pending before the courts. The Citizens' Committee for the Defense of Mexican-American Youth, regardless of any other consideration, is a typical Communist front organization. The most recent activity of this group is to expand its agitation into churches, unions, fraternal and civic organizations. On a printed letterhead of the organization, giving the headquarters as 206 South Spring Street, Room 342, Los Angeles, California, Telephone MUtual 4964, under date of February 16, 1943, your committee finds the following:

"To all Church, Union, Fraternal and Civic Organizations:

"Greetings! This is an appeal to your sense of justice.

"Seventeen innocent Mexican-American boys have been convicted in a Los Angeles court for a crime they did not commit. Several have been condemned to life imprisonment. These convictions arose from distorted, prejudicial and hearsay evidence and were accompanied by a consistent barrage of prejudice in the press.

"A leaflet issued by a Citizens' Committee sponsored by representative civic persons in Los Angeles is here enclosed, giving the essential facts. It explains the necessity for an appeal, not only in the interests of the 17 boys, but in the interests of the Mexican-American community and the war effort. Please read the printed folder at your next meeting.

In order to give the growing number of interested organizations an opportunity to participate in the defense of these innocent boys, we are calling a conference to launch a wide campaign—including churches, unions, fraternal clubs and civic organizations—in behalf of justice in the appellate courts for these innocent youths.

"The fight for the freedom of these boys is an integral part of the welding of Allied unity for the winning of the war. Therefore we request most urgently that your organization send two or more representatives to a Defense Conference to be held Sunday, March 14, 1.30 p.m., at the Unitarian Church, 2936 West Eighth Street, Los Angeles, where the case will be fully discussed and action decided upon in the interests of the court appeal.

"A credential form is enclosed. Please fill it out and return as quickly as possible.

(S) CLORE WARNE, Chairman"

Clore Warne is indicated on the letterhead as the chairman of the committee. La Rue McCormick is secretary and Robert S. Morris, Jr., the treasurer. The sponsors of the movement are listed, with their organizations, although a note at the bottom of the letter states that the organizations are listed for identification purposes only. ## PART IV

HISTORY

The activities of Hitler's agents, supporters and sympathizers in the United States and in California can not be understood without some slight knowledge of the history of the rise of Naziism and the theories upon which it is based. The members of the committee and its representatives have found it necessary to read and study, not only the pamphlets issued by the German-American Bund and its fronts in the United States, but translations of original sources, such as Mein Kampf by Adolph Hitler himself, the Programme of the Party of Hitler by Gottfried Feder, the Nazi Primer, by Brennecke, the Official Handbook for Schooling the Hitler Youth, and others.

The German Social Democratic Party, chief support of the Weimar Republic, was fought bitterly from its inception by the Communist Party of Germany. Partly because the German Social Democratic Party controlled the government of the Weimar Republic (and therefore was to be destroyed), and partly because of the reformist character of the party, the Communists of Germany, under the domination of the Comintern, fought it with their usual venom and hatred. Thus, the German Republic in its infancy was doomed. Officers of the former Imperial army were used by the Social Democrats in the government for organizing the army of the Reichswehr. The new republic retained the judiciary of the exiled Kaiser, most of the diplomatic corps and the former civil service. Few of the Germans carried over from the Kaiser's regime were enthusiastic over the Weimar Republic and possibly looked forward to a restoration of the Hohenzollerns. The Social Democrats, bred in the ways of the old Imperial government of Germany, did little, in fact, to differentiate the new republic from the regime of the Kaiser. The Democratic system of the republic never worked satisfactorily. Mr. Michael T. Florinsky, in Fascism and National Socialism, points out that between February, 1919, and January, 1933, Germany had 21 cabinets headed by 12 chancellors. The nation broke itself up into innumerable political parties and 38 of them participated in the Reichstag elections in 1932.

While the Communists were busily fighting, sabotaging and undermining the Weimar Republic and the Social Democrats of Germany, Adolph Hitler in September of 1919 was forming what he was pleased to call a "Labor" Party. He named it the National Sozialistische Deutsche Arbeiter Partei, the National Socialist German Workers' Party. It became known as the N. S. D. A. P. or the Nazi Party. In 1921 the first groups or cells were formed in Rosenheim and Landshut, Bavaria, and the first unit of the Sturm Abteilung (S. A.), or Storm Troops, were organized. Because they wore brown shirts they became known as the S. A. Brown Shirts. In October of 1922 Hitler's Nazis secured control of Munich, Bavaria, and marched to Coburg. The first Nazi Party Congress was held in January of 1923; the first flags of the party were "consecrated" and the S. A. formally established. During the Summer of 1923 Hitler's Storm Troopers terrorized most of Bavaria, fighting both the Social-Democrats and the Communists. In November of 1923, Hitler's attempt to overthrow the government by his "putsch" on Munich failed and he was arrested. He was tried in Munich, convicted and sentenced to Landsberg Prison in March of 1924, where he languished until December of that year. Returning to his agitation he continued unmolested until the latter part of 1925 when a decree was issued prohibiting his speaking in public for a period of two years. He, nevertheless, continued to work underground and to perfect his organization. In August of 1926 the Nazi Party held its Congress in Nuremberg.

The order forbidding Hitler to speak in public was withdrawn in 1927. The second Nazi Congress met at Nuremberg on August 4, 1929. The Storm Troopers were increased in numbers and the S. S. (Schutz Staffel), black-shirted troops, were organized as a bodyguard for Hitler. Herr Feder states that Hitler now "stood forth without a rival as the most powerful leader against all that was meant by 'Democracy.' " The Reichstag elections took place September 14, 1930, and the Nazi Party polled six and one-half million votes and elected 107 members. In July of 1932 the Nazi Party rolled up over thirteen million votes and gained 230 seats in the Reichstag. On January 30, 1933, Hitler was appointed Reich Chancellor. In October of that year he withdrew Germany from the League of Nations and signed a Concordat with Pope Pius XI guaranteeing the Catholic Church religious freedom in the Reich. On January 26, 1934, he signed a 10-year non-aggression pact with Poland. Dollfuss was murdered in an unsuccessful Nazi coup in Austria July 25, 1934. On August 1, 1934, Hitler became President of the Third Reich following the death of Von Hindenburg and assumed the official title Fuehrer and Kanzler.

Hitler's National Socialist State still seemed a dream when he became Chancellor of Germany under von Hindenburg. His cabinet, in addition to himself, included only two National Socialists, Frick and Goering. Frick, as Minister of the Interior of the Reich and Goering, as Minister of the Interior of Prussia, commanded all of the police forces of Germany. Hitler's new government dissolved the Reichstag and new elections were ordered for March 5, 1933. On February 27, 1933, the building of the Reichstag was discovered to be on fire and Hitler hailed this as a signal for a general Communist uprising. It was immediately used as a pretext for ruthless and vicious attacks on all "Marxists" and German Communists. The following day, February 28, 1933, President von Hindenburg suspended the provisions of the constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech, press and assembly. The police were given unlimited powers over the populace and alleged offenders. In this chaos of terror and tension the Reichstag elections were held. The National Socialists (Nazis) polled over seventeen million votes and gained 288 seats. Many of the Social Democrats and Communist deputies were now either in prison or hiding. On March 24, 1933, the so-called "Enabling Act, a Law to Combat the Misery of the People and of the Reich" was enacted unanimously by the votes of all parties except the Social Democrats. This law gave the government unlimited powers which it immediately assumed. New courts were established and all means of communication and information were immediately placed under the control of the Minister of Propaganda and Enlightenment, Dr. Goebbels. Universities and schools were placed under the supervision of the Minister of Education, Dr. Rust. The political parties of Germany dissolved or faded into insignificance. On July 14, 1933, the National Socialist Party (Nazis) was made the official party of the Reich and it became a criminal offense to establish, or to attempt to establish, a new party. The trade unions which had formerly supported the Social Democratic Party, were now taken over by the Nazis. The labor leaders were arrested and their offices and press appropriated by trusted Nazis. On December 1, 1933, the National Socialist Party was incorporated in the machinery of the government. Each of the states of the Reich was placed under a Reichskommissar, and by a law of April 17, 1933, the duties of the Reichskommissar were committed to a Statthalter who was a personal representative of Hitler and appointed on his recommendation by the president. The Statthalters were given virtual dictatorial powers.

In January of 1934, the last vestige of democratic economy within the states of the Reich was transferred to the Reich itself. Thus, upon the death of President von Hindenburg, the supreme executive and legislative power of Germany became concentrated in the hands of Adolph Hitler.

In addition to building up the Nazi armies, the Nazi Party has provided efficient forces for the internal enemies of the Third Reich. These consist of the S. A. (Sturm Abteilung), Hitler's early Brown-Shirt Storm Troopers; the S. S. (Schutz Staffel), the black-shirted troops constituting Hitler's own particular army and bodyguards; the Gestapo (Geheime Staats Polizei), the Secret State Police, and the regular police forces of the Third Reich. A new organization, reported to have been created in January or February of 1943 by Himmler, is known as the Landwache. This organization is apparently a militia of members of the Nazi Party still in civilian life and was undoubtedly created for the purpose of subduing opposition or war-weariness on the part of the German people.

On June 18, 1935, Hitler signed a naval agreement with Great Britain. In March of the same year he established universal compulsory military service in the Third Reich. In 1936 he entered into an "Anti-Comintern Agreement" with Japan. In 1937 Italy joined the Anti-Comintern Pact with Japan and Germany. In September of that year Mussolini traveled to Berlin and established the "Berlin-Rome Axis." On March 13, 1938, Austria was incorporated into the Third Reich. On September 30, 1938, the famous Munich Conference between Hitler, Chamberlain, Daladier and Mussolini took place. The Sudeten area was wrested from Czechoslovakia and Hitler gave his personal guarantee that he had no further territorial demands in Europe. On October 10, 1938, the Nazis occupied the Sudeten area.

On October 24, 1938, Hitler demanded the return of the Polish Corridor from Poland and Poland refused. On November 10, of the same year, he launched his first nation-wide "Jewish-Pogrom" and instituted organized persecution, including mutilation and murder of Jewish men, women and children. The first official confiscation of Jewish property began.

In January, 1939, Hitler repeated his demands for the Polish Corridor and Poland again refused. In March, Hitler invaded Bohemia and Moravia and Memel territories, and again demanded the Polish Corridor and Danzig from Poland. Poland refused for the third time. On March 29, 1939, Chamberlain pledged Poland military support in the event of a Nazi attack. On August 22, 1939, Hitler signed a non-aggression pact with Stalin and on September 1, invaded Poland. On the ninth of April, 1940, the Nazi armies invaded Denmark and Norway. On May 10, the occupation of Holland began and was completed in five days. The occupation of Belgium was completed in 18 days and on May 29 to June 4, 1940, the evacuation of British troops from Dunkirk took place. France surrendered in July of 1940 and the Nazi troops invaded Rumania. Nazi military occupation in Hungary and Bulgaria followed in the Winter of 1940-1941 and on April 6, 1941, Hitler attacked Yugoslavia and Greece. On June 22, 1941, Nazi troops invaded Russia. December 11, 1941, Germany declared war on the United States.

THEORY

The average human being, nurtured in an atmosphere of decency and surrounded by the culture and humanity of American civilization, may well inquire as to the causes underlying the brutalizing of the people of Germany. The committee, in attempting to understand the actions of Hitler's agents in California, have asked themselves these questions. The answers are not at all satisfactory.

The Programme of the Party of Hitler, by Gottfried Feder, boldly and unashamedly, lays down the objectives of Hitler and his so-called National Socialist German Workers' Party. Section two of the program of the Nazi Party declares the twenty-five points of Naziism as being inalterable. The mainsprings of the machine which catapulted the mad house-painter Schicklegruber into his bloody surge over Europe demands investigation.

The union of all Germans for the formation of a Greater Germany is the first and foremost objective laid down for the New Order. The Nordic myth is a unique and outstanding cornerstone of the entire Nazi philosophy. Point four of the so-called program provides that only those of German blood, regardless of creed, may be members of the Nation and only members of the Nation may be citizens of the State. A Jew, therefore, may not be a citizen of the State because he may not be a member of the Nation. Only a citizen of the Third Reich has franchise and only citizens have a right to hold any position in its government. Point seven is interesting, in that it provides that if the State is not able to nourish the entire population then non-citizens are to be excluded from the Reich. Point eight prohibits non-German immigration and orders the deportation of all non-Germans who entered Germany subsequent to August 2, 1914. Point ten provides that the activities of the individual are not to clash with the interests of the whole, thus relegating the individual to a mere creature of the State. Point thirteen provides for the nationalization of all businesses. Point nineteen abolishes the Roman Law and provides for the substitution of a legal system for all Germany. Point twenty wipes out old educational systems and provides for its reconstruction in conformity with Nazi theory. Point twenty-five restricts journalism to members of the Nation and sets up a strict censorship over the press generally. Non-Germans are prohibited from participation, either financially or otherwise, in influencing German newspapers. This point also forbids the publishing of papers which do not accept the Nazi philosophy and its provisions are extended to literature and art. Point twenty-five guarantees liberty for all religious denominations in the Reich, "so far as they are not a danger to it and do not militate against the moral feelings of the German race." Point twenty-five plans the creation of the Nazi dictatorship. The leaders of the Nazi Party swore to sacrifice their lives in fulfilling the entire program.

The dismissal of the Jews and non-Germans from responsible positions, not only in the government, but in public life, is boldly announced as an important objective. Herr Feder in elaborating on the twenty-five points of the Nazi program, states: "The main battle is one between two world theories, represented by two essentially differing structures—the spirit which has created is creative, and the unquiet, grasping spirit. The creative spirit, deep-rooted, but superior to the rest of the world in spiritual experience, is carried mainly by the Aryan race; the grabbing spirit, without roots anywhere, aiming only at material things, commercial, is chiefly represented by the Jews. * * * National Socialism, like anti-Semitism, regards the Jewish materialistic spirit as the chief cause of the evil; it knows, however, that this greatest struggle in history must not stop short of merely destroying the Semitic spirit * * *."

Thus, it may be seen from the official program of the Nazi Party itself, that racial hatred, directed particularly at the Jews as a scapegoat for the world's ills, unleashes the brutality of prejudice and the greed for loot.

The policy of the Third Reich, as stated in the principle of the Nazi Party, is extended to embrace all branches of the German race—"All of German blood, whether living under French, Danish, Polish, Czech or Italian sovereignty, shall be united in a German Reich * * *. We claim all the Germans in Sudetan Germany, Alsace-Lorraine, Poland, the League Colony of Austria, and the states which succeeded to the old Austria."

The foreign policy is stated thus: "It is usually the best, most industrious and venturesome—engineers, explorers, professors, merchants, doctors—who go into foreign lands, carrying German Kultur with them. They are members of the great German National family, to which they must never be lost. They have a right to expect protection from home when they are abroad. They should be not merely disseminators of Kultur, but the conscious advance guard of the Germanic idea in the world; not 'apostles of humanity,' but bearers of the Nordic idea. Those who represent Germany abroad should not acquire foreign notions, but stick to their superior German character. Our Foreign Office must be swept clean with an iron besom. We must finish with the obsequiousness toward the foreigner after the manner of Erzberger and Pressman, and it will be seen that strong representation of German interests will be quite otherwise respected, and attention to German desires in place of contempt will be the result."

It may be easily discerned from the foregoing that the Nazi Party contemplates a German world. While despising the Jew and heaping abuse and vilification upon him as the scapegoat for Germany's ills, the defeated, humiliated and inferiority-complexed Hitler and his brutalized thugs have nevertheless borrowed its chief appeal from the Talmud of the people it proposes to persecute and destroy. The Teuton, the Nordic, the German would destroy the people of Abraham; ruthlessly uproot and obliterate them from the face of the earth.

The economic principles of the Nazi Party are embodied in the statement that: "The duty of the State is to provide the necessities of life and not to secure the highest possible profit or capital." It allegedly differs from Communism, in that it recognizes private property as a principle and professes to protect it by law. It proposes to set a limit on the massing of wealth in the hands of individuals. Every German is obliged to work for Germany and all businesses are nationalized, thus bringing them under the strict supervision of the Nazi Government. Usury, profiteering and personal enrichment at the expense and injury of the nation is punishable with death and compulsory labor is imposed upon every German for a period of one year. The Reichsbank is nationalized and projects are to be financed by the issuing of noninterest-bearing State bonds or without the use of money.

Old age insurance is proposed by the nationalization of the system of annuities professing to assure every member of the German State a sufficient pension upon the attainment of a given age, or, if permanently disabled, before that age. Participation by all Germans engaged in productive enterprises in the profits according to age and efficiency, as well as responsibility in the fulfilling of the task, is imposed. Housing, to meet the shortage of dwellings in the Reich, is proposed by means of issuing noninterest-bearing loans through the nationalized Reichsbank.

While private property is allegedly recognized, the right to borrow from private sources on security of land is abolished and the State is given the right of preemption "especially in the case of foreigners and Jews." This recognition of the right of property is obviously a fiction in Nazi law. The State is empowered to administer estates in the event of "bad management" on the part of the owner.

The exaltation of the State over the individual may be said to be the essence of the Nazi social policy. In the Nazi philosophy the individual exists for the State and for the State only.

The three obstacles in the way of Nazi achievements, according to Herr Feder, were the Jews, parliamentary government and the capitalists. Paradoxically enough, the Nazis place Capitalism and Marxism (Communism) in the same category. Feder states that Marxism is pseudo-socialism, not founded on common sense or on any "social" idea. He further states that "Marxism is an expression of capitalistic treason. Capitalistic, because when a society founded on individualism has fallen into chaos, it of necessity falls under the sway of the great financial magnate." Herr Feder concludes his comparison of Capitalism and Marxism with the following: "They grow on the same intellectual stem. There is a whole world of difference between them and us, their bitterest opponents. It is neither a class struggle nor class selfishness, but—our chief law is the general welfare."

We might continue the examination of the Nazi philosophy, purposes and designs at great length, but the above sufficiently describes the designs of these modern Huns. From the foregoing, the following pattern and summary of design may be drawn:

1. The fiction of race superiority. This fiction exalts the Aryan over the other races and the German over all. The German becomes the master race, chosen of the Nazi God to rule over the entire world, with the lesser races as the slaves and serfs of the Germans.

2. World domination by the master Aryan German is the ultimate design of the Nazis. Over this great race of Germans, mastering the lesser races of the world, stands the mighty chosen one, the Fuehrer. Inspired by an Aryan God of Nazi creation and issuing orders and decrees born of Germanic intuition, the Fuehrer eventually is destined to rule the world.

3. Lesser races, not of the Aryan stock, may be permitted to exist for the good of the Third Reich, but the cause of all the world's troubles and ills, the Jews, are to be utterly destroyed.

4. Nothing less than the complete subjugation and conquest of the world by the Nazis is ordained for the fulfillment of its objectives.

Dr. Goebbels sums it all up with religious fervor. He declares: "The Nazi Party is a political church, where for hundreds of years German people will be trained to be true National Socialists. We are the political pastors of our people."

Propaganda, racial prejudices and the sword are to be used in the attainment of the Nazi Utopia. Hitler made full use of Communist tactics in destroying the Weimar Republic. His cells and units were organized underground for illegal work during the first few years of his career. Prejudices against the Jews, the financiers, the foreign ministers and bankers, were whipped to a white fury. Sporadic Jewish pogroms throughout Germany were brutally instigated and ruthlessly carried out. The possessions of the Jewish populace became loot for brown- and black-shirted thugs. Hitler first conquered Germany. Espionage agents of the Third Reich penetrated the countries of Europe, of South and North America. Anti-Semitic organizations were immediately contacted and encouraged to further activity by news of the New Order arising in Central Europe over the mutilated bodies of the Jewish race. Little men with little minds and big inferiority complexes throughout the world pounded their sunken breasts in the glory of their suddenly found Aryanism. Many a deluded European permitted Hitler's panzer divisions to smash their countries in the belief that Hitler struck only at the Jew and the Communist. In California pamphlets and cards were printed and distributed by wild-eyed Aryan anti-Semites bearing but three words: "Ve Vant Var."

The Friends of New Germany took its place alongside of the Friends of Soviet Russia. German-American Bunds and German Bund fronts sprang up throughout the United States. Uniformed Storm Troopers arrogantly marched at Hindenburg Park in Los Angeles and guarded the meetings of the Bund in Deutsches Haus' of a dozen cities. American Communists picketed Bund meetings and Bundsters bewailed the menace of Communism.

In August of 1939 remaining sanity in a lunatic world grew dizzy and was sorely tested as the hooked cross of the Third Reich blew in the breeze of Moscow's Red Square and the hammer and sickle fluttered in Berlin, while Hitler and Stalin joined hands in a non-aggression pact.

The preservation of the democracies of the world may lie in the full realization and utilization of the lesson to be learned from these events.

GERMAN-AMERICAN BUND

The Friends of New Germany was probably the first organization in the United States reflecting the ideology of the Third Reich, the ravings of Mein Kampf and the Fuehrership of Adolph Hitler. The Friends of New Germany eventually blossomed forth into the German-American Bund. The National headquarters were located in New York City. The control of the 11 western states comprising the far western division stemmed from the office of Hermann Max Schwinn located in the Deutsches Haus, at 634 W. Fifteenth Street in the City of Los Angeles. The last National leader of the German-American Bund was Wilhelm Kunze, and his predecessor was Fritz Kuhn. Both of these American Fuehrers were frequent visitors to the State of California.

Some 25 witnesses were subpoenaed for examination on the activities of the German-American Bund in California. These witnesses may also be divided into friendly and hostile witnesses. Among the friendly witnesses were Ben S. Beery, Americanizer, Chairman of the Seventeenth District, of the American Legion, John G. Buerkle, Gene Hagerberg and Hugh Ben Inzer. The other witnesses are as follows:

David Baxter,
Hans F. Bauer,
William P. Bauer,
Hans Diebel,
Franz K. Ferenz,
Karl August Heusechele,
Emil Lodahl,
George Ernest Martens,
James Morrison McBride,
Lydia Joan McBride,
Emil Mehl,

Frank Muehlke,
John L. Riemer,
Hermann Max Schwinn,
Harold A. Sparling,
Edward Stuetz,
Baron F. Van Meter,
Daniel E. Van Meter,
James A. Van Meter,
Carl WoeppeImann,
Harry R. Bridges.

The first uniform worn by members of the Friends of New Germany, according to Hans Diebel (Volume IV, pp. 1092-1134, 1151-1152), was composed of a white shirt with dark trousers, overseas cap and armband bearing the letters "O. D." and a swastika "embedded in the rising sun." Hans Diebel was born in Marburg, Germany, and was an optician by profession. He was a member of the Friends of New Germany, having affiliated with this organization in 1935. When he testified before the committee October 17, 1941, he at first denied that he had ever become affiliated with the German-American Bund, but later (p. 1098) admitted being a member. For some time prior to his testimony he operated a book store in the Deutsches Haus. He stated that he had ceased selling literature in the German language for about three years. He admitted operating a projection machine showing motion pictures about Germany and that the latest one shown by him was concerning the German campaign in France, "Victory in the West." He estimated that around 400 people viewed this film which he ran four or five nights. Mr. Kendzia, the treasurer for German-American Business Association (Deutsches Haus Gesellschaft) compensated Diebel for operating the projection machine. He identified himself in a Bund uniform in a photograph in possession of the committee. He tended the bar at the Deutsches Haus on occasion. He stated that the "O. D." uniforms were used only for "ushers." He identified pictures of Kunze and Schwinn. He stated that there had been no Bund meetings since Hermann Max Schwinn had dissolved the unit, when Schwinn lost his citizenship, although Schwinn had testified that Carl Woepplmann had succeeded him in the directorship of the western division. He admitted that the Bund Flag contained the same emblem as that used on Bund uniform arm-bands. He described the Bund salute with outstretched hand. He knew James and Joan McBride, Emil Lodahl, Hans F. Bauer and Arno Risse.

Diebel admitted that he sold the Bund newspapers in his place, the Aryan Book Store located in the Deutsches Haus. He said that he took the bookstore over from a Mr. Themnitz in 1935 when Themnitz returned to Germany. He stated that he had been interested in that kind of literature and that was the reason he took over the store. He said that he did not sell the book, Hitler, which had been compiled by F. K. Ferenz, but that he had seen the book in Ferenz' shop.

Diebel made a trip to Germany in 1936 with Toni Koerner and returned to America on the same ship with Fritz Kuhn, although he did not travel in the same class with him. He stayed six months in Germany and affiliated with the Bund after his return from Germany, his membership ceasing when his citizenship was denied (p. 1118).

Diebel admitted publishing lists of the books and literature carried in his bookstore, but denied that he had ever used the swastika on letterheads, but, that instead, he used the American Flag. He admitted that each letterhead carried the line "The World Jewry Wants War to Strengthen Their Supremacy." Diebel admitted that he agreed with this sentiment but that he had not composed the sentence. He carried Pelley's books, The Truth About the Protocols, by Rev. Dr. Gerald Winrod. He likewise admitted using the slogan "Publicity is the best cure for all public evil. We carry the biggest selection of anti-Jewish-Communist literature in the country." He stated that he had never sold "World Service," but that he had received some copies from Germany. He admitted having addressed a meeting upon his return from Germany relating what he had seen in the New Germany.

He knew Dr. George Gyssling, the German Consul and had met him several times. He attended the rally at the Hollywood Bowl when Charles A. Lindbergh spoke in Los Angeles.

He stated that he did a business of about $50 per month in the Aryan Book Store and that he paid no rent for the premises and received no salary. His trip to Germany cost him between $600 and $700 which he saved from his salary. He stated that he believed the German people had been persecuted by the Jews and he believed in "getting back." He stated that he was not acquainted with Lew Michener or Pettis Perry and denied ever having attended a meeting in the Currier Building when these men were present.

Carl Woepplmann, although the successor to Hermann Max Schwinn as the Fuehrer of the Western Division, knew very little about the German-American Bund if his testimony could be believed. (Volume IV, pp. 1135-1150.) Woepplmann was born in Rodheim, Germany, and came to the United States in 1921. He came to Los Angeles from Cleveland, Ohio, and lived in California for seven years. He first belonged to the Friends of New Germany and attended meetings at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles, finally affiliating with the German-American Bund. He was a member of the uniformed "O. D." section of the Bund. He testified that he was director of the Western Division "in name only" and that the local unit does not hold meetings or does the uniformed "O. D." section meet. He claimed that the membership list of the Bund had been destroyed and that he had never seen any of the Bund orders from the East. He testified that he did not know how many members there were in the Los Angeles Bund or who they were. He stated that some called themselves "sympathizers" but he did not know who they were. He admitted sending money to the National headquarters in New York City but his memory failed him completely when asked to tell how much was sent. He stated that a Mr. Elmer is the National Secretary of the Bund. He admitted that Kunze had appointed him to succeed Schwinn in 1941.

The German-American Bund in the United States was divided into three districts, Eastern, Middle Western and Western. The National leader received his inspiration, program and orders from Berlin, although Fuehrers, such as Herman Max Schwinn (Volume III, pp. 760-779) claimed that the National leader took his orders from the National Convention. The organizational set-up of the German-American Bund in this regard is based on the same fictions used by the Communist Party of the United States. Conventions in the United States are held once a year and are attended by delegates elected by Bund units and the number of delegates from each Bund unit is determined by the number of members in the unit. Schwinn testified that when he attended conventions his expenses were paid by the local Bund unit.

The three districts in the United States were broken down into units, under the direction of a Fuehrer or director placed over the particular district. Herman Max Schwinn was the director for the eleven western States, known as the Western Division. He was succeeded by Carl Woepplmann, after Schwinn's citizenship had been canceled.

The official constitution of the German-American Bund provided for units and other subdivisions and "block watchers." Schwinn stated that he never paid much attention to the official constitution and therefore did not maintain "block watchers" in Los Angeles. (Volume III, p. 771.)

Instructions for each unit were issued from time to time. Membership cards were furnished each Bund unit with instructions printed in German and titled "Organizational Set-up and Administrative Regulations." The membership card system included colored cards and contained light blue cards bearing the letter "J" for Jews.

Instructions and documents were likewise issued from time to time printed in German in reference to the discipline of Bund members, the anticipation of violence and other fanaticisms similar to Hitler's commands in Germany.

Herman Max Schwinn testified (Volume IV, pp. 1190-1208) that only those of Aryan blood were eligible for membership in the Bund.

He admitted that part of the Bund wore uniforms and he identified the uniform in a picture of himself taken with Wilhelm Kunze, the last National Fuehrer. (Volume III, pp. 760-779.) He stated that the "O. D." on the arm bands of the uniforms stood for "Order Division" and that the same initials could be used for the German words of the same meaning "Ordnung Dienst." The symbol used on the arm band was also described by Schwinn as a Swastika coming out of the rising sun.

Schwinn testified October 14, 1941, and October 16, 1941. He had been the director of the eleven western States of the German-American Bund for some four or five years and received a salary for this position. He testified that he was born in Hamburg, Germany, August 13, 1905, and that he came to the United States in 1924, going first to Canton, Ohio, where he remained for a year and a half, then to Akron, Ohio, and from there to Los Angeles, where he became a United States citizen. He was appointed the Western Director of the German-American Bund in either 1934 or 1935 and held that position until 1940 when he lost his citizenship. He stated that the constitution of the Bund made United States citizenship a prerequisite to membership in the Bund, all of which statement, of course, was a fiction. He named the National leaders of the Bund as Fritz Kuhn, Giffibl, Dr. Schuch and "a few others." He stated that he became interested in the change in Germany in 1933 and joined the Friends of New Germany. He named the official German-American Bund newspaper as The Free American. He admitted having his membership card files destroyed in Los Angeles "two or three years ago," pursuant to orders that had come from National headquarters. A Mr. Kendzia is the Treasurer of the Bund most of the time. Schwinn admitted knowing Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz and Emil Lodahl. He claimed that the Bund, as such, had no part in the America First Committee. He stated that Diebel could not be a member of the Bund because he was not a citizen and that he had to leave the Bund when his citizenship was canceled.

Besides the uniformed guard known as the "O. D. Units" Schwinn stated there was a ladies' auxiliary, a youth group, unemployment service and charity groups.

He stated that the Bund did not display the Flag of the Third Reich at its functions and that the only time this flag was ever used was when German diplomats appeared before their meetings. His memory failed him in reference to the number of members in the German-American Bund unit in the City of Los Angeles, but he admitted that the attendance at meetings were from one hundred to three or four hundred and that the Bund met about once a month. He could not identify members because, he stated, he had never had the membership records in his possession. The Bund unit in Los Angeles had held closed meetings during his incumbency.

He denied that he had ever seen instructions for drilling "O. D. Units."

He stated that the American Flag was displayed in all meetings that he had conducted and that on one or two occasions there were two flags, including the Flag of the Third Reich. He stated that he had never complied with the instructions from the National headquarters concerning saluting, although he admitted receiving such instructions. He identified pictures of Dr. Goebbels and Horst Wessel in a photograph of himself and Wilhelm Kunz. He stated that the "O. D. Unit" in Los Angeles varied in membership from 20 to 100.

The Amerikadeutscher Volksbund may be designated as the voice of Naziism. This organization sought to consolidate all of the Fascist elements in America into one great movement, including the Italian Black Shirts, the Ukrainian Brown Shirts and the German-American Bundsters. It is known that the German-American Bund leaders in California were in close touch with the Gold Shirts of Mexico, and cooperated wherever possible with the Ku Klux Klan and the Silver Shirts.

The committee learned that the German-American Bund was in constant contact with Nazi diplomatic representatives in California until these agencies were closed by the Federal Government. This fact was well established by the testimony of Bund leaders. In addition to others, the Steuben societies, Turnvereins and singing societies were all used as fronts for the Bund. Summer camps were maintained in California where German-American children were taught the harsh doctrines of Naziism, drilled, regimented, toughened, disciplined and indoctrinated with the theory that Democracy is decadent.

Storm Troopers of German-American Bund units in California drilled in full uniform and guarded the meeting places against intruders. Your committee is in possession of photographic evidence of these facts. In the meeting place of the California Bunds, usually referred to as the "Deutsches Haus," pictures of Hitler, Goebbels, Horst Wessel and other leaders of the Third Reich were prominently displayed on the walls, which were also festooned with swastikas.

Book stores such as the Aryan Book Store located in the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles, maintained a steady flow of Nazi propaganda. Men such as F. K. Ferenz exhibited pro-Nazi motion pictures and distributed literature.

The committee had access to photostatic copies of the instructions issued to all Bund leaders from Wilhelm Kunze, setting forth in the greatest detail the whole business of the organization and the methods by which its objectives could be achieved. This document was most revealing and stated in unmistakable terms that the Bund was dedicated to the supremacy of the German Aryan, and the welding together of all German-Americans to assist Nazi Germany's struggle for the New Order. This document contained expressions of the deep contempt of the Bund for the soft and emasculated Democracy of the United States in contrast to the strong and vigorous nature of the Third Reich.

Ellis O. Jones testified that he had known Herman Max Schwinn for about two years and Hans Diebel for something less than that time. (Volume III, pp. 744-760.) He had known F. K. Ferenz since 1932 or 1933 and stated that he had met him at "Bellamy meetings." He likewise admitted that he had viewed German pictures exhibited by Ferenz. He knew Harold A. Sparling and had attended a meeting or two with him. He had distributed buttons of the National Copperheads of America at functions in Hindenberg Park. He denied having any knowledge that the Hindenberg affairs had any connection with Charles A. Lindbergh. He admitted having met the Van Meter brothers in T. W. Hughes meetings, and admitted that he had later met them at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles. (Volume IX, pp. 2489-2528.) He likewise was acquainted with James and Joan McBride and admitted that he had known them for about a year. He had seen them both at the Deutsches Haus. He knew W. H. Sahli, of the Ku Klux Klan, Faith McCullough, A. M. Windhorst and Dr. Ernest Kramer. He had met Dr. Kramer at the T. W. Hughes meetings and at America First Committee meetings.

Gene Hagberg, an investigator, visited the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles in 1939. He stated that Dr. Eric Wilson and his wife, Pearl Wilson, were members of the German-American Bund and that they had held meetings in their home in April of 1939 attended by Emil Lodahl and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Schumacker and others. He stated that Lodahl had suggested at this particular meeting that they celebrate Hitler's birthday and Dr. Wilson, acting on the suggestion, called Herman Max Schwinn to make arrangements for the affair. Hagberg, in his capacity of investigator, attended this meeting and Dr. Wilson arranged for him to meet Schwinn.

Hagberg testified that Dr. Wilson had bragged of interviewing Dr. Goebbels in 1936 and 1937 and stated that Goebbels had presented him (Dr. Wilson) with a copy of Mein Kampf personally autographed by Hitler.

Hagberg stated that Lodahl was a member of the Los Angeles Unit of the German-American Bund. He stated that Lodahl met German boats in Los Angeles Harbor, at San Pedro with a truck carrying dry cleaner's signs.

Hagberg told of a meeting held May 23, 1941, on Washington Boulevard in Los Angeles which was sponsored by a Japanese-Communist group known as Doho Jin Sha at which Ed Robbin, Communist radio commentator for the People's Daily World told of collecting in excess of $1,000 at the Roosevelt Hotel for the American Rescue Ship Mission. He stated that Robbin donated $25 of this amount to the Japanese-Communist paper, Doho, in Los Angeles. After this meeting, a girl took up collections for the Columbia Recording strike (C. I. O.—UERMWA). He stated that a number of people attending this particular meeting were familiar to him as frequenters of the Deutsches Haus of the German-American Bund in Los Angeles. He described the collaboration of the Communist Doho Jin Sha group with the German-American Bund during the Stalin-Hitler Pact.

Emil Lodahl was born in Dagmar, Montana and claimed to be of Danish extraction. (Volume III, pp. 886-907.) He said he was a dry cleaner and that he had formerly worked for the Joy Cleaners and Dyers, but that he was, at the time of testifying, in business for himself.

Lodahl organized the National Patriots. He stated that the Van Meter brothers had printed a magazine at 2180 West Adams Street in Los Angeles for this organization. He stated that no records were kept and that the organization had no office. The purpose of the National Patriots was to set up a group to combat the National Students Union, a Communist group.

He admitted making trips to Los Angeles harbor in the truck of the Joy Cleaners and Dyers. He stated that these trips were made because of the fact that he owned a boat.

He admitted visiting the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and knowing Herman Max Schwinn. He stated that he had attended several Bund meetings and had seen the leader in uniform. He also admitted having seen swastika arm bands on individuals at Hindenberg Park affairs. He met Kunze when he was visiting Los Angeles. He remembered having seen the Van Meter brothers at Bund meetings in uniform. He knew Arthur Burnett. He had heard the Horst Wessel song at "O. D." meetings. He illustrated the "O. D." salute and stated that the greeting accompanying the salute was "Heil!" He attended the America First Committee rally in Hollywood Bowl and heard Lindbergh speak. He met Harold A. Sparling in the Deutsches Haus and was acquainted with William Ferguson.

James Morrison McBride denied that he had ever been a member of the German-American Bund. (Volume IV, pp. 935-964.) He admitted, however, of visiting the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles frequently, and, as a matter of fact, rather regularly since the "Communists put on a demonstration there." (1937.) He celebrated Hitler's birthday in the Deutsches Haus on April 19, 1941. "I think Adolph Hitler is a very wonderful man for Germany; he has nothing to do with this country," McBride declared (p. 944). He identified a picture of Wilhelm Kunze and said that he was "a very nice man" (p. 940). He also identified Goebbels' picture and stated that he was another "very nice man." He identified pictures of Martha Hauser, W. Kendzia, Herman Max Schwinn, Eunice Woeppleman and Hans Diebel. McBride stated that he didn't like Stalin. At the time of testifying, McBride stated that "everybody in the Deutsches Haus is afraid to talk politics." He liked the Deutsches Haus because of its "respectable atmosphere." Adolph Hitler, according to McBride, is a Christian, fighting a Christian war—a defensive war. It was Stalin, in the opinion of McBride, who violated the pact with Hitler.

He claimed that he did not know anything about the German-American Bund. He indicated that he believed in preserving nationality and that the instructions to Bund members in reference to the preservation of the German language and nationality was correct. "Don't the Jews follow it?" he asked (p. 950). He stated that he believed in his "own race first" (p. 948).

He admitted having picketed the Wendell Willkie meeting in the Hollywood Bowl and identified pictures of himself and wife in the act of picketing the meeting. He stated that his reason for opposing this meeting was that Willkie was spreading British propaganda.

Mrs. Lydia Joan McBride, wife of James M. McBride, was a part-time waitress at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles. (Volume IV, pp. 1052-1070, 1080.) She received her salary by checks but did not know who signed them. Her maiden name was "Warr." She wore a bracelet with a swastika on it and claimed that she purchased it at an Indian Jewelry Store on Seventh Street in Los Angeles several years before. She laughed at the committee triumphantly and stated that she believed it to be an Indian "good luck sign."

Mrs. McBride was born in East Prussia, Germany, and came to the United States when she was "very young." She has derivative citizenship in the United States. She claimed that she had not kept track of her relatives in Germany. She attended "Kaffee Klatches," or "Women's Clubs" at the Deutsches Haus but denied being affiliated with the women's auxiliary of the German-American Bund. She was wearing a button of the National Copperheads when she testified October 16, 1941, and in answer to an inquiry stated that she got it from Ellis O. Jones. She remembered seeing swastikas draped over "some kind of an affair" in the Deutsches Haus and in seeing swastikas on plates on the walls.

Mrs. McBride read Mein Kampf and stated that she believed Hitler to be a very great man and felt that he had done a lot of good for Germany. She believes that the German people in the United States are better citizens than the Jews because it is the Jews who want to lead the United States into war.

Mrs. McBride was called before the committee again on February 24, 1942. (Volume IX, pp. 2790-2799.) She informed the committee this time that she had been married previously and that her former married name was "Redmer." She now admitted knowing Herman Max Schwinn and recalled that Schwinn had always cautioned the customers at the Deutsches Haus not to talk politics. She stated that all of the gatherings in the Deutsches Haus were merely social affairs. Everyone at the Deutsches Haus liked Hitler. Ellis O. Jones sometimes distributed buttons of the National Copperheads at the place.

Mrs. McBride denied ever having seen Bund uniforms at the Deutsches Haus. She is acquainted with Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz, but did not recognize the names of San Diego Bundsmen. She met Wilhelm Kunze at the Deutsches Haus in the Fall of 1941. She claimed that she did not know who he was at the time.

She informed the committee, at the conclusion of her testimony, that most of her friends believed she was "wearing herself out" attending so many meetings.

John L. Riemer was born in Danzig, Germany in 1887. (Volume IV, pp. 1070-1079.) He came to the United States in 1909 and was naturalized in 1915. He has lived in southern California since 1911 with the exception of a few months. He operates the National Book Mart located at 1625 Fifth Avenue in the City of Los Angeles and sells books printed in German and in English.

He admitted knowing Herman Max Schwinn for six or seven years. He was acquainted with Hans Diebel and his Aryan Book Store. He claimed that he did not sell the same type of literature in the National Book Mart as that sold by Diebel.

He denied being a member of the German-American Bund and stated that he had never been a member of the Friends of New Germany. He claimed that he was not in sympathy with the principles of the Bund. He subscribed to the California Staats-Zeitung.

He stated that he attempted to organize the American Labor Party in 1933 and that after four months of effort he had "one member and three stool pigeons" (p. 1078). He wrote one article on civil liberties for the California Staats-Zeitung. He was a member of the Turner Society and wrote on the health benefits to be derived from Turnerism.

Harold A. Sparling was born in Chillicothe, Missouri, and has lived in California for 11 years (Volume III, pp. 714-744). He stated that he was in business for himself and designated such business as "personal service." He ran for Congress on the Republican ticket in the Seventeenth District in the primaries of August, 1940, and again in 1942. He stated that he had been speaking and holding meetings throughout the State in an attempt to keep America out of war and to expose the "Communist-Bolsheviks" for the last two or three years.

He admitted having visited the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles three or four times, and being acquainted with Herman Max Schwinn, Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz and others.

Baron Frederick Van Meter appeared before the committee October 16, 1941, wearing buttons of the America First Committee, National Youth Farm Foundation and the Fisher Body Guild. (Volume IV, pp. 989-1014.) He met Herman Max Schwinn in 1938 at the Deutsches Haus. He also admitted knowing Hans Diebel and met him at about the same time he first met Herman Max Schwinn. He had obtained "literature of enlightenment" from Hans Diebel's Aryan Book Store. He remembered seeing copies of Mein Kampf at Diebel's place of business and recalled that it had a swastika printed upon it. He met Emil Lodahl in August or September of 1938 and is also acquainted with F. K. Ferenz.

He denied ever having been a member of the German-American Bund. He admitted picketing the Wendell Willkie meeting at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles and identified pictures of himself, and his brothers, William and Daniel, carrying banners. He related the organization of the National Patriots which he stated was created by Emil Lodahl as an opposition group to the Communist American Students Union. Van Meter admitted printing papers for Lodahl's National Patriots and stated that his home address was used as the headquarters for the Lodahl organization.

He admitted having seen propaganda motion pictures at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and recalled a picture of the invasion of Poland. He is acquainted with James McBride but denied ever having seen him in a Bund uniform. He likewise was acquainted with Mrs. Joan McBride. He recalled seeing the swastika flag at the Deutsches Haus on Hitler's birthday. He ventured that Horst Wessel was a German martyr. He identified pictures taken in Herman Max Schwinn's office in the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles. He stated that the German-American Business League owns Hindenburg Park in Los Angeles. Although he stated he was not a subscriber to Free American, he knew that it was a publication of the German-American Bund. He stated that the "O. D." groups in the Bund no longer wore uniforms. He was well acquainted with the salute and "Seig Heil," ("Heil Victory").

Baron Frederick Van Meter refused to commit himself on the Jewish question.

Daniel Elias Van Meter appeared before your committee February 24, 1942, wearing a green button. (Volume IX, pp. 2815-2824.) Upon being questioned concerning the button, he smirked that it was the emblem of the Pink Dragons and that it represented a "personal group." He facetiously remarked that the badge was green "just to fool them," indicating the committee. He said the Pink Dragons organization was composed of but three members, Ellis O. Jones, Robert Noble and himself. He explained with mock seriousness that the Pink Dragons was a pension movement and that it was not to be confused with the Black Dragon Society of the Japanese. He wished to assure the committee that he was not a Nazi agent as had been claimed by the newspapers.

Daniel Elias Van Meter met Herman Max Schwinn and Hans Diebel in 1938. He knew that Hans Diebel operated the Aryan Book Store in the Deutsches Haus and admitted having been in the headquarters of the German-American Bund in Los Angeles on a number of occasions. He had been acquainted with F. K. Ferenz during the past year and admitted knowing Ellis O. Jones and Robert Noble for some eight months. He also was acquainted with Joan and James McBride.

He claimed that he never belonged to the German-American Bund. He admitted having heard Wilhelm Kunze speak but added that he did not know who Kunze was. He denied that he had ever worn a two-inch swastika badge, or that he had ever warned individuals to take off I Am An American buttons.

James Adams Van Meter appeared before the committee October 16, 1941, wearing a button of the National Copperheads. (Volume IV, pp. 1014-1023, 1061.) He admitted frequenting the Deutsches Haus but denied that he had ever affiliated with the German-American Bund. He had seen uniforms worn in the Deutsches Haus and had observed arm bands with the swastika in a sunburst and the letters "O. D." on them. He believed that the letters "O. D." stood for "Order Division" because the men who wore the uniforms with this arm band kept order in the meetings; acted as ushers. He identified pictures of Arno Risse, Willi Kendzia, Hans Diebel and Herman Max Schwinn.

Harry R. Bridges testified in San Francisco that before Pearl Harbor, longshoremen unloading boats in the San Francisco Bay area, noticed German officers leaving a German boat in uniform. (Volume XIII, pp. 3594-3618.) He said that they also saw Storm Troopers, in full regalia, leave German boats and go ashore. He claimed that he assigned longshoremen to trail the Storm Troopers and that they were followed to the German House in San Francisco and that these officers and Storm Troopers visited the German House regularly and contacted various persons there. He said these activities began in about 1935 or 1936 and stopped shortly after Germany's declaration of war with England. Bridges claimed that he kept a complete set of notes on these activities.

The German-American Bund had extended its organization to San Diego. Its activities in this area had not been quite so open and brazen as in Los Angeles, but there are many indications that its work was more effective in many ways. It appears that the meetings held in Mission Valley were of considerable significance, in that sailors from German ships met there from time to time with National officers of the Bund, Herman Max Schwinn and others. These meetings, disguised as social affairs, picnics, etc., obviously presented designed opportunities for the delivery of important instructions to Bund Fuehrers in the United States direct from Dr. Goebbels in Berlin.

William P. Bauer (father of Hans Bauer of Los Angeles), was the Fuehrer of the local unit of the German-American Bund in the City of San Diego. (Volume VIII, pp. 2330-2349.) He was born in Germany in 1876, came to the United States in 1906 and was granted citizenship in San Diego in 1913. He joined the Friends of New Germany in 1934. He met Herman Max Schwinn at about this time and claimed that he knew Hans Diebel "slightly."

When the unit of the German-American Bund was organized in San Diego, Bauer was appointed its Fuehrer by Herman Max Schwinn, who was then the leader of the western division of the organization.

The San Diego Unit of the Bund, according to Bauer, never used uniforms, but he admitted having seen uniformed members at meetings of the Los Angeles Unit in Hindenburg Park in Los Angeles.

Bauer, as Fuehrer of the San Diego Unit of the German-American Bund, received instructions from Fritz Kuhn in New York about every six months. He stated that he only carried them out partially. He declared that he personally never believed in uniforms.

The official publication of the German-American Bund is the Weekruf. When Bauer testified, February 20, 1942, he stated that he had not seen a copy of the Weekruf in about two months.

He met Wilhelm Kunze at social functions in the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles in 1936 and 1937 and he was aware that Fritz Kuhn had been Kunze's predecessor as National Fuehrer of the organization. He likewise was acquainted with F. K. Ferenz and stated that Ferenz formerly came to San Diego to exhibit motion pictures—German pictures. He admitted having seen Scig Im Western, a German picture shown by Ferenz in San Diego. He had last seen Wilhelm Kunze at a social gathering in Mission Valley in 1941. The "social gathering" was at the home of a Mr. Emil B. Mehl. He had not seen Schwinn or Diebel for about a year at the time of testifying.

Bauer said he had severed his connections with the Bund because he felt that the American public was not yet ready for such an organization. A John Lutz, now in Germany, was formerly the secretary of the San Diego Unit and Karl August Heuschele became the secretary of the unit when Lutz went to Germany. Bauer admitted that Lutz kept the unit's records and distributed literature, some of which was officially printed in Germany.

Bauer was acquainted with Dr. George Gyssling, former German consul in Los Angeles, and admitted that he had met him for the first time six or seven years previous and that the acquaintance continued until Gyssling left for Germany.

It was reported that Bauer had stated that he would never have a son of his fight for the United States. He denied making this statement.

Bauer was a civil engineer and was employed as an inspector in the city engineer's office for the City of San Diego. Some time after he testified he was removed from this office.

Karl August Heuschele had been subpoenaed for the committee's public hearing in San Diego. He did not respond in person to the subpoena, but sent the committee a letter stating that he was ill and unable to leave his home. This was accompanied by a letter from a chiropractor corroborating Mr. Heuschele's excuse. Because of Heuschele's importance as secretary of the German-American Bund Unit in San Diego, your committee decided to examine him at his home. On February 21, 1942, the members of the committee, together with its official reporter, drove to 1365 Rosecrans Boulevard on Point Loma to Heuschele's home. The Heuschele residence occupied an extremely strategic position. It overlooked the Naval Training Station, the Marine Base, North Island Air Base and the submarine boom or net which guards the entrance to San Diego Harbor. All of these important positions were easily seen from Heuschele's bedroom window and from the area immediately adjacent to the house.

Mrs. Heuschele, a German alien, refused to admit photographers, and Mr. Culver Herrin, the photographer, busied himself outside taking pictures of everything visible from the vicinity of the house. During the taking of Heuschele's testimony, the members of the committee could see the Navy's heliograph flashing signals and a troop transport loading. Every incoming and outgoing troopship sailed within easy observation of the Heuschele residence.

Heuschele was born in Ossweil, Germany, a suburb of Ludwigshafen, in 1905. (Volume VIII, pp. 2465-2488.) He came to the United States in 1930 and resided in Rochester, New York. He had resided in San Diego 10 years. He stated that he is a landscape gardener by profession and that prior to taking up this occupation he had been a mechanic. He had occupied the residence on Point Loma for two and a half years together with his wife and his 12-year-old son. He admitted that his son had attended the summer camp for youths at Hindenburg Park, near Glendale. He admitted having several brothers and sisters, five of the brothers still living in Germany.

He affiliated with the Friends of New Germany in 1935 and became a member of the German-American Bund when the latter organization took over the Friends of New Germany. Herman Max Schwin, Hans Diebel and others came down from Los Angeles for the organization of the San Diego Unit. William P. Bauer became the Fuehrer, but Heuschele's memory was faulty in reference to the identity of other members. He stated: "There were so many and it's been so long ago." The meetings of the San Diego Unit were "unregular." Ferenz came down from Los Angeles from time to time and showed 16-millimeter German films in San Diego's Hollywood Theatre.

Hueschele was acquainted with Herman Max Schwinn, Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz, Frank Muehlke, Emil Mehl, Max Grau, John Lutz, R. Schoenbern, Ferdinand Bethol and Helene Rheinheimer.

He stated that he had not visited Germany since coming to the United States. He claimed that he had heard nothing from his family in Germany for eight years and that Mrs. Hueschele had not heard from her family for eight months.

Max Grau, of Consular Gyssling's office in Los Angeles, had ordered a wreath of flowers for a German seaman who was buried in the Mission Cemetery, and it appeared that Hueschele had received much of this type of business.

He had charge of the Bund records for a short time after John Lutz returned to Germany. He admitted receiving a letter from Schwinn asking for the records. Schwinn later came to San Diego and to Hueschele's home and secured them. He sent dues collected in San Diego to the New York headquarters about once a month and sometimes every two months. He stated he had had an argument with Wilhelm Kunze at Emil Mehl's home in Mission Valley over the embezzlement of funds by Kuhn. Pamphlets were sent out monthly from the East but he "never paid much attention" to them. He received detailed instructions regarding the conduct of Bund affairs from time to time. Schwinn took these instructions and pamphlets away with him when he took the records.

He attended meetings at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles from time to time and admitted having seen the uniformed "O. D." guards in attendance there and believed that there were probably 15 or 20 of them. He believed that the uniformed group was used to protect meetings against demonstrations such as he claims he saw in Germany before coming to the United States. Violence in Germany was one of his reasons for leaving that country. He stated he had seen Communists throw men out of windows in meetings of the Good Templars in Germany. He stated that one of his brothers in Germany was a Communist and that this fact had created a very bad situation in his family.

He stated that the Bund records had been kept in a journal and that some of the Bund meetings were conducted in German.

According to Hueschele the members of the Bund in San Diego did not "Heil Hitler" but merely used the salutation, "Heil!" He admitted having once had a picture of Hitler in his home but stated that he had burned it. He had once loaned it to the German House in Balboa Park where Bund affairs were sometimes held. The Horst Wessel song was sung in San Diego when Gyssling visited the Bund in 1935.

The membership fee in the San Diego Bund Unit was 75 cents and the monthly dues were also 75 cents. Most of this money, collected by the San Diego Unit, was sent to New York in printed envelopes which were supplied by the National organization and addressed to the German-American Bund. At the time of testifying, Hueschele claimed there were no regular meetings of the Bund being held in San Diego. He stated that he had broken with the organization and added that he "broke up with everything."

He admitted having attended a dinner at the home of Helene Rheinheimer which was held for the German sailors who had scuttled the S. S. Columbia.

He stated that he purchased his home from a man named Merryweather, a retired Navy captain. Although he at first denied knowing any Japanese or dealing with any of them in the floral business, he finally admitted that he did have business contacts with some of them and that he bought flowers from them on occasion.

He read the Weckruf and admitted that it was sent to all Bund members, although it was not sent out regularly.

He had received a pass to Fort Rosecrans and made floral deliveries there from time to time. This pass was canceled after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

After the San Diego and California papers carried the substance of Heuschele's testimony, the Heuscheles were removed from their strategic position on Point Loma. A considerable quantity of incriminating evidence was later discovered in the house.

Emil B. Mehl was born in Grossbart Mannsdorf, Germany, in 1885. (Volume VIII, pp. 2399-2407.) He was naturalized in San Diego in 1928 and has lived in Mission Valley, near the City of San Diego, for 30 years. He had never been a member of the Friends of New Germany but joined the German-American Bund five or six years before appearing before the committee. He joined at a social affair which had been arranged by William P. Bauer, the Fuehrer of the San Diego Unit. He had never held an official position in the Bund unit. He did hold social affairs at his home in Mission Valley from time to time for the members of the Bund. His wife had received a picture post card of Hitler from Germany and this was the only picture of Hitler, he stated, that he had ever displayed in his home. He had a sister in Germany but had not heard from her in a long time. A nephew of his wife was in the German air corps. He received the Weckruf.

Mehl admitted having attended a party in Mrs. Rheinheimer's home which was given for the purpose of raising funds for the German sailors who had scuttled the S. S. Columbia and who were being interned in New Mexico. He admitted attending similar functions at the home of Mr. Graf. He admitted that part of the crew of the German cruiser, Karlsmue, visited his home. He claimed that they merely came "to drink beer."

He stated that he joined the German-American Bund to offset the boycott of German goods and "to bring about better relations" with Germany.

He admitted that Wilhelm Kunze visited at his home in Mission Valley. He had met Herman Max Schwimm at a German Day celebration at Germania Hall and later when he held a picnic at his place in Mission Valley. He stated that he "saw" only Hans Diebel and F. K. Ferenz, although he admitted seeing the motion pictures shown by Ferenz in San Diego.

He concluded his testimony by stating that he "paid no attention" to the Jewish situation in the United States. He said that the German-American Bund had "dissolved itself" in San Diego and that his activities had ceased at that time. He then contradicted himself and said he got out of the organization before it was dissolved.

Frank Muehlke was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1900. (Volume VIII, pp. 2378-2396.) He came to New York in 1926 and was naturalized in San Diego in 1935 and has lived there ever since. He affiliated with the German-American Bund in 1937 and after John Lutz went to Germany, became the secretary of the San Diego Unit until Hueschele took over these duties in 1939. He stated that the Bund was not very active and that he resigned from it in the Fall of 1939.

It is interesting to note that Muehlke was an aircraft worker at the Langley Instrument Company in the City of San Diego when your committee subpoenaed him to testify February 20, 1942.

Muehlke admitted having met Wilhelm Kunze and having heard Fritz Kuhn deliver a speech at Hindenburg Park. He admitted having attended one meeting at the Deutsches Haus in the City of Los Angeles. He knew Herman Max Schwinn, Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz and Mrs. Helen Rheinheimer, and others.

He spent four months in Germany just prior to the outbreak of war. He claimed that he did not meet any of the officials of the German Government.

Dr. George Gyssling, German Consul, from Los Angeles, delivered a speech at Germania Hall on German Day in the City of San Diego when Muehlke was present.

He admitted reading Weekruf "once in a while." He denied ever having bought any books at the Aryan Book Store in Los Angeles and stated that he "never did agree with it much— with the idea of distributing some of the stuff which amounted maybe more or less to propaganda" (p. 2381). He stated that "some of the stuff • • • was not very appealing to Christian men." He stated that the reason he quit the Bund was because he didn't like the idea of being "fanatic." He stated that he joined the Bund to build up good will between this country and Germany and came to the conclusion that the Bund was not furthering that end.

He admitted attending the dinner given in the home of Mrs. Rheinheimer in San Diego for the purpose of raising funds for the relief of the crew personnel of the S. S. Columbia, a German vessel which the German sailors had attempted to scuttle and which was interned. He recalled that there were 20 or 25 people present at that dinner. He stated that he met Mrs. Rheinheimer "through German activities." He admitted that the Germans held several such dinners to raise funds for the internees and recalled the dinner at Mr. Graf's home and one at Oberhoff's. He stated that he paid 50 cents or $1 for these dinners and that they did not take up collections.

He stated that the German-American Bund Unit in San Diego met very irregularly while he was a member and that it did not have a women's auxiliary.

He admitted sending his children to the German-American Bund camp in Glendale in the Summer of 1939. He added that he later discovered the camp was connected with the Bund.

He recalled, under questioning, a sale held in the German House in Balboa Park, San Diego, for the purpose of raising money for German citizens in the custody of the United States. He recalled one Bund meeting held in the Hawthorne Hall, San Diego.

He stated that (p. 2391) when he "went to Germany" he was suspicious of the Hitler regime just like everybody else in the United States. "When I was there," he continued, "I discovered that Hitler had done lots of things for the people, so I did not go with any sort of prejudice * * *." He traveled through Germany for four and one-half months. He stated that he had no close relatives in Germany although his wife has a brother in the Nazi Army.

Muehlke stated that he was against war and against persecution. He regretted that President Wilson had not succeeded in his aims at the end of the last war.

He concluded his testimony by stating: "This country comes first; it is the country of my children. I want to live up to my citizenship (pledge)." He stated that he would fight for the United States against Germany. He turned the records of the Bund over to Heuschele when Heuschele became the San Diego Unit Secretary. He stated that there was a book in which the names and the dues of the members were recorded.

Muehlke left the Consolidated Aircraft in January of 1941 and has been employed by the Langley Instrument and Machine Company, a subcontractor of Consolidated, since that time.

John G. Buerkle was a volunteer witness on Nazi activities in the City of San Diego. (Volume VIII, pp. 2396-2399.) He was formerly a tuna packer and at the time of testifying was a real estate operator. He stated that an apartment house, owned by Richard Schoenborn in the City of San Diego, had been a rendezvous for Germans and members of the Bund. He stated that Von Buelow was one of the frequent visitors at this place. He claimed that they were "just Nazis." He believed that Schoenborn had made a trip to Germany in 1940 and that he had been gone about four months.

C. Leon de Aryan, editor of The Broom, a publication in San Diego, met F. K. Ferez in Los Angeles at a meeting of the Friends of Progress. He met Herman Max Schwinn in San Diego in 1938 or 1939 and Hans Diebel at about the same time. He has been a visitor at the Deutsches Haus and has attended functions in Hindenburg Park in Los Angeles. At the time of testifying, February 19, 1942, de Aryan stated that he had known William P. Bauer for three or four years and Frank Muelke and Karl August Heuschele for about the same period of time. He admitted that he had attended two Bund meetings. He was present on one occasion when, according to his testimony, a number of newspaper reporters and representatives of the American Legion were present. At this Bund meeting, he alleged, the Communists attempted to create a commotion. The meeting was held in the Hard of Hearing Hall. de Aryan claimed that he took the platform and "talked the Communists out of it" (p. 2291). de Aryan believed that the Bund members in San Diego were "decent fellows" but expressed doubts about some of the Los Angeles members. He was also acquainted with Hans F. Bauer of Los Angeles and Henry D. Allen of Pasadena and had met Faith McCullough.

NAZI PROPAGANDA AND ACTIVITIES IN CALIFORNIA

Franz K. Ferenz was a hostile witness. He was subpoenaed and testified October 17, 1941. (Volume IV, pp. 1152-1174.) He had been one of the most active Nazi propagandists in southern California. He posed as an exhibitor of foreign language films and conducted the Continental Book Store located at 2509 W. Seventh Street in the City of Los Angeles. He was the publisher of a book entitled Hitler (1934), which was a collection of favorable propaganda essays concerning the Fuehrer.

Ferenz was born in Vienna, Austria, and came to the United States in October, 1914. He became a citizen almost immediately.

One of the essays on Hitler used in Ferenz's book was written by George Sylvester Viereck. Ferenz claimed that he did not know Viereck. The preface of the work by Ferenz was for the purpose of acquainting the American people with the facts concerning Germany's new leader, Adolf Hitler, and the program and achievements of the National Socialist Party. The hooked cross—the swastika—was printed on the cover of the book.

Ferenz denied having been the distributor of the anti-Semitic film Kosher Slaughter. He was questioned concerning the cancellation of his lease for the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles by Peter Riccardi. The Findings of Fact in the Los Angeles Superior Court Civil Case Number 456927, F. K. Ferenz vs. Peter Riccardi (Volume IV, pp. 1162-1165) was introduced for examination by the members of the committee and it was found that Ferenz had attracted Nazi sympathizers to the theater and had aroused racial hatred and prejudice.

He knew of the Karen Travel Service located at 4465 Hollywood Boulevard in Los Angeles and stated that it was a travel bureau and food package concern. He admitted carrying advertising for this firm on his screen at the Mason Opera House. He also was acquainted with the Food Package Service of H. F. Bauer. He was familiar with Facts in Review, Nazi propaganda publication in the United States. He claimed that he did not subscribe or take subscriptions for it.

He admitted having visited the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles but could not recall having seen any of the Bund members in uniform and stated that he did not know of any secret meetings having ever been held there. He stated (p. 1173) that "Germany has never had a better man (than Hitler)."

George Ernest Martens was born in eastern Silesia, in Breslau, Germany. He came to the United States in 1907, became a citizen and resided in Los Angeles for 26 years. (Volume IV, pp. 909-918.) He was the editor of the California Staats-Zeitung. He testified that the German-American Bund was a continuation of the Friends of New Germany. The Bund continued to publish the California Weckruf.

He related demands on part of the Los Angeles Bund for an announcement of a boycott of the Jews by the Staats-Zeitung and stated that he refused. He claimed that the Bund then published an attack on him, as editor, in the Weckruf and that it also attacked the Staats-Zeitung. He stated that this attack was written by Dr.

Konrad Bucardi. Bucardi had held a prominent position in the Friends of New Germany.

He stated that the German Government had issued a decree providing that German citizens could not retain membership in the Friends of New Germany and that the name of the organization was then changed to the German-American Bund. He testified that the German Government had issued a second decree forbidding membership in the Bund.

Martens knew F. K. Ferenz and was acquainted with his activities in exhibiting German pictures. He stated that he had never been in the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and was not aware of Nazi propaganda in the pictures shown by Ferenz. He was acquainted with Hans F. Bauer for some five or six years.

The California Staats-Zeitung, German language newspaper in Los Angeles, enjoyed a circulation of between ten to twelve thousand at the time Edward Stuetz testified before the committee. (Volume III, pp. 861-885.) Stuetz had known Herman Max Schwinn since 1928 when Schwinn was employed as a clerk at the German-American Savings Bank. He had known F. K. Ferenz for 10 or more years, and also was acquainted with Hans Wolfran, Dr. George Gyssling, the German Consul, Helen Entermann, Hans F. Bauer, Kurt Zimmer and John L. Riemer. He admitted seeing German pictures exhibited from time to time by Ferenz.

Hans F. Bauer, according to Stuetz, advertised in the Staats-Zeitung for a considerable period of time. He knew that he represented Fortra, Inc. Stuetz had known John L. Riemer for several years and stated that he had been a subscriber to the Staats-Zeitung. He believed that Kurt Zimmer was a member of the German-American Bund in Los Angeles.

Stuetz denied that he had ever been a member of the German-American Bund or that he was connected with it in any way. He accused Schwinn and the German-American Bund unit in Los Angeles of attempting to ruin the Staats-Zeitung. He admitted that the Staats-Zeitung received the propaganda bulletins of Trans-Ocean Service by mail but denied any acquaintance with those in charge of the New York office of this service. He obviously used material from the Trans-Ocean Service and admitted using articles from German newspapers.

Stuetz described the German-American Alliance and stated that it was composed of representatives from all German societies; that is, each society sent delegates to the German-American Alliance meetings. He admitted being a delegate to the alliance from the Sons of Herman. He admitted that the German-American Bund in Los Angeles exercised great influence over the German-American Alliance. Herman Max Schwinn was one of the delegates from the Bund unit. Stuetz stated that because of the disruptive tactics of Bund delegates pressure was exerted by other delegates and they were forced to resign. Helen Entermann was the Secretary for the German-American Alliance and Stuetz stated that the alliance owned Hindenburg Park in Los Angeles.

Hans F. Bauer is the son of William P. Bauer, the Fuehrer of the San Diego Unit of the German-American Bund. At the time of testifying he was still engaged in sending food packages to foreign countries, notably Germany. He was born in Keil, Germany, and admitted having made a trip to the Third Reich in 1937, visiting Hamburg, Bremen, Berlin and other cities. He was formerly employed by the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, the Hamburg Lines, and then became the agent for Gatracor Corporation and Fortra, Inc., in the shipping of packages to foreign countries. While Bauer denied ever being affiliated with the German-American Bund (Volume IV, pp. 919-935), he admitted visiting the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and knowing Herman Max Schwinn since 1929. He also was acquainted with Hans Diebel, Max Socha, Dr. Gyssling, F. K. Ferenz and others. He subscribed to the California Staats-Zeitung. He admitted owning a 16-millimeter motion picture projection machine and that an anti-Semitic motion picture, Kosher Slaughter, was run on this machine (or one he borrowed) October 12, 1938, at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles.

Espionage agents of the Third Reich found cooperation and sympathy in certain quarters in California. Men, such as Prince Sur Lippe Weissenfeld, Werner Plaet and others, working through the consular offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco found little trouble in gaining entrance into social circles in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Palm Springs. The net results achieved by these agents of Hitler will probably not be thoroughly tallied until the end of the war.

David Baxter of San Bernardino struck up an acquaintance with Prince Sur Lippe Weissenfeld when Weissenfeld was a student at the University of Southern California in 1939. Baxter read some of Weissenfeld's writings and struck up a correspondence with him during the time that Baxter was an editor of a newspaper at Twenty-nine Palms. A dinner was given for Weissenfeld at Twenty-nine Palms and Baxter invited him to come down as "quite a number of local citizens were interested in hearing the German viewpoint on this war." (Volume X, pp. 2991-2996.) Weissenfeld, according to Baxter, was, at the time Baxter testified, in the Nazi Luftwaffe and was alleged to have shot down 67 British planes over Tobruk. Weissenfeld was connected with the German Consulate in San Francisco under Fritz Weidemann. Baxter maintained his acquaintance with Weissenfeld until Weissenfeld left for Germany in 1940. He had dinner with Weissenfeld at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and visited him at his home in Redondo Beach. Weissenfeld introduced Baxter to Herman Max Schwinn. Although contending that he had no sympathy for the German-American Bund and claiming that he considered it subversive, he, nevertheless, admitted that he visited the "German House" on several occasions after first dining there with Weissenfeld.

G. Allison Phelps, also known as G. Allison, has for many years been broadcasting over various Los Angeles radio stations. He has been definitely anti-British and anti-Jewish in his broadcasts and writings. He is reported as having advertised the sale of a book published by Flanders Hall, which was allegedly financed by George Sylvester Vierick, entitled We Must Save the Republic. George Sylvester Vierick was registered under the McCormick Act as a German propaganda agent. On September 24, 1941, Pearson and Allen described G. Allison Phelps as a "front man" for Russell Mack, a former scenario writer, who visited Germany in 1939 and returned to Hollywood to collaborate with Phelps in a seathing attack on the motion picture industry.

Phelps was reported as a frequent speaker at America First Committee meetings and allegedly advertised the meetings of the organization in his radio programs.

He was subpoenaed and testified March 26, 1942, in Los Angeles. (Volume X, pp. 3048-3071.) He was born in New Hampshire and has been a radio-commentator in southern California for 18 years. He is the author of six books, one of which was being sold currently. He testified that he had financed himself through the sale of books and booklets, and that former broadcasts had been financed by sponsors.

He admitted that he had instituted a campaign against alleged abuses in Hollywood in connection with the motion picture industry and stated that he had commenced this work in the Summer of 1940 and continued it until the Fall of 1941. He stated that he started this work when he learned of people being discharged in the motion picture industry to make room for refugees. He made an investigation of the aliens working in the motion picture industry, "taking jobs of American citizens," and put out booklets on this subject. One of these booklets was entitled An Appeal to Americans and contained an article entitled The Tower of Babel. He stated that he later wrote a pamphlet, An American History of Hollywood. He believed that the Communists were being assisted in southern California by certain people in the motion picture industry.

He related the circumstances surrounding a banquet which was given in the latter part of 1940 for Lion Feuchtwanger, author of Moscow, 1937. He claimed that he had quoted from Feuchtwanger's book over the air and had called his listeners' attention to the fact that the various motion picture "bigwigs" were feeding Feuchtwanger at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel and collecting more money in order to bring such writers to Hollywood. He stated that he believed this to be a very dangerous thing. He was anti-Communist and felt very strongly concerning this subject. He had made an investigation of Communism in Hollywood and once refused to join the Anti-Nazi League because he believed it to be a Communist front.

He denied ever having been a member of the America First Committee, though he had spoken at their meetings. He knew nothing of the League to Save America First or of the activities of T. W. Hughes. He admitted announcing meetings of the America First Committee on his radio broadcasts and stated that he had done so at the request of William Hunt, who was the chairman of the Glendale chapter.

He admitted knowing Mrs. Frances Sherrill, the president of the National League of Mothers of America and admitted having attended one of the meetings of this organization.

He made a trip to Washington around the first of November of 1941 and claimed that the purpose of the trip was to confer with certain Senators concerning "Union Now" with Britain. He stated that he financed his own trip from the sale of his books and pamphlets. While in Washington, he conferred with Senators Nye, Robert Rice Reynolds and Tobey. He made two trips to Washington in the year of 1941. He conferred with a number of Senators and Congressmen on both trips. He knew that Congressman Stephen A. Day had written a book entitled Save the Republic and admitted that he had mentioned it on his broadcasts. He denied having received financial remuneration for mentioning the book and believed it to be "good reading." He stated that he did not know that part of the book had been written by George Sylvester Viereck. He admitted having advertised Senator Reynolds' publication, The Vindicator, on several of his programs. He likewise admitted that Father Coughlin had reprinted part of a speech made by him but he stated that it was without his permission.

Phelps denied that he had ever affiliated with the Ku Klux Klan, although he knew Kleagle William H. Sahli. He had met Dr. Sahli at a meeting of the America First Committee and Sahli had confided to him that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Phelps stated that he had founded the American Enterprise Foundation in order to secure jobs for American citizens in preference to aliens.

He admitted knowing Russell Mack and stated that he met Mack and his wife, Bobette, in 1940. He disclaimed knowledge of Mack's trip to Germany other than being aware that he had made the trip. He had read allegations concerning Mack visiting Nazi officials. He stated that he discussed the matter with him and was told that Mack had conferred with motion picture people in Germany. He denied that Mack had ever collaborated in the writing of his broadcasts. He stated that he sometimes talked with him over the telephone regarding material to be used in his broadcasts and that Mack had supplied him with some statistics which he had used in his book The American History of Hollywood. Mack gave him checks, and he claimed that they were in payment for booklets and books Mack had purchased. He explained the photostatic copies of checks signed by Mack in the possession of the committee in amounts of $50 and $100 as being payment for 200 and 400 copies, respectively, of An Appeal to Americans, at 25 cents each. He said copies of The American History of Hollywood had been mailed to the members of the California Legislature and that Mack had bought them and financed the mailing of them.

He stated that the Jewish names in his writings concerning Hollywood were included merely because the individuals were motion picture industrialists, actors, etc., and denied that it was because they were Jewish. He pointed out that he included Irish names as well.

John L. Riemer operated the National Book Mart and distributed literature of a definite subversive character. He was the organizer of the American Labor Party (not to be confused with the New York organization of the same name). Riemer's American Labor Party advocated the abolition of labor unions. The anthem of the American Labor Party is A Voice Resounds Like Thunder-Peal which was allegedly written by John L. Riemer himself. The substitution of American names for German names is the only difference between A Voice Resounds Like Thunder-Peal and Die Wacht am Rhein. Riemer testified before the McCormack Committee and indicated that a German Consulate had paid $215 for printing part of the literature he had sent out from Los Angeles during 1941.

Riemer distributed T. W. Hughes' anti-British pamphlet, The Truth About England, through the National Book Mart as well as F. K. Ferenz' propaganda book on Hitler. He likewise advertised America

First Committee meetings in connection with the distribution of his own literature.

He objected to being photographed when testifying October 16, 1941. (Volume IV, pp. 1070-1079.) He was born in Danzig, Germany, in 1887 and came to the United States in 1909. He was naturalized in 1915 and has resided in Southern California since 1911, with the exception of a few months.

He admitted selling books at the National Book Mart in both the English and German languages.

He had known Herman Max Schwinn for some six or seven years, Hans Diebel and others. He stated that the Aryan Book Shop, operated by Hans Diebel, did not sell the same type of literature as he sold at the National Book Mart.

He denied being a member of the German-American Alliance, the German-American Bund or of the Friends of New Germany and claimed that he was not in sympathy with the principles of the Bund. He admitted being a member of the America First Committee and having signed a membership card. In addition, he was a member of the Turner Society and had written on the health benefits of Turnerism.

He admitted having attempted to organize the American Labor Party in 1933 and stated that after four months' effort he had "one member and three stool pigeons."

Mrs. Edith Marion Shol (Mrs. David Shol) testified that she was a printer and that she had resided in Southern California for 20 years, engaged in the printing business. (Volume X, pp. 2890-2899.) She admitted having done considerable printing for various organizations under investigation by the committee. She admitted printing stickers "War is a Racket," for the National Legion of Mothers of America and said they were ordered by a Mr. Nimms. She admitted having known G. Allison Phelps for six or seven years and having printed pamphlets for him, such as An Appeal to Free Americans. She has printed for the Ku Klux Klan for two or three years. She stated that the Klan had last ordered 10,000 membership cards, took 1,000 of them and that she hadn't seen any of the Klansmen for quite a while. The membership cards were ordered by a man by the name of Harvey (or Herve) of Alhambra. She also was acquainted with a Klansman by the name of Anderson. American Freedom was a publication put out several years ago by Mrs. Shol herself. She stated that it had been her intent to start a patriotic organization to sponsor the magazine. Philander K. Bush was to have handled the funds. William P. Williams was a member of the organization she hoped to build around American Freedom. She stated that the organization only lasted a few months and that she had published the magazine herself.

She had met Ellis O. Jones when he came to her printing plant and asked for an estimate on a printing job. He had declared that the estimate was "too high" and therefore did not order. She was acquainted with the Van Meter brothers. She denied ever having done any printing for the America First Committee.

ANTI-SEMITISM

Race superiority and anti-Semitism constitute important pillars in Nazi philosophy. Hatred against the Jewish people is the spearhead of Nazi penetration—a softening solvent for panzer divisions and collaboration with the New Order. This psychological assault is usually employed by the Nazis with the Communist “threat.” One of the most malicious techniques of Dr. Goebbels’ agents, used with great success in Europe and still being used in the United States, is to tie the Jews and the Communists together, making it appear that “Jew” and “Communist” are synonymous. Thus, crafty Nazi psychologists, utilizing the natural antipathy held by all nationals against the sneaking subversivists of the Kremlin hope to direct this same antagonism against the Jewish people—for the greater part, the stamnelist element in support of real democracy. It is certainly unnecessary to point out that citizens of the Jewish race are no more susceptible to Communism than are the people of other races. The Communist Party itself does not hesitate to attack the Jews of the United States when they find citizens of this race boldly antagonistic to Communist intrigue and conspiracy against the Government. Whoever attacks Communism in support of the United States Constitution, its traditions and Americanism, whether he be Jew or Gentile, is in for scurrilous and filthy lambasting from the comrades and the Communist press. George Seldes’ In Fact for January 18, 1943, refers to Louis B. Mayer, motion picture producer, as a “Jewish Fascist,” because, Mr. Mayer in his Americanism, had the courage to produce several plays exposing the nefarious activities of Stalin’s stooges. To call Mr. Mayer a “Jewish Fascist” is, of course, about as logical as calling Hitler a “Nazi Democrat.”

Certainly there is no place in American Democracy for dispensers of racial prejudice and hatred. A personal quarrel or difference with an Englishman, a Jew or an individual of any particular nationality is no excuse for an all-out attack on the race or nationality represented by the individual. Anti-Semitism and organized race-prejudice is as un-American and as subversive as are Nazism and Communism.

The committee has been primarily interested during its investigations of Nazi activities in California in the success of our war effort and in combating the efforts of fifth columnists on the home front who attempt to succor and strengthen the totalitarian hordes which would destroy our Democracy. The members of the committee are unanimously of the opinion that those who seek to divide our people on the basis of racial prejudice are ably assisting Herr Hitler and his cohorts. They are either unwittingly or deliberately contributing to Hitler’s psychological war-blitz.

Under the cloak of the Bill of Rights, the Nazi and the Communist seek to subvert the freedoms they intend to destroy while clinging to their protections. The people of the United States will, if they do not delay too long, come to the realization that liberty, if it is not to degenerate to mere license, must be exercised in good faith. When speech and the press are used for the purpose of destroying the freedom of both then safeguards must be taken by those who use their liberties properly and in good faith to the end that these same liberties be preserved.

The committee and its representatives have given considerable time to the study of propaganda methods used by subversivists, particularly in relation to psychological principles. In this connection it has sought for an explanation of Hitler's anti-Semitic policy. It has been suggested that this plank in the program of the Nazi Party is based on Hitler's personal hatred of the Jews. Some have believed that it was merely an inhuman plan for uniting the German people by fostering a common hatred and persecution of the Jewish people—the creation of a scapegoat for German ills. Still others have suggested that the Nazis used it as an outrageous pretext for the confiscation of Jewish fortunes and properties. Probably all of these theories contributed to the original policies in Germany, but Nazi psychologists have turned it to use in foreign propaganda campaigns. Anti-Semitism, when analytical histories of these times are written, will prove to have been an important factor in Hitler's initial successes. It was highly effective during the Chamberlain phase of appeasement and contributed to the collapse of Czechoslovakia and France. The will to fight against Hitler was broken because the people of these countries had been indoctrinated with the thesis that only the Jews wanted to fight the Nazis, and, therefore, to fight Hitler was merely to fight for the Jews.

The superiority of the Nordic or "pure Aryan" fiction is just as important in Hitler's psychological warfare as is his anti-Semitic policy. There probably is really no true connection between the two, except as one forms the background for the other. The Nazis, by this mental tactic attempted—and succeeded more than we yet realize—in supplanting obligations owed to the German Weimar Republic in the beginning, and the respective governments they intended to conquer after coming to power, by obligations owed to the race, the Nordic—the "pure Aryan." By directing the mind toward a minor detail it is quite possible to deceive concerning major facts. By the proper process of negative induction and the generous conditioning of mental reflexes it is quite possible to cause people to act contrary to the obvious and thus induce them to destroy with their own hands the nation to which they owe their loyalty. Individuals of German descent or those inflated with the idea of Nordic ancestry, little in mind and flattered with a sudden-found "racial superiority" soon come to believe and act on the premise of "Aryan bloodship" with the Third Reich, directing their allegiance, not to the country of citizenship, but to the New Order of Fuehrer Hitler.

Anti-Semitism is growing in California. Not so very long ago the chairman of your committee, having just finished a radio broadcast on a phase of the Nation's war effort, was called on the studio's telephone. "You are fighting for the Jews!" a woman's voice exclaimed in sincere distress and concern. "Our best educated people know and say that our American Gentile boys are being sent to slaughter in foreign countries because the powerful Jew money lords demand it! We have no quarrel with Hitler; he is only fighting the Jews!"

The committee submits that this sort of thing is difficult to combat. Only strict emphasis on democratic principles of full equality of opportunity for all races under the Constitution will steel the American people to successful resistance of these psychological onslaughts. During these times, and completely aside from the obvious falsity of such lying propaganda, it resolves itself to a matter of National defense.

C. Leon de Aryan was the editor of The Broom, a San Diego publication. (Volume III, pp. 2273-2304.) He had been in the publishing business in the City of San Diego for 12 years and his publication appeared in San Diego every Monday. The paper was notoriously anti-Semitic, isolationist and anti-Roosevelt.

de Aryan stated that he was solely responsible for the editorial policy of the paper. He continuously carried an active campaign against Communism and Communists, which campaign, according to his own statement, has been the policy of the paper from "practically the first issue." de Aryan believes that the Marxist philosophy destroys individual initiative. He was very much aware of the Communist Party and its activities in San Diego and declared that the Communists had been "after" him for six or seven years. This came about, he explained, because he refused to sign a petition legalizing the Communist Party in California. He stated that the Communists continually abuse him and even call him on the telephone with insults and threats. He revealed a very unique ability by declaring that he could tell a Communist by the voice over the telephone. He explained that all Communists have a "guttural sound" in their voices (p. 2276). de Aryan was born in Rumania in 1886 under the name of Constantine Legenopol. He moved to Austria after the death of his father and stayed there until he was 19. At this time, his mother had him placed in an insane asylum where he remained for about 14 months. He was removed from this place to another insane asylum located in Vienna. The doctors in Vienna discovered that the cause of his trouble was "family persecution" and released him with a letter stating that fact. He went from Vienna to Egypt and worked in Mesopotamia on an engineering job under Sir William Wilcox. Sir William Wilcox was working for the Turkish Government but was also in the employ of the British, sending duplicate maps to Sinla, India. de Aryan stated that he did not approve of this type of double-dealing, and therefore, resigned his position. He came to the United States in 1912 and joined the United States Army under the name of Kosti, which, he said, was an abbreviation of Constantine. He later had his name changed to Aryan and subsequently legalized it by a court proceeding in the City of Los Angeles, adding the "de" because of readings in numerology.

He was dishonorably discharged from the United States Army in 1914. He stated that he opposed the method of inducting men into the army and contended that the oath was not read to him before he enlisted.

He went to Texas and from there to Mexico where he remained during the World War. After the Armistice he shipped out of Mexico and made a trip to Belgium and returned to New York, entering the United States at Ellis Island. He has been a resident of San Diego about 14 or 15 years.

He claimed that he broke up the Silver Shirts in San Diego. He declared that members of this organization had beaten him once because he opposed them. This opposition, he explained, was on the same ground on which he opposed the Communists, "or any organization which tries to constrain people and force them into things." He related the history of the mutilation and murder of a boy named Aposhin whom the Silver Shirts claimed was slain in a Jewish ritual murder.

He admitted that he had copied material from the Roll Call, a publication of William Dudley Pelley, because he agreed with the sentiment expressed in the material. It was anti-New Deal and de Aryan admitted being anti-New Deal. He admitted that he was aware that the Roll Call was anti-Semitic. He admitted having written and printed an article in The Broom against the "Tenney Committee," referring to the contemplated investigation in San Diego as a "political smear campaign."

He declared that he had been persecuted in San Diego by the Jews. He said that the animosity of the Jews against him was such that they had forced advertisers to withdraw their ads from The Broom. He explained that this animosity began on an occasion when he opposed picketing by the American Federation of Labor of Whitney's Department Store in San Diego, protesting the handling of German-made goods. de Aryan stated that he "put on a skirt and picketed the pickets" and that the Jewish citizenry of San Diego "got awfully mad about that."

Lawrence R. (Larry) Griffith was so anti-Semitic that he would have nothing to do with Robert Noble and the Friends of Progress. (Volume IX, pp. 2827-2836.) He attended meetings of the Friends of Progress and knew Ellis O. Jones, Robert Noble, the Van Meter brothers, and Leone Menier "by sight." He stated that he did not feel that Noble was playing a "straight game" because Noble's doctor and lawyer were both Jews. "Well," Griffith added, "he can not represent me as an American." He had passed out handbills at the Friends of Progress meetings. He declared that he did not believe that real Americans should speak, write or teach Yiddish or Talmudic traditions and that, generally, he was suspicious of Noble because he was too friendly with the Jews.

Griffith admitted having composed the material contained in the pamphlet, Why Do You Hate Hitler? and having distributed copies at the meetings of the Friends of Progress. He had also distributed about 200 copies of Publicity, a paper put out by Gardner of Wichita, Kansas. Griffith stated that this made Ellis O. Jones "sore, because he is out for the shekels." He gave away most of his pamphlets, Why Do You Hate Hitler? but was able to sell some of them.

"I am not for Hitler for America; I am for Hitler for Germany," Griffith declared. He supported the views of Father (Charles) Coughlin and quoted from Social Justice. He wanted to use his opportunity in testifying to deliver a speech on the evils of Jewish influence in the United States. When this was objected to, he declared, "If that's un-American, God pity us!" He was recalled March 24, 1942. (Volume X, pp. 2903-2905.) At this time his pamphlet, Why Do You Hate Hitler?, was introduced into the record. Griffith, at this hearing, took full credit for the United Minute Men and Women of America and stated that it was organized by him in order to institute research on the enemies within this country "who are trying to undermine our government." He stated that he organized the United Minute Men and Women of America in 1941 after Lindbergh's Des Moines speech. The organization started out with some 200 members, according to Griffith, but dwindled away. He claimed that he had not kept written records of the money that had been collected. The organization, according to Griffith, is now inactive, except for himself.

The following is indicative of the context of Griffith's Why Do You Hate Hitler?:

"The public has been misinformed and misled to hate the German people, just as much as they have been led to hate the Japanese people. * * * Franklin Roosevelt's hate Hitler program and love Churchill and Stalin, is nothing more than a political Jewish method of getting the public mind off the Jew, and as a smoke screen, placing the blame on Hitlerism."

Ellis O. Jones, in an article he had written for Publicity for August 7, 1941, referred to "Jew-controlled movies," and "Jew-controlled Department Stores." (Volume III, pp. 744-760.) He declared that he was opposed to the Jews because they had opposed the principles of the America First Committee. (Volume IV, pp. 1187-1190.) He admitted contributing articles to Free American but could not recall if he had made contributions to The Broom. He met C. Leon de Aryan in 1933 and stated that he was a rather casual acquaintance and that he had no knowledge of de Aryan's background. He was aware, however, that Free American was combined with Weekruf. He admitted having seen circulars and stickers attacking the Jews. (Volume IX, pp. 2489-2528.)

Ben S. Beery introduced into the committee's record a circular which was picked up in Robinson's Department store in Los Angeles on February 11, 1942. The title of the circular read: "Buy From a Christian or Work for a Jew." Many such circulars have been collected by the committee and its investigators and are on file in committee records.

Harold A. Sparling admitted having written a pamphlet entitled Why I am Running for Congress and stated that he had distributed 6,000 copies of it. It was viciously anti-Semitic and listed the names of alleged Jews serving in the Roosevelt Administration. He described the emblem printed in the pamphlet and, though he admitted that it resembled a swastika, he stated that it was a modified version of the tuberculosis seal. He considered the Democratic Party as a "Bolshevik Party" and President Roosevelt as a "Bolshevik." He claimed that he could not recall all the sources of the material used in his pamphlet and admitted that he had used the term "Communist" rather loosely. He confided to the committee that he hated the Jews and the British. (Volume III, pp. 714-744.)

George T. Baker of San Francisco was an official of the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition. (Volume VII, pp. 1980-2007.) He declared that the organization was established in 1936 by Osear Braumbaek who was formerly a secretary to United States Senator Schall. The offices of the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition was located at 57 Post Street in the City of San Francisco and had been in that location since July of 1941. Baker stated that there were "probably" several hundred members of the organization in San Francisco. Dr. Richard Carlyle was the Southern California organizer for the group. The Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition published a manual of organization and a periodical entitled America Awake. The organization was sustained entirely by donations and the sale of books and the members paid no dues. It was a nonprofit corporation and its alleged purpose was to prevent the United States from becoming entangled in foreign wars.

Baker testified that the present plan of the organization was to bring together groups with similar purposes—those who were opposed to foreign wars and to certain "credit practices" of the United States Government. Pursuant to this purpose of bringing similar groups together, Baker stated the National Chairman of the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition, Oscar Braumbach, was scheduled to speak in Cleveland, Ohio to the United Mothers of America. This group, according to Baker, was similar in type to the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition, as was the National Copperheads in Los Angeles. (He claimed he did not know Ellis O. Jones.)

He admitted reading the literature of the Silver Shirts and expressed himself as believing this material to be very educational. As a matter of fact, he insisted on reading some of this literature into the committee's records. He read an article entitled "Jew Dealers in Office and Their Red Front Personnel," from Roll Call.

He stated that he had met Wilhelm Kunze in San Francisco when the Fuehrer of the German-American Bund spoke at a meeting at 320 Divisadero Street in 1940. He claimed that he did not know that Kunze was connected with the German-American Bund. He admitted that he read Free American and likewise claimed that he did not know it was the official publication of the German-American Bund.

He related what he knew of the American Forum. He said that Godfrey Hind was chairman of this organization, but could not state whether or not Hind was a member of the German-American Bund. He admitted having heard Hind talk but could not recall if he spoke of Hitler but did remember that he spoke on the "Jewish question."

He then produced the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion and insisted on reading Protocol Twenty to the committee regarding the methods the Jews are alleged to have planned for the bankrupting of nations. Baker insisted that he believed these Protocols.

He stated that the American Forum was sometimes referred to as the Christian Forum and that its meetings were attended by 50 or 60 people.

He expressed the opinion that his organization, the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition, would not permit infiltration by members of the German-American Bund. He stated that the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition "preached only Americanism."

He had read all of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's speeches and was in full agreement with the opinions expressed by Lindbergh on the Jews. In this connection he read from Walter Steele's testimony before the Dies Committee concerning the background of Sidney Hillman, David Dubinsky and others and remarked that "these people are Jewish."

He presented the committee with a magazine, The White Knight, published by George Deatheridge of the Knights of the White Camellia. The article in question was another anti-Jewish piece entitled "The Jew Deal Issue."

The testimony of George T. Baker left no doubt in the minds of the members of the committee of the anti-Semitic nature of the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition and its close association with Fascist and Nazi organizations.

Samuel L. Brogden was the State Chairman of the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition. (Volume VII, pp. 2025-2036.) He stated that he had not had anything to do with the organization of the group but that he had set up an executive committee of 25 members. He did not have the names of the members of the executive committee at hand but stated that they had been selected from patriotic and Christian organizations.

Brogden claimed that he knew of no attempts on the part of the members of the German-American Bund to inject themselves into the Citizens No Foreign Wars Coalition, but admitted that he had made no personal effort to determine whether attempts or not had actually been made.

He was familiar with C. Leon de Aryan's newspaper, The Broom, but claimed that he was not personally acquainted with de Aryan. He was also acquainted with the Beacon Light, published by William Kulgren. He had seen copies of the Free American but was not familiar with it. He stated that someone had sent him a copy which contained an article entitled "The Gravediggers of Russia" which dealt with the Jews and contained a subtitle, "Try to Find a Russian Among Them." Brogden was also familiar with the writings of Edward Edmundson, Gerald Winrod, and William Dudley Pelley. He admitted that he was responsible for the paper America Awake.

Earl C. Craig testified that he had attended many America First Committee meetings in 1941. (Volume IV, pp. 1253-1258.) He stated that he attended a meeting in Glendale presided over by a man by the name of Hunt, when G. Allison Phelps spoke. He stated that the crowd cried, "Jew! Jew!" when Hunt mentioned the name of John Spivak. He stated that Hunt's address continued to draw similar responses from the audience.

Craig stated that he had distributed literature for the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies at various meetings and that he finally found himself in trouble with the police for distributing such literature at the meetings of the America First Committee. Craig blamed the America Firsters for this difficulty.

William Hunt was reported as a frequent visitor at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles and is alleged to have been present there when Fritz Kuhn visited the German-American Bund in Southern California. He also had been associated with the activities of Faith McCullough, former secretary to Mrs. Leslie Fry.

NAZI FRONT ORGANIZATIONS

The committee learned that the German-American Bund utilized the "transmission belt" technique of the Communist Party. Wherever an organization existed whose objectives fitted the current policy of Hitler and his American agents, members of the Bund penetrated such organizations. The America First Committee and the National Legion of Mothers of America were non-intervention and isolationist groups opposed to war and against conscription, and such organizations were made to order for American Bundsters. The committee is convinced of the sincerity, loyalty and honesty of the majority of the original organizers of the America First Committee in California. There is no doubt, however, in the minds of the members of the committee that the German-American Bund caused its members to become active in these and similar groups in order to propagandize Americans against entry or participation in the European conflict.

From January 15 to March 1, 1941, German-American Bund locals were issued mimeographed instructions in closed meetings. Before the instructions were issued, members present were asked to take an oath promising to destroy the mimeographed memoranda before leaving the Bund halls. The instructions stated: "These instructions must be memorized and destroyed before leaving this hall TONIGHT. There is nothing illegal in the operations of your organization but the following instructions might be misunderstood if through the carelessness of any of our members they were lost."

The so-called "instructions" outlined the policy or "line" of conduct for the German-American Bundsters and stated that "For the good of the United States and the Reich" the Lend-Lease Bill must be defeated in toto. The members were instructed to be "mild" in all conversations; "In every circumstance avoid the label of pro-German which label once acquired destroys the value of your work completely. Be mildly sympathetic toward Britain but never forget to casually recall her Imperialism, her poverty-stricken people and her long years of misrule. Particularly her misrule of these American colonies."

Minute instructions were given in reference to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The Bundsters were urged to "recall that Lindbergh warned the world of Germany's increasing air power after a thorough inspection of it by the courtesy of the German Fuehrer." They were further urged to "infer always that he made this trip as a Colonel of the United States Army and as the direct agent of his Commander-in-Chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt." The instructions continue as follows:

"* * * This will convey the impression that the present administration is responsible for failing to take advantage of the information procured for it by its own agent and the generous cooperation of the Fuehrer.

"Generally speaking, this statement will not be denied but if it is you may always plead ignorance. (Lindbergh is actually an honorary colonel of the Missouri National Guard and thus on the reserve of the United States Army.) But you need have little fear of contradiction and will find this statement very successful in friendly conversation.

"Avoid as always all blatant pro-Germans. They are doing us more harm than good and should be shunned for the moment. Seventy per cent of the American people are of direct German descent and a great majority of the balance of the population of this heterogeneous country is non-Aryan.

"Tolerantly discredit Willkie. A boyish figure who wants to play at being a soldier so badly that he is a willing tool in the hands of Roosevelt. A well meaning man with no understanding of International affairs and a tool of the warmongers.

"* * * Wheeler and Johnson are two Americans with the best interests of the American people at heart * * * they are unwilling to see the cream of America die in the shambles of Europe * * * the United States is perfectly safe and should rearm slowly and intelligently on the five-year plan which will make it impregnable at the end of five years. Quote General Wood of the America First Committee. These are two great names, the first speaking for itself and the second widely confused with General Leonard Wood, a confusion to be encouraged. Quote Hamilton Fish and La Follette. Never forget the unpaid war debt from the past World War. When conversing with strong anti-Roosevelt people, compare his ideas with the Fuehrer's; encourage the feeling that he wishes to be a dictator, insinuate the best medical opinions to be that he is power-mad due to a mental condition directly attributable to infantile paralysis. Remember always that this administration must be weakened at any cost * * *. Roosevelt is the fountainhead of the aid to England theory and * * * he and his administration must be attacked constantly. But always from the American angle, never from the German.

"For the next 60 days then, exalt Lindbergh. His name still means more than any of America's heroes of the past. Quote his opinions, never forget that he told the world all of Germany's secrets. Idolize him as the Protector of American youth from the warmongers. (If you are told that he wears the decoration of our Fuehrer remind the speaker that he wears decorations from almost every nation.) But support Lindbergh for Lindbergh can be depended upon.

"Include as many as possible in your circle of acquaintances, always be mild in your opinions but get around. It is your duty; never sleep, keep moving and working and before another year goes by the world will enjoy a New Order, a disciplined order of German justice under the guiding hand of our magnificent Fuehrer * * *.

"The Battle of Britain will be over by June, the Battle of America then will never need to be fought. Remember always that war is an awful thing to be avoided at all costs except as a court of last resort. Here in the United States the great industrialists and powerful labor leaders will make the New Order possible by their own differences once England is gone and the triumphant Axis confronts the world in all the splendor of their armed might. So then, on to Der Tag, peace in the New Order and a happier America.

"You are under oath to destroy this paper before leaving this hall tonight. Do not forget."

The above-quoted instructions of the German-American Bund should be held in mind when studying the activities of Nazi-front organizations.

In San Francisco the National Legion of Mothers of America was addressed at one of its luncheons in the Empire Hotel in June, 1941, by no less a person than Laura Ingalls, who was subsequently convicted and sentenced to a term in a Federal prison as a paid Nazi agent.

The Friends of Progress appeared to be a transmission belt of Nazi origin. Its directors, Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones, both citizens of the United States, gave the organization an innocent appearance in the beginning. Robert Noble had drummed up a considerable following through old-age pension plans and was building the Friends of Progress rapidly when the committee first subpoenaed him to appear in the State Building in Los Angeles, October 17, 1941. The No Foreign Wars Coalition and similar organizations were utilized for "No European War Involvement" propaganda.

NAZI-COMMUNIST COLLABORATION

The committee heretofore has outlined the collaboration of the Communist Party with the Nazis during the time Hitler and Stalin were invading Poland under the terms of the Hitler-Stalin Pact. We have heretofore set forth the testimony of Hugh Ben Inzer, a former head of a C. I. O. union in southern California in which he described the conference called by Lew Michener at the C. I. O. Regional Headquarters in Los Angeles. It will be recalled that Mr. Inzer there met Hans Diebel of the German-American Bund and Pettis Perry, the Secretary of the Communist Party in Los Angeles County. The committee found considerable evidence of this close collaboration between the agents of Hitler in California and the Communist Party of the United States during the time Hitler and Stalin were partitioning Poland. After June 22, 1941, however, this collaboration ceased.

Harold A. Sparling organized True Americans at the Embassy Auditorium, September 10, 1940. (Volume III, pp. 714-744.) This organization nominated Charles A. Lindbergh for President of the United States and Burton K. Wheeler for the Vice Presidency. The True Americans sponsored a meeting at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles for February 25, 1941.

Mrs. Frances Sherrill claimed to have founded the National Legion of Mothers of America in October of 1939. (Volume X, pp. 2899-2902.)

At the time of testifying, March 24, 1942, Mrs. Sherrill stated that the organization no longer held meetings but that it was still in existence. She stated that its purposes were to keep the United States out of war and to provide for strong National defense.

She admitted having made a trip to Washington, D. C., in May of 1941 and again in November or December of 1941. She stated that the trip was financed by "nickels and dimes" donated by the members of the organization. She stated that she met Congressman Stephen A. Day while in Washington. She was acquainted with G. Allison Phelps.

Mrs. Eleanor Morris, the daughter of Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco, was subpoenaed for questioning concerning the National Legion of Mothers of America in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3504-3524.) She stated that the organization was originated by a Mrs. Mary Ireland. She had joined by signing an application which had appeared in a newspaper. The group had been launched with the assistance of Frances Sherrill and Mary Sheldon, in October of 1939. She was acquainted with Mrs. Frank Panter and had known her for a number of years. She admitted that she was active in the Northern California Branch of the National Legion of Mothers of America. The organization had about 8,000 members in the City of San Francisco. She was acquainted with Kathleen Norris and stated that Kathleen Norris was active in the leadership of the group. Mrs. Morris denied that she had ever contacted Mrs. Sheldon but admitted that she had been in touch with Mrs. Frances Sherrill.

The funds of the organization were raised by collections taken at meetings. Mrs. Morris was the chairman of the northern branch until about a month before the declaration of war. She denied being familiar with the stickers and circulars distributed in the Los Angeles area by the organization, including those demanding "Impeach Roosevelt" and "Roosevelt should be impeached." She admitted having been affiliated with the America First Committee. She averred that Catherine Curtis had arranged for Laura Ingalls to speak before the National Legion of Mothers of America in the Empire Hotel in San Francisco on June 5, 1941. She also was aware that Laura Ingalls had been subsequently indicted and convicted as a paid Nazi agent. She admitted having been present in the Empire Hotel at the time Laura Ingalls spoke. Later Laura Ingalls wrote to Mrs. Morris asking if money could be raised in San Francisco for the purpose of securing peace pamphlets to be dropped by airplane in Washington, D. C. She contended that she did not assist in raising this money.

Ben S. Beery stated that the World Events Forum, under the supervision of A. M. Windhorst, was a subversive organization. F. K. Ferenz participated in the meetings of the World Events Forum.

A man by the name of Dr. E. R. Verostek spoke at a meeting of this organization on January 28, 1942. Notices for the meetings of the World Events Forum were freely distributed at meetings of the Friends of Progress and vice versa. It was learned that Dr. E. R. Verostek was once the chairman of the America First Youth Group.

Beery testified that F. K. Ferenz advertised his Continental Book Shop at the meetings of the Friends of Progress and the World Events Forum.

F. K. Ferenz participated from time to time in these organizations.

Larry Griffith distributed literature for the United Minute Men and Women of America. The Ku Klux Klan was said to be active in this organization.

James Adams Van Meter testified that he assisted in the operation of his brothers' printing enterprises. (Volume IV, pp. 1014-1023, 1061.) He stated that his brothers Baron Frederick, Daniel Elias and himself, were "amateur printers." They printed literature for Emil Lodahl's organization, the National Patriots. He claimed that he had not had an occasion to converse with Emil Lodahl, prior to the hearing, for about three years.

The League to Save America First was founded by T. W. Hughes and held its meetings in the Embassy Auditorium in the City of Los Angeles. T. W. Hughes wrote a book entitled The Truth About England which was distributed by the National Book Mart and the Aryan Book Store. F. K. Ferenz participated from time to time in the meetings of the League to Save America First.

Hughes conducted the meetings of the League to Save America First and during his activities attracted many America First Committee speakers to his platform, including Louise Ward Watkins, Bishop Tarkington Dowden, Albert W. Carlson, Frank J. Barry, Sr., Frank J. Barry, Jr., James D'Orsay Murray and Michael Dillon. The League to Save America First continuously drew audiences which regularly booed and hissed the names of the President of the United States and outstanding Americans.

Hughes is reported as having participated in the policy meetings of the America First Committee.

Benjamin Franklin Ballard, who organized the American Guards, was a regular attendant at the meetings of the League to Save America First and was the chairman of the down town chapter of the America First Committee. His addresses were outspokenly anti-Semitic. He compared the President of the United States to Benedict Arnold and urged impeachment proceedings.

NATIONAL COPPERHEADS OF AMERICA

Ellis O. Jones was the creator and organizer of the National Copperheads of America. (Volume III, pp. 744-750.) This organization came into being shortly after President Roosevelt called Charles A. Lindbergh, a "copperhead". "If Lindbergh's a copperhead," stated Mr. Jones, "so am I."

On May 2, 1941 Jones rented a post-office box for the National Copperheads, which he said was a nonprofit, nondues-paying organization. He stated that he donated his time and that the organization "stands 100 per cent for Lindbergh." He declared that he approved of Lindbergh's Des Moines speech. He personally keeps the records of the organization.

On the evening of July 30, 1941, the National Copperheads sponsored a meeting at the Hollywood High School at which Captain James D'Orsay Murray, Laura Ingalls and Ellis O. Jones spoke. It was estimated that some 7,800 people were in attendance. Mr. Jones presented the committee with a copy of a song, America First, National Copperheads buttons and literature.

He identified a printed copy of Lindbergh's Des Moines speech and stated that he had distributed such copies in his capacity as the leader of the National Copperheads (Volume IX, pp. 2489-2528).

C. Leon de Aryan met Ellis O. Jones shortly after President Roosevelt referred to Charles A. Lindbergh as a "copperhead". (Volume VIII, pp. 2273-2304.) He stated he did not know Jones was a member of the American Civil Liberties Union and the Schneiderman-Darcy Defense Committee, or that he corresponded for Weekruf, German-American Bund newspaper in New York, and Free American. De Aryan admitted that Jones had sent him literature and articles which were published in The Broom.

Daniel Elias Van Meter admitted having worn the button of the National Copperheads. (Volume IX, pp. 2815-2824.) He stated he was not a member for the reason that there were no members.

Ben S. Beery testified that Jones had distributed Copperhead pins at meetings of the German-American Bund in Hindenburg Park.

The National Copperheads in operation, regardless of other considerations, contributed considerably to creating a lack of confidence in the United States and its foreign policy. It was decidedly subversive.

The American Guard was a Los Angeles organization and its "platform" indicated great similarity to Nazi philosophy, promulgating the doctrine of the abolition of labor unions and the substitution of a "government union," such as exists in Nazi Germany and Russia. The propaganda of the organization was the promotion of totalitarian doctrines. Benjamin Franklin Ballard is alleged to have been the organizer and leader of this organization.

The Anti-Communist Federation was definitely in the subversive "front" category. Its secretary was Paquita Louise De Shishmareff, who was also known as Mrs. Leslie (or Louise) Fry. (Mrs. Fry or De Shishmareff mysteriously fled the country and is believed to be in Germany.) The Anti-Communist Federation called a convention in Los Angeles in 1940 which was held at the headquarters of the German-American Bund, the Deutsches Haus located at 634 W. Fifteenth Street in the City of Los Angeles. Obviously the organization was a Nazi front, using the anti-Communist technique to solicit American support.

The Militant Christian Patriots was another Nazi front organization created and sponsored by the same group which launched the Anti-Communist Federation. The American League of Christian Women was closely associated with the Militant Christian Patriots and created by close associates of Paquita Louise De Shishmareff. Mrs. Faith McCullough, also known as Mrs. Frances Maxey, is reportedly the organizer of this group.

Henry D. Allen was connected with the American White Guards, which was definitely pro-Fascist in character. Allen testified before a congressional committee that he had at one time been a Silver Shirt leader and had been authorized by Mrs. Leslie Fry (Paquita Louise De Shishmareff) to make a tour of the country at her expense. He had gained the confidence of the Pasadena Chapter of the America First Committee and was scheduled to speak at one of its meetings on June 6, 1941, but the people of Pasadena protested and his address was canceled.

Mrs. Faith McCullough, who was also known as Frances Maxey, was the organizer of the American League of Christian Women. She was active in the Glendale and Pasadena chapters of the America First Committee and appeared as an America First Committee speaker. She personally appeared before the Board of Education in the City of Pasadena on behalf of the America First Committee in fighting the cancellation of the Board of Education's permit for the use of the school buildings for meetings of the group.

FRIENDS OF PROGRESS

Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones were the codirectors of the Friends of Progress. Noble probably launched the organization and was joined by Jones as codirector after it was well under way. Noble was a deserter from the Navy during the first World War and was very proud of his dishonorable discharge, which he had had framed and hung in his bedroom. He was born under the name of "Coker" and stated that he had had his name changed legally in 1928 to Noble. (Volume IV, pp. 1081-1092.) He likewise admitted having been arrested and convicted on a charge of taking money from telephone boxes in 1918. He stated he was given two years' probation on this charge. (Volume IX, pp. 2584-2624.)

He detailed the circumstances behind his dishonorable discharge from the Navy when testifying before the committee the second time, February 23, 1942. (Volume IX, pp. 2584-2624.) He stated that he enlisted in the Navy on November 29, 1915, and because he did not like it, he deserted and was caught. After being sentenced for his desertion he jumped overboard from the prison ship and swam to Hampton Roads. He went to the home of his mother in Evansville, Indiana, and his mother promptly had him returned to the Navy. He again returned home and worked for a telephone company for some 87 days when he was re-arrested. This time he was sentenced to a year and a half at Portsmouth Prison where he remained until April, 1917, and the declaration of war with Germany. He was ordered to duty and refused to go. The doctor of the ship rejected him for physical disability and he was given a dishonorable discharge.

Noble had previously been the instigator of a pension plan in the City of Los Angeles and through his particular type of oratory had accumulated a considerable following among the elderly folk of Los Angeles County. Undoubtedly the supporters of the organization of the Friends of Progress in the beginning were composed of these elderly people, who were perfectly innocent of the movement into which Noble was leading them. It was not long, however, until many members of the German-American Bund and its sympathizers were attending his meetings and assisting in the spread of pro-Axis propaganda.

When Noble first appeared before the committee, October 17, 1941, he wore a button of the National Copperheads. (Volume IV, pp. 1081-1092.) He stated at that time, that the Friends of Progress was only eight weeks old and that it was the offspring of the Humanist Society, a religious organization of ministers.

He was quite frank in admitting his admiration for Hitler and Nazi Germany. He remembered telling the meetings of the Friends of Progress that he was "for Germany and for Hitler," but did not recall giving the Nazi salute and saying "Heil Hitler." He stated that he was perfectly willing to give the salute if the committee desired. He had read Mein Kampf (p. 1087) and stated that he was absolutely thrilled by the reading of it. He thought it "idealistic" and that it contained "marvelous thoughts" and said that he fully concurred with its sentiments; that he was in perfect accord with them and perfectly happy to have everyone know it. He stated he believed Hitler did a good job on the Jews and advocated that the things being done to the Jews in Germany should be duplicated in this country. He stated that the Jews are trying to get the United States into the war and that they are coming to control everything in America, the motion picture industry, the department stores and the newspapers.

Some time shortly after December 7, 1941, Robert Noble, Ellis O. Jones and a number of the people connected with the Friends of Progress were arrested by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. A short time later Noble, Jones and the others were released and the charges against them dismissed. The result of this action on the part of the Attorney General of the United States gave considerable impetus to the movement of the Friends of Progress and apparently encouraged Noble and Jones to greater efforts. Their meetings increased because of the publicity they had received and even though the United States was now at war with Japan and Germany, Noble redoubled his efforts in slandering the military leaders of the United States, the President and the United Nations. The members of the committee decided in an executive session in Fresno to hold a meeting at the Embassy Auditorium with Noble and his Friends of Progress. February 11, 1942, for the purpose of securing the names of those in attendance. Thus it was that the committee and its representatives entered the meeting of the Friends of Progress at about 10 or 10.30 on the evening of February 11, 1942. Subpenas duces tecum were served on Noble and Jones and the boxes containing envelopes with donations and the names and addresses of the donors were taken into the possession of the committee. Cries of "Hund! Hund!" and "Fiery Cross!" greeted the entrance of the committee and its representatives. Ellis O. Jones accompanied the committee to the Stillwell Hotel, across the street from the Embassy Auditorium, where he was put under oath. He identified the boxes and the envelopes and was present while the names and addresses of the donors were read into the official record of the committee.

Before the committee intruded itself into the meeting of the Friends of Progress, Ellis O. Jones had read a letter to the audience which, he stated was from an unnamed United States Senator. The letter encouraged Noble and Jones and the Friends of Progress in the work they were doing. This matter was of considerable interest to the committee and Jones was asked to produce the letter after he was placed under oath in the Stillwell Hotel. He eventually produced what purported to be a copy of a letter from a United States Senator minus the signature. He steadfastly refused to reveal the name of the writer. His flat refusal led to a resolution introduced and unanimously passed by the committee citing Jones for contempt of the committee. He was ultimately arrested, charged with contempt under Section 87 of the Penal Code and convicted in the Municipal Court of the City of Los Angeles.

The letter, purporting to have been written by a United States Senator, the identity of whom Jones refused to reveal reads as follows:

"Washington, D. C.,
February 7, 1942

"DEAR ELLIS: Many thanks for the bulletins you have been sending. They are splendid and ought to prove very effective. Indeed I know they have been effective, been hearing from them from several people. Keep me on the list by all means and here is a dollar bill to help defray the expense. Also keep me advised as in the past of social developments on the coast.

"Things here show no particular signs of improvement—just the same old dismal chaos. The amazing success of the Japanese has upset what few orderly plans there were and turned everybody's attention to trying to find a soft spot to light. Such a spectacle of explaining and ducking and buck-passing you never saw. The Owens report on Hawaii was, of course, utterly ridiculous. And yet it looks as if Kimmel and Short were so cowed that they are going to take the thing lying down, although many of their friends are urging them to do otherwise.

"No less ridiculous was Sumner Welles much-advertised trip to S. A., a trip that accomplished absolutely nothing of its avowed purpose and left us more friendless than we were before. Anybody that knows anything knows full well that everybody from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn hates our very guts. If any of them appear otherwise, it is merely a hypocritical gesture for some selfish ends, which ofttimes we have been saps enough to stand for. That being the case, Sumner Welles was the very worst man to send on a good will errand. He is a most unpleasant, supercilious individual—a cold fish if ever there was one. The whole truth of the matter is that in every part of S. A. it is business as usual or, I should say, better than usual. With few exceptions they are profiting immensely while much of the rest of the world is bleeding itself to death with useless war expenses entailing mountains of taxes. Their ships are plying the seas unmolested in all directions, and their chief complaint is how to get enough bottoms. I hear that quite a few American ships have been transferred to various S. A. registries.

"Congress, of course, is in a very drear frame of mind. In the past nine years they have surrendered their authority and individuality to such an extent that they don't know how to recover it. If they could with any show of reason blame F. D. R. for it all, they wouldn't hesitate a minute, but of course they are just as guilty as he is and nobody knows it better than they. Nevertheless I wouldn't be surprised if there were a pretty big explosion, especially in the Senate, in a month or two.

"On account of the outbreak of the war, I did not get west at Xmas time as I wrote you, but I may be able to make it about Easter. In the meantime, keep up the good work. Give my regards to Noble. I have never met him, but I have a high admiration for him. He must be a very fine character. Of course I read about the outrageous attack upon you by the Boy Scouts of the F. B. I. and I am glad you got out of it so easy, but you certainly ought to start suits for false arrest without delay.

"Yours as ever."

Ben S. Beery (Volume IX, pp. 2529-2571) stated that the members of the Friends of Progress were responsible for the worst phases of the America First Committee activities and that the leaders of the Friends of Progress had been very bold. The meetings had resumed January 7, 1942, after Noble and Jones had been released from custody on orders of United States Attorney General Francis Biddle and had been meeting every Wednesday night since that time. The attendance at the meetings had increased to some 250 after Pearl Harbor and, at the time of testifying Mr. Beery stated that that attendance had jumped to 500 and over. He quoted Noble as telling the meeting on the evening of February 11, 1942: "Don't buy Bonds or Stamps for God's sake . . ."

Noble was again subpoenaed before the committee on February 23, 1942. (Volume IX, pp. 2584-2624.) He stated that the first meeting of the Friends of Progress was held on August 30, 1941, in the Embassy Auditorium in the City of Los Angeles. He stated that this meeting was held under the auspices of the Humanist Society of Friends and that a Mr. Lowell Coate was the "prime mover." He stated that he had addressed the meeting several times under the auspices of this group. He knew that A. M. Windhorst conducted the World Events Forum at the Embassy Auditorium and that T. W. Hughes met there also with a group known as Save America First. He was acquainted with Mr. Hughes. He had met C. Leon de Aryan twice and had read several copies of The Broom.

Noble identified several pieces of literature which he had sponsored. He stated that a D. H. Rathbone printed literature for the Friends of Progress and that Rathbone volunteered his services for this work. Ellis O. Jones, Noble declared, "played a greater part than anyone else" in the organization of the Friends of Progress, other than himself.

The money collected at Friends of Progress meetings was used for personal needs and no funds were left over for other purposes. He stated that he kept most of the envelopes in which the money was placed and used the names and addresses as his mailing list.

He admitted that he had been in considerable trouble in the City of Los Angeles and that he had been arrested a number of times.

He was not reluctant in admitting that he had made statements at the meetings of the Friends of Progress to the effect that he was for Germany and for Hitler. He stated that he thought Hitler had done a magnificent job for Germany and that he was a fine man for Germany. He recalled stating that the ship Normandie had been stolen from the French people. He did not regard the Hawaiian Islands as part of the United States and for that reason did not feel that the Japanese attacked the United States on December 7, 1941. He believed that the Japanese would make more use of the Philippines than the United States and that, therefore, the islands should belong to the Japanese. He regarded the loss of life in the Philippines and in Singapore as needless and thought that defense of these points a futile gesture.

He admitted compiling and distributing pamphlets entitled The Miracle of Happiness and stated that it was published in the Spring of 1941. He later stated, when testifying before the committee for the third time, March 26, 1942 (Volume X, pp. 3130-3147), that the Miracle of Happiness had been financed by friends and published before the Friends of Progress had been organized. He admitted having written most of the material contained in the pamphlet. He mailed many copies to places outside of Los Angeles. A derogatory statement printed on the back of the pamphlet attributed to Jack London declared that the lowest depth to which a man could fall was to become a good soldier. Noble was not sure of the authenticity of its authorship and stated that he received it from Dr. Lowell Coate.

Jack London, during his lifetime, vigorously denied ever having written the article quoted by Robert Noble on the back of his pamphlet The Miracle of Happiness. The piece is entitled "A Good Soldier" and reads as follows:

"Young man, your lowest aim in life is to be a good soldier.

"A good soldier never thinks, he only obeys. If he is asked in the morning to shoot down a street, where women and children are clamoring for bread, he shoots. Although he sees the life's blood flowing from the mothers' breast, he feels neither remorse nor shame.

"If he is asked in the morning to go shoot a benefactor or a hero, he shoots. Although he may know that that bullet may pierce the most manly heart that ever beat in human breast.

"A good soldier is not a man, he is not even a brute. A brute only kills in self-defense. All that was human in a good soldier, all that was divine in him, all that constitutes the man, was sworn away when he took the oath of enlistment.

"Young man, you can't fall lower than to be a good soldier, it is the depth beneath which the human can not go."

To all of which Noble added his own comment and advice. He wrote:

"But remember, one who is drafted, does not enlist. And furthermore, a young fellow who enlists, usually does so because he desperately needs a job. Terrific pressure of economic circumstances usually causes it. Certainly we can't conceive of anyone joining up because he really wants to kill some one.

"Society then is to blame! But society is us! Society is made up of individuals just as we. We are responsible for our individual actions. This makes for the action of society. Therefore, let's individually swear to have nothing to do with war.

"WE CAN TODAY, CONSTITUTIONALLY AND LEGALLY, TAKE THIS STAND AGAINST WAR.

"I have taken it. Will you?

"If I do this, and you do this, and we all do this, THEN THERE WILL BE NO MORE WARS. How about it?

"(Write me and I will gladly send you full particulars of how you can individually (legally) keep out of the war effort.)"

Larry Griffith circulated pamphlets at the meetings of the Friends of Progress at the Embassy, including Wake Up, America, although Noble stated that "we" forbade him to do it. He denied having any connection with Larry Griffith.

The bulletins issued from time to time by the Friends of Progress were compiled and mailed by Jones and Noble. Ferenz also distributed circulars advertising the Continental Book Store at the meetings of the Friends of Progress. Noble stated that Ferenz had been "a marvelous friend." He admitted that Rathbone and himself had published and distributed a pamphlet entitled The Meanest Joke the Germans Played on the U. S. A. This scurrilous article described the so-called "joke" as the scientific achievements of German scientists in helping keep President Roosevelt alive.

He related the circumstances of the picketing of Dr. Beauchamp's place of business for advertising in the pages of the Los Angeles Daily News and told of maintaining picket lines in front of the dentist's offices on Fifth and Broadway in Los Angeles. He recalled that Joan McBride had helped in this picketing.

He stated that he had known Leone Menier for several years and that she had put in some money to start the meetings of the Friends of Progress. She assisted in stenographic work but received no compensation.

Although he had not purchased defense or war bonds he denied having ever tried to prevent anyone from buying them.

He stated emphatically that he believed Germany had already won the war in Europe, and that he did not believe that Japan desired to "mess in our affairs." (Pearl Harbor, having come and gone, undoubtedly accounted for Noble's attempt in his second hearing to deny or modify some of the testimony given before the committee October 17, 1941.)

December of 1941, January, February and March, of 1942, had almost passed into history and Noble and Jones were still conducting the seditious meetings of the Friends of Progress. Consequently, your committee subpoenaed Noble for the third time, March 26, 1942. (Volume X, pp. 3130-3147.) He now stated that no one received a salary or any compensation whatever from the funds raised by the Friends of Progress. He stated that all funds collected were used to defray the expenses of the organization; for the printing of bulletins and the rent of the meeting hall, etc. He declared that both himself and Jones had other sources of income for their personal expenses. Jones was now rooming with Noble and allegedly paying room and board.

Noble denied that he had ever discussed the subject of the draft in his meetings in other than an academic manner. He read a quotation from Daniel Webster on the subject wherein Webster was alleged to have declared the draft unconstitutional. Noble stated that he did not feel that way about it.

He admitted discussing General MacArthur in the meeting of the Friends of Progress on March 25, 1942, and recalled that he had said something concerning Douglas MacArthur being the person who ordered the troops to fire on the bonus marchers in Washington in 1932. He stated that it was a lot of nonsense to believe that MacArthur, "this great bolstered-up fellow in Australia," could push the Japanese back with his little finger. He admitted that he had pointed out that "the Axis powers as against the Allies had the military strength ratio of 13 to 5, or nearly 3 to 1 in their favor." He stated that the authorities in Washington do not dare to tell the people of the Nation the truth, afraid, if the truth is known, that it would make their positions in Washington insecure. He stated that he believed the situation was much worse than Washington was admitting.

He frankly admitted that he was against conscription.

All in all, Robert Noble was probably one of the most amazing witnesses to ever appear before an investigating committee.

Witnesses called to testify concerning the Friends of Progress are as follows:

Ben S. Beery
C. Leon de Aryan
Franz K. Ferenz
Kate Crane Gartz
Lawrence R. Griffith
Ellis O. Jones
Frank King

James Morrison McBride
Lydia Joan McBride
Leone Menier
Robert Noble
David Rathbone
Daniel Van Meter

Frank King threw considerable light on Robert Noble's activities. (Volume IX, pp. 2747-2762, 2825-2827.) He had been associated with Noble in various activities since about 1934. He was acquainted with Ellis O. Jones, Leone Menier and others. He stated that he met Noble through the Utopian Society when Noble was backing Upton Sinclair for Governor of California. He followed Noble when he fell out with the Epic Group and became an admirer and speaker for Huey Long's Share-the-Wealth Plan. He attended most of Noble's meetings during this period which continued until Huey Long was assassinated in the fall of 1935. He lived near Noble in Hollywood and saw much of him.

King worked for the Union Party of William Lempke when Lempke was running for President of the United States. He joined again with Noble when Noble launched his first pension plan. This period lasted through 1937. He stated that Noble was at odds with the administration of Mayor Frank L. Shaw of Los Angeles, but accepted money to "lay off" the mayor from one Tommy Mills. Clifford Clinton did not want to have anything to do with Noble, King stated, although Clinton desired to take advantage of Noble's following. Noble spoke over one of Clinton's radio broadcasts.

King stated that Noble was arrested in the fall of 1937 for parading without a permit in front of Radio Station KMTR, from which he had been previously barred. He was then arrested for grand theft or bunco, charged with taking money from people on the promise of starting a radio station in Mexico. About this time, King said, Noble took to heavy drinking and King thereupon broke with him.

He told the committee of a plan launched by Noble in 1939 involving the sale of $1 bills of his own make for $1 in United States currency. Noble had some money-reform idea in mind and the plan, apparently, did not involve counterfeiting. King stated that he agreed with Noble's plan for reform at that time but the scheme soon fell through. He stated that Noble was living with various women in Hollywood at that time, and although he did not see him personally, he heard of him indirectly through Ellis O. Jones.

King again met Noble at meetings of the America First Committee in 1941. He stated that he was then associated with various members of the Humanist Society of Friends, a semi-religious organization. He stated that Dr. Lowell Coate and other Humanists sponsored Noble's Friends of Progress meetings, but that these meetings "got too hot for them and they left."

King admitted that he was associated with the Friends of Progress in the beginning and that his name had been carried on the early bulletins as assistant director. He stated that he objected to having his name carried in this manner, although admitted having acted as chairman of most of the meetings up to the declaration of war, when he severed his relationship with the organization. He stated that he did not approve of the mock impeachment trial of President Roosevelt.

He admitted that he had met Herman Max Schwinn, Hans Diebel, F. K. Ferenz and others several times. He first met F. K. Ferenz at Robert Noble's home. He stated that after the Committee Investigating Un-American Activities had met in the fall of 1941, groups of the Friends of Progress went to the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles to talk the situation over. Ellis O. Jones, according to King, objected and finally refused to go to the Deutsches Haus and had arguments with nearly everybody concerned.

He explained Robert Noble's peculiar magnetism with those to whom he lectured. He stated that nearly all of the people who had been attracted to the meetings of the Friends of Progress were persons receiving pensions; elderly people, who had followed Noble in the days of his pension plan. He stated that Noble relied on an "absence of intelligence" in the personnel of his audiences, and used his charm to attract women, both young and old. He stated that Noble always took up collections at every meeting.

Miss Leone Menier had started to keep records for the organization, but it was decided that records were unnecessary. The money collected was spent for whatever Noble wanted. He testified that swastika pins were sold at meetings of the Friends of Progress but not by either King or Noble. He had seen the Van Meter brothers at the meetings of the Friends of Progress, knew who they were, but could not recall their respective identities. He stated the swastika pins were worn with bravado by individuals of obvious German sympathies.

King summarized Noble as "The world's greatest bunco artist"; a racketeer and completely insincere. He stated that he believed Noble was trying to make an easy living out of the Friends of Progress through the victimization of innocent people.

He stated that the Van Meter brothers had worn the swastika pins at the Friends of Progress meetings and that Joan and James McBride had also worn them.

Leone Menier stated she was secretary and housekeeper for Robert Noble. (Volume IX, pp. 2571-2583.) Her residence address was the same as Noble's. She stated that she was an "unemployed secretary." She had been married but was separated from her husband. She had resided in Los Angeles for 10 years. She was last employed by the past-president of the board of supervisors of San Francisco, "several years ago." She was using her maiden name of "Menier" and stated that her husband's name was John Sorenson.

She stated that she was working in a voluntary capacity for the Friends of Progress. She met Noble at a social gathering several years ago. The first meeting that she had attended, presided over by Noble, was a meeting of the Friends of Progress in August of 1941, at about the time the group organized.

She identified Joan McBride and admitted that she had met her at meetings of the Friends of Progress. Her duties were typing bulletins, cutting stencils, etc. for the Friends of Progress. She said that she sent out what mail there was, which, ordinarily, consisted of communications addressed from envelopes on which the contributors to the organization had written their names and addresses. No filing cards were ever kept, although the envelopes were retained in Noble's home. She estimated that there were about 500 of them. She stated that no one helped Noble compose his speeches. Her duties as a housekeeper did not include cooking for Noble as they usually ate out. She concluded by stating that she has a private income.

C. Leon de Aryan admitted having met Robert Noble on at least two occasions. He spoke once in the Embassy Auditorium at the Friends of Progress meeting when Noble was presiding. (Volume VIII, pp. 2273-2304.) de Aryan stated that Noble was reading an article from The Broom when he entered the meeting and upon recognizing de Aryan in the audience insisted upon him addressing the gathering. Either the theme of de Aryan's editorial in The Broom or the theme of the talk before the Friends of Progress, or both, was "in war time you are supposed to have abolished the Constitution, the Ten Commandments and perhaps God Almighty." He further stated that he explained to the Friends of Progress the danger of the establishment of a dictatorship in the United States. While at the meeting of the Friends of Progress in Los Angeles de Aryan met A. M. Windhorst who invited him to address the World Events Forum on Washington's birthday.

C. Leon de Aryan explained that he had first met Noble through an effort of his to secure support for placing conscientious objectors in the forestry service. He stated that he took this matter up with a Mr. Carter of the Board of Education and was referred to the Friends' Service Committee in Pasadena. He then wrote to Ellis O. Jones stating that he would be in Los Angeles and went to the Friends of Progress meeting.

Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz was examined in reference to Robert Noble and the Friends of Progress. (May 12, 1942, pp. 63-86.) Mrs. Gartz has resided in California for 30 years. She stated that William Schneiderman had called at her house several years ago accompanied by Earl Browder and that they came as "friends" with other "friends." It has been her custom to hold meetings in her home for the past 30 years on each Tuesday. She invites in "neighborhood friends" and "friends bring other friends." She was well aware that Browder and Schneiderman were leading functionaries of the Communist Party. She denied having any knowledge of Communist Party aims but knew that Russia was trying to establish Communism. She was acquainted with Paul Cline as a member of the Communist Party.

Mrs. Gartz stated that she was interested in Communism from a cultural standpoint. She had known various people who had lived in Russia and was acquainted with various local Communist Party members. She believed that John M. Weatherwax was a member of the Communist Party and recalled that he had stated that fact to her.

She recalled, that, about two weeks before testifying, F. K. Ferenz, Robert Noble, Ellis O. Jones and Genevieve Kerrigan came to her home and that John Weatherwax, being present in her house, refused to admit them. She then wrote a letter to Robert Noble asking him not to come back. He did call at her residence twice after the letter was written to him and Mrs. Kerrigan called to explain about him. Ellis O. Jones had brought Noble to Mrs. Gartz' home in the first place. Mrs. Gartz had known Ellis O. Jones in the American Civil Liberties Union when he was a director. She claimed that she knew nothing of his contributions to the German-American Bund paper. She admitted having given Robert Noble $100 during the time he was advocating pensions. She also recalled giving $500 to Ed Robbin, whom she believed to be a member of the Communist Party, in order to help finance the broadcast which was sponsored by the People's Daily World, West Coast Communist newspaper. She admitted that she had made numerous contributions to persons who were Communists but that she had never given any money to the Communist Party as such. "I am a Socialist," she added. She admitted that she had never made any real effort to study Communism and merely took the word of friends who were members of the party.

She made a trip to Russia in 1936 but remained there only for a few days. She stated that she received a bad impression and left very soon; that she was very much disappointed in the conditions she found there. "I expected to find paradise," she said plaintively, and instead she stated she found people working under very bad conditions and observed widespread unemployment and poverty.

Ellis O. Jones gave his occupation as that of writer and admitted that he was a contributor to such publications as Free American, The Broom and others. (Volume III, pp. 744-760.) He admitted having participated in demonstrations in New York City in 1918 protesting against World War I. He stated that he went to Columbus, Ohio, and from there to Wisconsin and that he came to Los Angeles about 10 years ago. He stated that he had majored in political economy in Yale University. He was acquainted with Communist Party literature and stated that "The Communists are full of inconsistencies."

He claimed that he had been mistreated when he was detained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in his arrest following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. (Volume IX, pp. 2489-2528.) He elaborated upon this statement by saying that his mistreatment consisted in being falsely arrested and being held incommunicado.

He was acquainted with the Humanist Society of Friends but had never spoken under its auspices. He had spoken on many occasions, however, under the auspices of the Friends of Progress.

Testifying October 12, 1941, he admitted having been introduced by Frank King (R. Marquette) at one of these meetings and read a letter from an United States Senator addressed to Jones in which the Senator mentioned a letter in the Lake Geneva Herald praising the National Copperheads. He also recalled quoting from a letter which purported to be from Senator Nye in which the Senator told him that he could not send out any more copies of letters under the Senator's franking privilege.

He stated he "had an idea" that Robert Noble actually organized the Friends of Progress. F. K. Ferenz attended its meetings more or less regularly, according to Jones.

He did not know of the Friends of Progress maintaining a bank account. He stated that only Robert Noble had access to the funds of the organization, in addition to himself. No written records were kept. Whenever he needed funds he consulted with Noble. Friends of Progress was not incorporated. No one received a salary from the contributions made by its supporters and only the personal expenses of Noble and himself, in addition to the necessary expenses for the organization, were paid out of the contributions.

He identified the literature of the Friends of Progress, notably The Bulletin. He stated that "we," sometimes Jones, himself, and sometimes only Noble, ran The Bulletin off on a mimeograph machine.

Jones had met Robert Noble in either 1933 or 1934, and he knew of Noble's background in a casual way.

He identified handbills put out by the Friends of Progress announcing the "Impeachment of President Roosevelt," with Ellis O. Jones acting as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and "assisted by well-known figures." Jones could not recall just who the "well-known figures" were. He stated that Robert Noble was the prosecutor. The impeachment of the President of the United States lasted through four meetings of the Friends of Progress and the President was finally "impeached" because "he had betrayed the American people into war."

He stated that the Friends of Progress maintained a counter-espionage system in order to determine who the people were who attended the meetings of the Friends of Progress.

He admitted that Japan had launched an attack on Pearl Harbor, but denied that Pearl Harbor was part of the United States, and believed that this was also true of the Philippine Islands.

He stated that his brother had conducted a newspaper, The Press-Post in Columbus, Ohio, at the time of the assassination of President McKinley.

Daniel Elias Van Meter admitted having attended several meetings of the Friends of Progress. (Volume IX, pp. 2815-2824.) He appeared to be well acquainted with Ellis O. Jones, Robert Noble, F. K. Ferenz, Hans Diebel, Herman Max Schwinn and Joan and James McBride. He stated that he met A. M. Windhorst and had heard C. Leon de Aryan speak at a meeting of the Friends of Progress. He admitted having seen swastika pins worn by people in attendance at the meetings of the Friends of Progress. He said that Miss Leone Menier, Noble's secretary and housekeeper, had warned these people not to wear the pins at the meetings. He denied that he had ever worn a two-inch swastika badge at any of the meetings.

Mrs. Lydia Joan McBride admitted attending Robert Noble's meetings, but was not sure that they were meetings of the Friends of Progress. (Volume IX, pp. 2790-2799.) She admitted helping Noble picket Dr. Beauchamp's place of business because the dentist advertised in the Los Angeles Daily News. The policy of the Daily News, according to Mrs. McBride, was that of the "warmongers."

David Henry Rathbone admitted doing most of the printing for Noble and the Friends of Progress. (Volume IX, pp. 2625-2640.) He stated that he was a printer by occupation and that he was 67 years of age and receiving a pension from the State of California. He stated that Noble paid the rent for his place in exchange for the printing that he did for the Friends of Progress. He had been engaged in printing since 1928 and had once owned an establishment on Seventh and Hoover in the City of Los Angeles. He admitted doing some writing as well as printing and admitted the authorship of a pamphlet printed by him entitled The Meanest Joke the Germans Ever Played on the U. S. A. (The theme of this piece of journalism was that the Germans had played a mean joke on the United States by its scientific developments in the cure of infantile paralysis.) He also admitted having mailed this pamphlet to Congressmen, Senators and "even one to Jack Tenney." He did some other writing as well and admitted a paragraph or two in one of the Bulletins of the Friends of Progress. He stated that he wrote the material and gave it to Robert Noble. He also had done some printing for Larry Griffith. He occasionally had put out some advertising matter for F. K. Ferenz. He admitted going to meetings of the America First Committee. The Van Meter brothers had been very helpful in assisting him to move his printing press to his present address.

He stated that he was "born and raised in a British law family" and that he was born in the United States. He ventured the opinion that President Roosevelt is insane and that he is turning on people who helped him by now making war on Germany. Rathbone did not believe that Germany or Japan are enemies of the United States. "England is the enemy of everybody," he added. He stated that he saved money out of his food in order to print pamphlets and to mail them out.

He was charged with espionage during World War I and was tried in Fresno, August 5, 1918, for saying that President Woodrow Wilson was a traitor. He was found not guilty and stated that the trial only took eight minutes.

After testifying before the committee he was tried in a Municipal Court of Los Angeles for libel of the President of the United States, duly convicted and sentenced to six months in the Los Angeles County jail.

Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones were convicted in the Federal Court in Los Angeles, receiving five and four years, respectively. Noble, Jones and the entire coterie of the Friends of Progress were subsequently convicted in Sacramento for violation of the Subversive Registration Act passed by the Legislature in 1941.

The case of Robert Noble and his Friends of Progress was an important one in the opinion of the members of your committee and of the public as well. It must be recalled that Noble and Jones and others of the Friends of Progress were arrested a few days following Pearl Harbor, but, through the orders of Attorney General Francis Biddle of the United States, they were shortly released and the case subsequently dismissed. From that moment the success of the Friends of Progress seemed assured and Noble began to fill its meeting room in the Embassy Auditorium. The committee, through its representatives, kept continuous check on Noble and his meetings and finally secured the names and addresses of a substantial number of his followers. He was called again and again before the committee. The newspapers of California, recognizing the threat to National security, played an important part in securing necessary action on the part of Federal and State law-enforcing agencies. The indictment, trials and convictions of Noble, Jones and the rest swiftly followed.

The widespread interest in the case is indicated by the sentiments of one Chuck Martin, writing in the Brewery Gulch Gazette, of Bisbee, Arizona, on March 5, 1942. While Mr. Chuck Martin spoke rather inaccurately concerning the facts, and inconsequentially in reference to details, he nevertheless spoke vehemently and with his heart in the right place. His Brewery Gulch Gazette article should be of interest to future legislators and historians. It follows:

"Among the assorted screwballs we propagate over here on the West Coast and guarantee constitutional privileges under our sacred Bill of Rights, is one first-class cockroach by the name of Robert Noble. That slimy son is against everything constructive and for everything destructive. He first gained notoriety through the banned Silver Shirts outfit which sought to overthrow the government.

"A bit later he organized a batty combine which he called 'Thirty Every Thursday,' the purpose of which was to force the taxpayers to pay weekly stipends of thirty bucks to every indigent over 50 years old, said pay day to be every Thursday. He talked at San Diego, motored to Los Angeles, ran his car over another one, seriously injuring several people.

"Then the F. B. I. heeded the pleadings of Walter Winchell and put the finger on this cucaracha for un-American activities. Bond was placed at fifteen grand, but Attorney General Biddle had it reduced to fifteen hundred and this snake got his liberty.

"This past week he testified before the California State Legislature, boldly and publicly declaring that the Japs were within their rights in bombing Pearl Harbor. He amplified this statement to say that the men serving under General MacArthur in the Philippines were not heroes, but plain damn fools. He admitted that he had a dishonorable discharge from the U. S. Army during the first World War, but he said he did not believe in fighting and was only 19 years old at the time. Right then was the time to save him the burden of living any longer. He was a deserter and should have been shot. In fact this sewer bug should be shot right now and if some one would get the Attorney General to look the other way I would be glad to do the job for the price of a .45 cartridge. He admits saying 'Heil Hitler' in a Legion meeting, and the boys certainly must have slipped some Chateau Thierry."

THE AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE

The America First Committee found its inception in the minds of sincere and patriotic individuals strongly opposed to conscription and the entry of the United States into the European War. The majority of the isolationists were undoubtedly sincere. The experience of the United States in the last World War indicated to them, particularly before Pearl Harbor, the futility of participation in the present conflict. The United States had not yet been attacked by any aggressor nation, and many thousands of perfectly good, loyal Americans opposed involvement. While the committee must make this statement in all fairness, it must also point out that however sincere and loyal the majority of the members of such organizations as the America First Committee and National Legion of Mothers of America may have been, the objectives of such groups coincided in every way with the objectives of Axis agents and Axis-front organizations, such as the German-American Bund. For at least 22 months the objectives of the isolationists also corresponded with the objectives of the Communist Party. Hence, the chapters of the America First Committee and the National Legion of Mothers of America were ideally suited to the purposes of both the Communist Party and the German-American Bund when they were collaborating for Hitler's success. The members of the committee suspected this situation and the investigation of the committee's representatives revealed that these suspicions were well-founded.

As early as June of 1941 it was quite obvious that something was wrong with the America First Committee in California. Sincere and honest belief in isolation and non-intervention is one thing while open support of such aggressors as Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito and defamation of the President of the United States is quite another. A front page story from the Pasadena Independent of Monday, June 16, 1941, graphically illustrates this point. Under the heading "Mass Meeting Boos President," and followed by the subheading "Pasadena Members of 'America First' Cheer Axis Ideas" is the following story:

"Cheers for Colonel Lindbergh, silence for Adolph Hitler, Boos for President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie * * *.

"Thus 250 members of the America First Committee registered their reactions to these individuals at a meeting in the McKinley Junior High School Auditorium addressed by Charles Cobb, acting chairman of the group, and Dr. Michael Francis Dillon, of the faculty at U. C. L. A.

"The audience booed vigorously whenever the names of Churchill, Mrs. Roosevelt, Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson, Senator Claude Pepper and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City were mentioned by the speakers.

"Doubt British Victory

"Cobb told the audience that he does not believe a British victory either possible or desirable.

"Money Down Rat Hole

"'Why should the taxpayers throw $7,000,000,000 down the rat hole of Britain's waning ambitions?' he asked. 'We should campaign to repeal the Lend-Lease Bill.'

"He read at length from an interview in Life Magazine given to former Ambassador Cudahy by Hitler, in which the Fuehrer said that at no time had his intentions toward this country been inimical. Cobb then quoted portions of a New York Times editorial answering Hitler, in which it was pointed out that declarations of friendship had preceded most of Hitler's invasions.

"Raising his head to look at the audience and spacing his words to permit booing for each name, Cobb then asked: 'And who are the owners of the New York Times? Ochs-Adler-Sulzberger!'

"Cheers for Hitler

"Cobb said that most Americans regard Hitler as a liar and a criminal, and added: 'I am not here to eulogize or defend Hitler. He seems able to do that himself.' The audience cheered.

"Cobb went on to say that the Germans were forced to sign the Treaty of Versailles at the 'point of a gun.'

" 'There still is such a thing as retribution,' he said. 'England and France are paying for their perfidy in blood, sweat and tears.'

"Says Public Deceived"

"He then mentioned the names of the President and several others who have expressed strong opposition to the Nazi aims, and declared that the people of the United States had not been told the truth about Germany.

" 'Did these people tell you the truth about Czechoslovakia?' he inquired. 'The fact is that Czechoslovakia was a dagger pointed at the heart of Germany. But they would fight to the bitter end to save Palestine and the British Empire.'

"Dillon scoffed at the idea that Germany had invaded democracies, listing each of the overrun countries and commenting that none of them were democratic. He pictured England as an autocracy, an 'Old Man of the Sea' clinging to the backs of subject peoples.

"Eulogizes Lindbergh"

"Referring to Lindbergh as a great patriot, he asked: 'Who is the Copperhead, Lindbergh or the President?' The audience roared back: 'Roosevelt!'

"American Gestapo"

"He referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation as an 'American Gestapo,' persecuting political minorities, and called the Dies Committee on Un-American Activities a 'tool of the F. B. I.'

" 'Roosevelt knows that he cannot defeat Fascism by the Sword,' Dillon said. The audience cheered wildly.

"In closing the meeting, Cobb said that if the President got the country into war, 'I for one will not follow him. If this be treason, make the most of it.'

"Copies of Social Justice, Father Coughlin's Jew-baiting weekly magazine, were sold to the members as they left the auditorium."

Witnesses testifying in reference to the activities of the America First Committee are as follows:

Frank D. Barry

James and Joan McBride, F. K. Ferenz and others, definitely known to have been connected with the German-American Bund and the Friends of Progress were found to be enthusiastic participants in meetings of the America First Committee. Such vicious anti-Semitismics as C. Leon de Aryan admitted that he was a member of the organization from the beginning and that he attended its meetings regularly. (Volume VIII, pp. 2273-2304.)

Ben S. Beery testified before the committee October 16, 1941, and again on February 23, 1942. He was the chairman of the Americanism Committee of the Seventeenth District of the American Legion in Los Angeles. Mr. Beery and his committee had done considerable work investigating Nazi activities in Los Angeles County. (Volume IX, pp. 2529-2571.)

Beery testified that many persons formerly active in the German-American Bund and frequent visitors at the Deutsches Haus in Los Angeles had become very active in the America First Committee. At the time of testifying these persons were continuing their activities in many cases. It was Mr. Beery's opinion that the original membership of the America First Committee was composed of sincere and honest citizens but that leaders, such as Ellis O. Jones, Benjamin Franklin Ballard, and Leone Menier, were using the America First Committee for sinister purposes.

He testified that Benjamin Franklin Ballard was holding "secret cell" meetings attended by from 5 to 10 persons in private homes throughout the city.

Mr. Beery attended the Wendell Willkie meeting in Hollywood Bowl July 23, 1941. (Volume IV, pp. 965-988.) (It will be recalled that this meeting was picketed.) He testified that he personally saw James and Joan McBride among the pickets.

Baron Frederick Van Meter did not hesitate to say that he was a member of the America First Committee. (Volume IV, pp. 989-1014.) He was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He picketed the Wendell Willkie meeting at the Hollywood Bowl with his brothers, William and Daniel. He stated that he belonged to the Wilshire branch of the America First Committee.

Daniel Elias Van Meter stated that he could not remember attending any meetings of the America First Committee. (Volume IX, pp. 2815-2824.) Later in his testimony he admitted having attended several meetings of this group.

James Adams Van Meter denied that he had ever belonged to the America First Committee.

Mrs. Lydia Joan McBride, wife of James M. McBride, admitted picketing the Wendell Willkie meeting at the Hollywood Bowl. She stated that she learned about the prospective picketing at an America First Committee meeting on Wilshire Boulevard. She agreed 100 per cent with the principles of the America First Committee, although denied belonging to the organization. (Volume IV, pp. 1062-1070, 1080.)

When again subpoenaed February 24, 1942, Mrs. McBride was not sure whether or not she was member of the organization. (Volume IX, pp. 2790-2799.)

John L. Riemer admitted having signed a membership card for membership in the America First Committee and stated that he believed himself to be a member.

Harold A. Sparling denied that he was a member of the America First Committee but stated paradoxically that he was connected with it indirectly in San Francisco. (Volume III, pp. 714-744.) He claimed that he had met Senator Wheeler and Senator Hiram Johnson in Washington prior to the Philharmonic Auditorium meeting in Los Angeles and stated that Senator Johnson had told him to "go back and fight for America." He also stated that he had had an interview with General Wood of the America First Committee in the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. The True Americans was created by Sparling and had as its purpose, according to his testimony, the isolation of the United States from the European war. Louise Ward Watkins was among those whom Sparling claimed helped finance the organization. (Volume III, pp. 742-743.)

James Morrison McBride denied having helped organize a chapter of the America First Committee in Los Angeles. (Volume IV, pp. 625-664.) He admitted, however, building a cabinet for, and making donations to, the organization.

Ellis O. Jones stated that he was one of the first members of the America First Committee in Los Angeles, but that he later resigned. (Volume IV, pp. 1187-1190.) He came to the defense of Baron Frederick Van Meter by stating that Van Meter had never signed a formal application card for membership. He read a letter to the committee which he received from the headquarters of the organization thanking him for his communications to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Testifying February 23, 1942 (Volume IX, pp. 2489-2528) Jones stated that he had never actually become a member of the committee. He elaborated upon this statement by saying that he did not agree fully with the policy of the organization: "there were certain inhibitions," etc. He recalled that he had met Dr. Ernest Kramer and T. W. Hughes at meetings of the America First Committee.

Frank D. Barry, a Los Angeles attorney and member of the executive committee, was a voluntary witness on behalf of the America First Committee, October 15, 1941. (Volume III, pp. 841-843.) John L. Wheeler and Mrs. Henry L. Arne were also members of the executive committee of this organization. Mr. Barry undoubtedly expressed the sentiments of a majority of the organizers of the California chapters of the America First Committee. These people, for the greater part, believed that the interests of the United States would be best served by avoiding involvement in the European conflict.

Barry admitted that he had spoken at a meeting of the Save America First Forum, conducted by T. W. Hughes. He admitted having heard anti-Semitic sentiments expressed by the people who follow Hughes. He stated that he was not "anti-anything." He believed that free speech includes the right to speak concerning groups and races as well as of people. He apparently was anti-British and read an excerpt from a speech he had made at the Save America First Forum which was directed against "imperialist" England.

Bishop Tarkington Dowden attended about 40 meetings of the America First Committee and spoke at several such meetings. (Volume IV, pp. 1175-1187.) He said that he had nothing against the Jewish people and claimed that he did business with them. He felt that Harry Warner of Warner Brothers Motion Pictures, Inc., was "un-American" because of a speech reported to have been made by Harry Warner to the employees of the studio on June 5, 1940. Harry Warner's speech, according to Dowden, indicated that Warner was "trying to lead this country into war."

He attended the Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh rally in the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles.

On September 19, 1941, Dowden was photographed addressing a meeting of the America First Committee in Pasadena. At that time members of the Americanism Committee of the Seventeenth District of the American Legion, under the chairmanship of Ben S. Beery, reported Dowden as stating:

"I believe in fighting fire with fire and there is only one way to combat this vicious pro-British doctrine in our schools and that's the whispering campaign * * * gossip, our grandmothers would have called it. Our educational system through the years has been built upon a high standard of personal morals * * * the first hint that the morals of a teacher or professor were irregular called for immediate dismissal. This is your method of attack. If the 80 or so people here tonight would make up their minds to go out of here tonight and start a whispering campaign attacking the morals of the offending teachers and professors, I am sure it wouldn't take long to eliminate them."

Dowden denied that he had ever made the above-quoted statement. He concluded his testimony by pointing out that "Russian sympathizers" who had attended meetings addressed by him had applauded his statements during the collaboration of Russia and Germany, but that after Germany attacked Russia, the same people "booed."

John L. Wheeler was a volunteer witness in behalf of the America First Committee. (Volume III, pp. 843-845 and Volume IV, pp. 1030-1045.) He first appeared before the committee October 15, 1941, to submit arguments in defense of the America First Committee. He returned on October 16, 1941, and stated that he was the chairman of the Southern California Branch Division of the organization. He stated that the principles of the America First Committee were to keep America out of foreign wars, to build defense and for humanitarian aid to Great Britain. He stated that the organization excludes Fascists, Nazis, Communists and members of the Bund, but that the organization is otherwise open to all patriotic American citizens.

He stated that, with the exception of William S. Hunt, individuals such as the Van Meter brothers, F. K. Ferenz and others had no part in the policy forming bodies of the America First Committee. He stated that the organization deplored anything which tended to cause racial hatred.

William P. Williams had published and distributed a number of leaflets and mimeographed material decidedly anti-Semitic in character. In Questions, Please, he urged the formation of cells of from three to seven persons and suggested that these small groups meet in homes without publicity to "stop the revolution the anti-Christians are plotting against all existing Gentile governments and all civilization."

He testified October 14, 1941. (Volume III, pp. 700-714.) He stated that he was a high school science teacher in North Hollywood Junior High School and that he had resigned as Chief Pilot of T. W. A. six or seven years ago.

He was the Chairman of the North Hollywood (San Fernando Valley) Branch of the America First Committee which was started in July of 1941. He admitted that he had investigated the German American Bund and did not desire to affiliate with it "any more than with the Communist group." He admitted that he had visited the Deutsches Haus and the Aryan Book Store conducted by Hans Diebel. He stated he "might" have attended a meeting at the home of Carolyn Blarcom in Pasadena. He admitted meeting William G. Moffet at Carolyn Blarcom's home, and stated that it was "a meeting to determine how best to cope with some of our subversive elements and our subversivism * * *."

He admitted having seen "a few copies" of the Christian Free Press and admitted having purchased literature from the Aryan Book Store in the Deutsches Haus.

He denied having mimeographed and distributed a paper entitled Questions, Please, and stated that he had never seen the paper which was submitted to him for examination, and from which the above quotation was taken. He later returned to the witness stand (Volume III, pp. 719-840) and "remembered" that Questions, Please was a partial copy of a booklet which he ran off on his mimeograph machine around the first part of 1941. He could not recall the exact date or how many he had duplicated. He stated that he had copied it from material that he had received, even though he failed to credit its sources. Upon examination he admitted that he could not recall the sources. He stated that he did not even subscribe to the sentiments expressed in the paper, but later added, "Not exactly, that is."

He now recalled receiving material from Father Coughlin and from Reverend Gerald Winrod and remembered that he had received permission to quote such material. He then recalled inserting material against the Jews, but stated that he did not feel that way about it at the time of testifying. He remembered instructing readers to organize into small groups of three to seven and to meet in their homes and "Stop the revolution the anti-Christians are plotting against all existing Gentile governments and all civilization," but, at the time of testifying, felt that his position at the time of putting out the paper was incorrect.

Williams' memory became better and better as time went on. He remembered running off a booklet of six pages entitled "Do You Know?" He also was able to remember taking material from a booklet Americans, Awake including anti-Semitic quotations and references to Internationalist Jew Race. His memory became so refreshed that he was able to recall listing material from Alex Varonaeff's book, Christians Under the Hammer and Sickle in reference to the fiction that all Jews are Communists. He stated that he had visited Communist book stores and had seen Jews in charge and claimed that the Jews control the press, the radio and films.

KU KLUX KLAN

William H. Sahli was a Kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan and an organizer for Los Angeles when he first testified October 16, 1941. (Volume IV, pp. 1045-1058.) Sahli was a belligerent witness. He testified the second time March 24, 1942. (Volume X, pp. 2934-2960.) He called the organization The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and gave the address as Post-office Box 1055, Los Angeles. He offered into the record of the committee a pamphlet entitled America for Americans, bearing a robed and hooded figure on the cover. He commented that the Klan did not use hoods any more but retained the robes. He stated that the principles of the Ku Klux Klan were wholly American and outlined the organizational structure and membership requirements (Volume IV, pp. 1050-1051). He stated that only pure white (Christian Gentiles who were "good Americans" were eligible for membership. Jews, Negroes and Catholics are barred. He admitted that the organization resorts to the use of "man power, when necessary," but not to violence.

The Ku Klux Klan has various local units in Los Angeles, but maintains no headquarters, according to Sahli. He stated that he did not know of any other headquarters than that which was maintained in Atlanta, Georgia. He had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Los Angeles since July, 1941, and had been appointed Kleagle by the "man in charge," a Mr. Harvey, who was the "supreme representative" in the West. He explained that the Cyclops is the officer in charge of meetings,—the chairman. He stated that the meetings of the group are called "conclaves." He would not divulge the details of the organization of the Ku Klux Klan in California. He admitted that "business meetings" are still held twice a month. The initiation fee is $10 and the dues are $6 a year. The initiation fees are kept by the local unit for expenses and the dues are sent to the headquarters in Georgia. He stated that the Kleagle had nothing to do with the collecting of dues. The main duties of this office is to secure members. The organization is ritualistic. He denied ever having heard of the title of "Titan" and did not know what the duties of a "Dragon" were.

Sahli stated that he had been a "fighter" for the America First Committee, but that he had never officially joined the organization. He had been acquainted with the Van Meter brothers for some time and volunteered that they were "good Americans."

When testifying March 24, 1942 (Volume X, pp. 2934-2960), Sahli claimed that he had "demitted" from the Ku Klux Klan. He explained that this meant that he was merely inactive but that he could become active again at any time. He admitted, however, attending a meeting of the organization within 10 days previous to testifying and stated that it was a special meeting "on account of war." Regular meetings of the organization had been discontinued. Pressed for the address of the meeting place of the organization, Sahli flatly refused to divulge that information, but volunteered that it was held near the Biltmore Hotel in the City of Los Angeles. He claimed that he did not know the exact address. He stated that he had given an oath that he would not divulge any of the secrets of the Klan and that he respected the "authority" of this oath more than he respected the authority of the State of California. His reason for "demitting" was because one of his relatives was dying and he might have to go East hurriedly. The meetings attended by Sahli were composed of 40 or 50 members, according to his testimony.

He stated that the Ku Klux Klan was "hot on the tail" of the Communists. The organization was in contact with the F. B. I. and the police department. He claimed that the organization had investigated Nazis, but that they were not much concerned about them as they were only interested in what was going on in America. "They don't like Communism worth a darn—that's why I joined," Sahli added. He had taken "a little look at some of these boys," referring to members of the German-American Bund, and implied that he thought they were all right—that they were merely humiliated. He believed Japan to be the enemy of the United States, had no time for Stalin and no respect for Hitler.

Samuel J. Brogden was the original director and organizer for the America First Committee for northern California. He stated that he began his duties in this position in February of 1941. He admitted being a member but claimed that he was not very active. (Volume VII, pp. 2025-2036.)

George T. Baker testified in San Francisco, December 5, 1941 (Volume VII, pp. 1980-2007), that he was once the Chairman of the George Washington Chapter of the America First Committee in San Francisco. He stated that he discontinued his association with the America First Committee because its chairman, a Mr. Tehaney, objected to Baker reading from Father Coughlin's books at the meetings of the chapter.

FASCIST ACTIVITIES

History

With the close of World War I, political and industrial turmoil convulsed Italy as it did other parts of Europe. The dislocations and readjustments of the postwar era caused widespread distress among the Italian people. Demobilized Italian soldiers found extremely high prices and widespread unemployment upon their return to home communities. Many of the Italian people felt that they had been harshly dealt with at the Peace Conference and the general discontent throughout the country created a condition which was unusually favorable for radical agitation.

As may be expected, the Communist Party of Italy did not let such an opportunity slip by. Strikes were called throughout the country and the Communists believed the moment for the revolution had arrived. Factories and manufacturing plants were seized and revolutionary tribunals set up in the best approved Soviet style. Blood and violence swept the country and many political leaders were assassinated. It appeared that Italy was slipping into the orbit of the Third International.

The war and its readjustments and dislocations had left the government of Italy in a weakened condition and it was too inefficient to maintain law and order under the distressful conditions that followed through 1919 and 1920.

In March of 1919, a former militant Socialist, Benito Mussolini, just mustered out of the Army, organized a group of Italians in Milan. He adopted the fasces of ancient Rome as a symbol of obedience to law. The fasces is represented by a bundle of birch and elm rods bound together by a red thong, in the middle of which is an ax. From this symbol Mussolini's group took its name, Fascists. A black shirt was chosen as a distinguishing mark of dress. They were moved by no other force than the ambition of their leader, Benito Mussolini, the tactics of the Communist Party and the inefficiency of the government to check the disorders which were breaking down the social and economic fabric of the nation.

The Communists of Italy, as was true of the Communists of Germany during the same period, in their fanatical attempt to destroy the existing order to make way for the dictatorship of the proletariat, created an equally ruthless and terrorizing opposition—not from the government itself, but from anti-Communist elements in the Nation. By 1920 the Fascists were meeting Communist violence with Fascist violence. In 1921 Mussolini's black shirts became established as a regular political party and in 1922 they had grown strong enough to take control of the government.

In October of 1922 a general mobilization of the Fascists from all over Italy was ordered. On Sunday morning, October 13, 1922, the black-shirted columns converged on Rome. King Victor Emanuel III, seeing the futility of declaring martial law, sent immediately for Mussolini. Mussolini complied with the King's request and that day became the Premier of a new Italian cabinet.

Not quite so quickly and not quite as brutally and ruthlessly as Hitler, Mussolini, nevertheless, as surely and completely, consolidated his power and within a period of five years had carried Italy from a liberal parliamentary Democracy to a totalitarian corporate state in which only the producers were given the privilege of participating in political life.

He crushed opposition relentlessly and placed rigid restrictions upon the press. By power-politics a series of laws were enacted, gradually relinquishing the powers of the legislative branch of the government and placing them in the hands of the executive. By 1928 Benito Mussolini was the Dictator of Fascist Italy. Then came the Ethiopian conquest, the Berlin-Rome Pact and the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Anti-Comintern Pact. Mussolini fancied himself a modern Caesar of a new Roman Empire.

Theory

While Italian Fascism antedates Hitler's Nazism by a little over 10 years, its fundamental theories are very similar. There is little doubt but that Hitler, in his opportunistic political career, drew heavily on both Communism and Italian Fascism for the tenets of his program for the New Order in Europe. Benito Mussolini, at least, appears to have been somewhat original in the field, although the philosophy, if any, of Fascism was superimposed upon his usurpation of power over the Italian people after his domination of the Nation was complete.

Out of the confusion a few facts appear obvious. The essence of Fascism is the complete elimination of democratic institutions, principles and procedures and the establishment of a disciplined minority under a strong totalitarian dictatorship. Like Communism and Nazism, Fascism exercises ruthless violence in the suppression of opposition. Launched as an actual frontal attack on the Italian Government with civil war as the alternative, Mussolini and his conspirators did not find it necessary, in the beginning, to resort to the establishment of networks of underground sabotage and subversive activities.

The ruthless destruction of all instruments of self-government, freedom of the press, free speech and assembly, characterized Fascism's rise in Italy. The judiciary, as under Hitler, was made an instrument of the Fascist faith without a semblance of independence. Strict control over radio, newspapers and all other means of communication and information is enforced by the Fascist State as a means of keeping the people in subjection and training them in the new ideology of totalitarianism.

The Fascist State, like the Third Reich and Soviet Russia, is a one-party State. Opposition parties are promptly, viciously, and thoroughly liquidated. The use of police and special agents in ferreting out and breaking up opposition organizations is continuously carried on. Religious, intellectual, recreational, athletic and similar non-political organizations are directly under the control of Fascist authority. Parliamentary procedure and legislative bodies are dissolved and the Dictator rules by decrees.

Like Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy is everything and the citizen is nothing. The exaltation of the State over the individual may be said to be the essence of its philosophy. While private property is said to be protected, the State extends its control over the Nation's industry, agriculture, commerce, education and similar activities.

Anti-Semitism does not appear to have been an important plank in the Fascist platform in the beginning. The anti-Jewish campaign in Italy became noticeable after Hitler began to exercise influence over Mussolini.

The spearhead of Fascist activities in California was found to be in San Francisco. Your committee and its representatives had made a study of the situation in California covering many months before finally deciding on public hearings in the San Francisco Bay area. #### FASCIST PROPAGANDA CHANNELS IN THE UNITED STATES AND CALIFORNIA

An impetus to Fascist propaganda in the United States and California might have been noticeable after Hitler's rise to power in Germany at the time of the Berlin-Rome Pact. It does not appear to have been as intense nor as successful as Nazi propaganda. This may indicate a deeper sense of loyalty in the hearts of American-born Italians than in American-born Germans. It may mean that the German people have been longer subjected to the "German Kultur," racial superiority ideologies and absolutism of monarchy and leadership than the Italian people. In any event the committee has not found the Italian people in California associating with subversive groups to the same extent as have German-Americans. This statement is not to be construed as casting any reflection on the German-Americans as a whole. The studies of your committee indicate that a great majority of German-American and Italian-American people in the United States are intensely loyal and devoted citizens of the United States. The subversive German-American and Italian-American are the exceptions and not the rule.

Carmelo Zito, the editor and publisher of an Italian language newspaper, Il Corriere del Popolo, and an anti-Fascist, testified at length on Fascist activities and propaganda in San Francisco. (Volume XII, pp. 3344-3377.)

He was born in Oppido Mamertino, Italy. He served in the Italian Army in the first World War and came to New York December 19, 1923. He became a naturalized citizen of the United States November 9, 1938. He had lived in San Francisco since 1931 and had been the editor and publisher of the Il Corriere del Popolo since September of 1935. He narrated the history of the newspaper, which was founded in 1910 by a Mr. Pedritti, whom he designated as a "liberal" and who, in 1922, wrote against Fascism. Pedritti was a follower of the Italian patriot, Mazzini. Zito claimed that he had continued the Pedritti policy in the Il Corriere del Popolo despite considerable abuse from the Italian colony in San Francisco. He stated that most of the Italian businessmen in the area depended on the import trade from Italy and, therefore, were economically obligated to preserve good relationships with the official Italian Government. Because of this economic pressure, Zito stated, the Italian businessmen were compelled to boycott the Il Corriere del Popolo.

He named the most important pro-Fascist publications as L'Italia, a daily newspaper edited by Ettore Patrizi, La Voce del Popolo, also edited by Patrizi, Il Leone, the official bulletin of the Sons of Italy, and the defunct La Rassegna Commerciale, the official organ of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco. He stated that the La Rassegna Commerciale had been discontinued when the United States Government closed the San Francisco Italian consulate. The editor of the La Rassegna Commerciale had been Camille Brancchi who, according to Zito, went to Buenos Aires, South America, to continue his Fascist work.

He described Fascist propaganda used in radio programs in the Italian language through the bay area radio stations. He named La Voce del Italia on KROW (which he said was still on the air, although innocuous since Pearl Harbor), as being sponsored by Ettore Patrizi, the editor of L'Italia. He stated that Patrizi in one broadcast had declared that Mussolini was ruling Italy with an "injection of love." He branded a radio program by Gelsi Medeor, started in 1936 over Radio Station KROW, and still continuing, as a disseminator of Fascist propaganda. He stated that since Pearl Harbor the Medeor program had turned to selling war bonds and broadcasting news of the Mazzini Society. Formerly this program had found Mussolini the most popular man in the world by a huge majority vote. A third radio program, which stopped after Pearl Harbor, was broadcast over Radio Station KRE. The announcer was a man by the name of Francesconi, who is now interned in Montana by the United States Government. Zito stated that he had used figures of "Uncle Sam," "Mary Ann" and "John Bull" to mock the democracies and carried the advertising of the Rossi Cigar Company. Another program had been broadcast over Radio Station KLS in Oakland and was sponsored by Arthur de Nunzio. This program purported to be a news broadcast and, Zito declared, after December 7, 1941, one of the announcers was apprehended by the Federal Bureau of Investigation—a man by the name of Angelo Bacoccini, who was also an editor of the Sons of Italy's publication, Il Leone. This same Angelo Bacoccini, according to Zito, was a teacher in the San Francisco Italian language school which he unequivocally branded as Fascistic.

He stated that he had clipped pictures and slogans from the textbooks used in the San Francisco Italian language schools and had made composite photostatic copies and translations and had sent them to Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco and to the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of California in January of 1936. He stated that no action whatsoever followed. In 1937 a Captain Lane of the San Francisco Police Department, had a bill introduced in the State Senate to bring the Italian language schools under the supervision of the Board of Education, but, Zito declared, "it was killed by Sylvester Adriano's lobbying in Sacramento."

He told of another pro-Fascist program over Radio Station KLS sponsored by a man named Guaragna. He stated that this program was for the collection of gold rings from the Italian women in the Italian colony in San Francisco to be sent to Italy to aid Musolini's cause in Ethiopia. He stated that some $40,000 had been collected, $10,000 of which was donated through the Grand Lodge of the Sons of Italy. He stated that San Francisco Scavengers' Association had contributed labor and work free of charge for this cause in contrast to the Association's present demand for $9 per ton for the collection of scrap metal for the United States. (The association had formerly asked $16 a ton but reduced it to $9 after public protest.) He named Sylvester Adriano as a member of this association—the "honorary President."

He cited the case of Dr. Joseph Facci, whom, he contended, sponsored an anti-Fascist broadcast which was boycotted. Dr. Facci was removed from his position as Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce for his anti-Fascist work. Dr. Facci is now with Archibald Mac Leish in the Office of Facts and Figures in Washington, D. C.

He called the attention of the committee to another radio broadcast in Los Angeles which was sponsored by La Parola, an Italian language newspaper in that city. He stated that this publication was definitely pro-Fascist. He declared that the Bank of America had financed all Italian broadcasts and had put the "squeeze" on papers of an anti-Fascist nature.

He named Gianni Cardellini of Los Angeles as an individual who had sponsored a Fascist radio program. He stated that Cardellini was now interned in Montana as a dangerous alien.

He narrated the history of Fugazi Hall and the activities emanating from it. He said that only one Italian language school had existed in San Francisco prior to the advent of Fascism in Italy. This one school then branched out and 36 units existed throughout the State of California at the time Zito testified. He detailed the supervision by the Italian consuls in San Francisco of the Italian language schools and stated that the Italian Government had sent teachers to California and had furnished the textbooks without charge. The teachers came to the Italian Consulate with diplomatic passports and immediately fled to Italy when war clouds gathered. These Italian teachers taught Fascism "pure and simple"; gave the Fascist salute in school and sang the Fascist National Anthem, Giovenezza.

He stated that the term "Roberto" had been coined for the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis. Many of the Italians in San Francisco's colony declared that "Roberto" would win the war." Fascist agents and sympathizers kept up a constant stream of propagandizing throughout the Italian colony.

He emphatically declared that he had personally seen Mayor Angelo J. Rossi give the stiff-armed Fascist salute in public in the Scottish Rite Auditorium and that, because of this conduct on the part of the Mayor, Fascism had received a "sort of official blessing," and the Italians in San Francisco accepted it.

He explained the meaning of the term "Fascio." He stated that the Fascist Party name is Partito Nazionale Fascista and that the Society Fascio Umberto Nobile (the name of the San Francisco Fascist Unit), was taken from the name of an Italian aviator-explorer. The Fascio Umberto Nobile Society was disbanded in 1930 by the Fascist Party in Rome. Another society, Littorio, was founded in New York to take its place, but this organization operated over the United States in a much more secret manner than the former organization. He personally did not know that San Francisco had a branch.

He branded the association of Italian war veterans, the Ex-Combat-tenti Society, as Fascist. He stated that most of its leaders in San Francisco had been apprehended by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after December 7, 1941. The Dante Alighieri Society was also branded as a Fascist group. Most of these latter-named organizations met at Fugazi Hall.

He told the committee of excursions for Italian-American children to Italy from San Francisco and stated that these trips had been financed by the Italian Government. He stated that the first of these excursions took place in 1936. The best children in the Italian language schools were selected and upon arrival in Italy immediately swore allegiance to Mussolini. He stated that many of the Fascist sympathizers exercise dual citizenship and were, in fact, subjects of Italy. The excursion of 1938 had been called off "at the last minute" when the children were in New York waiting for transportation across the Atlantic. He stated that pictures of the children giving Mussolini the Fascist salute were run in magazines circulated in San Francisco.

He stated that the pro-Fascist press in San Francisco had "deified" Mussolini prior to the declaration of war. The Italian colony was miserably confused and apparently could not understand why the United States Government would declare war on the "sainted Mussolini."

Zito stated that the Mazzini Society had sent a circular to 52 Italian-American associations in San Francisco in May of 1942 in reference to their American loyalty and requested cooperation of the Italian-American communities in a public manifestation of their loyalty to America and their condemnation of Fascism. Out of the 52 Italian-American associations, only two gave full assent and five gave partial assent. He stated that most of the Italians and the Italian associations in San Francisco now state that they are for the war and want the United States to win, but that they don't want to commit themselves as "anti-anything." He pointed out that there exists an Ernest Smith Committee, also known as the Win-the-War Committee, with headquarters in Fugazi Hall, but stated that it will not commit itself as to being "anti-Fascist."

He told of a floral float which had been made for the Mothers Day Parade by the Florists Association of San Francisco. He stated that the maker had devised three bouquets which were to signify the heads of Mussolini, Hitler and Hirohito respectively, but that they were prevented from labeling them and, therefore, the public lost the significance of what the bouquets purported to indicate.

Alfredo Segre was born in Turin, Italy, and holds a doctorate from the University of Turin which he received in 1930. (Volume X, pp. 3027-3037.) He spent considerable time on the African Gold Coast, served in the Italian Army and visited Egypt. He is the author of a novel published in 1933 which won the National Public Contest in Italy, which honor corresponds to the Pulitzer Prize. He spent some time in France and came to the United States in May of 1939.

Upon leaving the Gold Coast and returning to Italy, he conferred with one of the ministers of the Fascist High Command concerning the economic situation in the Italian colonies of Africa.

He stated that he had studied the principles and doctrines of Fascism thoroughly and that he was completely against them. He said it was very difficult to define just what Fascism actually is as there existed in Italy a dispute as to where, how and who originated it. He was perfectly willing to accredit the ideas to Mussolini.

He told the committee of the feuds and struggles in Italy at the period previous and just after Mussolini took power. He stated that he did not believe there were Italian Fascist fifth columnists at work in the United States. He believed that the German elements were directing subversive organization work from New York, but did not believe there were any propagandizing efforts being made by the Fascists in the Italian colonies in California. He felt that it was quite natural for the Italians in the United States to be enthusiastic about the achievements of the Fascisti in Italy.

Segre's testimony was somewhat inconsistent and at odds with the information he had given to committee representatives prior to testifying in open hearing. While he admitted that there were some 95 pro-Fascist and pro-Nazi newspapers printed in German and Italian in the United States, he did not believe that there were any propagandizing efforts being made by the Fascists in the Italian colonies in California. After a tirade against Fascism couched in explosive language to interviewers in private, Segre's performance on the witness stand came as a mild surprise to committee members.

Mario Parisi, the operator of the Princess Theatre located at 1596 Church Street in San Francisco, admitted that he exhibited foreign films. (Volume VII, pp. 2036-2039.) He stated that he did not exhibit propaganda films and that the only films of this character known to him were those that were coming out of Russia, such as the Mannerheim Line which was shown at the Miami Theatre and at the Larkin Theatre within recent months. He stated that the Clay Theatre also exhibits Russian films.

Rose M. Panuechi stated that she was an attorney for a radio program over Radio Station KLS. (Volume XIII, pp. 3540-3555.) She admitted that Angelo Baccoccina had been the announcer on this program. She claimed that she did not know of any Fascist propaganda disseminated through this program. She admitted, however, that Baccoccina was "unfortunately" in a concentration camp.

Philip G. Lasky, General Manager of Radio Station KROW, addressed a letter to the committee denying allegations formerly made by witnesses that Radio Station KROW had permitted the broadcasting of Fascist propaganda. (Volume XIII, pp. 3593-3594.) The letter was read into the record. Lasky stated that the present owners of the station had taken over its management August 30, 1939, and had, during their supervision, maintained strict censorship over all radio programs and had not permitted Fascist propaganda to go on the air. He stated that the Italian language programs had continued with the knowledge and permission and under the regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. He stated that since June 20, 1940, transcriptions of each Italian broadcast had been made and that they were on file. He denied that the testimony of Carmelo Zito properly reflected the policies of the Italian programs on Radio Station KROW.

Renato Marrazzini was the bookkeeper for the L'Italia Press Company. (Volume XIII, pp. 3618-3623.) He was born in Italy and became a naturalized citizen in 1926. He has held his present position with the L'Italia Press Company since 1915 and during that time up to 1939 was in charge of the circulation department. Since 1939 Marrazzini has been the business manager of the paper. He stated that Patrizi employs the personnel. He could only recall the employment of a part-time worker, a Mr. Delizo, during the past two years. He stated that Mr. Delizo was assigned to special Pacific Coast news.

The circulation of L'Italia was around 12,000 and the circulation of La Voce del Popolo was between 5,000 and 6,000. This circulation was paid circulation. He confirmed Miss Setaro's testimony by stating that the largest advertisers of these Italian language papers were the Bank of America and Lachman Brothers. He admitted that the newspapers sponsored a radio program and that the largest advertiser on the program was the Rossi Cigar Company. He presented the committee with the advertising rates for the papers.

He admitted that he had owned stock in L'Italia Press Corporation since 1917.

Leo Ostaggi is a bank clerk in the Bank of America in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3627-3632.) Part of his duties consist in translating advertising matter for the bank. He stated that he received the material from the Charles Stewart Company. He also checked up on advertising copy in the foreign language (Italian) newspapers. He admitted that the Bank of America gave no advertising copy to the Il Corriere.

Ostaggi was born in Italy and came to the United States in 1913. He went back to Italy and fought in the Italian army as a lieutenant with the Alpine Troops during the first World War. He returned to the United States in 1920 and became a naturalized citizen May 7, 1926, in Los Angeles.

He had worked for the Bank of America for 20 years. He admitted having a very wide acquaintance in the Italian colony in San Francisco. He was the President of the Ex-Combattenti Society in 1938 and held this office for about 10 months. He attended meetings in Fugazi Hall and sent the rent money (which amounted to $26 monthly) to the janitor, Mr. Botticco. The money was sent by check, made payable to Botticco. He believed that Sylvester Andriano had something to do with the Fugazi Hall organization. There were between 40 or 50 active members in the Ex-Combattenti Society at the time he was president, and the organization carried some 120 members on its rolls. The dues were 50 cents monthly and the organization met once a month. It had two secretaries during his regime as president, a Mr. Giovacchini and a Mr. Gutladavo. The secretary handled the finances of the Ex-Combattenti Society.

In his employment for the Bank of America he clipped ads from La Rassegna and read the publication. He did not know that the Italian Chamber of Commerce had been registered with the United States Department of State as an agent of the Italian Government. He claimed that the advertising copy distribution was not determined by him, but that "some one from the Stewart agency" handled it.

Ostaggi declared that he had only examined one textbook used by the Italian language schools.

Gilbert Tuoni is an independent motion picture producer living in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3662-3674.) Though he had made application he was not yet a citizen. He enjoys a wide acquaintance in the Italian colony and stated that he had observed "plenty" of pro-Fascist activities in San Francisco. He recommended that all Italian radio programs be taken off the air and that the printing of propaganda papers, such as the L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo, be stopped.

He had been accused by the pro-Fascists in San Francisco of being a traitor to Italy and of being in the pay of the British Government. Because of his anti-Fascist attitude and the work he had done against the pro-Fascists, he had been threatened on several occasions. Certain individuals connected with Ettore Patrizi had called on him and attempted to shame him for his anti-Fascist attitude.

In 1932 he published a book entitled Italian Activities in America. He had worked with labor groups in California and had observed the "Columbus Avenue group" exploit labor. When in Castroville, engaged in filming a motion picture for the artichoke industry, he was ordered out of the area by a Mr. Nolinari, whom, he "presumed," was now in a "concentration camp."

He was familiar with the Italian language schools in the City of San Francisco and stated that he had examined many of the textbooks. It was his unqualified opinion that the textbooks were compiled for the single purpose of spreading Fascist propaganda among American-born Italian children. He unequivocally branded the Ex-Combattenti a Fascist organization, though he believed that many innocent men had been induced to join it.

He was in the City of San Francisco when Fascio Umberto Nobile was founded and stated that its founder, now deceased, was at the time of organizing the society an editor on one of Patrizi's newspapers.

He emphatically branded Patrizi's newspapers as pro-Fascist and as organs of "racketeering." "They are poison!" he declared. He stated that Ettore Patrizi had six men in California who were engaged in "strong arm" work for the Italian Fascist group. He named these men as Viriglio, Nolanari, both of San Francisco; Luigi Colombo of Los Angeles; Bravi of Portland and Salt Lake City; Brignole in northern California and Fransconci in the Santa Clara area. Tuoni stated that these men acted as collectors for Patrizi's newspapers. He stated that Fransconci is now in a "concentration camp." Nolanari, he added, was also interned.

He had known Renzo Turco for many years and stated that Turco was a "believer" in Fascism. He was also acquainted with Sylvester Andriano but knew little of his activities.

He declared that only the pro-Fascists in California had received decorations from the Italian Government and that all of these decorations indicated service to the Fascist regime. He stated that the King of Italy would never give a decoration to anyone unless Mussolini sanctioned it. Since 1934, "every other butcher in California has received a decoration from the Fascist King of Italy," Tuoni declared.

George T. Baker, an official of the Citizens No-Foreign Wars Coalition, testified December 5, 1941 (Volume VII, pp. 1980-2007) that he had attended a German Day celebration in California Hall in San Francisco. At this meeting, Baker testified, he saw Mayor Rossi, in company of Von Killinger, the Consul General for Germany, give the Nazi salute.

Sylvester Andriano testified on two separate occasions. (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928, Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.) He was born in Italy in 1889 and became an American citizen in February of 1914. He came to the United States in 1901. In 1928 he was appointed a county supervisor by Mayor James Rolph of San Francisco. In 1934 he became a director of the Bank of America. In 1938 he was appointed police commissioner for San Francisco by Mayor Angelo J. Rossi and served in this capacity for two years. At the time of testifying he was serving as Chairman of Draft Board 100 in the City of San Francisco.

When he testified December 4, 1941 (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928) he stated that he was engaged in the private practice of law. He had been the attorney for the Italian Consul in San Francisco from 1917 until the consulate was closed by the United States Government on July 15, 1941.

He claimed he knew nothing of Italy's participation with the Hitler regime in Germany. He stated that he was "not competent to judge" the Garibaldi tradition in Italy, but was of the opinion that Garibaldi did not do "heroic work." "He was a fine patriot," he added, "but he did a lot of harm, too."

Andriano visited Italy in 1938 and was away from the United States for about 90 days. He claimed that he did not see Mussolini and denied having been made a Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy. He claims that he holds the decoration known as "Commandatore," which, he explained, is Commander of the Crown of Italy. He testified that this is a decoration higher than Chevalier and Knight Officer. He recalled talking to some one in the office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Rome but stated that it was "solely in connection with the participation of Italy in the San Francisco Exposition."

He claimed that he had not read the article concerning himself in the Italian Chamber of Commerce magazine or the article written by Ettore Patrizi and published in L'Italia quoting him (Andriano) as praising the "Fascist Regime" in Italy. He denied having used the words attributed to him, and Patrizi, who was sitting in the audience while Andriano was testifying, arose to take full blame for improperly quoting Mr. Andriano.

He denied ever having used the terms "Il Duce" when speaking of Mussolini. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.)

He claimed he had never heard of a "Fascio" organization in San Francisco. He admitted being President of the Fugazi Building Association in 1928 or 1929 and stated that it was a "white elephant." He denied that anyone had ever offered to pay the rent on the building.

He admitted that he met with Vittori Mussolini, the son of Benito Mussolini, when the latter visited San Francisco. He stated that he called on him with the Italian Consul, Rinaldi, in 1937 or 1938. Vittori Mussolini had come to San Francisco in reference to Italian participation in the San Francisco Exposition.

He stated that he had been very enthusiastic over "Christian Rome" when he visited there the last time.

He could not recall Senate Bill 540 introduced in the 1937 Session of the Legislature for the regulation of foreign language schools in California.

He stated that Superior Judge McKeage had recommended him for his appointment to Draft Board 100 in the City of San Francisco.

He claimed that he sold Liberty Bonds and worked for the Red Cross during the last World War. At that time he was the Secretary of Draft Board Number 13 in San Francisco. When asked what he intended doing with his decorations from the Italian Government, Andriano stated that he would await suggestions from prominent authorities in Washington. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.)

Joseph Civinini was called to testify concerning the minutes of a meeting in Fugazi Hall, written in Italian and signed by him, which Andriano had partially denied. (Volume XIII, pp. 3674-3677.) Civinini stated that he was presently the Secretary of the Italian Benevolent Society in San Francisco. He definitely recalled the meeting in question at Fugazi Hall and identified the photostatic copy of the minutes in the possession of the committee. He translated the paragraph dealing with the funds offered by the Italian Consul to Fugazi Hall, Fascio, Dante Aligheri and Ex-Combattenti. He stated that the meeting had been called to order by Sylvester Andriano and that Consul Meelini Ponce de Leon, Mr. Zulberti, Mr. Laiolo, Mr. Oberti, Mr. Peachiera, Mr. Farina, Mr. Patrizi, Mr. Pedrini, Mr. Olivieri, Mr. Baccigalupi, Mr. Zanolini, and Civinini, himself, were in attendance. He stated that the photostatic copy of the minutes, in the possession of the committee, was a true and correct report of the minutes prepared by him and accurately recorded what actually had occurred at the meeting.

Paul Bibily, formerly of the French Consulate, first in New York and then in San Francisco from January 11, 1937, to July 22, 1940, designated himself as the Vice Consul for the Free French. (Volume XIII, pp. 3531-3540.) He had been dismissed by Petain but insisted that he still represented the Free French.

He declared that there was much Fascist activity in San Francisco and that considerable information was on file on the subject in the French (Vichy) Consulate in San Francisco. He stated that he had known Renzo Turco for five years and stated that "even the lampposts know he is a Fascist." He had known Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor of the City of San Francisco, for about five years and stated that he was "rather fond of him." Turco had confided to him that it would be a good thing for the United States and France to establish a Fascist system of government. He knew of the Ex-Combattenti Society and branded it as pro-Fascist. He had examined the textbooks of the Italian language schools and stated that the grammar and arithmetic were "cleverly pro-Fascist."

He had met Ettore Patrizi on several occasions and had read his papers, but stated "I will not make any daily fare of 'feuille d'Clouy'"—the cabbage leaf. He stated without equivocation that Patrizi's newspapers were pro-Fascist, adding, "maybe not so much since December 7th * * * the courage is not very thick on the Fascists."

Rudolph Altrocchi is Professor of Italian Literature at the University of California in Berkeley. (Volume V, pp. 1501-1509.) He had been at the university for a period of 13 years in the Department of Italian Language.

He explained that Fascism is a form of government where the people are the servants of the government. He stated that there is no suffrage in Italy and that racial persecution is part of its philosophy. Whatever the advantages Mussolini may have brought to Italy, Altrocchi declared the benefits were inferior and superficial and that Mussolini has, in fact, killed the soul of the Italian people. He stated that the Italians hate the Germans and find the Axis partnership very onerous.

He admitted knowing Ettore Patrizi, the publisher of L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo for a considerable length of time. He stated that they were both members of an Italian club, Crenacolo for a time.

He stated that the Ex-Combattenti Society was an organization of Italian war veterans who met generally in Fugazi Hall in North Beach in San Francisco. He stated that this group formerly celebrated Armistice Day on November 11th, but that they had stopped this celebration "several years ago."

He declared that one of the principles of Italian Fascism is not to recognize the citizenship of Italians in other countries. The theory of Italian Fascism is "Once an Italian, Always an Italian." He stated that many Italians become naturalized in the United States as a matter of expediency and that the Italian Government tells them that they are not merely Italians but Fascists and instructs them to disseminate Fascist propaganda.

He stated that most of the propagandizing of Fascism in San Francisco was done by the Italian language newspapers, through the Italian Consul and the Italian Chamber of Commerce.

Nazi and Fascist Activities

Harry R. Bridges, President of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, was a volunteer witness before the committee. (Volume XIII, pp. 3594-3618.) He gave his business address as 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, and stated that in addition to being President of the ILWU that he was the State Director of the Congress for Industrial Organization since August of 1937. He related incidents of the unloading of German ships in San Francisco harbor by members of the Longshoremen's Union and stated that the men had noted German officers leaving German ships in uniform. He stated that they had observed Storm Troopers in full regalia on the German ships and had seen them leaving to visit ashore. He had assigned longshoremen to trail the Storm Troopers and they followed them to the German House in San Francisco. He stated that they visited there regularly and contacted various persons in the building. He stated that full notes had been made of these visits which were in his possession and that the material was available to the committee. These activities, he stated, dated from 1935 or 1936 until the German ships stopped coming to San Francisco, shortly after the declaration of war with England.

He told the committee of a meeting held in the German House in San Francisco. He stated that the Maritime Federation investigated this meeting and found that Von Killinger, German Consul, spoke, and that the meeting was being held in celebration of the conquering of Czechoslovakia. He stated that 800 to 1,000 people gathered to protest the meeting and particularly protested the presence of Mayor Rossi. The labor unions, according to Bridges, followed this protest through. He declared that the Maritime Federation passed resolutions at the time supporting the picket lines around the California Hall where the meeting was held. He declared that the resolution stated that the picket line had been "brutally attacked" by police; that the hobnobbing of Mayor Rossi with Nazi stool pigeons was condemned and demanded that the mayor repudiate them. A copy of the resolution was sent in a letter to the mayor, under date of October 6, 1938, and same was read into the record. The Maritime Federation, according to Bridges, sent a delegation, consisting of Henry Schmidt, Walter J. Stack, Clarence Paton and others, to the board of supervisors demanding the floor at the meeting to protest McShoev sitting with Von Killinger on the platform. It was Bridges' opinion that the request was ignored.

Archie Brown, a member of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, Local 110, testified December 3, 1941. (Volume VI, pp. 1730-1758.) He admitted that he was a member of the Communist Party. He stated that he had been a candidate for supervisor in the 1940 elections and had attended a meeting of the Forum of American Federation of Labor, Culinary Union, in October of 1941 when Supervisor Adolph Uhl spoke. He stated that he had referred to the German Day celebration in California Hall in 1938 at which Uhl and four other supervisors attended. He stated that Adolph Uhl had declared that Mayor Angelo Rossi had given the Nazi salute and "Heiled Hitler."

Renzo Turco gave the same business address as given by Sylvester Andriano. (Volume XII, pp. 3378-3396.) He stated that he was born in Italy and became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1928. He graduated from the University of Genoa in 1920 and came to the United States in 1922, graduating from the University of California in 1925. He was admitted to the practice of law in California in June, 1926. He stated that he had practiced in San Francisco since his admission to the Bar.

He denied ever belonging to the Fascist Party or wearing a button of the Fascio. He stated that he knew very little concerning Fascio Umberto Nobile in the City of San Francisco and added that it was "wound up" in 1928. He stated that "it was very fashionable to belong" as Fascism was in favor the world over. He said that the symbol of the Fascist Party was Roman and that he believed that one of the tenets of the Fascist regime was "to revive the old Roman glory." He admitted attending meetings in Fugazi Hall, but could not recall if any of these meetings were connected with the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society. He doubted the statement in the minutes of one of these meetings, in possession of the Committee, which reported that he was present.

He admitted having been secretary of the Ex-Combattenti Society and stated that he took office in 1927 and discontinued in 1930. He remained a member. He commented that the organization died "for lack of oxygen" around December 7, 1941. He claimed that the Ex-Combattenti kept no record of attendance of members at the meetings. The meetings formerly were held at 510 or 511 Columbus Avenue and later moved to Fugazi Hall. He could not remember to whom he surrendered the records in 1930 when he went out of office as secretary.

He made a trip to Europe in 1930 "as a bachelor."

He was acquainted with Major Renzetti when he was the Italian Consul in San Francisco. He admitted having visited him "socially" in 1937 in Berlin. On that trip, Turco stated, he toured around Europe and visited Italy twice. He claimed that he paid his own expenses. He stated that he knew Mrs. Renzetti was friendly with the officials of the German Government and had autographed pictures of them. He recalled Goebbels as one of them. He did not know if Mrs. Renzetti was related to any of these officials. Major Renzetti did not return to San Francisco after going to Europe.

He admitted having accepted an invitation to speak at the German-American Bund meetings in California Hall in the City of San Francisco. He admitted having met Herman Max Schwinn but stated that he did not know his name until he saw his picture after December 7, 1941, in the newspapers.

He was acquainted with Mario Parisi and was aware that he exhibited foreign films in Italian and German.

He denied that he had visited Fascist Party or Italian Government officials while in Rome.

He was acquainted with the German Consul General in San Francisco, Fritz Weidemann, but claimed that he was only acquainted with him "socially."

He admitted having spoken at America First Committee meetings, but denied ever having belonged to the organization. He denied having made slurring remarks concerning Jewish merchants in relation to Red Cross knitting; he said he had merely criticized the appearance of the Red Cross headquarters at North Beach, likening it to a "Jewish junk shop."

He related the details of an attack on him and Gaston Usigli, a musician, about 10 years before and said that some men had beaten them up, alleging that they were wearing Fascist buttons. Two of the men were captured and held for trial. The matter of the wearing of the Fascist buttons was not brought up at the trial, he asserted.

He admitted having become Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco in 1939 and that he had continued in this position until 1940 when he turned the affairs of the secretary over to Dr. Facci.

While the committee was sitting in San Francisco, taking testimony on Fascist activities in the Bay Area, Harry R. Bridges addressed a letter to the committee under date of May 25, 1942. (Volume XIII, pp. 3581-3582.) Bridges signed the letter as the President of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union. He stated that in the Fall of 1935 the garbage collectors of San Francisco had collected large quantities of scrap metal for shipment to Mussolini for use in Fascist Italy's Abyssinian campaign. He stated that the garbage collectors of San Francisco had collected this metal free of charge. He stated that the longshoremen refused to load it on the Italian ships for a period of two months. The Italian Consul visited Bridges and told him that Mayor Angelo Rossi had ordered the longshoremen to load the scrap metal and stated that if the longshoremen refused to do so that the police would be ordered to break the resistance. Bridges volunteered to appear before the committee and did so May 26 and 27, 1942. (Volume XIII, pp. 3594-3618.)

He stated that the Scavengers' Association of San Francisco had collected two or three hundred tons of scrap metal, consisting mostly of copper and brass and the longshoremen had refused to load it on the Italian ships in San Francisco harbor. He stated that it had been the policy of his union not to assist Fascist nations. The scrap metal lay on the wharf in San Francisco for two months during which time he made a check of the background of the collection by the Scavengers' Association. He stated that it had been collected in the name of the Italian Red Cross. The Italian Consul had informed him that Mayor Rossi had helped in the drive to secure the metal. Mayor Rossi later phoned Bridges and told him that the metal had been collected as a "humanitarian gesture" and that a "bunch of Communists on the waterfront" were attempting to insinuate that the collection had not been made in good faith. Bridges declared that he told the mayor that his men would not load the metal and the mayor informed him that he would find men who would load it and give them police protection. The members of the Longshoremen's Union then protested to the Italian Consul and argued with him as to the good "scrap metal" would do the Italian Red Cross. Later Judge Marcus C. Sloss, labor arbitrator, ruled that the union must load the scrap metal on the Italian ships and gave the men an hour to do so. The material was then loaded.

Bridges identified the publication, Voice of the Federation, for July 12, 1939, and stated that he was one of the founders of this paper and that it was first published in June of 1935 and ceased some time in 1941. He stated that the back copies of the publication contained information corroborating his statements as given above. The issue of October 10, 1935 published a resolution passed by the longshoremen addressed to the Maritime Federation prohibiting the Maritime Federation members from helping Italy in any way. They were instructed not to handle ammunition or war equipment material destined for Italy. Bridges called the committee's attention to another resolution passed by the Firemen's Union in which the Standard Oil Company of California and other American capitalist firms were branded as collaborators of Italian aggression in Ethiopia by shipping oil to Italy. He stated that the firemen refused to sail on ships chartered for Italy, Eritrea or Italian Somililand. The issue of October 24, 1935, reported the longshoremen's refusal to load the Italian motor ship Cellini and declared the material to be loaded as contraband under a current ruling by President Roosevelt placing an embargo on all arms, munitions and war materials to Italy during the Ethiopian war. The issue of October 31, 1935, reported the picketing of the Italian Consulate. The article related the interference of the police in this picketing and referred to a newspaper story branding the picketers as "a bunch of Communists."

He stated that the Scavengers' Association demanded high rates for the collection of tin for the United States in its present war effort, in comparison to the attitude of the Scavengers' Association in collecting scrap metal for Italy free of charge to assist in the war of aggression in Ethiopia.

Sylvester Andriano admitted being an attorney for the Scavengers' Association, known as the Sanitary Fill Company. (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928.)

He stated that he represented the Scavengers' Association on some matters, and that he is an attorney for the Sanitary Fill Company which holds city and county franchises in San Francisco. He denied that the Scavengers' Association had collected gold for Italy during Mussolini's Ethiopian campaign.

Mrs. Carola Brusehera denied that she had taken any part in collecting gold for Italy's Abyssinian War. (Volume XIII, pp. 3499-3503.) She stated that she "just wrote the address when they sent the money in." She stated that this had been done in the office of the Ex-Combattenti in Fugazi Hall. She said it was a social affair put on by the ladies and that the money was collected to "help the poor."

Mayor Angelo Rossi was called before the committee for two reasons. In the first place, he had been charged by a number of witnesses as participating in Nazi and Fascist activities in the City of San Francisco. These accusations had been made in public and it was felt that the mayor should be given an opportunity to answer such charges. In the second place, Angelo Rossi is an American of Italian descent and titular head of a great California municipality containing a large Italian population. It was well established that he was an old friend of both Sylvester Andriano and Ettore Patrizi. The testimony of witnesses in November and December of 1941 and at the May, 1942, hearing in San Francisco, had indicated considerable Fascist activities in the Bay Area. The evidence before the committee was overwhelming as to Fascist propaganda and indoctrination in the Italian colony in San Francisco. The committee members were convinced that the three ring leaders of the Fascist movement were Sylvester Andriano, Ettore Patrizi and Renzo Turco. The entire hearing was geared to pivot about these individuals and their activities.

The main purpose in examining Angelo Rossi under oath was to determine what he had done to remedy the Fascist situation, widely publicized as a result of the committee's hearing; to learn whether or not the mayor was cognizant of the facts concerning the matters described to the committee by witnesses at that hearing. The committee itself, or its representatives, had at no time remotely suggested that the mayor had been engaged in subversive activities in his official position. The committee, therefore, was surprised when the mayor, before a question could be propounded to him, dramatically read into the committee's records a statement setting forth his personal history and proclaiming his patriotism, which no one connected with the committee, up to that point, had disputed.

He proclaimed his 100 per cent loyalty to the United States of America. (Volume XIII, pp. 3452-3471.) He stated that he had served as a member of the Recreation Commission for seven years and had been a member of the San Francisco County Board of Supervisors and the foreman of the Grand Jury. He stated that he had been elected Mayor of the City of San Francisco and had served in that capacity for 12 years. He denounced the testimony of the witnesses and accused the committee of holding "star chamber" sessions. He declared that he had cooperated with Federal authorities 100 per cent and that he believed the investigation of the committee was a "smear campaign" against him.

He admitted having been acquainted with Sylvester Andriano for many years. He also admitted knowing Ettore Patrizi. He stated that he had no knowledge whatsoever of the activities of the Italian Chamber of Commerce and that he knew vaguely of the Ex-Combattenti Society. He had heard nothing of the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society; knew something of the Italian language schools but admitted that he had never made any inquiry regarding their activities.

He admitted that he had an autographed picture of Mussolini in his office and stated that it had been presented to him in 1933 when Senator Marconi had visited San Francisco. He stated that the San Francisco Board of Supervisors had entertained the senator and had made him an honorary citizen. He added that he had photographs of many prominent people from all over the world but that he had removed the photographs of the Japanese and the Germans.

Mayor Rossi disclaimed any connections with Fascism and denied that he had received the Fascist Grand Cross, as had been stated in the publication of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, La Ressegna. He admitted having received a decoration from the King of Italy on January 24, 1938. He stated that he had never attended any functions he knew to be either Fascist or Nazi in character and denied having ever given the Fascist salute. He stated that he had denounced Axis activities, but could not recall having denounced Mussolini in particular. He described his other Italian decorations and stated that one was received in 1931 on the recommendation of Tito Schipa and the other from Senator Marconi. He stated that he had never read Zito's paper, Il Corriere, or the People's Daily World. He denied ever having seen Sylvester Andriano give the Fascist salute.

ITALIAN ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

A. M. Cogliandro narrowly escaped with his life several months before testifying, December 4, 1941, and for his personal safety the committee designated him in the press as "X-2." (Executive Session, December 1, 3 and 4, 1941.) Shot from ambush, the assassin's bullet passed through Cogliandro's coat without injuring him. Since this unsuccessful attempt on his life he had been threatened on a number of occasions.

He stated that the Italian Consul General in San Francisco used the office for the dissemination of Fascist propaganda and that all visitors coming to the office were given booklets, leaflets, photographs, etc., which were decidedly Fascist propaganda. He stated that the same type of propaganda was distributed by the Italian Chamber of Commerce in the City of San Francisco. All of the material issued by the Italian Consul General's office in San Francisco was printed in Italy under the supervision of the Minister of Propaganda. Cogliandro stated that before an Italian-American might secure permission to visit Italy, he had to prove to the Consul that he was, in fact, a Fascist. This situation had existed for 10 years. In addition to these activities, Cogliandro declared that the Italian Consul maintained a number of Fascist spies in the San Francisco Bay area.

The pro-Fascist Italian language newspapers in California were named as L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo, published by Ettore Patrizi. Cogliandro stated that the two newspapers were owned by different corporations and he believed that both were subsidized by the Italian government until late in 1940.

The Italian Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco published a magazine by the name of La Rassegna Commerciale which was registered in the United States Department of State as foreign government propaganda. Cogliandro stated that the Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, Branchi, was registered with the United States Government as a foreign agent of Italy. The current secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce was named Ilacqua.

Cogliandro was acquainted with the Ex-Combattenti, an organization which was composed of men who fought for Italy in the World War. He stated that this group was decidedly pro-Fascist. He said that they formerly met in Garibaldi Hall in the City of San Francisco but that at the time of testifying they were meeting in Fugazi Hall located at 678 Green Street, San Francisco. He stated that Fugazi Hall was donated to the Italian community for colony uses, but that it had come into the possession of the Italian Government and had been used, up to the time of testifying, exclusively for Fascist work and was managed by the Italian Consul in San Francisco. The property had been donated by an Italian by the name of Fugazi who had also given a library for the use of the Italian colony. Cogliandro stated that the Fascists in charge of the building had destroyed the books and substituted others which had been sent from Rome by the Minister of Propaganda through the Italian Consul. He stated that the Fascist organizations in the Bay Area maintain headquarters at Fugazi Hall and disseminate Fascist literature from there. The Italian Legion, the After Work Club and After School Club used Fugazi Hall for their activities. He stated that the After School Club, an organization composed of students, used the Hall for Fascist drills.

Some time in 1937 the Italian Government sent four teachers or instructors from Rome to teach in San Francisco's Italian language schools. Cogliandro declared that they openly taught obedience to Mussolini and Victor Emanuel, the King of Italy, and trained the children in principles of Fascism.

He identified a medal which, he stated, was one of the highest decorations conferred by the Italian Army and stated that he had received it for service with the Italian Army in the war against Abyssinia in 1896. He also identified a medal given by the Italian Government to Fascists in foreign countries for "good propaganda work."

He stated that the Union Sports Club was another organization completely controlled by the Fascists. It also had its headquarters in Fugazi Hall until some time in 1940 when the Italian Consul left San Francisco. He related his difficulties in attempting to pass legislation in the California Legislature designed to bring all foreign language schools under the direct supervision of the State Board of Education. He stated that Sylvester Andriano appeared before the State Board of Education and protested the proposed legislation. Cogliandro was finally successful in inducing State Senator Metzger to introduce his bill in the California Senate. It was known as Senate Bill 540 in the 1937 Session. He stated that through Andriano's activities the bill was killed. He stated that Andriano conducted an energetic campaign against the measure and wrote against it in the Italian language newspaper, L'Italia.

Referring to Ettore Patrizi, the publisher of L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo, Cogliandro declared that United States Senator Borah had accused Patrizi of being a man living "under two flags." He stated that Borah had made a speech in the Senate against the Fascists and that he spoke in the name of 250 Italian-Americans in California. He personally wrote Borah a letter of congratulation and offered the committee a copy of the letter.

He stated that there were 47 Italian language schools in California, with nine of them located in the City of San Francisco. He examined the textbooks of these schools in the possession of the committee and declared unequivocally that they were "Fascistic." He stated that Sylvester Andriano was the President of the Italian School Board. Andriano had been decorated by the Italian Government as a Chevalier (Knight) and also as Commandatore (Commander) in 1935 and 1936 and had received a third decoration in 1938. He stated that the Italian language schools in the United States are partially supported by the Italian Government. He told of the school children wearing the uniforms of Ballila, a youth Fascist organization. He explained that Ballila was a character in Italian history. He identified the uniformed groups in photographs in possession of the committee.

He stated that the members of Ex-Combattenti used black shirts but did not wear a full uniform. He stated that when Marconi visited San Francisco in either 1937 or 1938, a banquet was held at the Fairmont Hotel and that the members of Ex-Combattenti shouted "Viva Il Duce" and gave the Fascist salute. The witness ventured the opinion that Marconi was told what to say in the United States by the Minister of Propaganda in Italy. He stated that he refused to shake hands with Marconi, the inventor, because he had become Marconi, the Fascist.

He was familiar with the organization known as the Sons of Italy and believed that some of its members and officers were pro-Fascist.

He ventured the opinion that the Italian people had never liked the Germans and that they were much more sympathetic to the Allies. He stated that his father was called a "conspirator" during the war for Italian Independence (1866-1870) because he had worked with Mazzini and Garibaldi, "the liberators." He stated that Mussolini had destroyed all this (Socialist) work.

He listed the Italian language publications that he contended were Fascistic. He stated that the only Italian language newspaper in San Francisco that is anti-Fascist is Il Corriere del Popolo, published by Carmelo Zito.

He stated that there had been a number of Fascist radio programs in the Bay Area, notably on Radio Stations KROW, KLS and KRE. He stated that Italian propaganda films had been exhibited from time to time at the Marina Theatre and at the Princess Theatre, operated by Mario Parisi. At the time of testifying, Cogliandro stated that Parisi was exhibiting German films.

Cogliandro contended that Fascist and American principles are incompatible. He claimed that he had been fighting the Fascist movement in America since 1923.

He indicated that Sylvester Andriano carried on Fascist propaganda and organizational work after the United States Government had closed the Italian Consuls. He believed that Ettore Patrizi headed the Fascist organizational work in the United States.

He stated that he had belonged to the Italian Chamber of Commerce in pre-Fascist days and that nine years before, he was Grand Secretary of the Italian Federation.

Cenaloco

Rino G. Lanzoni (an alien), an importer of Venetian glass and antiques, was the secretary of Cenaloco, a social and cultural organization, according to his testimony. (Volume XIII, pp. 3558-3561.) He stated that Cenaloco was organized in 1929 and that he had been secretary of it until about 1937. It was still in existence. He stated that the name was taken from the Renaissance and that it still had between 40 and 50 members. He claimed that there were no political aspects to the organization.

He was aware that Dr. Branchi had gone to South America. He had met Renzo Cezana on several occasions but stated that he was not a member of Cenaloco. He believed that a Mr. Corao was the secretary of the organization until he enlisted in the armed forces of the United States.

Lanzoni claimed that he knew nothing about the Italian language schools in San Francisco. He stated that Musto Guido, President of Cenaloco, was decorated by the Italian Government and that Dr. Giordano and Mr. Andriano had also received decorations from Mussolini's Government. He stated that Mayor Angelo Rossi was an honorary member of Cenaloco. A Mr. Calairi was the custodian of the membership lists of the organization.

He concluded his testimony by stating that he had no knowledge whatsoever of Fascist activities among the Italian-Americans in San Francisco.

Ex-Combattenti Society

Dr. Modesto Giordano is a physician and surgeon enjoying a large practice among the Italian-Americans in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3524-3531.) He stated that he came to San Francisco in 1930 and became an American citizen in 1939. His practice was confined almost solely to the Italian colony although he included French, Spanish and Central American patients in his clientele.

In 1937 he was called by the Italian Consul, Rinaldi, and requested to become the President of the Ex-Combattenti Society. He was a member of the organization but had not taken an active part in its affairs. He acquiesced with the request of the Consul and became president of the group. He was convinced, he said, that the Ex-Combattenti Society was not a political organization and based his statement on its "By-laws." There had been some friction in the organization instigated by two or three members who called themselves Fascists. One of these members was named Montani; the others, Dr. Giordano was unable to identify. He stated that none of them held office in the society.

The Ex-Combattenti Society was a federated, Nation-wide organization with headquarters for the United States in New York. Under examination he admitted that the Italian Consuls took a very active part in the organization. The international headquarters of the group is located in Paris, France. The organization was disbanded when war was declared December 8, 1941. He had received a decoration from the Italian Government—the decoration of Cavaliere. He stated that this decoration was presented to him in 1939 or thereabouts for professional services to the Italian colony in San Francisco and the Italian Consul, Rinaldi, had awarded it to him.

He remembered attending a meeting of the board of directors of the Italian language school in either 1937 or 1938. He claimed that he had not examined the textbooks.

He concluded his testimony by stating that he had no information whatever on alleged Fascist activities in the City of San Francisco.

Sylvester Andriano described the Ex-Combattenti as a "sort of American Legion" for Italian ex-service men. (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928.) He denied that it was a pro-Fascist organization. He said that the club-rooms of the society were ornamented with pictures of Washington and Lincoln as well as Mussolini. He stated that he did not know of Fascist agents in Ex-Combattenti. He stated that organizations other than the Ex-Combattenti held their meetings at Fugazi Hall and stated that one C. I. O. union and the Societa Opraia, a fraternal organization, meets there once a month. He could not recall that the members of Ex-Combattenti ever wore black shirts. He emphatically denied ever having accepted money from the Italian Consul for the Dante Alighieri Society, Ex-Combattenti or Fugazi Hall, despite the documentary evidence contained in the minutes of the meeting in Fugazi Hall October 22, 1929, and verified by its secretary, Joseph Civinini.

He stated that the Ex-Combattenti paid $35 a month rent for Fugazi Hall but did not know where they raised the money.

Ettore Patrizi stated that "Ex-Combattenti" actually indicated the "Italian Legion." He claimed that the members of this organization never wore black shirts and that the only semblance of a uniform was a cap.

Sons of Italy

Rose M. Fanuechi is a San Francisco attorney, born and reared in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3540-3555.) She was admitted to the State Bar of California on November 19, 1932. She stated that she was a member of Dante Alighieri Lodge of the Sons of Italy and that she had been appointed the English editor of its publication, Il Leone. She stated that the editor of this publication was Anthony Fiore. She received no compensation for her work. She stated that the Sons of Italy is a fraternal benefit organization. The editor who preceded Fiore on the paper was Angelo Baccocina, a teacher in the Italian language school and now in an internment camp in San Antonio, Texas. She stated that he had been apprehended December 8, 1941; that he was an alien and a member of Dante Alighieri Lodge. She stated that she had known him since 1937.

Miss Fanuechi was still a member of the Sons of Italy. She claimed that she had never observed any effort to propagandize the organization with Fascist doctrines. She claimed that Il Leone is not tinged in any way with pro-Fascist flavor from her point of view. Baccocina, as editor and herself as English editor, were not engaged in the capacity of writers. They merely edited the material that went into Il Leone. Being shown a quotation from the paper quoting Benito Mussolini, she claimed that the article had appeared before she joined the paper's staff.

Vincent Melella was the secretary of the Grand Council of the Sons of Italy and the editor of Il Leone. (Volume XIII, pp. 3577-3583.) He stated that he had previously been the Financial Secretary of the Grand Council. He admitted having made donations to support the Italian language schools over a period of years. These donations were on behalf of the Sons of Italy. In 1940-1941 the donation to the school had amounted to $1,340.65 and for the preceding period, $2,509.70. He claimed that he had seen but one textbook used in the schools and had merely "glanced over it."

He denied ever having been connected with the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society or any other Fascist organization. He stated that the Grand Lodge of the Sons of Italy held a convention in Santa Barbara in 1935 and claimed that the policy of supporting the Italian language schools was established in this convention. The members were assessed 35 cents each, two-thirds of which was used for educational purposes and one-third for benevolent work. He believed it possible that the Sons of Italy in California had contributed the funds toward sending children on visits to Italy. He stated that the organization in Illinois had entertained the children and paid part of the expenses in 1936 or 1937. He admitted that it was "possible" that the money for sending the children to Italy had been taken from the benevolent fund.

Anthony S. Fiore was the State president of the Sons of Italy when he testified May 26, 1942. (Volume XIII, pp. 3561-3577, 3647-3655.) He had held this office since 1939 and had been a member of the organization since 1931.

He had lived in San Francisco since 1922 and had received a law degree from the University of California and had been admitted to the practice of law in 1929.

He stated that the Sons of Italy is a corporation, chartered under New Jersey law with the headquarters of the Grand Lodge of California located at 805 Washington Street, San Francisco. He stated it is composed of 54 lodges in California and that it has a membership of six to seven thousand. The official publication of the Sons of Italy is Il Leone.

Being shown articles quoting Mussolini in Il Leone, Fiore stated that this policy of quoting Fascist leaders had occurred before he took office as president and claimed that the practice had been abandoned during his regime.

He succeeded Edward Dinucci as president. Dinucci is an alien and Fiore stated that he believes that he was in the custody of the United States. He admitted that Dinucci's policies had been "too pro-Fascist" and that he was defeated for election at the organization's convention.

He declared that the Sons of Italy were 100 per cent American in principles and ideals. He believed that the Fascists had made attempts to indoctrinate the organization, with their principles.

The Sons of Italy was first organized in 1905 in New York and during the early part of its history had had considerable trouble from an attempted Communist penetration. Fiore stated that the organization was successful in routing the Communist invasion.

A man by the name of Caforio had succeeded to the presidency of the Sons of Italy before Dinucci was elected president. Fiore stated that Angelo Bacoccini had been the president of the Dante Alighieri Lodge of the Sons of Italy in San Francisco and had been the editor of the Italian section of Il Leone. He stated that Bacoccini was now interned by the United States Government. He was acquainted with Mr. Gharadi, who had been the managing editor of Il Leone. He stated, rather dejectedly, that Gharadi was also interned. He believed that Gharadi had also held a minor office in the organization.

He was acquainted with Renzo Turco and said that he was serving as the president of one of the lodges of the Sons of Italy in the City of San Francisco. He believed that Turco had something to do with the press and propaganda committee of that organization.

Fiore was acquainted with Mr. Bartoletti who once occupied the position of Managing Editor of Italian section of Il Leone and was also a lodge president. Fiore admitted that Bartoletti was also in custody.

Il Leone was being printed at the time Fiore testified by the L'Italia press and he claimed that he supervised the issues of the magazine in his office. His executive secretary, Vincent Melella, prepared the material.

Fiore was acquainted with Fabrisio Mantini who was once State president of the Sons of Italy. Upon being asked the present whereabouts of Mantini Fiore, more dejectedly, admitted that he also was in custody. Under further examination, Fiore sadly admitted that the activities of Federal agencies were decimating the ranks of the organization. He emphatically denied that the Sons of Italy indulged in political activities officially. He stated that the members must be either American citizens or have indicated their intention of becoming citizens.

He "believed" that the organization sponsored "a collection" for Italy during the Ethiopian War, but added, "that was before my time." He explained that this collection was made for the purpose of aiding the suffering in Italy and was not for the purpose of buying guns or tanks. He stated that the funds were sent to the Italian Red Cross. He said that the supreme lodge assisted in both the American and Italian Red Cross drives in 1940 and that $500 had been collected for the Italian Red Cross, but that the United States Department of State had forbidden the Sons of Italy to send the money. Permission had been given to the Ex-Combattenti Society to collect for the Italian Red Cross and consequently $250 of the money was given to the American Red Cross and $250 to Ex-Combattenti. He stated that he was not a member of the Ex-Combattenti Society and had no knowledge of the affairs of the organization.

In the National Convention of August, 1941, the Sons of Italy had gone on record as being anti-Fascist, anti-Nazi, anti-Communist and anti-Shintoist and had pledged full loyalty to the President of the United States.

Fiore made an eloquent plea for the cause of the Sons of Italy as an American institution with 300,000 members in the United States. He cited the records of illustrious members and defended the organization by stating that pro-Fascist elements had "attempted to use" it but had, in fact, failed in this objective. He introduced the official publication of the order to show its pro-American resolutions passed at the Convention in September, 1941, opposing Communism, Nazism and Fascism and supporting President Roosevelt. He introduced a copy of Il Leone for January, 1942, reporting the extraordinary session of the supreme officers in Philadelphia on January 20th at which time the order was committed to an all-out war effort, pledged to purchase Defense Bonds and to encourage the able-bodied members to join the armed forces and women's auxiliaries and to assist local Red Cross chapters. He cited statistics on aid to the American Red Cross and the purchase of bonds by the members. He stated emphatically that the interned members of the organization were traitors to the order and that the Sons of Italy did not in any way condone their un-American activities.

Italian Chamber of Commerce

Sylvester Andriano admitted having been president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco for the past two years. (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928.) He stated that the chamber had published a magazine known as the Rassegna Commerciale and a bulletin. Rassegna Commerciale was registered under the United States Government Registration Act and he admitted that he was likewise registered as the agent of a foreign government for two years. He stated that the reason for this registration was because the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco had been receiving a subsidy from the Italian Government to foster better trade relations and travel between the United States and Italy. He stated that the sum varied from $1,000 to $2,400 a year. He had no knowledge of any member of the Italian Chamber of Commerce resigning during the term of his presidency because of his management of it.

Andriano had been a director of the Italian Chamber of Commerce for about 20 years. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.) The organization dissolved after Pearl Harbor.

His testimony in connection with the Italian Chamber of Commerce was inconsistent on several occasions. He stated that it had received about $2,000 annually from the Italian Government because the chamber advertised "travel" for Italy and because of this subsidy the chamber was forced to register as an agent of a foreign government with the United States Department of State. He then denied that the travel agency was connected in any way with the Italian Chamber of Commerce and stated that the travel agency had always paid for ads in the chamber's magazine. He argued this point at some length very unconvincingly.

In 1939 the Italian Chamber of Commerce materially increased its staff. Andriano claimed that this increase was necessary during the rush of business for the San Francisco Exposition. Ordinarily it only employed only three or four employees. Camille Branchi, former secretary of the chamber, according to Andriano, left for Chile "to visit his family" several months before the chamber closed.

Later he testified that the Italian Chamber of Commerce was "still practically open" with Miss Clara Semanario in charge. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.)

Ettore Patrizi admitted having been a member of the Italian Chamber of Commerce for 12 years and at the time of testifying, December 6, 1941, he was the vice president. (Volume VII, pp. 1936-1963.) He denied any knowledge of members of the Italian Chamber of Commerce resigning because of pro-Fascist activities on the part of the chamber or its officers.

Mario L. Perasso had been the president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce for 18 years. (Volume XIII, pp. 3632-3641.) He was an insurance broker by occupation and came to the United States in 1891. He was naturalized at the age of 21. Sylvester Andriano succeeded him as president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in 1940.

He stated that the chamber was organized in San Francisco in 1885 and that it was similar to hundreds of American chambers of commerce throughout the world, such as those in Milan, Italy, and other Italian cities. He stated that the Italian Tourist Bureau began its operations in 1932 under the supervision of Dr. Guiseppe Facci, who was then the Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce and, at the time of testifying, May 27, 1942, was an United States Government employee in Washington, D. C. He stated that Enit (Tourist Bureau) distributed literary essays on music and celebrities of science, such as Fruili, a booklet which was submitted to the committee. He stated that the Italian Chamber of Commerce differed in no manner from the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce. He stated that Rassegna had published articles on agriculture, commercial and statistical matters for 55 years, in addition to "a generous sprinkling of literary brain children of Dr. Branchi." Perasso claimed that he had not read the 50th Anniversary Edition of La Rassegna in which Mussolini was praised. He claimed that the chamber had around 150 members at the time that it was closed. The regular members paid $18 yearly as dues.

Dr. Guiseppe Facci had resigned from the chamber because the board of directors did not approve of his activities on behalf of Upton Sinclair, a candidate for Governor of California. He stated that the chamber did not approve of Dr. Facci going into politics. He stated that he had no knowledge that Dr. Facci was anti-Fascist, but knew that he was very liberal.

He claimed that the editor of the chamber's magazine La Rassegna, had full control of the editorial policy of the publication.

THE ITALIAN CONSULATE

Sylvester Andriano denied having acted as attorney or legal advisor for the Italian Consulate in San Francisco. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.) He admitted that he had handled business through the Consulate but that this business was mostly in reference to the estates of deceased Italians.

He stated that the Italian Consulate closed June 15, 1941. (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450.) He claimed that he did not authorize Ettore Patrizi to publish the statement contained in L'Italia which reported that Sylvester Andriano would henceforth handle matters for the Italian Consulate. He explained that he had volunteered to assist persons who were puzzled about where they should make applications to the Consulate, but that all he did was to give them the address of the Italian Embassy in Washington.

Giovacchino Pisani was the owner of a printing establishment, Pisani Printing Company, located at 700 Montgomery Street in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3655-3662.) He had lived in San Francisco for 34 years and had been a citizen of the United States for 26 years. He admitted having a wide business acquaintance in the Italian colony in the Bay Area and had assisted the Italian language schools in raising money. He had occupied a seat on the board of the schools while Sylvester Andriano visited in Italy. He stated that he had never examined the textbooks used and that his only connection with the schools over a period of nine years was that he had made donations to them.

He disclaimed any knowledge of the activities of the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society and claimed that he was never connected with the Ex-Combattenti Society. He admitted that he once printed Il Leone "years back," but stated that he was not printing Italian publications at the time of testifying May 27, 1942. He said that about 2 per cent of his business was Italian and that he had never worked for Ettore Parzi.

He admitted having been decorated by the Italian Government, the Cavaliere, and stated that he had received this decoration from the Italian Consul, Rinaldi, for fine printing—for artistic work. He stated that he is most anxious to enter into the political phase of the Italian community, and, of course, was not aware of the Fascist activities in the country. He stated that he had never heard anyone praise Mussolini but admitted that he had never heard his Italian acquaintances make any statements against Mussolini. He said that he had not participated in the scrap metal drive for Italy, but stated that he perhaps had given "a dollar." He concluded his testimony by stating: "I am just friendly with everybody." • • •

Christina Gallieri had been employed as a stenographer by the Italian Consul in San Francisco since August 27, 1937, and had continued in this occupation until the Italian Consulate was closed by the United States Government. (Volume XIII, pp. 3555-3557.) She stated that the Consul and his staff were out of the office by July 5, 1941. She had been engaged in handling English correspondence and "personal work" for the Consul and Vice Consul. She claimed that she knew nothing of Rinaldi's connection with the Italian language school and stated that she did not believe the Consulate engaged in any pro-Fascist propaganda work.

Vincenzo Zirpell was formerly an attaché with the Italian Consulate in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3480-3489.) He was employed by the Worldwide Insurance and Occidental Life Insurance Company in San Francisco. He is an Italian alien. He arrived in San Francisco February 24, 1923, and for some time was employed by the Italian Consul General. He served 13 different Consuls over a period of 24 years. (He failed to explain this apparent discrepancy by listing his services in Consulate offices in places other than San Francisco.) He stated that he had quarreled with the last Vice Consul, Toscard, and he had then emigrated. He said he was "too old" in ideals and he believed that the Consuls should stick to the manual of rules but that Consuls and Vice Consuls persisted in quarreling.

In 1924 or 1925 the New York Italian Consulate represented the Fascio and wanted the San Francisco office to establish a Fascio on the West Coast. Eventually a man by the name of Pallavicini was chosen as the Fascio delegate from San Francisco. The San Francisco Consul had visited Italy and had stated that the Fascio had no place in America, but Italy, nevertheless, ordered the establishment of a Fascio club and the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society was established. He stated that Pallavicini had lived much too long in the United States to become a pure Fascist and that considerable friction arose concerning the club and on the suggestion of the Italian Consul General of San Francisco, Zirpell, the club was dissolved in 1926 or 1930. It had existed since about 1924. Zirpell did not know where the meetings of the organization were held. Pallavicini had been the Chief Editor of L'Italia.

He narrated the incidents of the Renzetti regime in San Francisco's Italian Consulate. He stated that Major Renzetti came to San Francisco from Germany in 1936 as a temporary Consul and had been president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in Berlin. He held the rank of major in the Italian Army. Zirpoli stated that Renzetti had not spread Fascist propaganda and did not know of him giving any particular orders other than to instruct the employees of the Consulate to dress and act well. He stated that Rinaldi, another Italian Consul in San Francisco, neglected his duty and even wore a uniform to the office. He stated that Rinaldi was a fanatic and paid great attention to the Italian language schools and had been instrumental in bringing two men from Italy as Consular employees but that they were assigned to teach in the Italian language schools in San Francisco. They were definitely under Rinaldi's orders.

He stated that the books for the Italian language schools had always been printed in Italy. He had seen many of the textbooks used in San Francisco and identified the imprint "Anno 11" as meaning the eleventh year of Fascism. "Anno 11" was inscribed on the textbook used in the San Francisco language schools. He stated that the Italian Consulate had charge of the Italian language school. The text-books came from Italy to the Consulate every year. The schools received a subsidy of $20 a month from Italy (100 Lira) and on one occasion $500 was sent for the purpose of meeting the expense of cleaning the school and at another time to pay the taxes.

He was aware of the drive in San Francisco which professed to assist the Italian Red Cross during Italy's war with Abyssinia and stated that "money was raised and gold was received" and the funds were sent to the Italian Embassy in Washington, D. C. by the San Francisco Consulate. He likewise recalled that the San Francisco Scavengers' Association had collected scrap metal and that it was hauled to Pier 41 for transportation to Italy.

He admitted that the San Francisco Italian Consulate had an official connection with the Ex-Combattenti Society and stated that Renzetti had been a member of the organization.

He believed that there were still six or seven Italian language school branches in San Francisco and approximately 39 in the State of California.

He denied that he had ever told anyone to change their doctors and to choose one in sympathy with Mussolini, as was charged in a letter which had been read into the committee's records.

ITALIAN LANGUAGE NEWSPAPERS

Sylvester Andriano stated that he was not aware of pro-Fascist publications in the City of San Francisco. (Volume VI, pp. 1905-1928.) He claimed that he had never seen foreign motion pictures of a pro-Fascist character and had never heard a radio broadcast that he considered pro-Fascist. He claimed that he did not read the Italian language newspaper, Il Corriere, and therefore had not read the article introduced into the committee's record at page 1918 of Volume VI, in which Andriano had been branded as the brain trust of the Fascist movement in California. He stated that he had no interest in newspapers other than the Lunine, which he stated he founded in 1937.

He admitted that he knew Ettore Patrizi very well and identified him as the editor and publisher of the newspaper, L'Italia. He was aware that Patrizi had received a decoration from Mussolini. He was also acquainted with La Voce del Popolo, published and edited by Patrizi. He stated that he did not believe that these newspapers went "out of their way" to advocate Fascism.

Henrietta Setaro was the secretary-treasurer of the L'Italia Press Company. (Volume XIII, pp. 3584-3592.) She stated that she had spent her life in San Francisco and was born in Virginia City, Nevada. She had been connected with the L'Italia Corporation for 30 years and had done secretarial work for Ettore Patrizi. She was familiar with the two Italian language newspapers, L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo and said that the two papers had merged in January, 1940. She was familiar with the financial structure of the corporation but claimed that she had nothing to do with the editorial policy of the papers. She admitted that she scanned them but did not read them carefully.

She disclaimed having had anything to do with the collection of gold, rings and scrap metal for shipment to Italy during the Abyssinian campaign.

Bacoccini was formerly the advertising manager and, at the time of testifying, May 26, 1942, Arthur Bignami was in charge of advertising.

She recalled that Ettore Patrizi had a picture of Mussolini in his office but stated that he had taken it down after war was declared together with the other Italian officials' pictures. (Some of these pictures were autographed.) She believed that Patrizi had taken the pictures to his home after removing them from his office.

The Italian Consul, Rinaldi, had visited the office of the newspapers two or three times and she believed that Renzetti had been there once or twice. Ettore Patrizi had made a trip to Italy in 1937 and returned in January of 1938. She stated that he had made the trip about every two years and that she was in charge of the office in his absence. She was quite positive that Patrizi had paid his own expenses on these trips to Italy. She stated that the newspaper had not employed "strangers" for 25 years or more. There were presently 53 employees on the pay roll, 26 of whom were employed in the print shop. She corroborated Patrizi's testimony in reference to Ronchi and stated that he had been discharged from La Voce del Popolo because business was bad. She declared that Ronchi lied if he claimed he was discharged because of the pro-Fascist tendencies of the paper.

She named the Bank of America as the largest advertiser in La Voce del Popolo and believed that Lachman Brothers were the largest advertisers in L'Italia.

L. E. Townsend is the advertising director of the Bank of America in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3623-3626.) He had held that position since September of 1936. The bank uses the Charles R. Stewart Advertising Agency and places its advertising through that firm. He stated that the bank had a small contract with Il Corriere in 1934 or 1935, before he held his present position with the concern. He believed that the amount spent with Il Corriere was about $235. He was aware that the Bank of America used the Italian language newspapers of Mr. Patrizi for advertising and believed that they spent between $2,000 and $4,000 yearly with his papers, as compared with $5,000 to $6,000 with the San Francisco Chronicle. He stated that the foreign budget included papers in Chinese, Russian, Spanish, French, etc. The bank had five branches in the Italian district in San Francisco and that accounted for the amount of advertising placed in Patrizi's newspapers. He did not know anything about the political policies of Carmelo Zito. He claimed that the Bank of America had 425 newspapers on list to which it placed advertising.

Ettore Patrizi was born in Terni, Italy. (Volume VII, pp. 1936-1963.) He is the publisher and editor of L'Italia and La Voce del Popolo. He stated that both papers were owned by a corporation called the Italia Press Corporation but that he controlled the corporation by owning the majority of the stock.

He stated that an interview printed in the San Francisco Daily News in October of 1941 misquoted him and that he had never said that Italian-Americans would refuse to fight against Italy. What he had said, he explained, was that he did not believe that the United States Government should force American-Italians into a branch of service where they would have to fight against Italy.

He explained that the last decoration received by him from the Italian Government made him an officer of the Crown of Italy. He admitted that he had had a controversy through the press with Senator Borah over the matter.

He had followed Italian activities for some time and believed himself to be in possession of considerable knowledge concerning Fascism. He could see no good reason why American citizens should not receive decorations from the Italian Government. He stated that the last decoration received by him was presented by Senator Demichelis of Italy who was in the United States on government business. He stated that the decoration was presented in admiration of the good work he had done among Italian immigrants and he could see nothing wrong in accepting it.

He admitted making trips frequently to Italy. He stated that the majority of the Italians in Italy were behind Mussolini and his reforms and he believed that Mussolini's regime had come into power because of its strong opposition to the Russian variety of revolution which was threatening Italy at the time of Mussolini's intervention. He claimed that Mussolini had given Italy "the best labor legislation in the world." He did not believe that the Italians have very much sympathy for Germany and Germany's cause. He stated that they hated the Austrians and regarded the Germans as a similar type of people. The Jewish people of Italy were not laboring people, according to Patrizi and, therefore, the anti-Semitic laws of the Italian Government had no effect on Italy's working class. He stated that the Jews constitute a very small percentage of the population and that most of the race belonged to the professional class.

He claimed to have but slight knowledge of the Italian radio programs in San Francisco. He admitted running a radio log in his papers which included Italian language broadcasts.

Ettore Patrizi was examined the second time on May 27, 1942. (Volume XIII, pp. 3677-3706.) He testified that he had formerly published a Swiss (Italian) Weekly, Solonia Sviggerra.

Patrizi branded Carmelo Zito and Gilbert Tuoni as two of his most bitter enemies and stated that they were dishonest. He suggested that the committee investigate both of them. He claimed that they had lied and had disturbed the Italian colony at a time when the country was in need of unity. He claimed that Zito continued to stir up agitation on an anti-Fascist basis and he considered anti-Fascist agitation as disturbing as Fascist agitation. He stated "these fellows keep the colony in turmoil • • • with their lies and false information." He alleged that Gilbert Tuoni had formerly been connected with the Italian Consulate and had worn "the black shirt." Tuoni, he continued, had belonged to the "squadron of punishment" and had spread Italian propaganda and exhibited Italian propaganda films before the war. Patrizi was asked to bring proof to the committee of his statements but failed to do so.

He was shown a copy of L'Italia for July 29, 1933, and asked to translate an article appearing in it. The translated article reported Mussolini's organization as admirable and well adapted to the needs of the different classes in Italy. It claimed the Fascist form of government the sanest, "most complete form of government on which the people can depend." He stated that Mr. Bacoccini had written the article. He recalled the controversy over Pietro Bono in 1937 while he was visiting in Italy, and an article printed in the Monterey Peninsula Herald for August 18, 1937, stating that the Italians were not happy under the dictatorship of Mussolini. He admitted that this article was answered in L'Italia August 23, 1937, branding the Monterey Peninsula Herald article a "vile libel" on Italy. He stated that Pietro Bono wrote the article in the Monterey Peninsula Herald (in Italian) and that Bacoccini had written the answer in L'Italia. Bacoccini was "a fine gentleman, • • • not so expert as I," he commented. In this connection he identified his own signature on a letter which he had written from Milan, Italy. The letter was addressed to Bacoccini and advocated silence in dealing with persons and newspapers who are "unworthy." He told Bacoccini, however, that he was justified in his answer to Pietro Bono and that his action was laudable in attacking "the most perfidious of all those who wrote recently about conditions in Italy."

He had written an article in La Rassegna Commerciale for July of 1940 concerning Fascist activities and sympathies in the Italian colony in San Francisco and New York and speculated on the position of the Italians in America if Italy should enter the war on the side of Germany.

Patrizi stated that the activities to which he had referred in this article were "sentimental demonstrations." He stated that the "sentimental demonstrations" were "mild" in San Francisco; that "no real dangerous Fascist activity" existed in this city. He claimed that the San Francisco Italians had a "platonie" love for Italy.

He admitted having written an article in L'Italia of October 27, 1941, which stated that the United States Government would not send Italian soldiers abroad to fight against Italy. He stated that the conclusions on the part of the members of the committee were wrong concerning this article. He said he had written, "No matter how they (Italians) love their mother country, they would do their duty." He stated, however, that he did not believe the United States Government would force Italians to fight against their "brothers" of Italy.

When shown an article in the La Voce del Popolo for April 9, 1942, in reference to Bataan being taken by the Japanese, he admitted that the word "finalmente" looked funny, but that its use was innocent of any intention to convey sympathy with the Japanese. He stated that the individual who wrote the title was a Swiss who did not know the fine shades of meaning in the Italian language and claimed that he had made the same mistake in the other newspaper, L'Italia, for April 9 and 10, 1942. He defended the meaning of the word "finalmente" and argued against the interpretation of the word as defined in Petrocchi's Dictionary and its English equivalent of meaning "joy in accomplishment."

He was shown a copy of the L'Italia for April 26, 1942, containing an article under the title "They Talk Again of Peace." He said that he had spoken hopefully of peace. He branded Hitler as a "merciless dictator" and said that his was the "principal culpability for the terrific tragedy which sweeps the whole world." He pointed out that the Italian people were not in favor of the war and said that they desired to bring it to a speedy end. The same article, "They Talk Again of Peace" appeared again in the April 28, 1942 issue and he stated the reason for its reprint was to correct the "typographical errors" that had appeared in the article when first printed.

He admitted that he had never written anything against Fascism in his papers. He claimed that he had denounced Mussolini as "a very bad servant" on several occasions. He believed that Mussolini had "worked for the restoration of Italy."

He admitted having written a book which was favorable to Mussolini in 1924. He stated that he felt that he could write as he pleased after he had established himself as an American citizen. He had witnessed the turmoil in Italy in 1920. He recalled the murder of Matteotti, a member of the Italian Parliament 18 months after Mussolini had taken over the government and stated that this murder had caused considerable dissension. He wrote a letter to Mussolini which he claimed was subsequently published. "Remember I had in Italy my mother, my sister, all of my family," he added, even though his home was in San Francisco. He remonstrated with the members of the committee who had suggested that he should have stayed in Italy. He translated a letter he had written to Mussolini in which he characterized himself as a "strong Italian to the marrow of my bones," and assured Mussolini that "I put myself at your disposal, if I can help you in any mission, any work bound for the welfare of the mother country." He stated that Mussolini and the Fascists had done "wonderful things for Italy." He likened his feelings toward Mussolini to his feelings for Roosevelt in 1932. He said that he had gone on the radio and spoken for Roosevelt and that now he felt that Roosevelt had forgotten the good of the country. He added that Roosevelt had saved the banks and the institutions of the United States. He believed that the situation in the United States when Roosevelt was first elected was similar to the situation in Italy in 1922 when Mussolini came to power, and believed that the parallel has continued throughout the regime of both men.

He stated that Ronchi, who had testified in the committee's December hearing in San Francisco and who was later discharged from his employment on the La Voce del Popolo, was discharged for reasons of economy. He stated that Alonzo Tutt had never worked for him.

Patrizi, of course, stated that he had no knowledge of pro-Fascist activities in the City of San Francisco.

He stated that the Dante Society had a library in Fugazi Hall and that "they" gathered books for the library from time to time. The Dante Society maintained offices at Fugazi Hall. He admitted that he had been president of this society for a long time.

He was able to recall that collections had been taken in San Francisco for the benefit of interned Italian sailors and stated that there were over 1,000 interned in Montana who needed clothes, toilet articles, etc. He claimed that the United States Government had granted permission to the daily newspapers in New York to open a drive to aid Italian prisoners in Europe.

ITALIAN LANGUAGE SCHOOLS

Mrs. Carola Bruscherà stated that she had been a member of the board of directors of the Italian language schools in San Francisco since about 1928. She later stated that it might have been 1914 or 1915. (Volume XIII, pp. 3499-3503.) The board of directors met once a year. They did not handle textbook material. They merely met for the purpose of raising money. She stated that she paid the teachers. She had not read the textbooks and denied that the schools taught propaganda, stating that they only taught "manners" and the Italian language.

Rose M. Fanucchi stated that Angelo Bacoccina, founder and editor of Il Leone, also taught in the Italian language schools in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3540-3555.) He was an alien and was apprehended December 8, 1941, and, according to Miss Fanucchi was "unfortunately" in a concentration camp.

She stated that she had examined the Italian language schools' textbooks to satisfy her own curiosity. The textbooks examined by Miss Fanucchi, however, were not the same books, according to her testimony, as those in possession of the committee. She stated that she did not know very much about the Italian language schools but that she did know that one instructor was paid by the Italian Government. She was acquainted with Rinaldi, an Italian Consul in 1937.

She stated that the youth groups of the Italian language school were organized into fencing classes, basket-ball teams, etc. She claimed that they had a band and that if they wore uniforms, they were band-uniforms.

Nicholas Ilacqua, an alien, admitted knowing Mario Perasso and identified the financial statement of Fugazi Hall, although he claimed he knew nothing concerning it. (Volume XIII, pp. 3641-3646.) He failed to explain his connection with Fugazi Hall. He claimed that the statement had not come from his office. He admitted knowing that the symbol "XVI" signified the sixteenth year of Fascism. The "Ilacqua" who signed the statement December 31, 1937, was Carmel Ilacqua, his brother, who was in the custody of the United State Government in Missoula, Montana. He had been a clerk in the office of the Italian Consulate in 1937 under Rinaldi.

He claimed that he had no connection with Fascist organizations; that he did not subscribe to L'Italia or La Voce del Popolo and that his only official connection with any of these organizations was for a short period when he served on the board of directors of the Italian language school.

Mario L. Perasso disclaimed any knowledge of the Italian language schools in San Francisco, although he admitted serving on the board of directors. (Volume XIII, pp. 3632-3641.) He had been appointed by Sylvester Andriano and had attended two meetings. He had not examined the textbooks and claimed that he took Andriano's word that they had been accepted by the San Francisco Board of Education. He disclaimed ever having seen a certificate given to the pupils of the school and did not know that the Fasces or a Fascist date was printed or inserted on them.

Charles Henry Tutt acted as translator for the committee during its San Francisco hearings on Italian Fascism. (Volume XII, pp. 3337-3344.) Tutt was born in Canada and graduated from the University of Western Ontario in 1921. He taught French, Italian and Spanish in various schools in the United States. He had visited Italy several times for study and research, returning to the United States the last time in 1928. He did translating for publishing houses, Bertrano Publishing Company of New York, in particular. He stated that he was the secretary of the Mazzini Society in San Francisco. He described the Mazzini Society as an anti-Fascist organization. He is an American citizen.

He translated certain passages from the issue of March, 1936, of La Rassegna, the official magazine of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco. (Volume XIII, pp. 3471-3479.) Mussolini had signed a picture to the Italian Chamber of Commerce and it was dated "Rome, January 27, year 14," the year 14 referring to the fourteenth year of the Fascist regime. Tutt translated at page 15 of this issue under a section devoted to T. R. T., which, he stated, were the initials of the Italian tourist organization. The wave-lengths of Rome radio stations were listed. A picture of L. M. Giannini with the inscription "New President of the Bank of America" was flanked by Crosses of Savoy and Fasces.

Another article referred to "Grand Officer Ettore Patrizi" who had returned to San Francisco after several months stay in Italy. The article stated that he had been received many times by His Excellency Mussolini and that he had had conversations with Senator Guglielmo Marconi. The report continued and stated that due to his articles in the newspaper L'Italia, San Francisco co-nationals (Italians) had been able to learn that "all of Italy, without exception, is behind Il Duce * * *". The article went on to laud Italy's role in the war with Ethiopia. In the same magazine for April, 1936, the officers of the Italian Chamber of Commerce were listed over the symbol of ENIT, the tourist agency of the Italian Government. The translated article stated that the Italian Chamber of Commerce officially represents the ENIT agency "for all the Pacific Coast." A translated item from the December, 1936, issue of La Rassegna stated that the Italians of California had presented a flag-pole to Rome. A translated article in the September, 1936, La Rassegna denounced Roosevelt for not accepting Fascism and indicated that Fascism was the only way out of economic chaos.

An English article from the issue of October, 1935, of the La Rassegna, lauded Fascism and the Fascist State "as a higher and more powerful expression of personality * * * a special force * * * a discipline of the whole person; it permeates the will no less than the intellect * * *"

Mr. Tutt identified a grammar from the Italian language school in Fugazi Hall and translated material from it. (Volume XIII, pp. 3706-3714.) The translation revealed that the inscription for "Italian Schools Abroad" was distinguished from Italian schools at "home," or in Italy. Tutt ventured the belief that this textbook belonged to the second category of propagandizing, namely, the setting forth of something that was desired to be established as a fact. In listing the "ABC's," "B" stands for Balilla, the children's Fascist organization. Many other references to Fascism were contained in the textbook. The book contained illustrations of children garbed in Balilla uniform.

References were made to "Roberto" which indicated the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo; "Ro" for Rome, "ber" for Berlin and "to" for Tokyo. The Fascio littorio was illustrated by a soldier in a Fascist uniform saluting the Italian flag. A translation of a sentence alleged that "Benito Mussolini has reawakened the energies of the race." Another sample sentence stated that "Fascist Italy drains the swamps," and another that "Il Duce was acclaimed by the crowd," etc. Pictures of children giving the Fascist salute constituted another example of propaganda. Many quotations from the writings of Mussolini were included in the book and orders are given to obey the mandates of Fascism. The words of Giovinezza, the Fascist Hymn, were included. Tutt branded the textbook as Fascist from cover to cover.

Ottorino Ronchi was a member of the faculty of the University of California from 1917 to 1929 in the Italian Language Department. (Volume VIII, pp. 1965-1980.) He was acquainted with Sylvester Andriano and once worked for Ettore Patrizi, San Francisco Italian language newspaper publisher. His work was connected with L'Italia, and later, La Voce del Popolo. He had severed his connections with Patrizi in December of 1940.

Ronchi was acquainted with the Italian language schools in the City of San Francisco. He said they were first established for sentimental reasons in 1887 for the purpose of teaching the Italian language only. He stated that after Italy became Fascist, the schools became the means of dissemination of Fascist doctrines. He admitted having been connected with the Italian schools in 1920, and had served on the schools' board of directors.

He stated that a "Fascio" (Bundle) was started in every Italian community after 1922, and later, due to friction, Mussolini had ordered all "Fascios" disbanded in the United States. He stated that Fascist propaganda was then disseminated more subtly. The Italian language schools of San Francisco became real Fascist schools. In this connection, he called the committee's attention to a report dated May 6, 1938, by the United Press which stated that the Italian Government had spent $6,500,000 for propaganda in foreign countries. This included $3,000,000 for schools in South America, North America and France.

Ronchi translated the text of the Third Reader used in the Italian schools in San Francisco as follows: "You little Italian children are forced to be away, far away from your own country, but remember, when you really love a country she is not far, far away * * *. Remember that it is Italy everywhere where the three colors of our Flag make your hearts vibrate. * * * Italy * * * the sweet name of Mother."

Ronchi declared that he had personally met Mussolini when he was about 20 or 21 years of age.

He ventured the opinion that there is no compatibility between Fascism and the American form of Government. He stated that there is no free press or free speech in Fascist Italy.

He translated from the Italian Third Reader textbook on Roma, the city of dreams, which described the greatness of Mussolini, Il Duce, and extolled Fascio and the Black Shirt symbol (pp. 1973-1974). He stated that he believed "emotional and moral chaos" was created by foreign governments in indoctrinating children with foreign ideologies. He stated that the Italian language schools are now merely propaganda centers instead of language and cultural institutions.

He stated that La Voce del Popolo was launched some 82 years ago.

He was a follower of Mazzini, who advocated a Republic for Italy.

Patrizi bought La Voce del Popolo in 1919. Ronchi went to work for him on this paper at about that time. The paper followed a rather liberal policy in the beginning. Patrizi asked him to continue with the paper when Fascism reared its head in Italy. He did so and criticized the regime of Mussolini after 1924. About this time he received orders not to write any more articles against the Fascisti or Mussolini. The manager of the paper told him that Patrizi had given the order. Later a Mr. Liati bought Patrizi out and matters became easier on the paper as Liati told Ronchi he could write what he pleased.

Ronchi expressed the opinion that the suppression of the foreign language press would be a mistake because, he stated, they do disseminate culture which is not obtainable from American papers. He extended the same thought to the abolition of foreign language schools.

Ettore Patrizi testified that he and Sylvester Andriano had been friends for 25 or 30 years. (Volume VII, pp. 1936-1963.) He admitted having been acquainted with the Italian language schools in San Francisco and stated that these schools taught the Italian language, Italian geography and history. He had been connected with the board of these schools for the past 40 years. Sylvester Andriano had succeeded him as the president of the board. The books were printed by the Ministry of Public Education in Italy and he admitted that they "spoke about the present regime or institution" in Italy since it became Fascist. (p. 1941.) After 1922, when Italy became Fascist, the books were changed in the Italian schools. He said that several teachers came over from Italy to teach in the San Francisco Italian language school and that two or three of them were still teaching at the time of testifying, December 6, 1941. He said that the children attending the Italian language school between the ages of 14 and 16 had an athletic club and used a uniform of some sort. He claimed that he could see nothing wrong in foreign governments maintaining language schools in the United States. He stated that Italian language schools were scattered all over the world. The Italian Government made a small subsidy to the Italian language schools in San Francisco and had done so for the past 30 years. The schools also received a subsidy from the Italian Chamber of Commerce. He identified the textbooks used in the schools.

Sylvester Andriano admitted having knowledge of medals which had been distributed to the students of the Italian language school in San Francisco by the Italian Consul. He was the president of the board of directors for the Italian schools and had so served for five or six years. He stated that there were three schools with five teachers in the City of San Francisco. He claimed that the teachers were appointed by the board of directors of the school, or an educational committee. He admitted that non-citizens might have been appointed as teachers. Under close examination he admitted that several years before two or three teachers came over from Italy, sent by the Italian Government. He claimed that he was not familiar with any of the textbooks used in the schools. He likewise claimed that he had submitted a complete list of all the books used in the Italian language schools to the San Francisco Board of Education. He denied that the schools were being used for the purpose of disseminating Fascist propaganda and admitted that if any such activities were being indulged in that he would have knowledge of it. He stated that he had kept in close touch with the activities of the schools and had attended their entertainments, etc. The Italian Government had always helped the Italian language schools in San Francisco since their inception. He stated that the Italian Government had furnished books and had given the best students medals. He stated that the Italian Consul had handled such matters. The textbooks were sent from Italy and were distributed through the Italian Consuls. He stated that he believed the books were the same as those distributed all over the world by the Italian Government. He claimed that some selection was afforded the local committee and admitted that he was a member of such a committee together with Mario Parisi. He "assumed" that the Italian Government published the textbooks and paid for them.

He believed that the Italian language schools were necessary in order to bring about better relations between Italian born parents and their American born children and in order to enable the children to learn the culture and language of their fathers. He ventured the opinion that he believed it made such children better American citizens and pointed out that such education is commercially valuable, enabling the students to secure positions where knowledge of the Italian language is essential. He claimed that children are unable to receive adequate education in the Italian language and its culture in the public schools of the State.

He stated that the Italian community in San Francisco actually selected the board of directors of the Italian language schools, and that the funds for the support of the schools were solicited from the members of the community and that meetings were called for these purposes.

Appearing May 25, 1942 (Volume XII, pp. 3396-3450) Andriano denied that there was but one Italian language class existing in California prior to the advent of the Fascist Government in Italy. He stated that there were always three teachers and that more recently, the largest number was not more than six. He reiterated that the Italian Government had always furnished the textbooks as well as the medals and diplomas for the classes. He stated that the Italian Consul, Renzetti, in 1937 was responsible for considerable activity in the schools.

He stated that he had never seen a diploma used in the Italian language schools before examining the one in the possession of the committee, although he had been on the board of directors of the schools for many years. He now stated that his duties were principally concerned with the raising of money for the schools and he claimed that he never looked over the textbooks until copies had been requested by the Superintendent of Schools in the City of San Francisco. He admitted that some of the textbooks which had been introduced by the Italian Consul, Renzetti, had been withdrawn as objectionable. He admitted that the Italian Consul "had a lot to say" concerning the schools because the funds for the teachers, as well as the textbooks, were furnished by the Italian Government. He stated that the teachers for the schools in San Francisco had been sent over by the Ministry of Information of the Italian Government and that they came as "Directors of Culture." He stated that there was an "Americanization school" on North Beach, which the parents of American born Italian children were encouraged to attend. This was offered in contrast to the statement that the children of Italian born parents were encouraged to attend the Italian language schools better to understand their Italian born parents. He stated that the so-called "Americanism Schools" had been conducted for many years by the Salesian Fathers.

When shown a diploma used in the schools in San Francisco, Andriano admitted that the Roman numeral "XVI" indicated the sixteenth year of Mussolini's Fascist regime and admitted that the space on the Italian language schools' diploma might have been intended for the insertion of that numeral.

He stated that the Italian language schools in San Francisco "may have" received a contribution of 15,000 Lira from the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Italy in December, 1937, as, in fact, was shown by a financial statement of the school. He denied that he had ever seen the statement before the committee brought it to his attention.

SUMMARY OF ITALIAN FASCISM IN CALIFORNIA

The foregoing briefly outlines the intense Fascist activities in San Francisco. The committee found, as the activities of the German-American Bund were generally controlled from Los Angeles, the activities of the Italian Fascist movement were directed from San Francisco.

Emphasis must be placed upon the activities of Sylvester Andriano, Ettore Patrizi and Renzo Turco, apparently the triumvirate-spearhead for Fascist activities and propaganda in California. Andriano had gone far in gaining prominence and influence in San Francisco, particularly in the Italian colony of the city. He had been a supervisor, a police commissioner and, most ironic and menacing of all, the chairman of North Beach Draft Board Number 100. He was the president of the Italian language school and had acted as the attorney for the Italian Consulate. He had made trips to Italy and had been honored with decorations from Mussolini's Government. This situation existed prior to Pearl Harbor and through May of 1942. The members of the committee were horrified that such a situation had been permitted to continue. A resolution was unanimously passed by the committee calling upon President Roosevelt to take immediate action in reference to Andriano and to remove him from his position on the Draft Board in San Francisco.

Ettore Patrizi, the publisher of the two large Italian language newspapers, was unequivocally pro-Fascist and engaged in Fascist activities and the dissemination of Fascist propaganda. It was amazing, if not actually alarming, that the Mayor of the City of San Francisco could testify that he was absolutely unaware of Fascist activities.

After the Fascist march on Rome in 1922, Ettore Patrizi made many trips to Italy. Among many other glowing expressions of admiration for the new regime of Mussolini, he wrote an introduction to a pamphlet bearing the imprint Fascist Society of Italians Abroad and expressed his great willingness to perform "any task, any effort, any mission aiming at the welfare of the fatherland." This attitude was reiterated later in an interview which he gave to a reporter of the San Francisco News in October of 1941. At that time Ettore Patrizi declared in effect that he trusted that this country would never make the mistake of forcing American soldiers of Italian descent to fight against Italy in the event of a war between the two nations.

When Sylvester Andriano returned from a trip to Italy he was interviewed by Ettore Patrizi. The result of the interview was published in Patrizi's paper and quoted Andriano in fervent praises of the Fascist regime. Andriano never repudiated this interview until he was questioned concerning it during the committee's May, 1942 hearing in San Francisco.

Pietro Bono, an American of Italian descent, was attacked viciously by Patrizi's papers for declaring in the Monterey Herald of August 18, 1937, that he had found great dissatisfaction with Fascism in Italy on his last trip there. Patrizi testified that he was not in San Francisco at the time his papers attacked Pietro Bono and stated that his editor had gone a bit too far. When confronted with the original of his own letter to the editor praising him for the article attacking Pietro Bono, Patrizi then admitted writing the letter and assumed responsibility for the attitude of his paper.

The Italian language schools should be a matter of concern to all Americans. Ettore Patrizi had been a director of these schools as well as a director of the Italian Chamber of Commerce. Andriano likewise had been president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce for many years and president of the Italian language schools. He admitted that the Italian Chamber of Commerce had been listed with the State Department as a propaganda agent for a foreign government. The committee studied translations from the official organ of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, La Rassegna Commerciale, and found that it reeked with Fascist propaganda. The Italian language schools used textbooks which were printed in Rome under the supervision of the Minister of Propaganda and sent gratis to America through the Italian Consulate. Many of the instructors were Italian aliens. The committee obtained copies of these textbooks and had them translated. In one instance a long exhortation from Mussolini was used to illustrate the proper use of the colon. They contained the pictures of the Fascies, marching Fascist soldiers and the most blatant sort of propaganda designed to fill the minds of young Italian-Americans with admiration for the strength of Fascist Italy and disrespect for democratic institutions.

It is rather significant that many witnesses examined in San Francisco who had been directly accused by many people of being pro-Fascist, and, from their own testimony involved in Fascist activities, denied having any knowledge whatsoever of Fascism or Fascist propaganda in the city. Both Andriano and Patrizi denied knowing anything concerning a Fascio. They were pointedly asked this question several times and in each case their answers were negative. Yet in an article which appeared in La Rassegna Commerciale for July, 1940, Patrizi himself stated that the Fascio had been formed throughout the world and that a unit was established in San Francisco.

Andriano testified that he was never connected with any organization which received subsidies from the Italian Government, except the schools and the Italian Chamber of Commerce. He was then handed a photostatic copy of the minutes of a meeting over which he had presided in Fugazi Hall. Among other things, the minutes reported that funds were being made available from Italy and were to be allocated between three groups, one of which was the Fascio Umberto Nobile Society of San Francisco. Andriano testified that he recalled everything in the minutes except the reference to Fascio which he vehemently and excitedly denied. Thereafter, Joseph Civinini, who wrote the minutes and took the notes at the meeting on which they were based, swore that the minutes were correct in every respect and that he independently recalled the portion which had been repudiated by Sylvester Andriano.

When the hearings were finished the committee was subjected to considerable criticism because of its temerity in calling the witnesses whose testimony is above outlined, and particular criticism was directed at the committee because it subpoenaed Mayor Angelo J. Rossi. It was, therefore, with some pardonable gratification, that the committee viewed the order from General DeWitt's headquarters removing Andriano, Patrizi, Turco and many others from the area comprising the Western Defense Command for the duration of the war.

The situation in the North Beach region of San Francisco since the Army order became effective has improved tremendously and subsequent conferences held with prominent Italian-Americans by members of the committee and its representatives indicate that there now exists a minimum of Fascist activity among the Italian people.

It must be stated, in all fairness, that despite the Andrianos, Patrizis, Turcos, et al., the great majority of the Italian-Americans in San Francisco and California are good, loyal American citizens.

PART VI

JAPANESE ACTIVITIES

On December 1, 1941, there were about 122,000 Japanese living on the Pacific Coast. About 96,000 of this number were citizens of the United States by virtue of the accident of birth. Alien Japanese are not eligible to citizenship under the Oriental Exclusion Act. The alien Japanese are known as Issei. Those born in the United States of Japanese alien parents are called Nisei, or second generation Japanese.

Subversive activities of the Japanese in California can not be understood, analyzed or combated without some knowledge of the Japanese religion and Japanese state philosophy. The result of the Japanese religion and state philosophy is a fanatic nationalism unknown anywhere else in the world.

Among the witnesses called and examined by the Committee on Japanese Activities in California were the following:

Roy Hampton
Dr. Yu-Shan Han
Masao Kubose
Dr. John Lechner
P. D. Perkins
George Knox Roth

Carl Kazufumai Sato
Joseph Shinoda
Tokie Slocum
Togo Tanaka
Fred Masaru Tayama
Edward L. Thrasher

KEBEIS

Every Nisei (second generation, American-born Japanese) who makes a voyage to Japan for the purpose of pursuing "cultural training" is known as a Kebei. There once were so many Nisei in Japan that local Japanese leaders on the Pacific Coast became embarrassed and an effort was made to bring them home in order to avoid suspicion against the Imperial Government of Japan. In this connection Dr. John Lechner quoted the Hawaiian Sentinel of January 27, 1938, as follows:

"As the result of the Manchurian incident and the spectacular performances of Japanese athletes in the recent Olympic Games, the love of Japan reached its boiling point among the second generation Japanese, who possess American citizenship rights. Things Japanese attract them so much that hundreds of these American-born youths are returning steadily to Japan for education. So great is this exodus of promising youths, that Japanese on the Pacific Coast are faced with a great catastrophe of losing their cherished rights which took them almost 50 years to gain.

"At a joint meeting, held recently by the Los Angeles Japanese Association and Los Angeles Japanese Chamber of Commerce, it was unanimously moved to call back the second generation now in Japan. The Wakayama Prefectural Association in America formed an organization called 'Association of Calling Back Second Generation,' and sent Shiro Fukioka, 59, General Secretary of Los Angeles' Japanese Chamber of Commerce, as special envoy. The Foreign Office was so moved by Fukioka's plea, that it has sent out word to all immigration organizations in different prefectures to encourage a united drive, using this slogan, 'Second Generation Return Immediately to America!'

"Fukioka, who has spent nearly 40 years in Pacific Coast States, says thus in part:

'There are roughly about 20,000 American-born youths between the ages of 18 and 25 residing now in Japan. Being high school graduates, they are well versed with the conditions and things of Japanese and would make ideal immigrants to North America.' "

Among the affiliated Kebei organizations, Dr. Lechner lists the following:

Wakayama Seinen Kai
Hiroshima Seinen Kai
YMCA Wakagusha Kai
Shinykai
Kana gawa Deshikai
Kebei Division of YMCA
Kai Nippon Seinenkai
Kebei Seinkai of Kinto Kyohai
Kebei Seinen of Buddhist Church
Kebei Division of Zenshu Zi

DUAL CITIZENSHIP

Dual citizenship among the Nisei, or American-born Japanese, has been extensively practiced in California. Many Japanese-American organizations in California have vehemently denied the existence of dual citizenship among the Nisei but the evidence is quite overwhelming that it did exist up to Pearl Harbor.

SHINTOISM

Many Japanese witnesses were examined on Shintoism, the State religion of the Japanese Empire, and the members of the committee and its representatives did considerable research on the subject. Many of the witnesses explained the traditional and deep-rooted traditions of the Japanese—Emperor and ancestor worship and the mental and emotional forces which explain the religious fervor the Japanese carry into combat and the contempt in which they hold death in battle.

Every true Japanese believes that the first Emperor, Jimmu Tenno, who reigned in 660 B. C., was descended directly from the Goddess of the Sun and that the whole race, therefore, is descended from divine ancestors and consequently superior to any other race on the face of the earth. The Japanese are taught from the cradle to revere the Emperor as the son of the Sun Goddess. This same reverence is displayed toward the parents and grandparents and manifests itself in ancestor worship. These beliefs bind the Japanese together over the world creating a sense of nationalism unknown to any nation or race. These beliefs are so thoroughly indoctrinated into the minds and hearts of the Japanese that few of them ever actually renounce their allegiance to the Emperor of Japan and when they actually become citizens of a foreign country they do so as a matter of form with their minds and hearts still in the Japanese Empire.

Dr. Yu-Shan Han was a visiting lecturer at the University of California at Los Angeles in the History Department. (Volume IX, pp. 2692-2715.) Dr. Han is Chinese and was born in Peking, China. He had been in the United States since 1941. He had formerly lectured at the Peking University under Dr. J. Layton Stewart. He holds a Ph.D. from Boston University. He had been at the University of California at Los Angeles since September of 1941, taking the place of a Japanese "who could not get back." He once taught Dr. H. A. Kung, brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-Shek, who is now at Harvard University.

Dr. Han stated that he was familiar with the ideological background of the Japanese Empire. The early history of Japan is referred to as the Age of the Gods or the Age of Mythology. The Japanese people believe that the Emperor of Japan is a direct descendant of the Goddess of the Sun and the symbol, relating ideology to the Japanese is the mirror, the sword and the jewel. He stated that the sword represents force. He narrated the early history of the Japanese Government. A military family throughout Japanese history dominated the entire country by force—there were many struggles in which the Shoguns secured control. He stated that Shogunate is a military class in Japan. A dual system of government resulted with the spiritual head in the Emperor and the actual leadership with the Shoguns. He stated that this situation existed for about 12 centuries. This long period of unbroken domination by the Shoguns, in Dr. Han's opinion, makes it very difficult to indoctrinate the Japanese with Western or Occidental ideas; a much more difficult task than to indoctrinate the Chinese people with Occidental ideas.

He narrated the planned system for the development of Japan laid out in the Nineteenth Century by Baron Okubo. He stated that this plan was worked out in decades, or 10-year periods. The first 10 years were devoted to internal development; the next 10 to educating Japanese in foreign schools so that they might learn and master foreign manners, languages, and ways; the third period to the development of economic intercourse with the outside world; the following 10 years to the building of a huge Army and Navy, and the final 10 years to the achievement and the ultimate goal which was designed to lead the yellow nations to conquest and victory against the white race. He stated that Baron Okubo was succeeded by Baron Tanaka who developed Okubo's plan. Baron Tanaka wrote a report and sent it to the Emperor and it became known as the Tanaka Memorial. Baron Tanaka proposed that Japan develop a foothold in Asia, Korea, Manchuria, North China, French Indo-China, China proper, Thailand, Burma and so on.

Dr. Han had been a victim of the Black Dragon terror when he attempted to introduce western ways into China in opposition to the Japanese Puppet Government. A friend of his was assassinated in April and in June he personally received "the threat." Realizing that the members of the Black Dragon Society are in deadly earnest, Dr. Han left China. He stated that he did not believe that the American public had paid much attention to the real facts concerning Japan. "You good Americans are too gullible," he said dejectedly.

He stated that Shinto doctrines are principally Emperor worship and the worship of military leadership. "Of all flowers, the cherry; of all men, the Samurai!" Japanese parents maintain a strict discipline over their children and the children are taught to be obedient.

Masao Kubose was a Japanese Buddhist minister in Los Angeles. (Volume X, pp. 2998-3002.) He stated that he had been in charge of the Buddhist church located at 118 North Mott Street in Los Angeles since October of 1941. He differentiated between the Buddhist and Shinto religions. He stated that there exist several sects of Shintoism and that one of these sects is a pure state religion, in which the worship of deities in the mythological history of Japan is a unique feature. All Shintoists believe that the Japanese are descendants of gods, created from a union of earthly and heavenly gods. They believe that the Emperor of Japan is a direct descendant in an unbroken line from the Goddess of the Sun and that he is the divine representative of the Sun Goddess on earth.

He explained that Yamato meant Japan or Nippon. Yama means mountain; to means gates—Yamato, therefore, means, where many mountains are. When Chinese culture intruded, Yamato came to signify, "to put in great harmony," so that it now means "a great harmony." The word really has two meanings, one of which is geographical and the other ideological. The word finally became Yamato and the word domoshi was added so that the meaning became "the great soul of harmony." Hence, the Japanese, no matter where born, are proud of the blood of Yamato domoshi (or Yamato Damashii), the ideological "great soul of harmony" binding him to Japanese everywhere.

Kubose disclaimed any knowledge of Shinto temples or schools in the City of Los Angeles. He ventured the opinion that the Shinto sect should be permitted to function in the United States, stating, "Their full aim is to heal the sick and to do public service." He stated that some of the Shinto sects "promote good business, etc." These particular sects, Kubose stated, are not the sect of Japanese State religion. He agreed that the Shinto sect of Japanese state religion should be prohibited in the United States.

Dr. John Lechner testified (Volume XVI, page 3951) that Dr. Shunzo Sakamaki, Assistant Professor of History of the University of Hawaii, published an article in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin for April 25, 1942, in reference to the details of the Shinto faith. He explained that in the beginning of 1941 the Japanese Imperial Government had issued an edict declaring that all Shinto priests in the United States and Hawaii and all Japanese language school teachers were from January of that year to be considered as officials of the Japanese Government. This edict, according to Dr. Lechner, amounted to actually removing the Shinto priests and the Japanese language schoolteachers from the field of religion and constituted them direct agents for the Japanese Government and all language schools as centers of Japanese espionage and propaganda. He quoted Dr. Sakamaki as follows:

"Why have Japanese officials for the past two generations been so eager to protect the special status of State Shinto? Why have they insisted that the State Shinto is not a religion but the embodiment of Japanese patriotism?"

"Basically, the reason is that the Japanese Government has seen in Shinto a political tool of the greatest potency for keeping the fires of nationalism burning at white heat and making the doctrine of political absolutism in Japan virtually inviolable.

"* * * Japan's Constitution of 1890 guarantees freedom of religious worship, but the Government has taken the position that State Shinto is not a religion and that, therefore, all Japanese must participate in State Shinto ceremonies, as part of their patriotic duty to the State.

"* * * Operation of State Shinto here is inimical to American interests because it both directly and indirectly fosters Japanese nationalism, and arguments by Shinto champions that we can not infringe their right to free worship contradicts responsible pronouncement by Japanese officials denying the religious status of State Shinto. "We are at war with Japan, and State Shinto is an arm of the Government of Japan. Amputation of that arm here in Hawaii is prerogative of our Government that can not consistently be protested by the Government of Japan."

JAPANESE LANGUAGE SCHOOLS IN CALIFORNIA

It is estimated that there were more than 240 Japanese language schools in California alone. Some 19,000 Japanese boys and girls attended these schools before Pearl Harbor. It is estimated that nearly $400,000 was spent in 1941 for the Japanese educational program directed from Tokyo.

Many of these schools were found to be under the direction of Shinto priests. They taught the intense nationalism of Japan and the committee is in possession of information and evidence that many of the schools were centers of Japanese propaganda and espionage.

Dr. John Lechner, chairman of the Americanism Commission of the Twenty-third District of the American Legion, Department of California, testifying before the committee in February of 1943 presented a number of photostatic documents together with a report recently compiled by the Americanism Commission of which he is chairman.

Among these documents is a translation by the United States Army Intelligence Department quoting the Rev. Shinryu Umehara, Japanese Buddhist priest, who had made a trip to the Pacific Coast and Hawaii for the purpose of inspecting the Japanese language schools. He stated March 27, 1934: "I felt while I was in America that the existence of Japanese schools and Buddhist organizations in the Japanese communities is grand, for they are the mother-bodies for fostering the national conscience, Japan's civilization and Japan's spirit."

Dr. Lechner pointed out that the most powerful Japanese directed organization reaching across the Pacific to weld the Japanese student in America to the Imperial Empire is the Institute for the Education of Over-Sea Japanese. He stated that this organization was founded on November 25, 1933 with its headquarters in Tokyo. The purpose and objective of this organization was stated in Osaka Mainichi: "The Institute of Over-Sea People's Education is an organization for infusing the Japanese spirit into the second generation of Japanese abroad. In other words, leave the second generation in the land of their residence but don't let them forget the Japanese spirit. In buying, select Japanese goods; in voting, cast ballots for politicians friendly to Japanese." Dr. Lechner pointed out that this objective was meant particularly for the Japanese-Americans living in Hawaii where their vote is a decisive factor.

Dr. Lechner called the committee's attention to an article which appeared in the Rafu Shimpō, a Los Angeles Japanese daily newspaper, owned by an alien Japanese, under date of Monday, February 17, 1941, as follows:

"Re-educational Plan for the Promotion of the Fatherland"

"The Niseis who were born and raised in the foreign land are to come to the Fatherland far away to find the company of the other sex. But they are confronted with difficulty coming from the differences of their habits and customs with those of the Fatherland. Here comes the problem of 'Re-education of the Nisei.'

"Meantime, to make the abroad compatriots understand the position of the Fatherland under the new regime of Pan-Asiatic principles, and to unite them to act for the realization of 'Enlightened Asia,' re-education of Nisei is necessary. So, Imperial Educational Association made a budget of yen 100,000 for the education of Nisei. For this purpose, the Committee on Over-Seas Education of the Association in cooperation with the Department of Education and the Department of Foreign Affairs of the government and the Goain (Institute for the Promotion of Asia), elected secretaries and established an office for educational guidance of the Nisei. The functions of the office at present are as follows:

- "1. Investigation of the educational conditions of Nisei, and of the living conditions of the teachers abroad.

"2. Establishment of the fundamental plan for the education of Nisei.

"3. Assistance in sending good teachers.

"At present, among the teachers abroad who are teaching Nisei, a good number of them want to come to the Fatherland. Meantime, many of the teachers here in this country have the desire to go abroad to fulfill their ambitions. A proper disposal of this situation alone would make a new atmosphere in the educational field. So, this new project of the association will be successful in every way."

The Japanese language schools scattered throughout the State were strikingly similar to the Workers' Schools of the Communists, the summer camps of the German-American Bund and the Italian language schools. The ideologies were radically different, of course, but in each case a scheme for world domination was being taught youngsters; a racial superiority, along with a contempt and disrespect for America's "decaying democracy." There existed one significant difference, however, in that the German, Japanese and Italian language schools, taught children who were descended from parents of foreign extraction, whereas the Communist Workers' schools and the Young Peoples' Study Classes took on all comers of whatever nationality or race.

Dr. Yu-Shan Han testified at some length concerning the Japanese language schools in southern California. (Volume IX, pp. 2692-2715.) In the third lesson of the primer used in these schools, Dr. Han stated there appeared a phrase, "March forward, soldiers, march forward soldiers." He emphatically declared that Japanese children, even though born in the United States, were indoctrinated from birth with a deep reverence for the Samurai. The Japanese ambition to conquer and dominate the entire world is the basis of Japanese ideology and teaching. He stated that Japanese families abroad were held strictly responsible for the lack of courage of their sons on the battlefield and this responsibility caused all Japanese parents to instill a religious-warrior fervor in the Japanese male youth and accounts for the fanaticism of the Japanese in battle.

Dr. Han touched on the deep loyalty of the Japanese, both Nisei and Issei, to the Emperor of Japan and illustrated his point by stating that a Japanese teacher in Long Beach collected tinfoil and sent it back to Japan.

Masao Kubose was a Buddhist minister in charge of a church located at 118 North Mott Street in Los Angeles. (Volume X, pp. 2998-3002.) He stated that Buddhist priests had taught in some of the Japanese language schools in California. He stated that most Buddhist churches maintained Japanese language schools and that the Buddhist priests taught the Japanese children. He believed that the Japanese language schools promoted harmony between parents and their children. He said that there were no Shinto groups in Northern California but believed that they did exist in Southern California.

P. D. Perkins, former "Public Relations Advisor for the Japanese Consulate" in Japan, stated that he was somewhat familiar with the curricula of the Japanese language schools in the United States. (Volume IX, pp. 2716-2747.) "My first Japanese teacher," he stated, "was the teacher of a Japanese language school." He said that in many cases these instructors were Buddhists or Shinto priests. He disagreed with other witnesses by stating that instead of a high degree of parental discipline exercised by parents over children in Japan, that, to the contrary, "the child rules the father, not the father the child." He ventured the opinion that it depended wholly on the individual Japanese as to whether he grows up to become a good citizen or not and he believed that the fact that the individual was born of Japanese parents who happen to be fanatics in their devotion to Japan had no bearing on the matter.

Carl Kazufumai Sato, American-born Japanese, stated that he was a produce salesman in a wholesale market until it was closed. (Volume X, pp. 3002-3004.) He stated that "now I am doing what I can to help the people in our church." He admitted having attended the Japanese language school "until it got too hard and I quit." He contended that he had never heard Japanese propaganda at the school he attended. He claimed to have no knowledge of Shinto priests teaching in the Japanese language schools and stated that he was connected with the Buddhist church. He stated that the Buddhist religion had nothing to do with Japan and he claimed that he had no knowledge of Shinto sects.

JAPANESE IMPERIALISM

The long planned and long range program of the Japanese to dominate the white races might have been clearly seen in the so-called Decade System of Baron Okubo, who, with his followers, believed that the Japanese Empire should adopt the method of the Occidental world in building a strong and economically sound nation. The intense belief in the divinity of the Emperor and the sense of racial superiority in the minds of the Japanese have led them to believe that they are destined for world domination. Baron Okubo divided the Empire's work into periods of 10 years each. His plan may be said to have been carried out in its entirety. Okubo, however, was not sufficiently war-minded to satisfy the military clique of Japan and he was assassinated in 1877. Another plan was formulated and added to the Okubo Plan: an aggressive program which has culminated in war against the white world. The Tanaka Memorial, written by a Japanese Premier, declares unequivocally that America must first be crushed before Japan can expect permanently to dominate the Pacific.

Many critics of the Tanaka Memorial looked upon it as the fantastic dream of an unbalanced mind; the weird, imaginative excursion of a Japanese sadist. Dr. John Lechner stated that it was therefore regarded with skepticism and ridiculed by American leaders.

Dr. Lechner stated that it was not until an official document was discovered in the possession of two Japanese naval commanders visiting in "Little Tokio" at Los Angeles, written by one Kinoaki Matsuo, powerful Black Dragon, and key man in the Japanese Naval Intelligence Service, that interest in the Tanaka Memorial was revived. He stated that Matsuo's analysis of the impending war, called "The War Between Japan and the United States," furnished an audacious blue-print of the various stages of the war.

He stated that Matsuo outlined each step in the plans of Japanese aggression. Matsuo outlined the Japanese plan to move northward into Alaska, striking simultaneously at Hawaii in the second stage of the war. He anticipates help from the Japanese in Hawaii when the Japanese Navy makes its bid for the islands. The third stage of the war, according to Dr. Lechner's interpretation of Matsuo's work, is an all out attack on California, Oregon and Washington, with the destruction of the Panama Canal. Dr. Lechner stated: "Matsuo does not hesitate to express with all the ego and fanaticism of the Japs that the Japanese forces will attempt large scale invasion of the coastal areas. Again, Matsuo expresses the conviction of the Japanese War Council, that effective cooperation may be anticipated from the Issei and Nisei residing on the Pacific Coast. Particularly when Japan would begin to crush the 'impregnable fortresses' of the Allied nations in the South Pacific, Matsuo intimates, would increased significance be given to her expectation of help from her Fifth Column in the United States. Revelations of Japanese ruthlessness and plans for wholesale sabotage made a speedy, effective disposition of the Japanese problem on the Pacific Coast more imperative."

Dr. Lechner reported plans promulgated among the Japanese agents to spread bacteria germs in the event such a step proved advantageous in undermining the morale of the American people in the final stage of the war. He stated that this is to be accomplished by dropping vials containing germs to spread bubonic plague and typhoid from collapsible airplanes to be carried to the shores of the Pacific Coast by large Japanese destroyer-submarines.

P. D. Perkins declared that he had "never heard" of pressure being brought on Japanese residents in the United States by the agents of Japan and that he had never heard of threats made against the members of families in Japan if American residents failed to obey Japanese mandates. (Volume IX, pp. 2716-2747.) (Perkins evidently desired to evade this issue.) He stated that he did not believe that the Tanaka Memorial or the Okubo (Decade System) exerted much influence upon the Japanese people. He stated that there is too much conflict between the Japanese for anyone to agree on a central plan (p. 2728). (Perkins apparently evaded this issue also and would not be drawn out on the present dominant faction in Japan.) He admitted that the Emperor of Japan was a figurehead but that he exerts "personal power." He pointed out that the Emperor had put down an uprising on February 26, 1937, and likewise admitted that the leaders who had been demoted at that time are now back in power. He was willing to admit that the Okubo and the Tanaka plans exert some influence on the present Japan program, and a "partial influence on the younger element."

He explained the meaning of the term "Bushido," the moral code of Sumurai. He stated that it is a military code and that it calls for frugal living, etc. He commented that he had never seen anyone who practiced Bushido very faithfully.

He claimed that part of his duties for the Japanese Government consisted in acting as a "liaison agent" (p. 2731). He declared that he did not represent the Japanese Government in the United States.

He caught the "last boat" back to the United States on October 30, 1941, the Tatsu Tamaru. He did not return to the United States to stay; "I expected to go back to Japan; I had no way of knowing about the war." He had made a trip to the United States in 1940, arriving in Los Angeles in May. He registered with the United States Department of State July 10, 1940, and returned to Japan on August 23, 1940. He claimed that he had not received pay from Japan while in the United States, "during the time I was registered as an agent" (p. 2734). He denied having received money from Japan for the period between May 1, 1940, and August 1, 1940. He claimed that he had received no pay whatsoever from Japan prior to the time he registered as an agent of the Japanese Government with the United States State Department (p. 2734), but later (p. 2735) stated: "I was in New York from about July 1st to about the 4th or 5th of August * * * and they were paying my expenses; the men who were with the Consulate General there * * *". He stated that while in New York he was advising the Japanese Consulate attaches "on what was happening back in Tokio." On being pressed for elaboration, he explained that he was merely relating the political gossip current in Japan.

He claimed that his translating work for the Japanese Government was confined to American newspapers and that the Japanese Government employed Englishmen to translate the newspapers of the British Empire.

He ate in the same restaurant in Tokio where the German diplomats took their meals and stated that he did this because it was the "only place to eat." He claimed that he could not travel in the same class with the diplomatic corps because of the smallness of his salary, 500 yen a month. Sometimes, he admitted, he received extra money. He explained that 500 yen in Tokio had the buying power of about $450 in America. (Perkins testified at one point that his salary of 500 yen a month was sent to his home in South Pasadena, and at another point (p. 2737-8) he stated that he received it in Tokio.)

He stated that the Japanese were unable to understand the slang used in the American newspaper articles because their English teachers had been British or Canadian. He stated that his job in translating headings from American newspapers consisted largely in translating the meaning of American slang phrases for the Japanese. He said that the Japanese Government was only interested in articles which pertained to Japan "or references to American history." They were also interested in reports on relationship between Japan and the United States.

During his first four years in Japan, Perkins taught in the education department and served as an advisor to American companies in Japan, helping them secure "a correct sales approach." He also assisted with the writing of manuscripts on Japan.

He stated that he had been working for one faction of the Japanese Government and checking on whether or not other political factions were being set up against the others. He related the incidents of a strike in the State Department in Japan in which the younger men were pitted against the older men. He claimed that it was this type of news that he carried to the Japanese Consulate in New York. He denied that he had carried documents of any nature to the United States.

He admitted that his fare to and from Japan had been paid by the Japanese Government and explained that this arrangement was made for all teachers who go to Japan.

While in New York he had conveyed "inside" information to the Japanese Consulate of the relations between Japan, Germany, Italy and Russia "at the time Germany shook hands with Russia." He stated that factions had grown up in Japan over the issue of collaboration with Soviet Russia. Oshima and Shiratori were "very much" pro-Axis. "The consul in New York was not, unfortunately," Perkins added. When pressed to explain what he meant by "unfortunately," he stated that it was meant for the man and not as opinion on his part (p. 2743). The Japanese acting-Consul in New York at the time of the bombing of Pearl Harbor was not pro-Axis, he explained.

He stated that he would have been interned had he remained in Japan.

He did not believe that the United States Government ought to take chances at this time, and stated that he believed that it would be better for the Japanese to be out of the coastal area, because some one might make trouble and "blame it on the Japanese"; they would be forced to "take the rap for it."

He had helped the American-born Japanese who were in Japan for educational purposes. He stated that many of them were homesick for America; missed Thanksgiving and Christmas celebrations. In this connection he declared that the training of American-born Japanese in Japan depended on the financial ability of the parents and claimed the Japanese Government did not finance Nisei training "They don't want the Nisei back there, especially the girls. Men, yes; they have use for men, but a girl, under the Japanese code gets married when she's 21 * * * so they are a nuisance."

He admitted that he had contact with the Japanese Consul in Los Angeles since returning from Japan. He denied having made any report to the Consul and stated that he called on him merely because he knew his son in Japan.

JAPANESE PROPAGANDA

Togo Tanaka is an American-born Japanese. (Volume X, pp. 2843-2889.) He was born in Portland, Oregon, and was brought to southern California when he was three months old and has resided in the City of Los Angeles since that time. He attended the Los Feliz Elementary School and the Thomas Starr King High School, the Hollywood High School and the University of Southern California, where he graduated in 1936. He majored in Political Science. He stated that he was no relation, as far as he knew, to Baron Tanaka, after whom the Japanese Tanaka Memorial is named.

Since graduating from the University of Southern California, Tanaka has been employed on the staff of the English section of Rafu Shimpō, a Japanese daily newspaper published in the City of Los Angeles. The newspaper was dual in character, containing both an English and a Japanese language section. He stated that these two sections were edited by different staffs. Tanaka was the editor of the English section. He became the English editor of Rafu Shimpō about six months after he had associated with the newspaper. The paper had its circulation principally in southern California among the Japanese, some State-wide circulation and a small circulation in Hawaii. Hiroshi Zuski was the managing editor of the Japanese language section of the Rafu Shimpō. The English editors had voice on the policy of the paper only in the English language section. He had never expressed himself in reference to the policy of the Japanese section. His knowledge of the Japanese language was very limited, according to his testimony.

He admitted that after Pearl Harbor he had come to realize that the Japanese section of Rafu Shimpō was subversive. He also admitted that many articles and much of the material printed in Rafu Shimpō had been sent from Japan and had appeared in the paper in its original form. The paper made considerable use of reprints because of its limited staff. He admitted, under examination, that much of this material was pro-Axis in flavor.

He stated that there were three Japanese daily newspapers in the City of Los Angeles before Pearl Harbor and contended that Rafu Shimpō was the oldest and the largest. He branded the other Japanese language newspapers as pro-Axis.

He had been the publicity manager of the Japanese American Citizens' League and had handled publicity for this organization on the Rafu Shimpō. This was the largest Nisei organization in southern California and the most active. It was composed of 20 or 21 chapters. The organization had a Coordinating Committee known as the United Citizens' Federation which was composed of delegates from about 30 different organizations, including fruit-stand workers' unions, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and Buddhist groups.

He placed the average age of the Nisei at around 21 years and the average age of the Issei at 59 to 60.

He admitted that most of the existing Japanese organizations were dominated by the Issei because of their more mature years. He stated that as the Issei passed away and the Nisei came into adulthood they more and more were taking over the organizations and, because of this situation, the Issei influence was waning. The influence of the Issei, or alien older generation, it was explained, was partly due to the fact that the older Japanese held the purse-strings of the community. Because the Japanese Nisei showed great respect and reverence for Issei parents and obeyed them, they did not attempt to change the pro-Japan attitude of their parents.

He stated without equivocation that the 1940-41 Directory of Rafu Shimpō, published by the older generation group on the paper, was about nine-tenths subversive.

The older generation, or pro-Japan group, influenced the thinking of the younger Nisei generation on the matter of the Sino-Japanese war. This accounted for the Nisei's activity in propagandizing the Japanese cause against China. The Issei influence was very strong in this connection. The Nisei had been taught that the Japanese were embarking on a great missionary crusade in China and building a New Order in the Far East. He stated that the non-Japanese, Caucasian American propagandists who were hired by Japan, did the same sort of propagandizing and he named "Wiggie" Williams one of the hired propagandists for Japan. ("Wiggie" Williams was subsequently indicted for failing to register as a Japanese agent with the United States Department of State.) Tanaka believed that the Nisei had been drawn into this ideological position because of emotional ties and that the younger generation of American-born Japanese found it impossible to become objective in face of their parents' prejudice.

He stated that the agencies that had been set up by the Japanese Consulate on the West Coast had disseminated much of the pro-Japan propaganda in relation to the Sino-Japanese war. He admitted that funds had been collected in the Japanese and Japanese-American societies for the prosecution of the Japanese war in the Far East and that this drive had started back in 1937 at the outbreak of hostilities in China and had continued through 1940 when the feeling had grown tense between the United States and Japan. He admitted that Rafu Shimpō had aided and had advertised these collections for the Japanese war effort in China, but added that the Rafu Shimpō had also engaged in "very good American activities."

He declared that there was considerable reluctance on the part of the Nisei to admit subversive activities on the part of themselves or their parents, which was quite natural because of dual loyalties and partly because they were confused. He stated that they tried to "gloss over" these things.

He was familiar in a general way with the Japanese language schools in southern California. The Rafu Shimpō Year Book listed these schools in its issues. He believed that Shintoism is worship of the Japanese Emperor and stated that the Shintoists were rabid militarists and very imperialistic.

He claimed that he did not know the exact meaning of the term "Yamato Domoshi" but believed that it referred to the Japanese race and culture. He admitted that "one reads in the legends" about the three Japanese symbols, the mirror, the jewel and the sword. The fanatic teachings of the Japanese "under the military clique" demanded that the Japanese people believe that they were actually descended from the Sun Goddess. It was his opinion that the Nisei in the United States did not generally believe this fiction and he stated that pro-Japanese consider Japan their homeland and believe that it is their God-given mission to do something for her. It was his opinion that the American-born Japanese who were educated in the United States were not generally pro-Japan; that only about 3 or 4 per cent of the Nisei were in the pro-Japan column.

Because he believed that Shintoism is not a religion in the strictest sense of the term, but an ideology subversive and dangerous to the Government of the United States, he stated that Shintoism has no place in this Country.

Like most Americans born of alien parents, he believed the language schools contribute considerably to bridging the gap between the Issei and the Nisei in that these schools give the children an understanding of their parents and the beliefs and language of their parents. He stated that he believed the American-born Japanese have benefited considerably from the Japanese language schools and that this education had helped many of them to secure jobs where knowledge of the Japanese language was essential. He ventured the opinion that these schools could be separated from subversive indoctrination. He suggested that such schools be brought under the supervision of boards of education. He was willing to admit that there had been, perhaps, "too much indoctrination going on" in the Japanese language schools in California. He admitted, under examination, that those persons who spoke and thought in Japanese, were the type who would be most apt to be loyal to Japan and Hirohito, while those who spoke and thought in English were more apt to be loyal to the American ideology and the United States.

He stated that the Japanese Consular offices in Los Angeles contacted Japanese-American students in the universities and schools for the purpose of obtaining personnel for Japanese Government work.

He claimed to know nothing of the rumor that the Nisei had received threats for their lack of cooperation with Japanese Consular agents. Generally, he stated, the Nisei, who have relatives living in Japan, avoid answering questions concerning subversive activities on the part of the Japanese in the United States. He knew of Issei who feared retaliation by the Japanese Government on relatives in Japan, but stated that this fear was greatly diminished by the growing fact of permanent Japanese residence in the United States. He said that there were very few Japanese in the United States who desired to return to Japan since 1924 when immigration from Japan was stopped. He stated that the ties between Japanese residing in the United States and relatives in Japan was not as close as the relationship between persons recently arrived from Europe and their relatives across the water.

He admitted that the majority of Issei are Japanese in their views and more or less thoroughly indoctrinated. He stated that this was not true in all cases. Many Japanese who came to the United States when they were very young, although counted as aliens, are American in their viewpoint. He ventured the hope that this group would receive special recognition.

Prior to December 7, 1941, the Nisei generally, regarded the Japanese Imperial Veterans' Association as "simply a society of old men." (The members of the Imperial Veterans' Association are Japanese who served in the Russo-Japanese war.) He admitted that, after the Federal Bureau of Investigation roundup of these veterans, that the Nisei learned that these members of the Imperial Veterans' Association had been doing more than getting together for the purpose of drinking saki. He admitted that the meetings of the Imperial Veterans' Association had been the centers of Japanese subversive activities in California.

He had heard "everything" concerning the activities of the Japanese fishing fleet off of California. He stated that the truth was "somewhere in between" the two extremes that had been brought to his attention; that not all of the fishing boats harbored spies, but that undoubtedly, some of them were engaged in this practice. He had heard of the Japanese fishing boats hoisting Japanese Flags when out to sea and he had heard of the "fishermen" taking soundings and photographs. He had no personal knowledge of any of these things.

He stated that many of the volunteer evacuees to Manzanar were entering into the situation in a spirit of adventure. He stated that some were bitter about it and that others were "taking it with a shrug." He felt that Manzanar should not be referred to as a "concentration camp."

Questioned regarding the Rafu Shimpo Directory for 1940-41, he admitted that the picture plates in the book showed Shinto priests, Shinto altars, pictures of the Emperor and Empress and other pictures, illustrating the pro-Japan leanings of the book. He stated that "we have always ripped" the pages containing the pictures of the Japanese Emperor and Empress out of the directory because the Nisei felt that it had no place in an American book. He identified a Japanese character on a page at the beginning of the book and explained that it meant "Khakko Ichiu" and, translated, it signified the Japanese "New Order" in the Far East. He stated that this was another page that was ripped out by the Nisei before the book was passed out. Characters appearing beside the names of certain Japanese listed in the directory, according to Tanaka's testimony, referred to the individual's "Ken," or Japanese "clan" or "state." It indicated where the roots of the family of the individual were.

He admitted that the directory had always been printed in Japan and stated that this was because the rates for printing were cheaper, even when the cost of transportation was included. It was distributed free of charge to advertisers and subscribers to Rafu Shimpo and used as a circulation builder. It listed everyone of Japanese descent of whom information could be obtained.

He explained that an illustration showing a map of the Pacific with secret American battleship information was an illustration to a story in a Japanese magazine, "King" (Ken); that it was pro-Axis and was the work of pro-Axis authors. He stated that this was typical of all magazines which came over from Japan. Japanese editorial writers on the Rafu Shimpo had to overcome and work against such material coming out of Japan.

The editorial policy of the Rafu Shimpo after December 7, 1941, was in support of the United States against Japan. Tanaka filed a number of copies of the issues of the Rafu Shimpo with the Committee in proof of this assertion.

He contended that community hysteria constituted a serious problem for the loyal Nisei. He hoped that the Americans could help the situation by attempting to secure a balanced picture of Nisei activities.

He admitted that Rafu Shimpo had maintained a Tokio Bureau for news and business arrangements. Around 10,000 copies of the directory had been printed and most of them had been distributed in southern California. A few were left in Japan and the State Departments of Japan and the United States had received copies.

Tanaka concluded his testimony by stating that he believed that many of the Japanese, and especially the younger Japanese-Americans, had been merely "misdirected" in their so-called subversive activities. He begged the Americans to give the Japanese and the Japanese-Americans credit for the things they had done in developing and furthering community interest and welfare.

JAPANESE SUBVERSIVE ORGANIZATIONS

Dr. John Lechner testified that as late as April 15, 1941, the Japanese Nisei in the Los Angeles area were challenged to indicate their loyalty to the United States Government by conducting a house-cleaning of subversive elements within the Japanese colony and cooperating with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in routing subversive individuals and groups. To this end, Dr. Lechner stated, a conference was held at a Japanese restaurant in Los Angeles and plans were laid for a mass demonstration on May 10, 1941. He stated that more than 1,000 Nisei gathered at the Hollywood Legion Club House in Los Angeles where the meeting was held. He stated that both Fred Tayama and Togo Tanaka, the most active leaders among the local Nisei, ignored the challenge for cooperation against un-American activities existing in the Japanese colony. Both Tayama and Tanaka vehemently denied the existence of subversive groups and individuals among the Japanese and Tayama angrily refused to organize any effort for cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Nothing was done to indicate that these American leaders of Japanese ancestry were disposed to cooperate in counteracting Japanese espionage in California. Dr. Lechner listed the Japanese representatives who attended the April 15th meeting as Bob Sato, Executive Secretary of the Japanese Hotel Clerks' Union, A. F. of L., Robbin Keneko, President, Japanese Produce Union, Fred Tayama, President, Los Angeles Chapter Japanese American Citizens' League, Shigemi Aratania, Vice President, Los Angeles Chapter, Japanese American Citizens' League, Togo Tanaka, Editor, English section, Rafu Shimpo, H. Hori, President, Japanese Chamber of Commerce and Industry, S. Nagata, Vice President, Japanese Chamber of Commerce and Industry, and Ted Akahoshi, Executive Secretary, Japanese Produce Merchants' Association. Shuji Fuji, a Communist, writing in the September 1, 1941 issue of the Doko Shi, Japanese publication in Los Angeles, urged "immediate action to rout out by public denunciation, every sign of organization, activity, policy and propaganda that inclines to promote the pro-Nazi element in Japan among us, such as the Japanese Military Service Men's League." Shuji Fuji branded the Japanese Military Service Men's League as a dangerous fifth column structure among the local Japanese.

The Japanese Military Service Men's League is reported to be the work of Tadaaki Ilzuka.

The Imperial Comradeship Society is allegedly the American arm of the Imperial Black Dragon Society, the most powerful and most feared secret organization in the Japanese Empire. The Imperial Black Dragon Society is said to have been organized over 50 years ago for the purpose of eradicating Occidental influence in the Far East. The Dragon leaders have fostered an intensified and deep hatred for the British and the Americans. Tadaaki Ilzuka reorganized and strengthened the Imperial Comradeship Society and Dr. Lechner estimated its strength at the end of 1941 as 4,800. The ostensible leadership of the society was in the hands of Sakugaro Kubota, a retired Japanese officer, whose son, stated Dr. Lechner, is Takaki Kubota, an American-born citizen and an active leader in the "patriotic" Japanese-American Citizens' League of Los Angeles. The Imperial Comradeship Society and the Japanese Military Service Men's League, stated Dr. Lechner, had 74 branches in 65 localities and exerted a powerful influence on the entire Japanese-American population on behalf of Japan.

The Japanese-American Citizens' League under the leadership of Takaki Kubota collaborated with the Imperial Comradeship Society and the Japanese Military Service Men's League in a campaign to sell Japanese war bonds on the Pacific Coast. The Japanese Minister of Finance, Seinen Ikeda, requested the Japanese-American Citizens' League to raise 1,000,000 yen to be deposited in the Yokohama Specie Bank in San Francisco.

Representatives of the committee, in preparing for public hearings on Japanese activities, inspected maps of the interior valleys of the State, whereon were depicted with the greatest fidelity highways, country lanes, bridges, police, fire and radio stations, hospitals, airports, and the detailed topography of the area. These representatives obtained considerable evidence of Japanese "Vegetable" Associations spotted throughout the agricultural regions of California soliciting funds from their members for the purchase of Japanese war bonds from the Japanese Consulate in San Francisco.

The committee's representatives also inspected photographs of the San Pedro fishing boats far out at sea, flying the Japanese flag. Japanese-Americans told committee representatives that Americans should no longer laugh at the industrious little Jap fishermen because they were "foolishly" taking soundings along the coast when they could easily buy Geodetic Survey maps which contained the information that they apparently desired. The Japanese fishermen knew that. What they were actually doing was finding whether or not the ocean floor at designated localities was soft and level and sandy, or whether it was rough and rocky to such an extent that it might injure the belly of a submarine, such as the one which lobbed its shells off the coast of Santa Barbara at American oil installations.

Dr. Yu-Shan Han, Chinese lecturer and educator, stated that the Japanese Black Dragon Society is both a military and "underhanded" organization. (Volume IX, pp. 2692-2715.) He stated that the members of the organization perpetrated vengeance on the enemies of Japanese plans in China. The Black Dragon Society indulges in sabotage, blackmail and assassination.

He testified concerning Japanese Fifth Column activities in China. He related incidents of sabotage and espionage in China by the Japanese. He told of Japanese disguised as Buddhist priests who measured the distances in the interior of China for future marches of the Japanese armies. He stated that agents of Hirohito tabulated the metals in the Chinese temples and other places for future Japanese confiscation.

Dr. Han related instances of Black Dragon kidnappings and Black Dragon terror in China. He said that the Society maintains an extremely efficient espionage system in China. The members of the Society had detected his return to China and had been bold enough to publish the fact in the newspapers. Dr. Han smiled and said that he "beat it." He stated that the Black Dragon Society sows seeds of discord and is efficient in disseminating sugar-coated propaganda. He stated that the Japanese are highly trained in sabotage and expressed the opinion that it would be very foolish for the people of the United States to trust any of them during this time, whether they were born in the United States or not.

Japan had been an admirer of Germany for a considerable length of time and this admiration has been manifested by the Japanese in China. All German Nationals had been treated well in the Far East by the Japanese. He stated that the Japanese do not feel friendly to the Americans in the Orient. It was his opinion that the German Nazis have been putting pressure on the Japanese in China to compel them to follow policies beneficial to Germany's war aims.

He declared that the Japanese troops had been very brutal to Chinese captives and that they had been particularly vicious and cruel in torturing Chinese women. Chinese books were destroyed and the Japanese invaders took whatever caught their fancy in occupied territories. He had watched the Japanese load the property of civilians into steam launches on Soochow Creek across from the university where he had taught. He saw a Japanese Colonel take a valuable painting at the point of a gun in Hanchow.

Although he believed the Japanese people had been suffering severely because of heavy war expenditures over the past several years, that, because of their training, they would not complain. The Chinese people will resist to the very end, Dr. Han declared, because they were convinced that life would not be worth living if they were conquered by the Japanese.

P. D. Perkins was teaching the Japanese language at the University of Southern California when he testified February 24, 1942. (Volume IX, pp. 2716-2747.) He stated that he had taken the place of a Japanese on leave in the Department of Asiatic Studies under Dr. Chaening. Perkins was born in Windsor, Vermont. He had resided in Japan since 1935 and had taught English in a school in Kyoto, Japan, from 1935 to 1939. In 1939 he went to Tokio as a "Shokutain," or a "specialist." He stated that he visited in the United States in 1940 and returned again to Tokio and remained there until October 30, 1941 when he returned to the United States. He established residence and a bookstore in South Pasadena in 1940 and his wife remained there to sell books which were sent from Japan. He was acquainted with Ralph Townsend and a Mr. Williams, both of whom were convicted as agents of Japan, because, stated Perkins, "they were in the United States and I was in Japan." (p. 2718.)

On July 10, 1940, Perkins registered with the United States Department of State as an agent of the Japanese Government. He claimed that he had been released from this registration on January 9, 1942. He registered, he claimed, because he had been notified by the State Department that it would be necessary for him to do so. He had listed himself as a "public relations" counsel for the Japanese Consulate in New York. He stated that his duties were "a little bit technical," and explained that they were actually "not duties," but financial arrangements with the Japanese Government. He contended that the Japanese Government refused to allow any foreigner to send more than 100 yen out of Japan and that this amount was not sufficient for the living expenses of his family in the United States. One hundred yen, he explained, amounted to about $23.50 in American money.

After the Matsuoka Ministry came into power in Japan, Perkins stated, pro-American friends asked him to resign from his position there. "Friends and former students" arranged for him to transfer out of the State Department in Tokio so that he would be "beyond their control," and thus enabled him to get funds out of Japan. Perkins had registered with the United States Department of State as "Public Relations Advisor for the Japanese Consulate" and this also was his title in the Personnel Office in Tokio.

Being closely examined in reference to his duties, Perkins explained that about 90 per cent of his work consisted in translating American newspaper headlines and by-lines into the Japanese language or "the Japanese equivalent." These translations, he admitted, were then turned over to the Japanese State Department in Tokio. It is to be noted that Perkins did not turn the translations over to the department for which he was supposed to be working, the Japanese Consulate. His salary for this work from 1930 until 1940 amounted to 500 yen a month.

He stated that he "thought very highly of Yoshida Kuno," now deceased. Yoshida Kuno once taught the Japanese language and culture at the University of California at Berkeley and also at Stanford University. Perkins stated that he had taken courses under Kuno at Stanford.

He had a "very general" knowledge of the Okubo Decade System. He stated that the Okubo family was "one of the main families" of Japan and that the Okubo program was a plan for the expansion of Japan as a world power. He also was familiar with the Tanaka Memorial in a general way.

He claimed that the literature sold in his bookstore in South Pasadena was neither pro- nor anti-Japanese and described it as consisting merely of "language books" used in the university and in the Army and Navy Academy. He emphatically stated that these books did not contain propaganda and that the books he had given away were "only review copies." He admitted that he had once distributed a book comprised of the addresses on the Sino-Japanese conflict given in America by Yakachuro Suma, a Japanese. He admitted that Suma was the Director of the Information Bureau of the Foreign Office in Japan and that he had formerly been attached to the Embassy in Washington. "He was my superior, after Mr. Obai." (p. 2723.) He had brought the book of addresses with him from Japan. (The Director of the Information Bureau of the Foreign Office of Japan is similar to the German Propaganda position held by Dr. Goebbels in the Nazi Ministry of Education and Enlightenment.) Under further questioning Perkins admitted that Yakachuro Suma had published the book in question for him. He had "less than 50" of the books on hand at the time of testifying and stated that he had received "either $2 or $2.50 apiece for them." (p. 2724.) Perkins offered in evidence the Customs slip listing the books he had brought with him from Japan. He stated that he had also submitted this list to the United States Consular Office in Tokio.

Joseph Shinoda, a wholesale florist, testified that he was born in Oakland and lived in Southern California for about 20 years. (Volume X, pp. 3120-3126.)

He stated that he had known George Knox Roth for about a month and a half at the time of testifying. He denied that he had contributed money to Roth though he admitted having offered to "help him on some other expenses, but he refused." These "expenses" were explained as expenses that would necessarily arise out of trying to "help us"—the Japanese-American citizens. "We felt, * * * we had something to contribute and we didn't think the things that were being thrust upon us were to our best interests * * *." He stated that the offer of assistance to George Knox Roth was made at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles. He had become acquainted with Roth while he (Shinoda) was "temporarily in the produce business" at the Seventh Street Terminal. Roth came there and he had seen him several times in Little Tokio.

Tokie Slocum is a Japanese member of the American Legion. (Volume X, pp. 3038-3048.) He had been active for several weeks before testifying in assisting Federal and State investigating groups concerned with the Japanese problem. He admitted having known George Knox Roth for about two months.

He was chairman of the Anti-Axis Committee, succeeding to the chairmanship after Fred Tayama had vacated it. He stated that the Issei looked upon the Anti-Axis Committee as a "policing group." A lack of discipline existed in the committee and there was much dissension and he believed that the disruption was possibly due to pressure from the Issei. (Alien Japanese.) He was also the chairman of the Intelligence Unit of the Anti-Axis Committee. The membership of this group was drawn from various organizations and was representative of the Japanese community. He claimed that the Anti-Axis Committee had investigated the Japanese language schools and that the committee had clamped down on them when the schools tried to reopen. He had heard of large sums of money being collected through the Japanese vegetable associations for Japan and that the money was reported being sent to Japan through the Japanese Consuls to help the war effort of Nippon. He branded the Japanese Veterans' Association as a pro-Japanese patriotic organization. He stated that there were a large number of alien vegetable growers in Southern California and because of the money they had invested in their ventures, it would necessarily be expeditious for them to attempt to prevent evacuation.

Joe Shinoda had invited George Knox Roth to appear before the Anti-Axis Committee and Slocum had seen Roth a half a dozen times since then. It was possible, he believed, that Shinoda had given Roth money for his radio broadcasts. He stated that Shinoda owned the San Lorenz Nursery which is the largest Japanese nursery in Southern California. He had overheard Shinoda tell Roth that he (Shinoda) would underwrite something. This conversation took place in the Biltmore Hotel.

Tokie Slocum denied having given George Knox Roth money in Simon's Restaurant as had been alleged.

He stated that he was a naturalized citizen of the United States by a special Act of Congress in honor of his services in World War I. He served in France with Sergeant York.

He declared that he had been "sandwiched in between two political feuds" and felt that city councilman Roy Hampton had been careless in his statements. He emphatically denied that he had been a "go-between" giving money to Roth raised by the Japanese.

City Councilman Edward L. Thrasher stated that shortly after the declaration of war, 39 or 40 Japanese employees under Los Angeles city civil service were informed that they would be forced to retire. (Volume X, pp. 3126-3129.) He stated that George Knox Roth appeared before the Civil Service Commission of the City of Los Angeles and demanded of the Commission that the Japanese be retained in their jobs. Councilman Thrasher placed the date of Roth's appearance before the Commission as around March 1, 1942.

Thrasher was later informed by a representative of the Mayor's office that Roth had appeared before the Mayor and had insisted that the Japs be kept on the pay roll.

Thrasher later observed a number of Japanese congregating in Councilman Norris E. Nelson's office in the City Hall. He learned that Roth was appearing in Nelson's office with the Japanese, attempting to induce Nelson to intercede for them to retain them on the city pay roll. According to Thrasher, Roth offered Nelson large insurance contracts from the Japanese if Nelson would intercede in their behalf. Thrasher testified that he received this information from one of the Japanese who had attended the meeting in Councilman Nelson's office. He concluded his testimony by stating that Councilman Norris E. Nelson was in the insurance business.

George Knox Roth first testified October 15, 1941. (Volume III, pp. 845-861.) He had been subpoenaed in connection with the testimony of Tom Kirk regarding alleged wire-tapping activities in connection with Los Angeles city politics and elections. At that time, Knox testified, he had been working as a stenographer in the Department of Agriculture for the State of California and that this employment had ceased about a week before his appearance before the committee. He had been connected with the Clifford E. Clinton organization up to January 1, 1940. He offered the committee a book entitled Los Angeles County Government; Departmental Services, 1934, and read portions from it by Dr. Samuel C. May from the University of California outlining Dr. May's political philosophy.

After Pearl Harbor, Roth started a series of radio broadcasts over Radio Station KMTR in Los Angeles. The theme of these broadcasts, generally, opposed the evacuation of the Japanese from California's coastal area. The broadcasts were alleged to be under the auspices of the Public Affairs Committee of Los Angeles. The committee's representatives obtained transcriptions of Roth's broadcasts and he was subpoenaed March 24, 1942, for examination concerning them. (Volume X, pp. 2908-2932; 2966; 2973-2987.)

He stated that he was the secretary of the Public Affairs Committee of Los Angeles. He was extremely vague and evasive as to just what the Public Affairs Committee of Los Angeles was, who its organizers were, the identity of its members and when it came into being. He stated that "Late in 1940 a group of former college friends * * * felt that something ought to be done * * * to improve conditions in local affairs." Acting on this "feeling" of his friends, Roth stated that he mailed out about 200 letters addressed to persons whom he knew to be interested in municipal and county affairs, and thus a Public Affairs Committee was "organized." It apparently had no constitution, by-laws or regulations and did not have a president, a board of directors or officers other than Roth himself. He stated that the organization met from time to time with "different ones." He claimed that he had held these meetings "for the past three months"; the last one having been held two weeks previous. He stated that the policies of the organization were the policies of the persons who contributed funds to it.

He stated that he was born in Denver, Colorado, and had resided there until 1920 when he came to Los Angeles. He did special research work under Samuel May at the University of California and attended Claremont College and the University of Southern California, where he graduated with a Masters' Degree in June of 1934. He stated that he became interested in politics about that time and had worked in Upton Sinclair's Epic campaign. Later he was engaged in the Unemployed Cooperatives. He stated that he headed the Department of Rehabilitation under the Los Angeles County board of supervisors and functioned in this capacity until June 1, 1936, when it was abandoned.

He became an investigator for Clifford E. Clinton in October of 1938 and continued in this position until March of 1939. He was again employed in this capacity in June of 1939 and continued until January of 1940. He then served with the Citizens' Independent Vice Investigating Committee (CIVIC). Later he was employed in the State Department of Agriculture as a stenographer and severed his connection with this department on February 28, 1942. He stated that his actual duties with the Department of Agriculture were those of a "bench chemist." He claimed that it was his job to analyze the "sprays." He was not allowed to go to those places where vegetables were displayed except when picking up samples offered by commission merchants. He stated that Japanese aliens and citizens came to his laboratory "in response to a summons" or "came in for information which was given by the chief chemist."

He claimed that the administrative assistant of the State Department of Agriculture, Mr. Cramer, had notified the Tolan Investigating Committee (investigating the Japanese situation in California) that he had not been employed in the State Department of Agriculture since February 28, 1942, and that this accounted for the discrepancy in his testimony before the Tolan Committee. He explained this by stating that a vacation period had been extended to him from February 28 to March 8, 1942. He added, "I didn't realize I was severed from the pay roll."

He admitted that his radio broadcasts discussed the effect of the evacuation of the Japanese from southern California. The first broadcast in the name of the Public Affairs Committee was on the evening of February 28 or March 1, 1942. He broadcast six times a week following the first broadcast, from 7.15 to 7.30 p.m. over Radio Station KMTR. He contended that he did not have a list of the names of the members of the Public Affairs Committee but stated that there were some 25 people on the committee. It was these people, Roth explained, who contributed the money to him out of which he paid for the broadcasts. The members of the Public Affairs Committee did not have membership cards and the organization did not maintain a bank account in the name of the committee. He stated that he did not keep books but estimated that he had received $625 or $635 altogether.

He admitted having stated over the radio that he hoped the Army would listen to reason and that the Japanese citizen-farmers would be permitted to remain in the coastal areas to produce vegetables. He stated that he had given statistics to indicate how vegetable production in California would suffer if the Japanese were evacuated and estimated that $60,000,000 worth of produce would not be produced if the Japanese were sent away. He stated that this figure was based on statistics given to the Tolan Committee and predicted on public records. He contended that Caucasians are unable to produce vegetables as efficiently or as inexpensively as the Japanese. He stated that his radio broadcasts pertained to Los Angeles County conditions. (Transcriptions of his broadcasts indicated strong pro-Japanese feeling and contained such allegations as "the Japanese have been and are our friends," etc.)

He denied the allegations of Los Angeles city councilman Roy Hampton that he had received money from a Japanese in Simon's Restaurant in downtown Los Angeles on March 11th or 12th of 1942.

Under close questioning he finally admitted he had received some money from persons of Japanese descent for his Public Affairs Committee broadcasts and finally estimated that the amount was "something like $510." He said that the money had been given to him by close personal friends and he refused to name these persons. He first contended that the Federal Bureau of Investigation would object if he gave the committee the names of the Japanese who had contributed funds to him for the broadcasts. He was excused while the chairman of the committee telephoned the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The bureau not only denied Roth's statement but sent two representatives to the Assembly Chambers in the State Building where the hearing was being held. Roth conferred with them in the corridor of the building and was told that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had no objection to him testifying. He was recalled to the stand and the questions were put in many ways and he still refused to name the Japanese. Charges were preferred against Roth and he was tried and convicted for violation of Penal Code Section 87 in the Municipal Court of Los Angeles.

Fred Masaru Tayama was a former restaurant operator, insurance broker and, at the time of testifying, an evacuee at Manzanar. (Volume X, pp. 2961-2965—2968-2972—2988-2990.) He was born in Honolulu and had received a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering from the A. R. Muir Institute of Technology of Chicago. He stated that he had resided in southern California since 1929.

He was familiar with the Japanese-American Citizens' League with headquarters located at 2031 Bush Street in the City of San Francisco. He stated that there were 66 chapters and approximately 20,000 members with about 7,000 of them in southern California. He stated that to be eligible for membership in this organization, the applicant must be an American citizen of Japanese parentage, 18 years of age or over. He stated that the organization checked up on the birth certificates of applicants for membership and that applicants were compelled to sign an oath of the truth of the statements contained in their application. He stated that he was, at the time of testifying, the chairman of the Southern California District Council of the Japanese-American Citizens' League and that he had held this position since September of 1941. He stated that the chairman heads 20 chapters in the Southern District Council, which covers San Luis Obispo south with one chapter in Phoenix, Arizona.

After December 7, 1941, the Japanese-American Citizens' League had created an Anti-Axis Committee. It had been formed voluntarily and Tayama had called the Nisei leaders together in Los Angeles immediately upon receipt of the news of the attack on Pearl Harbor. He stated that by 5 p.m. on the day of December 7, 1941, the Anti-Axis Committee had been organized in the office of the Rafu Shimbun. An Intelligence Unit was set up in the Anti-Axis Committee to assist Federal officials with problems pertaining to Japanese-Americans and aliens and to report on subversive activities.

He was also a member of the Japanese Y. M. C. A. and served on its Board of Directors. He was a member of the Japanese Union Church (Christian). In support of his contention that he had been expatriated from Japanese dual citizenship, he offered the committee a letter from the Japanese Consul General in San Francisco dated December 10, 1925, confirming his expatriation. He stated that he had been advised in 1923 that he must apply to the Japanese Consul General for military extension or exemption and learned, at that time, that he was considered a citizen of Japan and subject to military duty. He investigated and learned the details and found that he had been registered by relatives in Japan. With this knowledge he took steps to expatriate himself.

He contended that he had been "too busy with other affairs" to learn of subversive activities on the part of the Japanese-Americans in Los Angeles prior to December 7, 1941.

He placed the average age of the Nisei at around 19½ or 20 years. Because they were mostly minors, he stated that, therefore, they do not control the business organizations of the Japanese and do not have much influence. He believed that the Issei had endeavored at all times to maintain the traditions of Japan in the United States. It was his opinion that if the war had been deferred for five or six years until the *Nisei*s would have had an opportunity to have taken over the Japanese organizations and the operation of the businesses; had become heads of families, etc., the situation would have been far different from what it was at the time of testifying. He stated that the Issei expected to be placed in detention camps in the event of war with Japan and said that the Nisei were willing to go.

He had heard of the Black Dragon Society as an organization headed by an elderly man, Mitsuru Toyama, who lived in Japan.

He presented the committee with a copy of a radiogram purported to have originated in Honolulu and signed by the Chamber of Commerce there, denying rumors of Japanese Fifth Column activities in Honolulu on December 7, 1941.

He believed that the majority of the Issei are loyal to Japan and that the majority of the Nisei are loyal to the United States. He believed that this was because the Issei had been refused United States citizenship, and felt that if they had been permitted to become citizens, they might have been loyal.

He had known Tomo Kasurui, Consul of Japan who had been located in Los Angeles. He stated that Kasurui was the spokesman for the Japanese Foreign Office in Japan, at the time of Tayama's testifying. He stated that Kasurui had confided to him in 1935 that there was apt to be a conflict between the United States and Japan.

ACTIVITIES OF JAPANESE EVACUEES

Dr. John Lechner stated that a tremendous movement is on foot to soften up the American people in reference to the Japanese in the relocation centers. He stated that the Japanese in the centers are taking advantage of this situation. (Volume XVI, pp. 3933-3980.) In this connection he offered the committee a sheaf of notes that were made by a Japanese-American at one of the camps. He stated that the notes were in the Japanese-American's own handwriting. He explained that the Government had decreed that Japanese-American citizens and other Japanese in the evacuation centers were not permitted to listen to radio broadcasts, but that the Government had given permission to small groups to act as committees to listen to radio news broadcasts of the day and then, in turn, to rebroadcast over a camp radio-broadcasting system, the news as compiled by the Japanese committee for the benefit of the evacuees. These broadcasts, of course, were in the Japanese language. He stated that the notes taken by his Japanese informant are significant in that they prove that all of the information rebroadcast to the Japanese evacuees was pro-Jap. The Japanese losses were never rebroadcast. The following translations from some of the broadcasts are typical:

"France might as well fly the swastika."

"Tokio is waiting for a complete collapse of the Soviet."

"When the Japanese attack Siberia it will be sudden and decisive."

"Japanese Russian propaganda is very active against the Communists and the Communist United States."

"When Russia is beaten she will become like China."

"Britain, after losing Singapore and Hong Kong, can not expect to get them back in British hands again."

"Why should India remain under British rule to make India a British sphere which will eventually turn India into future British frontier?"

"Unless Britain can influence Jinnah and Nehru against Gandhi's idea, which is too late, Britain can not turn India's tide to British satisfaction."

"Big, important meeting in Moscow is another development of Allies' discord."

"Nazi blitz speed is astonishing."

"All of the Pacific will be blacked out and Japanese may attack the Pacific Coast with submarines."

"Japanese air force is wiping out the United States-Chinese air force."

"Japanese activities in Australia are on the increase. The Australians say the air strength is not sufficient to check the Japanese assault."

"Japanese planes attack Queensland for the first time."

"Four Japanese planes bomb Tourinville. Japanese also bomb Darwin. Japanese threat via Buna also serious."

"One-twentieth of the United States population is in Australia. Japanese secretly landed in Australia a month ago when Japanese landed in New Guinea. Japanese again landed at Buna. Allies have not checked their threat. New United States plane, Mustang, 1,400 horsepower, may out-do Japanese Zero. Burma Japanese may invade in China or India."

All of these excerpts are from the rebroadcast of August 5, 1942. On August 4, 1942 similar broadcasts were made. The following are typical:

"Japanese destroy 55,000 tons of Allied shipping in last week. Japanese sent more reinforcements. Allies advancing Buna-Gona area. Japanese submarine sinks British ship. Another large naval engagement coming. British attack Burma force and lose."

"Big quake in north of New Zealand. Japanese cruiser was bombed for second time, but Japanese established an air field in Coocoda. Gandhi says: 'Unless Allies give complete independence India may welcome Japs.' The Japanese at Burma are preparing to start fresh movement into India. Next Friday is the deadline for India's independence. Two hundred and nineteen Japanese planes attack United States air base."

Dr. Lechner stated that no censorship whatever is exercised on the part of the War Relocation authorities.

On July 28, 1942:

"Japanese landed in Australia in submarines. In New Guinea Japanese set up at Coocoda, 50 miles from Moresby. Japanese attack Darwin and Tourinville. In New Guinea the Japanese are advancing by bicycle troops."

On July 27, 1942:

"Allies attack Buna. More Japanese landed at Buna; more at Gona, 160 miles north of Buna. Japanese attack British force near Moresby. Tojo said: 'Japan holds the initiative in the Western Aleutians; Japan will go the limit to crush the United States and Britain.'"

On the same date the Japanese announcer stated:

"United States is losing this war because they can not fill orders for spare parts. Nazis using transport planes. United States is trying to convert bombers into cargo planes. C. I. O. Auto Workers' Union demands double pay for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. During the first six months of the war 4,000 seamen's lives were lost. India's situation is more critical. Gandhi demands negotiation with British to grant India complete and immediate independence or India will become turmoil of trouble. Our (United States) June production is behind schedule. Gandhi says: 'Britain is India's friend. India neither sides with nor rejects the United States or the Axis countries. India asks the United States, China and Stalin to induce Britain to accept India's independence plea, but no one acts.' Gandhi has political power but not military power—naturally India relies on Japanese aid. Britain today ordered all essential commodity dealers closed. What next?"

On July 21, 1942:

"Japanese attack Fort Moresby with 41 planes. 'Don't neglect Australia for Japanese pilots are darn good and are a good match for United States fliers.'"

Under date of July 19, 1942:

"Japanese carried out their plans. India will become yoke of Japan after this Friday."

On August 7, 1942:

"Only 1 per cent of United States production, or three days production in Australia. How can Australia stop the Japanese? United States is losing this war unless it can produce more war material, and the United States can make this a total war. Only a trickle of supplies come into Australia. Japanese are undoubtedly occupying many important coastal regions on the continent of Australia. We are beaten in India, Turkey and losing in Siberia and Australia. If Russia gives in the United States must lose China and Australian interests. There may be a negotiated peace."

Dr. Lechner testified that it was his opinion that the United States Government is making a big mistake in the civilian administration of the Japanese relocation centers. He stated emphatically that he agreed with the American Legion that the administration of the camps should be under the supervision of the Army and not in civilian hands. He told of a Mr. Myers, who had had no experience before his association with the War Relocation Board or Authority, and who knew nothing of the Japanese, being sent to the West Coast as an expert in charge of the Japanese relocation centers. He stated that Mr. Myers had delivered an address on the Fourth of July, 1942, in which he apologized to the 12,000 Japanese at Manzanar for the big mistake that the United States Government had made in evacuating them in the first place. Dr. Lechner rendered the opinion that every able-bodied Japanese male should be put to work in agricultural centers under strict Army control.

He related incidents occurring at Manzanar in which groups of 10, 12 and 15 Japanese were allowed to travel through Inyo County in trucks without any restriction whatsoever.

He related an incident which occurred at Camp Lordsburg, New Mexico. He stated that a number of Japanese prisoners captured during the Solomon Islands campaign were brought to the relocation center at Lordsburg and interned there with the Japanese evacuees. He stated the civilian administration of the camp permitted the Japanese prisoners to mingle and talk with the evacuees in the Japanese language. On October 29, 1942, Camp Bulletin Number 56 was issued in mimeographed form by the evacuees. It was in the Japanese language. The bulletin described the number of Japanese prisoners who had been brought into the camp a day or two before and gave minute details as to where they had come from and named the boat that brought them to the United States; information, Dr. Lechner contended, withheld from our own metropolitan newspapers. He stated that the Japanese prisoners from the Solomon Islands painted an encouraging picture of Japanese victories for the Japanese-Americans in the camp, and as a result, the camp was "all fired up." The following morning saw a big demonstration staged by both the Japanese-American evacuees and the Japanese prisoners. He stated that there were several thousand Japanese participating in the demonstration, marching up and down through the camp, singing and having a "great time." A loyal Japanese, placed in the camp by the Federal Government, and whose name was withheld, reported that two or three officials in charge of the camp felt quite happy concerning the demonstration. One of them said: "Our policy for the relocation board is pretty good; we are giving them all the leeway possible; look how happy they are!" The Japanese informant turned to the official and said: "Do you know what they are singing?" The official answered, "It doesn't make any difference. They are happy." The Japanese informant then told the official that "They are singing the Japanese National Anthem." The official became alarmed and said, "They can't do that here!" The Japanese informant then stated: "If you will look at the flag-pole you will see what they can do!" The official looked at the flag-pole and saw a home-made Japanese Flag flying from it. During the night the Japanese had run up the Japanese Flag. Dr. Lechner stated that his report revealed that it took the threat of Army machine-guns to enable a man to take down the Japanese Flag.

Dr. John Lechner testified that on August 8, 1942, nearly 500 Kobei, Issei and Nisei gathered in Mess Hall 15, at Manzanar, under the chairmanship of Ben Kishi. (Volume XVI, pp. 3933-3980.) The meeting, Dr. Lechner stated, was conducted in the Japanese language by the consent of the center administration and was purportedly called for the purpose of discussing living conditions. He stated that the meeting developed into a bitter denunciation of Manzanar policy. He stated that one of the scheduled speakers, Kujohi Hashimoto, calling himself a Kibei-Nisei, hinted that he dared not say how the Kibei-Nisei felt regarding this country. Joe Kurihara, born in Hawaii, sprang to his feet and demanded the floor. Kurihara is reported to have said:

"I have never been in Japan, but in my veins flows Japanese blood; the blood of Yamato domashii. We citizens have been denied our citizenship rights; we have no United States citizenship; we are 100 per cent Japanese."

Dr. Lechner stated that a roaring applause and stamping of feet echoed this declaration on the part of Joe Kurihara. When Carl Yoneda, another scheduled speaker and the chairman of the War Participation Committee, attempted to speak on the need for cooperation with the Government of the United States in winning the war, Dr. Lechner stated that he was "booed" and "jeered," so that only a portion of his speech could be heard. Masajo Tanaka spoke next, and said:

"I am a Kibei-Nisei, but the Kibei-Niseis are not American; they are Japanese. (Loud applause.) The Kibeis are not loyal to the United States and they might as well know about it! But the Kibeis should use their citizenship rights for their own benefit. I can not understand why there are a few Nisei who still talk about their citizenship rights, and about American democracy."

Dr. Lechner stated that, realizing the temper of the meeting would be revealed to the authorities at Manzanar and that such meetings in the future might be banned, some of the Issei were heard to remark that "The Japanese soldiers will soon be here to liberate us."

He stated that some time before the meeting in question, at a private conference between Ted Akahoshi, Issei Chairman of Block leaders at Manzanar, and two other individuals, Akahoshi made the following statement in the heat of an argument concerning certain government orders:

"I want to say this, and I want this to be kept just among us three. If one of you should happen to tell it to someone else, I am going to deny it. If Japan loses this war, we—and I include you citizens, too—will all become slaves of this country. If Japan wins, we will then tell them how to run this country."

PRO-JAPANESE SYMPATHIES IN THE UNITED STATES

Dr. John Lechner contended that there now exists in the United States a nationally organized movement to soften the American public against the time when the Japanese-Americans will be released from internment centers. (Volume XVI, pp. 3933-3980.) He described this effort as "a tremendously powerful movement." He stated that there are several organizations now engaged in a campaign to discredit the United States Army's policy of evacuating the Japanese and the policy of the Government in holding the Japanese in concentration or restricted areas. Beginning at page 3963 of Volume XVI, Dr. Lechner states:

"This group is comprised largely of church and educational leaders.

"Here is an article which was written by Norman Thomas, head of the Socialist Party, and distributed by the Post-War Council.

"I understand that several hundred thousand (copies) were sent out. This is a seathing indictment against the United States policy employed so far as the Japanese are concerned, and he (Norman Thomas) advocates the immediate release of all Japanese-Americans. Two months ago Dr. Palmer announced that he had over 1,600 leading ministers in this country who had signed up as active members. (Churchmen's Committee for Christian Peace; Dr. Albert Palmer, chairman and head of the Chicago Seminary.) Palmer's statement on the unconditional surrender of Japan is this, as is described. In such things as these we are getting the first announcement of a very carefully worked out plan of all of these groups I am going to mention, for a negotiated peace with Japan. Speaking of unconditional surrender he said, 'This goal is not likely to be reached by any method of total military victory; some kind of negotiated peace is a desirable alternative.' This statement was made in December, 1942.

"They claim to have 12,000 or more active members throughout the United States. The principal theory is that war is not compatible with the teachings of Christ. In addition to that there is the National Committee for Prevention of Wars. This organization held its National convention in Philadelphia, November 11, 12, and 13, 1942. One of the aggressively active leaders is Theodore Walser, an American missionary to Japan for twenty-three years.

"He spoke before the members of the Pilgrim Church, one of the large churches in Washington, D. C. This was his statement: 'Japan was justified in her attack on Pearl Harbor.' He gave for his reason, first, that America had no right to interfere with Japan's 'Asia for the Asiatics' policy in the Far East. Secondly, Japan is only doing what America did to Mexico and to Central and South American Republics.'

"The National Committee for the Prevention of War in its convention adopted the following aims for 1943, and I list five or six points. First, is a negotiated peace with the Axis powers, following Dr. Albert Palmer's idea. Second, to give financial and moral aid to conscientious objectors; three, to give financial aid and scholarships to Japanese-Americans so that they may complete their university education; four, to release the Japanese from the relocation camps and give the relocation civilian authorities power to act, because they were, apparently, from their statements, already conscious of the fact that they were wielding a great deal of influence over these civilian authorities. Five, give favorable publicity to the Japanese-Americans and the Japanese point of view in the public press, and particularly stress that point of view in church publications throughout America; set up an employment agency to aid the Japanese as fast as they are released from the relocation camps.

"Incidentally, one point here about the church publications. From our information it is very apparent that a definite policy is being employed to create a favorable attitude toward Japanese-Americans in this country, and so favorable that naturally we will build up a sympathetic attitude for Japan. That is what we call the 'softening-up process' so that these various organizations can put across with full speed, by the end of 1943, a terrific campaign for a negotiated peace with Japan, and it is a very clearly worked out scheme.

"As an indication of how far they will go * * *, from December 4th to December 14th in Quebec, Canada, the Institute of Pacific Relations, which has a very powerful branch here, held what they called 'a Pacific conference' for the purpose of discussing post-war problems in the Pacific area. At that conference the leaders refused admission of a Korean participant, although they claimed that they were interested in establishing the Atlantic Charter of the Four Freedoms in all of the subjugated nations in the world. Finally after a threat was made to expose the Pacific Conference held by the Institute of Pacific Relations, they agreed to allow a Korean as an observer. The opposition came from some of the missionaries who came from Japan, representing the Far East.

"Underneath that whole conference was this underlying motive, to build there at that Pacific Conference in Quebec the structure for the cooperation of the Institute of Pacific Relations for a negotiated peace and the leaders in that conference were former missionaries and educators of Japan. Why they had this antipathy for the Korean was because they felt that if he were a part of the conference he would expose the things that were going on inside. That is a matter of fact that Mr. Haan testified to.

"The purpose of these groups, as I stated, is to soften American public opinion against Japanese and pave the way for a negotiated peace with Japan."

Dr. John Lechner, it should be stated, is an ordained minister.

PART VII

MANKIND UNITED

INTRODUCTION

Early in 1934 a small group of people assembled in the Hotel Leamington in Oakland. A mysterious individual known only as "The Voice" or "The Speaker" was the principal figure at the meeting. He was meticulously attired, slender and aloof. He affected a Messiah attitude and when his eyes were not dreamily intent in contemplation on matters far removed from his mundane surroundings, they glowed with intense magnetism on the little group who reverently drank in his every utterance.

He told them a strange and fantastic story. He went back to a Christmas Day in 1875 and told of the meeting of a group of mysterious men. Their names were never known and never will be known. The Voice designated them as "The Sponsors." They had gathered from the four corners of the globe, projecting their physical bodies through space, as The Voice was able to project his own at unbelievable speed, covering the distance between the United States and China in but a few seconds. They had gathered to discuss the deplorable conditions existing in the world—even in 1875. They had not only gathered to discuss the situation but met with a full determination to do something about it. They solemnly resolved to launch a world-erudade against war and poverty and out of the discussions of the meeting emerged an organization which became known as "Mankind United."

It was The Sponsors who contacted the superhuman race of little creatures with large metallic heads who dwell in the center of the earth, passing the time controlling earthquakes and floods. The support of this race of little supermen was enlisted in the erudade against war and poverty and the supernatural powers of the little creatures were placed at the disposal of The Sponsors. Supernatural control over men, mystic forces and devices were to be placed in the hands of Mankind United when the designated day came. These powers, controls and mystic forces included devices and apparatus whereby traffic might be brought to a halt and airplanes stopped in midflight; steel melted from a distance of miles and shells and ammunition rendered incapable of exploding. The little creatures with large metallic heads would gladly lend of their powers in making all instruments of war ineffective.

The eyes of The Voice must have glowed with mystic intensity and meaning as he warned his listeners of the death they would meet if they ever dared to reveal the secrets of Mankind United.

Since that Christmas Day in 1875 Mankind United had spread throughout the world. The intervening years had seen branches established everywhere. A subsidiary or auxiliary organization was established, the International Institute for Universal Research and Administration. The members of this scientific institute, working, no doubt, with the little creatures in the center of the world, developed hitherto unknown, tremendous and mysterious forces to be harnessed and used when the proper time came to establish Mankind United in control of all the governments of the earth.

The Voice spoke to the little group of starry-eyed people in the Leamington Hotel in mysterious terms. He told of the International Legion of Vigilantes. It was related to them under solemn oaths of secrecy. Mankind United fought a vicious and heartless group of exploiters and slavers known as the Hidden Rulers. These powerful rulers were determined ruthlessly to crush Mankind United; it was a war to the death between the two groups. The Hidden Rulers controlled the world's wealth and knew that if the crusade initiated by The Sponsors succeeded that they would be completely destroyed.

Der Tag was near at hand, The Voice notified his entranced listeners. The Sponsors had determined that the time had come for action. Alas! There was a catch to it. Before Mankind United might take over all the governments of the earth, The Sponsors had decided that Mankind United must have not less than 200,000,000 members. The time, however, was ripe, The Voice declared, and he had been selected to bring the 200,000,000 members into the crusade of Mankind United. He had been granted supernatural powers for this purpose and, because of the magnitude of the job assigned to him, had been given hundreds of "doubles,"—"automatons," resembling him in every detail and endowed with his conscience and will, so that he might actually be in many places simultaneously performing the many duties imposed upon him by The Sponsors. Within two or three seconds his physical body, or those of his "doubles" might be transported to any given place in the world. It was nothing at all for him to go to sleep in San Francisco and wake up a few seconds later in China or India. This art of "leaping through the air with the greatest of ease" had been brought to such perfection that The Voice was able to travel from San Francisco to a ship in mid-Atlantic in but a few seconds and find himself in a state-room on the ship. It was a very convenient arrangement because The Voice was not only able to transport himself in this miraculous manner but was able to bring bales of documents and other physical material with him, without the inconvenience of customs and immigration officials.

The selected few who had met with The Voice in the Leamington Hotel in Oakland had been signally honored. To them was assigned the task of organizing Mankind United in California. The Sponsors had caused a book to be written and it was appropriately entitled "Mankind United." They were to go forth and recruit members for Mankind United and to sell copies of The Sponsors' book. The volume itself had mysterious and supernatural qualities that would be explained to all of the members at a later day. The job before them for the present was to find 200,000,000 people to buy the books so that the day of reckoning for the Hidden Rulers and the existing governments of the world would be hastened.

MANKIND UNITED FANTASY

Literature of the organization was soon in circulation and the membership grew at such a pace that it became necessary for The Voice to divide the State of California into bureaus. The men who conducted these bureaus became known as "Bureau managers." The Nordic Service Bureau, the Latin Service Bureau, the Ray of Light Bureau, the Star of the East Bureau and more than a hundred others sprang into existence throughout California. A pioneer edition of the book Mankind United sold for $100 a copy. Ordinary volumes, printed and bound in the same manner as the $100 copy, sold for $20 each and even as low as $2 each. The membership fees were $20. By 1935 and 1936 groups were meeting throughout the State and learning of the little creatures with large metallic heads who dwell in the center of the earth and who control the earthquakes and the floods. They began to hear the stories of the miraculous devices invented and developed by the International Institute for Universal Research and Administration; of death rays and strange inventions that could paralyze automobile traffic and bring airplanes to an abrupt halt in midflight. Each Mankind United Bureau group believed that they were small units of a world-wide organization waiting only for the appointed day to end war and poverty and to take over all the governments of the world simultaneously. They spoke in awe and reverence of The Voice or The Speaker, as he was sometimes called. They believed The Voice was merely a connecting link between the bureaus and The Sponsors of the great international organization.

In 1940 and 1941 the citizens of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Fresno and other cities in California, might have seen yellow mimeographed circulars generously and profusely circulated in downtown districts. They advertised the secret showing of a motion picture and outlined a method whereby an interested party might view the film. Devious ways and means were provided for gaining permission to view the mysterious picture. Absolute secrecy was demanded of each applicant who was granted this privilege. The Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California learned that these films were being exhibited during this period both at the headquarters of the German-American Bund and the Communist Party headquarters in San Francisco and in Los Angeles.

Within a few days of the bombing of Pearl Harbor investigators for the committee learned that the bureaus of Mankind United throughout the State had suddenly become beehives of activity. Members had been ordered by bureau managers to lay in supplies of food and clothing, to secure blankets and water in sealed containers in preparation for the time of confusion and siege which would necessarily be incident to Mankind United taking over the government. They were ordered to cooperate in the preparation of large maps detailing the location of airplane factories, shipyards, police and radio stations, hospitals, tunnels, railroad lines and bridges. They were ordered to time themselves in order to ascertain how long it would take to go from certain central points to the homes of non-members within certain specified limits.

Bureau managers were summoned to San Francisco for a conference with The Voice and returned to tell their respective members that they must not purchase United States War Bonds or Stamps. The members were informed by the bureau managers that military units such as the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps had been formed for the purpose of providing the armed forces of the United States with uniformed prostitutes. They were informed that the government had deliberately sent most of the armed forces abroad in order to leave the Nation defenseless against invasion and that the few remaining troops were being rapidly shifted about the country to create an illusion of a large protective force at home. They were told that President Roosevelt had personally ordered the bombing of Tokio in his desire to provoke Japanese retaliation in a bombing of the Pacific Coast. This was desirable on the part of the President, they declared, in order to create an excuse for the declaration of martial law so that he might be set up as a permanent dictator.

The members of the committee were convinced of the subversive character of the organization and its leaders. In this mystic realm of strange mental distortions several thousand distressed people were groping through the mist of their own befuddlement in search of some panacea for their ills; activated by an insane web of fantasy spun from the brain of a designing charlatan and working with frantic zeal to thwart the war effort of their own government.

The committee decided to subpoena the known leaders of the organization. Those called to testify are as follows:

George Gouverneur Ashwell	Guy McKinley Wright
Arthur Lowber Bell	Chester Cleveland Cook
Dr. Eugene Wadsworth Brown	Walter Henry Chris Peters
P. J. Cardoza	Eugene W. Laisne
A. Ray Elsea	Bay Burns Sharp
Willard E. Franke	Dema Jane Fleming
Fern Ruth Lewis	John William Peck
Orlando Meniketti	James Everett Coe
Cora Wickham	Robert M. Schuler

MANKIND UNITED IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Fern Ruth Lewis has been a resident of San Bernardino for 15 years. (Volume X, pp. 3004-3027.) She had been a member of Mankind United for about two years. She had become affiliated through her acquaintance with a woman she had met in a beauty shop where she was working as a cosmetologist. The woman gave her (Lewis) a copy of Mien Kampf and Mrs. Lewis gave her $5 as her initiation fee for membership in Mankind United. The woman told Mrs. Lewis of a miraculous "ray machine" that was to be demonstrated by the organization at a cottage near Lake Arrowhead. Mrs. Lewis became a member of the Ruth-Ann Bureau, headed by Dr. Eugene W. Brown. The bureau met in Los Angeles and had between 50 and 100 members.

Dr. Brown told the members of the Ruth-Ann Bureau that they were all protected by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mrs.

Lewis stated that the bureau was in possession of maps of all cities along the coast of southern California and that these maps were displayed in meetings of the Ruth-Ann Bureau. Dr. Brown told the members that if the inactive affiliates failed to obey the orders of the active members that dire things might happen to them. "You know what the Gestapo did to the people of France!" Mrs. Lewis reported Dr. Brown as significantly declaring. She described the maps of the areas in question as being very thorough and stated that the homes of members of Mankind United were marked with colored pins indicating active and inactive members. The white pins were for the active members and the pink pins for those who were inactive. She said that all public buildings were marked and that the number of employees working in the buildings were listed together with any members of Mankind United who might also work with them. She never learned the exact purpose of the maps, although she claimed that Dr. Brown had hinted that they were to be used for sabotaging the war effort when the time came.

Following the news of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, Dr. Brown had advised the members to lay in supplies of food and bedding. All members of Mankind United were to be ready when sabotage hit the country so that they would be prepared to take over the government. He warned them that they should lay in sufficient food for three months and should be supplied with boiled water, first aid kits, etc. He strongly indicated that there would be general chaos at some time in the very near future. The active members of Mankind United had little to worry about, according to Dr. Brown, as he indicated that they would be protected. He told them to ascertain how long it would take each of them to go to each others homes in their particular community because when the "message" came, it must be relayed to each of the members and that "an hour was all the time" they would have.

Mrs. Lewis stated that Dr. Brown told the purchasers of the book, "Mankind United," that there was a secret message contained in it and that this message could be clearly brought out with a simple household appliance. She declared that she had ruined two books attempting to find the message.

The map for the City of Los Angeles was very thorough, Mrs. Lewis stated. It indicated everything very clearly in the area, including tunnels and power outlets.

The objectives of Mankind United, as outlined by Dr. Brown were the achievement of complete unity of all people and the establishment of equal wages and equal living conditions. This objective was to be attained by the use of force and the world-wide sabotage of war efforts. Mrs. Lewis told the committee that she had come to the conclusion that the members were held in the organization by fear and that the real purposes of its leaders were being concealed from the members and the general public. She stated that she believed the organization to be subversive. She estimated the number of members in southern California as more than 11,500. She had heard of The Speaker and had also heard him referred to as The Voice.

The place where the demonstration of the ray machine was held was alleged to have been located in Cajon Pass and was known to be the headquarters of the Nazis. She stated that the caretaker of the place was a German who could barely speak English.

Dr. Brown had exhibited a picture to the members of Mankind United in San Bernardino and Mrs. Lewis stated that during the showing of the film he "pranced up and down and had the people in tears through fear."

She had heard Dr. Brown tell of The Speaker's ability to transport himself about the earth at will and of the little men in the center of the earth who controlled the earthquakes and floods.

She stated that while the regular initiation fee was $20 she had only paid $5.

A man by the name of Eugene Messenger collected the membership money in San Bernardino for delivery to Dr. Brown in Los Angeles.

She stated that Dr. Brown had reported to the membership a meeting of bureau managers which had been held in San Francisco, in September of 1939. He stated that an army of 10,000 saboteurs were ready in the United States.

Mrs. Lewis testified that she knew of groups of Mankind United in Colton, but that there were none in Riverside to her knowledge.

A. Ray Elsea had been the manager of the Ray of Light Bureau of Mankind United since December of 1938. (May 12, 1942 Hearing, pp. 87-104.) He had been a student of metaphysics. He admitted having heard The Voice speak. He had heard The Speaker tell of his travels and of having "lost consciousness" and waking up in other parts of the world. He denied ever having heard of saboteurs maintained by Mankind United and regarded the accomplishments of the organization in the same light as the miracles performed by Jesus. He denied ever having heard of instructions from The Speaker regarding the preparation of maps.

He stated that the source of his income was through the "normal channels" of bureau collections and that he devoted his entire time to the work of the bureau and lived by it. He claimed that he made financial reports at bureau manager meetings and that the money collected by him was turned over to a Mrs. Bess D. Comfort and a Mrs. Erwin, who constitute a financial committee for the purpose of receiving money. A Max Miller of the A. P. Roberts Bureau of Palo Alto also served on the "financial committee." He denied having any knowledge of the disposition of the funds.

He was able to recall a description of the mechanisms of Mankind United published in the bulletins of the organization. The committee had heard of a device allegedly developed by the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration which, when properly in operation, caused people's eyes "to pop out of their head." Mr. Elsea admitted that he believed that this device had been described in the text of the book, "Mankind United" or some of the organization's literature.

Dr. Wadsworth Brown was subpoenaed and testified February 24, 1942 (Volume IX, pp. 2658-2678). He was drugless physician and doctor of chiropractic by training and his profession was that of "lecturer." He was a graduate of the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic and had resided in Los Angeles since 1916.

He was not acquainted with a man by the name of Arthur L. Bell and had only heard of this individual through the newspapers and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was acquainted with a man who was known by the name of George Ashwell and had known him for about three years. He had met him at various gatherings of "teachers and seekers,"—seekers after the truth. While he was not acquainted with Arthur L. Bell, he admitted having seen and heard The Speaker, who was sometimes also referred to as The Voice. He stated vaguely and mysteriously that he had seen one who seemed to be The Speaker or The Voice on many occasions, intimating that it might not have been, after all. He had heard The Voice mention an apparatus which could destroy all war machinery (p. 2668). "We are against war because it causes suffering and poverty," he added. He believed the international bankers represent the "hidden powers" that cause wars. All instructions to the bureau managers and its members come "through" The Speaker, he alleged.

He averred that Mankind United had existed since Christmas day in 1875. He had belonged to the organization since August of 1938 and was the manager of the Ruth-Ann Bureau. He had knowledge of the Ray of Light Bureau in Los Angeles and the George Ashwell Bureau, whose location he did not indicate. He knew of no other bureaus. The Ruth-Ann Bureau had sold between two and three hundred copies of the book, "Mankind United." He claimed to know nothing of the financial status of Arthur L. Bell or the organization of Mankind United in California. He had no knowledge of where the books were printed. He remembered having attended bureau managers meetings but could not remember when or where or how many he had attended or who was present with him. He claimed to know nothing of "trained saboteurs" maintained by the organization.

He knew vaguely of the International Registration Bureau but did not know where it was located or anything about it. He claimed he had never heard of "the little men in the center of the earth with metallic heads who control floods and earthquakes." He would not dispute their existence.

He denied that Mankind United actually had members. He explained that there was no actual membership in the organization and its supporters were only interested persons. The objective of the organization was "security and abundance" for the "persons interested." Being pressed for the number of members in the Ruth-Ann Bureau, he finally stated that it consisted of "possibly a thousand" persons who were merely "interested." He stated that the goal of Mankind United for membership (or "interested persons") is 200 million people. He stated mysteriously that the policies of the organization change "sufficiently to cooperate with the law" (p. 2676). The bureau managers receive no salary. They do receive certain revenues from the sale of books.

He admitted having seen the organization's motion picture, "Dealers in Death."

He stated that there was no accounting of the funds in the organization and that it was not deemed necessary. The members do not demand audits and the bureau managers never question the disposition of the money they turn into the San Francisco headquarters.

Dr. Brown was recalled May 12, 1942 (May, 1942, Hearing, pp. 2-62 and 104-109). At this hearing he reiterated much of his previous history. He stated that the greater part of his duties as the manager of the Ruth-Ann Bureau was relaying messages to "interested people" from The Speaker. He stated that these messages came on the average of once a month and that the Ruth-Ann Bureau put out bulletins conveying the messages to its members or "interested people."

The last meeting of the bureau managers was held on May 4, 1942. "At least one of him," (meaning one of The Speaker's doubles) was present and he "thought" that less than 20 bureau managers were in attendance. He contacted George Ashwell while in San Francisco for the meeting. The meeting was held in the St. Francis Hotel. At that time he received instructions from The Speaker.

The Speaker occasionally sent messages by telegraph to bureau managers and Dr. Brown identified one such telegram of February 14, 1942, which was signed "Division Superintendent." He stated that the telegrams were sometimes signed "Department A."

He had never heard of Mrs. Ruth Lewis until he read her name in the Los Angeles newspapers after she had testified before the committee. He later found her name on his records as an "enrollee." He ventured the opinion that she was a "detective." He stated: "We are not quite as green as we might look" (p. 19).

He explained that he had become interested in Mankind United because of the similarity of its philosophy to Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward." He had then joined the Faith Grace Bureau, which was headed by Bess D. Comfort. This bureau was located on South Vermont Avenue in Los Angeles and the meeting place was at Ninth and Grand. He had known Ray A. Elsea, the manager of the Ray of Light Bureau, since the fall of 1938, although he had never attended any of the meetings of the Ray of Light Bureau. He stated that he knew Mrs. Gertrude W. Erwin, who was manager of the Hall-Gardner Bureau. He identified other bureau managers.

He received some revenue from the sale of health food products and had filed an income tax return for the year 1941. His bookkeeper, Alice Erdman, was responsible for making tax returns for the Ruth-Ann Bureau. "We are told to lean backwards," he commented, "in obeying the law * * *" (p. 27).

He related some of the "peculiar happenings" concerning the "doubles" of The Speaker. He identified bulletins, telegrams, and other documents connected with the organization which were entered in the committee's record. He stated that his files for the bureau were maintained at 1325 Ingraham Street in Los Angeles and that it included the lists of "registrants" with their addresses. Marion Huff kept a set of books for the San Bernardino Division of the Ruth-Ann Bureau. She maintains a "captain's unit" there, he added.

He stated that the chief source of the bureau's income was from collections taken at the meetings. He described these collections as "love offerings."

He declared that Mankind United was divided into four territories in the State and that a bureau manager was in charge of each county. The counties were broken down into districts when the membership warranted and each district was divided into areas and the areas into sections. He explained that the entire structural plan of Mankind United had not been completely put into operation and that the districts had been abolished at the time he testified. The bureaus had taken them over.

He claimed that no fee had been paid by him in order to become the bureau manager. He had purchased books, forms, etc. At the time of testifying, he claimed that no new bureau managers were being appointed. He admitted that his bureau had carried out instructions to map certain areas and to clock the time it took to get to members' homes. He stated that a report on these matters had been sent to San Francisco but hedged in naming to whom it was sent. The reason for the mapping and timing was explained as preparation for a time of chaos and the belief that "there will be an uprising of fifth columnists synchronized with an invasion from the outside." He stated that the United States Government would break down at the critical moment and that it would then be necessary for the people to have food and supplies. Therefore the members of Mankind United had been instructed to store necessary food and supplies in advance. He stated that the "inventions in the hands of The Sponsors" would enable Mankind United to come into power.

The Ruth-Ann Bureau had five captains and 30 lieutenants since February of 1940. He "did not know" the number of "enrollees" or the number of "registrants" carried on the rolls of the Ruth-Ann Bureau. He estimated that there were around 200 "registrants" and 400 "enrollees." He explained that the statements printed in the bulletins claiming more than the figures quoted by him were "rather loose statements."

The term "pioneer" was explained as indicating those who had purchased the "Pioneer Edition" of the book, "Mankind United" for $100 per copy.

He denied that he had ever threatened any of the members with physical violence. He claimed that The Speaker told a southern California meeting of bureau managers that "This organization will never do anything to sabotage or act as a channel of espionage of this country's armed equipment" (p. 60).

He branded as ridiculous allegations concerning a Mankind United apparatus which would cause the eyeballs of people to pop out and claimed that the organization had never been told of any such equipment. He added that if there existed apparatus capable of sabotaging the war effort it would be used to stop all, not a part, of war machinery. He added that the "warmongers" were those who were portrayed in such motion pictures as "Dealers in Death."

He concluded his testimony by declaring that the doors of Mankind United were open to all races and all creeds.

MANKIND UNITED IN CENTRAL CALIFORNIA

The committee subpoenaed eight witnesses in its investigation of Mankind United in Fresno, May 22 and 23, 1942.

John William Peek had affiliated with Mankind United in the latter part of April, 1939 (Volume XI, pp. 3208-3294). He had attended a meeting of the organization the Wednesday night preceding the hearing. The meeting was presided over by Bay Burns Sharp. There were about 30 people present and the meeting was held at the corner of Kearney and Arthur Streets, in the home of Walter Henry Chris Peters.

Peck recalled that he had known A. R. Lawn since May of 1939. He recalled having received a bulletin from Mankind United in reference to the disaffiliation of Lawn. The bulletin had explained that Lawn had voluntarily resigned and the affiliates of his bureau would be informed of the bureau to which they would be transferred.

Peck admitted having heard of the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration, of the Universal Service Corporation, the Pacific Registration Bureau, the Division Superintendent, The Voice, The Speaker, the Hidden Rulers and the Unknown Sponsors. He stated that all of these organizations and individuals had been mentioned from time to time. No one had ever taken the trouble to tell him who The Sponsors were and the Hidden Rulers had never been referred to by name. He had heard of strange and mysterious mechanisms and devices having power to paralyze human animation and motor traffic. He had been told of a device which had been developed by Mankind United or one of its affiliate-organizations which had the power to melt steel at a distance of 30 miles. He recalled that Dr. Lawn had described this device to him. He recalled hearing of an experiment which had been demonstrated somewhere south of the City of Fresno. He had been told that all highway traffic had been tied up for a period of 20 minutes and that police cars going to investigate failed to operate their motor vehicles during the time of the tie-up. Peck had been informed that the traffic tie-up was the result of the operation of the device developed by Mankind United. Discussions concerning the success of the experiment took place between the members of Mankind United in March of 1942.

He had been told that the organization was controlled in California by an individual known only as The Voice or The Speaker. He had been told that the Division Superintendent was the same individual otherwise described as The Voice or The Speaker.

He knew Harry Smith Simmons and admitted having attended meetings of the A. P. Burns Bureau with him. He had heard Carol Purcell speak at meetings of Mankind United during the previous two months.

He stated that he had been present at a meeting when Bay Burns Sharp had spoken concerning the bombing of Tokio. Sharp had stated in substance that the Yanks had bombed Tokio for the purpose of bringing the present conflict home to the people of America, and that this act was to be the final step used by subversive forces in bringing the war to America. Sharp declared in substance that the bombing of Tokio would result in the Japanese bombing the West Coast, and that martial law would follow. Sharp stated that the armed forces and equipment of the United States were being sent out of the country, leaving the Nation defenseless. Peck stated that there had been talk at the meetings concerning the possibility of the bubonic plague stalking California and of germicidal warfare.

He was recalled to testify May 23, 1942 (Volume XI, pp. 3295-3305). He told of a meeting which had been conducted by a woman by name of Howard in the Spring of 1940 of active affiliates of the Star of the East Bureau which was then under the management of Dr. A. R. Lawn. He stated that Mrs. Howard presided and that there were 15 affiliates present.

He claimed that he had been invited to become a bureau manager and that the invitation had been extended to him by Dr. Lawn around the twenty-second of October, 1939. He stated that there did not appear to be particular qualifications necessary for a bureau manager and at the time the invitation was extended, qualifications were not discussed. Dr. Lawn requested him to take charge of all of Mankind United in Fresno County. He did not accept the invitation and Dr. Lawn continued to press him to do so. Subsequently, qualifications for bureau managers were discussed at Peek's home. Bay Burns Sharp, Peek and his wife were present during the discussion. Sharp wanted to know why Peek had not taken a more active part in the affairs of Mankind United. Peek told him that it was because he had certain doubts and that there were certain questions in his mind, which, up to that time, had not been answered. Sharp expressed a desire to discuss the questions with Peek and called at his home later in order to clear up the points in Peek's mind. This discussion, which was on or about the first of March, 1942, included the spiritual phases as well as all of the mechanical phases and principles of Mankind United. Financial requirements and other qualifications for bureau managership were also discussed.

Peek stated that Sharp told him that the application for enrollment would cost $20. This amount would cover the cost of certain classes which Peek must attend and which would be held at a later date. Eight dollars and thirty-three cents was necessary for certain equipment and "protection," also to be supplied at a later date. The equipment consisted of printed matter, such as bulletins and instructions, and the "protection" was described as applying to every form of "protection" the witness might need. On March 6, 1942, Peek paid Sharp $1 which was part payment on the bureau managership's pledge and at a later date he applied $18 on the enrollment fee of $20. He testified that he had never completed his qualifying requirements in order to become a bureau manager and that, in fact, he had never actually been a bureau manager.

He told of a meeting at Walter Henry Chris Peter's home on March 18, 1942, when mysterious radio transmitting equipment developed by Mankind United was discussed. This equipment was to be used, he was told, in giving a world-wide program of Mankind United. Other mysterious devices were also discussed which, it was said, were to be given to members of Mankind United to enable them to tune in on the world-wide program of the organization.

Peek stated that he had heard Sharp declare that everything that Mankind United could do to hold back the war effort would result in the saving of millions of lives.

Walter Henry Chris Peters admitted having attended a meeting of Mankind United at his residence on the Wednesday preceding the hearing (Volume XI, pp. 3171-3177). He declared that he had been interested in the movement for about three years and that he first became affiliated in the latter part of 1939. His wife, Winona Peters, was also interested and had been so for about the same length of time. Many of the meetings were held in his home or at the home of a Mrs. Marks. He was a "lieutenant" of the A. P. Burns Bureau and had been so "commissioned" for a year or longer. He did not know who had appointed him a "lieutenant," and, as a matter of fact, admitted that "nobody had appointed him." When he came to think about it, he did not know exactly how he had obtained the title of "lieutenant." When asked to describe his duties in the capacity of "lieutenant," he stated that he did not know what the duties were because he "had never performed them." He said that he did not sign his title to correspondence because he "did not have correspondence." After thinking the matter over he stated that he had been elected a "lieutenant" after all, but was unable to remember who "elected" him, but "guessed" that it must have been those who comprised the local group interested in Mankind United. He did not know whether the vote electing him had been oral or written or who had presided at the meeting when the vote was taken or when the meeting was held. He was able to recall that Dr. Lawn was the bureau manager at the time he had been made a "lieutenant." He stated that there were captains in connection with the Mankind United movement and that the captain in Fresno happened to be his wife, Winona. He knew as little about her "commission" as he knew about his own. He stated that he did not know whether she had been elected or appointed and could not remember whether or not he was present at the time she received her "captaincy." He did not know what the duties of the captain were.

He received bulletins from the organization from time to time but claimed that he did not know where the bulletins came from.

Chester Cleveland Cook had been a chiropractor in Watsonville and salesman for the Aluminum Cooking Utensil Company in King City. At the time of testifying, May 22, 1942, he was residing in Hanford with his wife and four children (Volume XI, pp. 3150-3170).

He was familiar with Mankind United and had been a member for about three years. He ventured the belief that the Universal Institute for Research and Administration was the parent body or the "institution" behind Mankind United. He stated that it had been created on December 25, 1875. He did not know where the headquarters were located. He had heard of the Pacific Coast Registration Bureau, but did not know its location. He had heard of the Universal Service Corporation but could not recollect anything concerning it at the time of testifying. He declined to identify a book entitled "Question and Answer Bulletin B" which contained "Forms 97 and 98," published by the Pacific Coast Division of the International Bureau. He stated that he would first have to confer with legal counsel before making such identification. He explained that he did not personally desire to refuse to answer the question but that he did not want to get into trouble. After being advised of his rights before the committee, Cook admitted that he had seen the exhibit and that he was familiar with "Question and Answer Bulletin C." He also was familiar with a printed sheet entitled "Mankind United Creed."

Much of Cook's testimony was similar to that of other witnesses and he corroborated former testimony concerning the structure of the organization, its divisions and bureaus, bureau management and bureau administration under a "manager," "captains" and "lieutenants." He testified, in addition, that seven divisions had been planned for Fresno County to be known as "districts" and that each district was to be divided into ten "areas" and each area in turn was to be divided into "sections."

He had been acquainted with Bay Burns Sharp for a year and a half and had met him in Tulare County. Sharp had always been in charge of the A. P. Burns Bureau with its headquarters in Fresno. The A. P. Burns Bureau had jurisdiction over Fresno, Tulare, Kings and Madera Counties.

He claimed that he had never heard anyone connected with Mankind United referred to as The Speaker. He had heard of the "Superintendent" of the Pacific Coast Registration Bureau and had seen this designation in printed matter. He admitted that he had heard of an individual connected with Mankind United referred to as The Voice.

He had become affiliated with the movement originally through a book which had been sent to him by Dr. A. R. Lawn from Salinas. Dr. Lawn, at that time, he stated, was the manager of the Star of the East Bureau. He denied ever having heard of the A. P. Roberts Bureau.

His entire family belonged to Mankind United in Hanford. There were others who had belonged but they were now away doing defense work "or something." He held meetings of the movement in his home on Braydon Avenue in Hanford and presided over them. He stated that he believed that "Mankind United belongs to the affiliates" of the movement and that "the affiliates did not belong to Mankind United." He believed that a unit of the organization existed in Visalia but stated that most of the meetings in the valley were held in Fresno at the Peters residence.

He recalled having seen a motion picture entitled "Dealers in Death" but could not state whether or not it was sponsored by Mankind United or the Registration Bureau. In the next breath he said that Mankind United was a subdivision of the Registration Bureau. He denied ever having seen a motion picture entitled "Things to Come" sponsored by either the Registration Bureau or Mankind United. He admitted having seen two motion pictures in connection with the activities of the organization. "Dealers in Death" was shown on either Irving Street or Dowdy Street in Hanford. The other picture had been exhibited on some camp ground, "or something," in Visalia. He had read of mysterious mechanisms developed by the Research Department of Mankind United or the International Institute for Universal Research and Administration. He understood that these mechanisms might be inventions, or forces, or vibrations, "or something" of the International Institute for Universal Research and Administration.

The fundamental and basic principle of Mankind United, according to Cook, was opposition to war from a Christian standpoint. He stated that when a certain number of individuals become sufficiently interested in the movement and sufficient money is raised to warrant the release of a certain program "(concerning which nobody knows very much)," there would then ensue a 30 day educational program which would be released to all the people affiliated with Mankind United. This would happen when there existed a "representative audience," of at least 200,000,000 people. He denied that he had ever heard of the hidden race of little men with metallic heads who are alleged to be destined to play an important part in the final accomplishment of Mankind United's goal. He stated that the heads of great church organizations had been offered "this great power to end war and bring about a new world" but the heads of the churches had not appeared willing to "take it up."

Dema Jane Fleming had been acquainted with Bay Burns Sharp since February of 1942 (Volume XI, pp. 3271-3280). She had attended several meetings of the A. P. Burns Bureau of Mankind United and had heard Sharp state that the bombing of Tokio was an invitation to the Japanese to bomb the West Coast of the United States. Sharp had explained that the "powers that be" "(probably the government)," intended to declare martial law in order to bring about a dictatorship in the United States. Sharp contended that the only way this dictatorship could be prevented would be to put over the program of Mankind United and thus bring forth all the equipment in the organization's possession for the purpose of stopping the war. Mrs. Fleming stated that she had learned that this equipment was capable of suspending animation in a human being and that whole armies could be disarmed while in such a state. Mankind United, she had been told, was prepared to use this force and disarm the armies of the world just as soon as the required number of persons were secured. Sharp had stated that the armed forces of the United States were being sent abroad, leaving the United States inadequately defended and that troops were being shifted back and forth to make the people believe that a sufficient number were left to defend the country. She stated that she had heard Sharp state on several occasions that Mankind United was in possession of a technique for "throwing monkey-wrenches into the war effort." She had also heard this statement made by a Mr. Simmons. Sharp had stated that for every day he or the defensive branch of the organization did something to hold back the war effort in the United States that "we are saving millions of lives."

On the evening before testifying, Mrs. Fleming stated that John William Peck had come to her house and asked her to go to his home to meet Mr. Sharp who was coming over to discuss the committee's subpoenas and the contemplated hearing. She accompanied Peck to his home and Mr. Sharp told them that he had consulted an attorney by the name of Collins in reference to the subpoenas received from the legislative committee. Sharp, according to Mrs. Fleming, laid down a line of conduct which he stated he intended to follow before the inquiry. He stated that he intended to make the examiner angry and advised those present at the meeting of ways and means to avoid answering questions. He told them that a "lapse of memory" was a good subterfuge for refusing to answer questions. He told them that people who were subpoenaed by such committees could refuse to answer questions and "stand on their Constitutional rights."

Mrs. Fleming stated that John William Peck had given her a copy of T. W. Hughes' book, "The Truth About England."

Eugene W. Laine is an optometrist in Fresno, California (Volume XI, pp. 3177-3210.) He first became interested in Mankind United when a Dr. Wallace in Sacramento gave him a book to read entitled "Mankind United." He frankly declared that the idea of Mankind United "captivated" him.

He later contacted Dr. Lawn of Salinas. Lawn came to Fresno and later sent Dr. Laisne several sets of the books. Laisne then induced some of the doctors in Fresno to interest themselves in the movement, as he sincerely believed it was worthy of consideration at the time.

The book itself declared that the movement had been organized on December 25, 1875, and that it was international in scope—“world-wide.” He knew of the International Institute for Research and Administration and the existence of a corporation in a nebulous state which, some time in the future, when a sufficient number of people had become interested, would be brought into full existence to be known as the Universal Service Corporation. The movement had as one of its basic objectives the economic security and happiness of all the people. Another basic principle was the assurance of world-wide peace based on the doctrines of the Christian religion.

Dr. Laisne testified that he saw an individual in the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco who was referred to as The Voice or The Speaker. He saw him from a great distance. He stated that there were several thousand people in attendance at the meeting in question. He had never heard of Arthur L. Bell.

He could not recall whether he first affiliated with the Ray of Light Bureau or the Star of the East Bureau. He had been asked to make contributions to the movement through the purchasing of copies of the book “Mankind United” and, because of his great enthusiasm in the beginning, he contributed some seven or eight hundred dollars in addition to contributing office work and space for the local bureau. He still had some 50 or 60 copies of the book.

He had heard of the Ruth Ann Bureau in southern California and of the George Ashwell Bureau in the City of San Francisco. He claimed that he had attempted to contact George Ashwell on a number of occasions but had never been able to do so.

He had never been a bureau manager. He stated that Dr. Lawn had appointed a Mr. Dibble as bureau manager in Fresno and that Mr. Dibble came down from San Francisco and spent considerable time in the valley.

He pointed out that rumors of mysterious mechanisms and devices allegedly developed by the Research Department of Mankind United or one of its affiliate organizations, was the chief inducement used in recruiting new members into the organization. The first mechanism described to prospective recruits was a contrivance that, when attached to home radios, enabled them to listen in to radio programs that no one else could hear—Mankind United programs, or programs of one of the other organizations, such as the Universal Service Corporation, the Institute of Universal Research and Administration, etc. The members had become very enthusiastic over the descriptions of this contrivance and it was the high point in selling the organization. Dr. Laisne had never seen one of the contrivances or attachments and declared that he had never heard of anyone who had seen one. Leaders of the movement claimed from time to time that Mankind United had stopped Hitler “from doing this or doing that, by his forces, underground forces, that nobody knew except the man at the head.” Among the other developments of the Institute of Universal Research and Administration was a device which, when properly operated, paralyzed all electrical apparatus.

Dr. Laisne identified the subject matter of a mimeographed bulletin marked "A. P. Burns Bureau, P. O. 77, Palo Alto, California" as typical of claims made by the organization. The bulletin described a situation in which "all over the earth, very suddenly, every weapon of modern warfare is rendered useless, bombers refuse to fly, warships float aimlessly * * *." The bulletin asked the following question: "Do you suppose that humanity would cooperate with a plan—work with a movement that would render useless all machines of death, if such a plan was offered them?"

He testified that no one had ever explained to him how bombers could be rendered incapable of flying or how explosives might be rendered incapable of exploding, but admitted that he had heard these statements made and that Mankind United was alleged to have developed the means of performing these very miracles.

He finally severed his affiliation with the organization because of the many inconsistencies that it promulgated. Promises were continually being made and repeated from time to time of certain things that were about to take place and contradictory statements were frequently made. He came to the conclusion that no good could come from that sort of thing and that the men behind the organization were taking an unfair advantage of people who were merely striving to better their lives and their neighborhoods.

Laisne said that Dr. Lawn was "quite an individual." He stated that he exercised an evangelistic influence over people. He confronted Dr. Lawn repeatedly with statements that he had made and pointed out to him that the organization had no right to sell 50-cent books for $2; that if the leaders were really sincere, no one should be kept from reading the books because of their price. He wanted to know where the profits made by the books went. He never found out. After a conversation of this kind with Dr. Lawn, in Dr. Laisne's office, no more meetings were held in his office. The next meeting was held on Ash Street in Fresno and Dr. Laisne attended for the purpose of attempting to right the wrong which he felt he had done to people and friends who had become involved in the organization due to his early enthusiasm.

Among other things, Mankind United bulletins always advertised the "thirty-day program" which was always "just about to be released"—the thirty-day program in which the radio "gadget" would be distributed to the faithful and through which The Sponsors would outline the new world order. This "thirty-day program" was invariably postponed due to unforeseen contingencies and lack of funds.

Dr. Lawn had told Dr. Laisne that it was very necessary to conceal the identity of the leaders of the movement and that it was for this reason that the California link between the membership and The Sponsors was only referred to as The Speaker or The Voice. To reveal his identity would be to place him in grave danger; that he would be "done away with" in some fashion or persecuted so that the work could not continue. He had been told that the movement originated in England and that the Hidden Rulers also were in that country. The great objective of Mankind United was continually to combat the Hidden Rulers. These rulers, he had been told, were men who exercised great power over money and who, ultimately, desired to subject all of the people to slavery. The Hidden Rulers would be automatically removed when a sufficient number of people had affiliated with the movement; when Mankind United reached the 200,000,000 mark, the Hidden Rulers would simply be replaced. All existing governments, Dr. Laisne had been told, were controlled by the Hidden Rulers and consequently all governments must be removed from the control of the Hidden Rulers.

He testified that he had heard of a device which allegedly had been developed by Mankind United, which could paralyze traffic and that he had been told that it could be used to control or upset existing conditions. Dr. Lawn had conveyed this information to him and the members had discussed it very seriously.

Bay Burns Sharp had called on Dr. Laisne some two or three months before and had attempted to induce him again to come back into the movement. He had refused to do so. Laisne was acquainted with John Peek and had known him for two or more years.

He stated that he believed the majority of the members of Mankind United hoped the miraculous things that had been told them concerning the movement were true rather than actually and fully believing them and that they had placed their confidence in the speakers who brought them the messages.

The purpose of the San Francisco meeting attended by Dr. Laisne was to inform the bureau managers and the members why the "thirty-day program" which had been set for a certain day, would not take place. The fault, they were told, by The Speaker was in the people for failing to interest a sufficient number of others in the movement. The Speaker admonished the members for failing properly to perform and declared that there were slackers among them who had not done their duty. The Speaker said that the "thirty-day program" would have taken place, as scheduled, had the bureau managers and the members not failed. Inasmuch as they had failed, and the "thirty-day program" was postponed, it would be necessary for them to reorganize. The "thirty-day program" depended upon securing of 200,000,000 affiliates and the quota for California was 200 thousand. A new organizational structure was outlined with a new set of terms, such as "captains," "lieutenants," etc. The price of the book "Mankind United" was to be boosted to $200. Dr. Laisne said that The Speaker at the San Francisco meeting was "very dictatorial."

Bay Burns Sharp gave his occupation as carpenter (Volume XI, pp. 3211-3270). He was the manager of the A. P. Burns Bureau of Mankind United and had occupied this position for four years. He stated that the bureau has jurisdiction over Tulare, Kings, Fresno and Madera Counties. The organization had been active in Visalia and still functioned there under his supervision. He testified that the A. P. Burns Bureau had received its name from the word "Palo Alto," the initials being in reverse, and that "Burns" was taken from his middle name, thus making up the designation, "A. P. Burns Bureau." He had selected the title for the bureau himself.

He had become interested in Mankind United and had become a bureau manager because of the "ideals presented and promulgated in the book called 'Mankind United'." He had applied for affiliation in the organization through the A. P. Mason Bureau. Max Mason, the manager of the A. P. Mason Bureau, had mailed or transmitted his application to The Voice. He stated that shortly after making application, he assumed his duties as manager of the A. P. Burns Bureau.

Sharp was familiar with the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration but denied that it was a part of Mankind United. The International Institute of Universal Research and Administration was the whole and Mankind United was a part, he declared. He claimed that there existed a branch of the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration in California but did not know where its headquarters were located. He added that there was no way of corresponding with the California unit.

He admitted having attended a meeting of bureau managers "last week—last Sunday." When asked where the meeting was held, he stated "I think I will have to refuse to answer. I am under oath not to divulge that place" (p. 3216). When asked if the meeting was held in Room 210 of the St. Francis Hotel in the City of San Francisco, he again refused to answer (p. 3217).

He identified a photograph of Dr. Eugene Wadsworth Brown, manager of the Ruth-Ann Bureau of Los Angeles. When shown a photograph of Arthur L. Bell, he refused to identify him but stated that he would do so as "a form," or "a figure." He was willing to state that the individual portrayed in the photograph was known to him as The Speaker, The Voice and "The Superintendent." He was willing further to describe him as the Superintendent of the Pacific Coast Division but added that the Pacific Coast Division "has never been accurately described, excepting as we understand it is the Pacific Coast of the International Institute of Research and Administration." He was willing further to admit that the individual portrayed in the photograph had been present at the bureau manager's meeting in San Francisco "for a part of the meeting."

Upon being cautioned regarding his refusal to answer questions properly put to him and germane to the investigation, Sharp stated that it appeared to be "immaterial" whether he answered the questions or not as the committee apparently knew the answers anyway. He thereupon admitted having attended a meeting in Room 210 of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco on or about April 7, 1942, and on Sunday, March 27, 1942, and March 8, 1942.

He identified a manuscript which had been taken from a shorthand transcription of a speech made by The Voice or The Speaker and admitted that its substance was familiar to him. The manuscript was entitled "Re-Mankind United. Remarks of Arthur L. Bell, The Speaker, to approximately 250 bureau managers of Mankind United assembled in the Italian Room of the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, at 8.30 p.m., September 23, 1939."

He was familiar with the contemplated Universal Service Corporation, and the Pacific Coast Registration Bureau. He denied ever having heard of the North American Bureau of Registrations, Classifications and Standards. He did not know the number of people affiliated with Mankind United and had never heard the matter discussed. He explained that there were no "members" in the organization; that "affiliates" were known as "registrants" and "enrollees." The A. P.

Burns Bureau had 280 registrants and enrollees. He made monthly reports to the division superintendent at regular meetings. These reports were made in person to The Speaker. The money collected by him for the sale of books were always taken to San Francisco together with such other contributions he had received and turned over to a committee of three persons.

He recalled the exhibition of a motion picture throughout the valley entitled "We Are Not Cattle" and admitted having received one copy of the film. He superintended the exhibition of the film and admitted that it had been used by groups other than Mankind United.

The place of business for Mankind United in the valley was maintained in his home. He contended that the books of the organization were not kept there. He claimed that he did not have access to them except periodically and then for a very short time. He did not know where the books were kept. He contended that he did not know how or who took them to their hiding place. When pressed for an explanation, he stated that he "had a way" of contacting certain people who would bring the books to him when needed. The books were taken away after he used them and he gave instructions which were "issued in a way I do not know where they go." He contended that it was impossible to secure the books upon short notice. It would be necessary for him to notify certain people, who in turn would contact others who would know where the books were kept. When pressed for the name of the person he would first notify in order to secure the books, he appealed to the committee to protect him from the necessity of revealing the procedure by which the books were hidden. When pressed for an answer, he finally stated that he would contact his Fresno County Captain, Mrs. Winona Peters. He contended that he did not know what Mrs. Peters would do after he contacted her, or whom she would contact. He explained this procedure was necessary to protect the organization from sinister groups that were working against it.

Much of Sharp's testimony corroborated the evidence given by other witnesses in reference to the structural organization of Mankind United within the State of California. He stated that Fresno County's seven Mankind United districts had been mapped and that he had personally done the mapping. He admitted that the work of mapping had gone on throughout the entire State. The maps indicated residences of active affiliates of the organization and the residences were indicated by various colors. The inactive affiliates were shown by white-pins and the active enrollees were designated by green-pins. He admitted that he had received instructions from the division superintendent to ascertain the time it would take to go to the front or rear doors of residences in different areas and admitted that this had been done in his jurisdiction by estimation. He explained that the purpose of this record was to determine in advance the length of time it would take in case of an extreme emergency to make contact with the affiliates of the organization.

He had never heard of a Jew affiliating with Mankind United.

He contended that Mankind United was not an international organization but that the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration was international. He admitted, under questioning, that he had never seen or met a representative of the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration from a foreign country.

He was familiar with T. W. Hughes' book, "The Truth About England" and admitted having read it. He stated that it had been circulated by individuals connected with the organization but not by the organization itself. He said that the book was derogatory to the British Empire.

He testified that he had heard it stated that the Hidden Rulers were responsible for the present war and that he had made such statements, with qualifications, himself.

He admitted having heard of strange mechanisms and devices in connection with Mankind United. He had seen statements in department bulletins to the effect that, should necessity arise, Mankind United would control ammunition so that it would fail to function.

He contended that the organization was opposed to Communism but that the bureau managers had never received instructions from the division superintendent to combat it. He added that it was not the objective of Mankind United to combat any group, but merely to mind its own business.

He conducted a meeting of the organization on the previous Wednesday and told the affiliates in attendance that they should "read between the lines" of the bulletin, particularly the bulletin issued on May 4, 1942. He explained that he had meant, by this statement, that the bulletins contained a "deep spiritual significance." He denied that he had stated that the bulletin of May 4, 1942, had been issued because of a statement allegedly made by Winston Churchill regarding the use of poison gas. He had stated, according to his testimony, that American soldiers had actually been gassed and had already returned from foreign lands. He explained that he had received this information from sources in San Francisco. He had told the audience that the warring nations were making no attempt to bomb factories or war manufacturing plants and explained that he had received this information from the bulletin issued by the division superintendent. He admitted that he had stated, in substance, that the United States was making no attempt to defend the Philippines, which was proof, in his opinion, that the leaders of the United States were not interested in the colonies and that "our leaders" would rather see the colonies taken by a foreign power and have people slaughtered rather than to grant them just rights. He admitted having stated that the air raid wardens would soon visit the homes of the people for the purpose of seeing that they were buying war bonds and stamps in sufficient quantities.

He admitted (with qualifications) most of the allegations made by Mrs. Fleming in reference to the meeting held the night before the inquiry in reference to the conduct of witnesses appearing before the committee. He stated that he had not had "a lapse of memory" so far because "it was unnecessary."

He denied that he had stated that subversive forces had caused Tokio to be bombed but admitted having said that "war forces, powers behind war, some power," caused Tokio to be bombed. He admitted that he had said that Tokio was bombed due to the fact that the persons responsible for the bombing wish to provoke an attack by the Japanese on the United States. He had said that an attack on the United States would be an excuse for the Hidden Rulers to bring about a state of martial law and that martial law would lead to the establishment of a dictatorship in this country. He denied having ever stated that members of Mankind United were entrenched in high governmental positions in Washington, D. C., but admitted having stated that the organization had sources of information in all departments of Government.

He admitted addressing a meeting at the home of Mrs. Marks in Fresno and having stated in substance that "every day we, or our defense branch (of Mankind United) can do things to hold back the war effort, we are saving millions of lives."

He was acquainted with the following bureaus: George G. Ashwell Bureau, A. P. Roberts Bureau, Sunshine Bureau, Faith Grace Bureau, Ray of Light Bureau, Jessie Addison Bureau, Hall Gardner Bureau, Literary Service Bureau, Star of the East Bureau, Olive Branch Bureau, True Equality Bureau, Guiding Light Bureau, Progressives Bureau, A. P. Mason Bureau, Kathleen Bureau, A. P. Burns Bureau, Tatum-Washburn Bureau and the Three Names Bureau. The Olive Branch Bureau was located at 468 Perkins Street, in Oakland, and was operated by Ruby S. Lutz.

Bay Burns Sharp was recalled for examination the following day, May 23, 1942 (Volume XI, pp. 3306-3322). He produced a sheaf of mimeographed sheets, printed on a golden colored paper, and identified them as duplicates of the file in the A. P. Burns Bureau and stated that they were department bulletins issued by Mankind United and the Pacific Coast Registration Bureau.

He related in detail the structure of the organization and described its "centers," "districts," and "bureaus." He explained the difference between a "registrant" and an "enrollee." A "registrant," he explained, is one who became affiliated with the organization through the purchase of a book whereas an "enrollee" was one who had signified a desire to affiliate by enrolling for classes of instruction. He explained the complicated system of bookkeeping used by bureau managers and the use of colored stickers pasted before and after the names of "registrants" and "enrollees."

He had never served in the armed forces of the United States. He admitted that no particular effort had been made by the organization to encourage its members to join either the Navy or the Army. He claimed that the affiliates are instructed to comply with every law and that shortly after the enactment of the Selective Service Law, the division superintendent had issued a bulletin, ordering all affiliates to comply with the law.

When questioned regarding the so-called classes of instruction, he stated that enrollees paid $20 for class instruction and that the classes will be held when 20,000 enrollees have been signed up. The payment of the $20 is in expectation of taking class instruction when the required number of enrollees in a Division are attained. He stated that only one class had been released, a small group, less than the required 20,000. As far as he knew, he testified, there had never been class instructions given to 20,000.

Robert M. Schuler is a radio engineer and, at the time of testifying, was employed by the police department in the City of Fresno (Volume XI, pp. 3330-3334). He testified that on May 21, 1942, he had been sent to 326 Peralta Way, in Fresno, and had installed equipment designed to record a conversation in that residence. He independently recalled the entire conversation and produced records and identified them. While he did not have an occasion to see the people engaged in the conversation, he testified that he had good reason to believe that they were Bay Burns Sharp and James Everett Coe.

James Everett Coe testified that he resided at 326 Peralta Way in the City of Fresno (Volume XI, pp. 3322-3329). He testified that he was acquainted with Bay Burns Sharp and had known him since April of 1942. He had never affiliated with the Mankind United movement but had attended its meetings from time to time. He stated that he had heard Mr. Sharp, in various meetings, remark that the organization of Mankind United was in the process of "throwing monkey wrenches" into the machinery of the United States war effort.

He recalled meeting with Sharp in his home on Thursday, May 21, 1942. He stated that only Sharp and himself were present. The conversation between them lasted a little over an hour and a half. He said that Sharp discussed the war effort of the United States with him and made certain derogatory statements concerning the armed forces of the country. He reiterated many of the statements attributed to Sharp by witnesses who had already testified.

At this point of the proceedings, Robert M. Schuler, of the police department of the City of Fresno, played the records taken of the conversation between Sharp and Coe. The following are quotations from the recordings:

"* * * when we realize that our own Nation is doing nothing in the world to bring about peace; that it has no intention of doing anything to bring about peace, one begins to realize many things. * * * Our own Chief Executive wants to fight through to the limit, even though it means poverty and suffering and death for us right at home * * *."

"We have no protection from our own government. * * * We have nothing to protect ourselves with; it has all been shipped out, all been given away * * *."

"We have nothing to protect ourselves with. San Francisco could be bombed any time, Los Angeles, Fresno, any other town * * *. We have no fighter planes whatever * * *. When you analyze the whole thing, you see that we are not trying to stop the war. We are only trying to keep it going * * *."

Sharp told Coe that at the time of the first World War, over 90 per cent of the farms throughout the United States were privately owned by the individual farmer, but that today, as a matter of fact, as long as 10 years ago, less than 10 per cent of the farm land was privately owned in the United States. All "they" need to do, he stated, to enslave us is to own the land, which they will do and are doing by manipulating money, so-called, to impoverish the people. When a man puts $18.75 in a $25 Bond, the dollar will become valueless.

"Consequently," he said, "if and when the government ever does repay the $25, that $25 will be valueless." He stated in substance that the bonds, in time, would not be worth the paper they were written on. "As a matter of fact," he added, "it is today, as you can't cash it in today, but the time will come when it will be absolutely rescinded, extended."

In response to a question from Coe concerning the term "they," Sharp replied: "Subversive forces, the world's hidden rulers, a group of people that amount to a limited number of families in whose hands is the absolute control of the financial structure of all the world, not only in the United States but the world." He further elaborated on this subject by stating that five individuals control and dictate to all other dictators. He added that these five individuals dictate when wars are to be fought, what the purpose of the war is to be and how it is to be handled. He stated that the National Government of the United States is not a government of the people, or "representative of the people." He stated that a Congressman, even though he desired to do everything for the people, found that when he arrived in Washington that his hands were tied.

He stated that if, by any chance, the organization (Mankind United) should fail to complete its job, that the tempo of killing would increase so rapidly that it would be "right here upon us." "It is only the defensive branch of our organization that has kept that from happening since 1937. When the quota is reached, and when 'they' have the financial backing with which to bring into the territory equipment already prepared; when they have 2,048 new bureaus trained to receive and use the equipment," then nothing in the world can stop "them."

He outlined the "thirty-day program" and described it as a world-wide election. He stated that "the organization" was ready to act, both in Germany and in Russia. He told of the special radio attachment which will be used to enable affiliates to tune in on the broadcast for the "thirty-day program" and stated that certain other equipment would also be released to the 2,048 bureau managers.

Coe desired to know what would happen if, becoming a bureau manager, he then was drafted. Sharp assured him that it would take some time for training before he would be sent out of the country and that before that happened, the program of Mankind United would be on. Sharp stated that within 60 days following the completion of the bureaus that the "thirty-day program" could be expected. He explained that it was very doubtful if Coe would ever be called by the draft board in May because the draft board's plans had been "somewhat obstructed." He explained that the organization was delaying, "holding them up, delaying them—delaying the machinery of the war board, the war—not the production of the material or anything of that kind, just setting monkey wrenches in the way of the plans of the coordinators." He pointed out that "throwing wrenches into the war activity" was probably the best trained branch of the organization and one that had been operating for many years. He claimed that the organization had mechanical means for "protecting" itself. He told Coe that it possessed a power that might be described as "different rays" and that these "rays" could be sent great distances and then exploded.

He stated that when the "thirty-day program" got under way that nothing in the world would be able to stop it. When the program started the war would come to an end and any soldier who refused to carry out the order ending the war would find that the shells in his gun would not fire. The war would be stopped, Sharp reiterated, even if it became necessary for the organization to use the mysterious powers in its possession. If people should refuse to listen to reason, Sharp elaborated, The Sponsors always had an ace up their sleeve and if they had sufficient support behind them, they would not hesitate to use it. All that was needed was 20,000 people who would sign up to take the classes and to buy the books in California.

The transcription of the conversation between Coe and Sharp brought out clearly most of the allegations made concerning Sharp and his activities as the bureau manager for Fresno County.

MANKIND UNITED IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Orlando Meniketti is an accordion teacher in San Francisco (Volume V, pp. 1494-1501). He testified that Arthur L. Bell had come to his place of business in Oakland several years before and had arranged to take accordion lessons. After Bell had taken some lessons, he asked Meniketti for the use of his students list. Bell told him about a race of little men with metallic heads who lived in the center of the earth controlling earthquakes and floods and who had the power to "snuff us out like that." (Meniketti snapped his fingers to illustrate what Bell meant.) He stated that Bell was a very mysterious and dreamy sort of individual. He had told Meniketti of journeys he had taken while asleep, and, among other things, told him that he had been responsible for Technocracy.

Meniketti concluded his testimony by stating that Bell had not been a very good music student.

Willard E. Franke had appeared very anxious to testify concerning Mankind United and Arthur L. Bell until called to the stand December 2, 1941 (Volume V, pp. 1464-1471). He stated that he had been connected with the organization and had met Arthur L. Bell in Oakland. He became very frightened as he testified and was obviously afraid to admit knowing Bell, or in saying anything further. He finally admitted that he had been a bureau manager and had contracted to dispose of 500 copies of the book "Mankind United." He apparently had done so and was given a ring as a reward.

Referring to Arthur L. Bell who was present in the hearing room, he stated, "this man here is not the same man" that he had met as Arthur L. Bell in Oakland.

He had previously written a letter exposing Arthur L. Bell as a "scheming promoter" and when the letter was shown to him on the witness stand he refused to identify it, and stated that he did not write it. He became evasive and more frightened. He admitted having written another letter in which he had agreed to turn over certain information. He finally admitted having said in a letter that Bell had a "million dollar racket" and that "Al Capone was a piker compared to Bell." He explained that he was very angry at the time he wrote it.

He admitted knowing George Ashwell and stated that he had sent him a check for $300 for the last consignment of Mankind United books. The check was sent to Department A, International Registration Bureau. He had put $100 or more in the organization.

When asked his opinion concerning the trips Bell was alleged to have taken when asleep, he answered: "Who knows? They can be true."

When Franke was excused from the witness stand, he approached the committee and stated half apologetically: "After all he may be able to do the things they say he does."

Guy McKinley Wright was once a "center manager" for Mankind United at 529 Adams Road in Oakland (Volume VI, pp. 1758-1767). He had served in this capacity for a little over four years and was acquainted with Arthur L. Bell and George Ashwell. He had sold several Mankind United books and had turned the funds over to the bureau manager. He believed that the manager kept half of the funds. He stated that the bureau manager bought the books for $1.25 each and sold them for $2.50. He became a "lieutenant" to the bureau manager.

He declared that many elderly people had been attracted to the organization and stated that he felt very sorry for some of them. The talk of stopping war and creating a world based on love and kindness was emphasized by the speaker, particularly at large meetings when five or six thousand people were in attendance. The old people sold their valuables, cashed life insurance policies and raised money in every way possible to contribute it to the organization so that a world in which mankind would be united could soon be realized. The great day had once been set for April 29, 1939, and when the promised Utopia failed to materialize, many of the supporters of the organization lost heart. Wright considered the organization a cruel racket to obtain money.

In 1937 a dozen bureaus existed in the East Bay with thousands of members. Many people had bought "centers" in the bureaus which amounted to contracting for a number of books which they agreed to distribute. The price of a "center" was $62.50 and many people bought a number of them. A great deal of money was spent in preparing the meeting halls and in getting ready for "the wonderful time" when there would be "music in the air" and "certain codes would come through little gadgets and the International Headquarters would speak to everyone who was properly equipped." The "gadget" was to be attached to an ordinary radio receiving set. Wright stated that he had never seen one of them. College professors, doctors, lawyers, dentists and many apparently intelligent people had been taken in by the "hokus-pokus." He claimed that one man from the University of California was one of its most sincere workers. He believed that the people had been hypnotized.

Around Christmas time in 1938 the members of Mankind United were informed that there existed 176,000,000 members in the world and that when this number was augmented to 200,000,000 the millennium would arrive. The day was set for the following Easter and eternally postponed from that day to other days while the money kept rolling in, and the people went down to poverty.

He told the committee of renting a summer home with his son and spending between $35 and $40 in fixing it up in readiness for the mysterious radio program and stated that many people did similar "silly things."

The book "Mankind United" was issued in many different "editions" and each edition varied but slightly from those preceding it. Everyone had to buy a new edition to replace the old one, thus exploiting those who were already working in the movement. He stated that one "edition" contained the change of but three words.

No one was permitted to know Arthur L. Bell and the members were forbidden to even pronounce his name. Bell had warned everyone, including George Ashwell and other close "lieutenants," that they must not come near the platform when he was speaking. Wright stated that Bell placed himself "just a little above God Almighty." He believed that the bureau managers had become hypnotized by Bell and that they actually believed the tales that were rumored concerning Bell's mysterious disappearances and journeys to far places.

He recalled a meeting of Mankind United at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. There were some 7,500 in attendance. The purpose of the meeting was to inform the members of the postponement of the millenium from Christmas, 1938, to Easter of 1939. Wright stated: "I saw more downhearted people than I ever saw in my life before, including in the World War." Many old people felt that they would not live to see the millenium and they "wobbled out of the building almost fainting."

He claimed that Bell ridiculed other orthodox religious beliefs, the Catholics and Christian Scientists in particular.

He recalled a little old lady who had sat beside him in the meeting of May 20, 1939, and who had spoken in awed tones of Mankind United as a movement of "love and kindness." Some people had put several thousand dollars into the movement and many old people were left with nothing to live on with a life expectancy of less than 10 years. "Bell bled the people dry of their money," Wright contended, and then told them that it might be 1951 before the millenium would arrive. He once had challenged the bureau managers and asked them why they did not corner Bell and force him to prove the existence of the radio "gadget." He stated that the bureau managers replied that they had faith in Bell and that Bell had faith in his superiors and so all the way up to the International Headquarters. When Wright asked them "Where are those International Headquarters?" the bureau managers had replied, "underground."

The last meeting attended by Wright was on either the fifteenth or the twenty-second of June, 1939. He said he just "dropped out" after that.

P. J. Cardoza was engaged in the bookbinding business in the City of San Francisco (Volume V, pp. 1350-1360). He testified that he had bound the "Mankind United" books for Arthur L. Bell since 1936. Bell had always paid in cash, he said, and always picked the books up personally, instead of having them delivered. He had no difficulty in readily identifying Bell who was in audience at the hearing room. The last job he had done for Bell was on February 8, 1941.

He listed the amounts collected from Bell for binding the books as follows:

1936 -----	$448.00
1937 -----	1,576.97
1938 -----	13,094.00
1939 (approximate) -----	21,000.00
1940 -----	1,740.00
1941 (incomplete) -----	1,610.00

George Gouverneur Ashwell was the manager of the George Ashwell Bureau of Mankind United (Volume V, pp. 1509-1542). He testified that Arthur L. Bell was known throughout the organization as The Speaker and that he was never referred to by name. He stated that he had heard him referred to as The Voice of a Right Idea. He admitted that he had once operated the 44834 Discussion Club in connection with his bureau at 26 O'Farrell Street in San Francisco but that the club no longer exists. He explained that the name of the club was taken from the time necessary for one to earn his keep in a model society—4 hours a day, 4 days a week, eight months a year, and added that the rest is a mystery.

He claimed that the Mankind United system was based on Christian principles. He testified as to the sale of the books and the system governing "registrants" and "enrollees." He claimed that he used his own money to live on and did not make much out of the organization.

He stated that he had heard of Arthur L. Bell's mysterious trips and that he believed them. He contended that a great mystery surrounds The Voice and that it is done for his protection because he is "a great leader of mankind" and therefore his life is always in jeopardy.

He offered into the committee's records a copy of a Fortune Magazine article pertaining to "Arms and the Men," from which he contended the picture, "Dealers in Death" was made.

He said that he regarded patriotic organizations as "stuffed pillows."

He explained that important people in the Mankind United movement are able to identify each other with symbols and that their credentials consist of such indicia as torn postage stamps, etc.

THE VOICE

Arthur Lowber Bell could not be completely sure that he was appearing before the committee in person or whether he might be one of his doubles (Vol. V, pp. 1361-1428; 1447-1463). He spoke in a soft, confident and faintly tolerant manner. He explained that "doubles" had been prepared for him and were substituted for him in the conduct of his business because of the heavy schedule that had been imposed upon him. He stated that the "doubles" received their orders from his superiors in the organization and that he could not give their identities. With the assistance of his "doubles" he was enabled to be in many places at the same time. The members of the committee had hardly recovered from the shock of this statement when Bell sent them reeling again by blandly stating that he was often placed in a coma by his "superiors" and, while in that condition, whisked to various points in the world where his presence was required. He illustrated this statement specifically by relating an instance when he lost consciousness in San Francisco and recovered aboard a British merchant vessel in mid-Atlantic a short time later.

He claimed that he had been connected with Mankind United for about 22 years. He identified the International Institute of Universal Research and Administration as one of the affiliates of Mankind United, and explained that it was formerly known as the International Legion of Vigilantes in California, prior to 1934. The Pacific Coast Division of International Registration Bureau was also identified as one of Mankind United's organizations. He was familiar with the International Discussion Club, or International 44834 Club of 26 O'Farrell Street in San Francisco. He stated that it was no longer active. He identified several Mankind United bureaus and admitted that he had had something to do with the establishment of each. He claimed that the organization was world-wide but became very vague concerning bureaus outside of California. He named the Donaldson Printing Company as the printers for Mankind United books and admitted that the books had been bound by the Cardoza Bindery. He identified several bulletins, forms, pamphlets and manuals of the organization. He admitted that Mankind United had advertised and exhibited the picture, "Dealers in Death," but denied any knowledge of the same film having been used by the Communist Party and German-American Bund units in California.

He outlined membership qualifications and the details of training members. He stated that applicants paid $20 for a "course of instruction" and admitted that only one lesson had been given in California so far. Applicants receive "a great many instructions" and a "field kit" containing manuals, etc., he added.

He was willing to admit that over 150,000 volumes of the Mankind United book had been sold, or given away. Seventy thousand had sold for the tidy sum of $97,500 during 1939. Many of the books were sold through the organization's bureaus and the bureau managers retained half of the sales price. He claimed that he made no profit from the books but that a deficit remained to him which was met by his relatives. The records, he explained, had become "tangled" as a result of Federal investigations. He stated that the Timely Books Bureau was one of Mankind United's organizations and denied that it had any connection with "Sound Money Press."

He explained that the leaders of Mankind United must remain anonymous for their personal protection and the organization from attacks by "subversive influences." He met the leaders and sponsors of the organization from time to time but claimed that they had so altered their voices and appearances that they could not be described. He claimed that he did not know their names. He received all instructions from this mysterious source. He frankly admitted that the chief objective of the organization was to render all instruments of war useless but that this great plan would not be put into effect until a certain number of members had affiliated with the organization. He claimed that there were Communists working in the post offices throughout the country and for this reason Mankind United had been compelled to devise its own system of communications and no longer used the United States mails.

He told of receiving messages on the train while traveling up and down the Pacific Coast and told of once being awakened in his Pullman berth. He explained his unique method of travel; how he went to sleep and woke up in a foreign country. He claimed that he could make a round trip to China, for instance, in a matter of a few hours. He never bothered to use passports or other conventional methods while traveling. He became very specific in reference to the mid-Atlantic episode. It was on the day that war was declared on England, September 3, 1939. He merely went to sleep in San Francisco and woke up on the Steamer, City of Richmond in the mid-Atlantic. He explained that he took "vital records" from a Mankind United messenger and changed places with one of the regular passengers so that his presence was not noted. He could not explain the mechanism of these mysterious trips. He once brought back a large amount of luggage, 18 or 20 trunks, which were not inspected by customs officials. He was informed by "message" that war was to be declared and ordered to pick up important documents. He claimed he had been making these "Magic Carpet" trips for the last 20 years.

He explained tolerantly that machines had been developed by certain agencies which were capable of vibrating the eyes out of the sockets of persons within a radius of 100 miles and that large power plants could be created that would exterminate "1,000,000,000 persons." He calmly stated that Mankind United intended to destroy this type of machinery by methods now being perfected.

He claimed that he had used over 200 names during his various travels (p. 1447).

He could not recall ever depositing funds in any bank in the City of San Francisco. If funds had been deposited credited to him, he stated, it might have been done by one of his many "doubles."

When questioned by Assemblyman Kellens as to the source and explanation of his mysterious powers, he replied that he could no more expect the members of the committee to understand his methods and powers than to expect an African savage to understand a radio.

He claimed that his wife, Ruby V. Bell, sometimes accompanied him on his mysterious trips. He added that she was not, however, connected with his work.

He concluded his testimony by offering into the committee's records a letter from Senator Gerald P. Nye in which the Senator praised the motion picture "Dealers in Death."

The committee started the investigation of Mankind United before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. A number of witnesses were questioned and a mass of documentary evidence was analyzed by the committee and its representatives. It appeared to be a racket of considerable magnitude but the members of the committee were not convinced at that time that the organization was engaged in out and out un-American activities. It all was good business, of course, for Arthur Lowber Bell and as The Speaker or The Voice he continued to live in splendor in his residence in the exclusive Cathedral Apartments atop San Francisco's Knob Hill at the expense of the poor people he was hoaxing and victimizing.

When the committee learned of the activity of the bureaus of Mankind United shortly after Pearl Harbor, the laying in of supplies of food and clothing, blankets and water in sealed containers, the mapping of cities showing airplane factories, shipyards, police and radio stations, hospitals, tunnels, railroad lines and bridges, the committee decided to look closely into the matter. From that time the committee and its investigators were convinced of the seditious character of the organization and cooperated closely with agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in ferreting out the facts concerning the bureaus, its managers and members. The result of this close cooperation has resulted in the indictment by a Federal Grand Jury of Arthur L. Bell, George G. Ashwell, Harold Von Norris, Max Miller, Jacob Gloecker, Eugene Wadsworth Brown, Shanna Jakeman, A. Ray Elsea, B. B. Sharp, Homer G. Wilcox, Lawrence Cook, Maude Askew, Pauline Kelso, J. F. Burke and Ed Gilson.

PART VIII

RECOMMENDATIONS

The committee finds that Communism, Naziism, and Fascism are distinguished one from the other only in minor details. Each ism is fully as subversive and un-American as the other. The committee finds that all three isms have been directed and subsidized by foreign governments. The committee finds that the sympathies of the adherents of the three groups are whole-heartedly with the foreign government to which they owe their allegiance. The committee finds that the philosophies, activities and objectives of all three groups are inimical to the Constitution, Democracy and traditions of the United States. The committee finds that the Communist Party, the German-American Bund and the Fascist organizations in the United States have a common objective in the destruction of our form of Government by sabotage, force and violence. The general and ultimate objective of the three groups is the substitution of the totalitarianism of their respective fatherlands for our constitutional Democracy.

It should be emphasized that the committee has barely scratched the surface of subversive activities in California. The members of the committee and the committee's attaches have labored diligently, and in many cases at their own expense, in ferreting out the facts. Due to lack of funds members of the committee traveled to Los Angeles in the latter part of 1942 at their own expense in order to conduct hearings on certain phases of the investigation. The committee, during its existence, has continually been under the handicap of insufficient attaches to carry on compilation, filing and coordination of evidence and material. In spite of these handicaps, the committee has gathered voluminous evidence, as this report indicates.

The very existence of a committee such as the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California has acted as a deterrent to un-American groups and, to some extent, has served as a brake to more brazen and open activities against the Government and our institutions. An energetic and active committee in this field is the greatest bulwark of protection for Americanism and Democracy. Subversive organizations wither and die under the glaring light of publicity. The Communists, the Nazis and the Fascists have little influence among Americans who are aware of their tactics and objectives.

All of these isms will live after the war. The Nazis and the Fascists may be beaten on the battlefields but the vicious and inhuman ideas they have unleashed will live to plague the world after their originators have disappeared. Communism will be activating the minds of ignorant men and women, offering escapes to frustrated and inferiority-complexed people who grope through fogs of confused thinking hopelessly seeking a place in a topsy-turvy world of their own making. Those of us who cherish our American traditions, the Constitution and the American Way of Life, dare not relinquish, through smug apathy, all that our forefathers have established for us. Eternal vigilance is the price we must pay.

New fronts will replace the old ones and new leaders will carry on the activities of the Browders, the Kunzes and the Schwinn. New "lines" will be projected tomorrow. We must be vigilant!

Your committee therefore recommends:

1. That a similar committee be empowered and authorized to function for 1943 and 1944. It recommends that sufficient funds be appropriated to provide an adequate staff of attaches and competent investigators.

2. Enactment of a State law to prohibit any person in California from knowingly participating in the activities of any organization receiving financial support from a foreign government.

3. Exerting influence on Congress to deny citizenship to any person born in the United States who is subject to dual citizenship in the country of his or her parents' birth.

4. Strengthening the act of 1940 denying the Primary Ballot to subversive political organizations such as the Communist Party.

5. Strict enforcement of the Subversive Registration Act of 1941.

6. Enactment of legislation prohibiting any person not eligible to United States citizenship from commercial fishing off the coast of California.

7. Enactment of legislation providing for the disbarment of attorneys who are members of the Communist Party or other subversive and un-American groups.

8. Legislation authorizing and mandating governing boards of all professions to exercise disciplinary action including the revocation of licenses of members of the respective professions who are members of subversive and un-American groups.

9. Enactment of legislation charging the State Board of Education with the responsibility of investigating complaints filed against members of the teaching profession holding credentials issued by the State Board where such members are charged with being members of, or participating in, subversive and un-American activities.

10. Establishment by law of a rebuttable presumption of subversive and un-American activities in accord with established historical policies and "lines" of subversive groups and organizations.

11. Enactment of legislation to provide procedure for the ousting of subversive employees from civil service status in the Government of California.

12. Memorialize Congress to cancel the citizenship of any former alien who, since receiving citizenship, has been a member of any subversive organization.

13. Enactment of State legislation prohibiting aliens from holding elected or appointed offices in any labor union within the territorial boundaries of California.

14. Enactment of legislation designed to supervise and censor foreign language broadcasts and the foreign language press.

15. Enactment of appropriate legislation prohibiting any person who is a member or affiliated with any organization or group dominated by a foreign government or which advocates the undermining, weakening or the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence, from occupying any office or position, supported in whole or in part by public funds in the State of California.

16. Enactment of legislation providing for the right of private industry, engaged wholly or in part in the production of armaments or other materials essential to the war effort or our National defense, to discharge any known, proven or admitted persons connected with the Communist Party, the Nazi Bund, Fascist organizations or other groups whose objectives are inimical to the United States.

17. Recommended to Congress that pro-Axis Japanese in the various camps be segregated and that the control of all Japanese activities be placed in the hands of the United States Army for the duration of the war.

18. That State legislation be enacted mandating compulsory courses of Americanism in the tax-supported schools of the State emphasizing American history, American heroes and leaders and its traditions contrasted with the techniques, tactics and totalitarian objectives of the vicious isms extant in the world today.

19. Enactment of State legislation bringing all foreign language schools under the strict supervision and control of the State Board of Education.

In concluding, the committee wishes to reiterate what it stated in the beginning of this report. We are fighting a total war. We should demand nothing less than total victory. It is the responsibility of the Legislature to enact suitable laws for the protection of the community, the State and Nation from subversive attack and sabotage, but laws are not enough. We must instill a fighting faith in our people if our Democracy, our Flag, our Constitution and our American Way of Life are to be preserved for posterity.

Respectfully submitted.

MOTION TO PRINT IN THE JOURNAL

Senator Seawell moved that the Governor's letter of transmittal and the Report of his Committee on Old Age Pensions be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 7, 1943

To the Members of the Senate

GREETINGS: I am transmitting, herewith, copies of the reports received by me from members of the Citizens Committee on Old Age Pensions which I appointed on February 17th to study and report on the pension problem as it now confronts California.

This committee, comprised of 17 men, selected by organizations with a known interest in the pension problem, has filed a majority and a minority report. In addition, several members have submitted additional reports in regard to certain aspects of the problem.

All of these I am transmitting with the hope that they will prove helpful in your deliberations. The substantial majority of the committee has agreed that the amount of the pension should be increased to $50 per month. This recommendation was made after mature consideration, and it is my belief that it is a recommendation worthy of full consideration by the Legislature.

It was not my expectation in the naming of a committee so pronouncedly representative of the cross-section of the pension viewpoint in the State that they should be unanimous in their agreement, on all aspects of the problem. I believe you will be encouraged however to learn the number of points in which there was almost unanimous agreement, and it is my hope that all such nearly unanimous recommendations will be given your careful consideration.

In transmitting these recommendations to you, I do so with the knowledge that they do not contain a final solution of the problem, for the issue of old age security will never be finally solved until there is a national old age pension which disregards state boundaries. It is my hope, however, that from out of your analysis of the recommendation of this committee will come action which will constitute an improvement in the situation which now prevails.

Respectfully,

EARL WARREN, Governor

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, MARCH 31, 1943

The Honorable Earl Warren, Governor of California
Sacramento, California

DEAR GOVERNOR WARREN: Your Committee on Old Age Pensions, which you appointed in late February, begs leave to submit herewith its report.

Sessions of the committee were held in Sacramento on February 25th; in San Francisco on March 2d and 3d; in Los Angeles on March 11th and 12th; and in Sacramento on March 17 and 18, 1943. A concluding meeting was held in Sacramento on March 30, 1943, to review the findings of the committee and to approve its report.

The data employed by the committee were derived from six principal sources:

First, public hearings were arranged in each one of the cities where our sessions were held. The equivalent of three days' time was devoted to those who wished to present their oral views to the committee.

Second, many scores of letters and pension programs were reviewed by the committee. These were referred to a subcommittee for study in order that the subcommittee might give the benefit of its analysis and conclusions to the parent committee.

Third, the various State departments were of real assistance. The Department of Finance, the Attorney General's Office, and the Department of Social Welfare all made themselves available to your committee and answered innumerable questions at every session.

Fourth, the welfare directors of several of the principal counties of the State attended our meetings and answered inquiries of the committee out of their wide personal experience.

Fifth, the Federal Social Security Board was represented at a number of our meetings to interpret the status of the Federal Act and its relation to the California Old Age Security Law.

Sixth, the research staffs of the California Taxpayers' Association and the State Chamber of Commerce, as well as of the Department of Social Welfare, provided the committee with much indispensable statistical and factual material.

In addition to those State departments and organizations already mentioned, invitations to attend our sessions were extended to such bodies as the California Real Estate Association, State Supervisors Association, Property Owners Association of California, Bureau of Public Administration of University of California, the general managers of our larger Chambers of Commerce, and others.

The personnel of our committee represents widely divergent viewpoints. Many of them have devoted a great deal of time to the general problem of old age assistance and in some instances they represent particular programs of old age pensions. Others of the committee come from the ranks of agriculture, labor, business and the professions. Still another group comes from both houses of our own State Legislature. As a result there is some divergence of views both as to the philosophy behind the idea of old age assistance and as to the best and most practical methods of meeting those needs of our aged citizens. However our committee is unanimous in recognizing the need.

The factual data presented to the committee were comprehensive and were considered to be adequate to arrive at recommendations.

The committee did not consider the study of revenue of the State to be in its purview.

The committee adopted in its parliamentary procedure a rule that a majority of the committee voting at any meeting would be necessary in order to make a recommendation effective with the further proviso that not less than nine members of the committee shall have indicated their concurrence in the final report. A minority report, dissenting as to certain items, is included.

Recommendations approved by a majority of the committee follow.

We trust that this report may prove to be of use to you as Governor and to the Legislature as they seek to solve this most persistent and perplexing problem.

Faithfully yours,

I—INTRODUCTION

A—Creation of Committee and Scope of Work

The Governor indicated the scope of the committee when he publicly announced the appointment of the committee on February 17, 1943. The statement is as follows:

Every thinking person must realize that old age security is our most fundamental social problem and that an industrial system which arbitrarily rules out productive employment because of age and irrespective of fitness must provide an honorable means of livelihood in lieu thereof.

This principle cuts across local and state lines and recognizes that the problem can only be finally and satisfactorily solved on a national basis and then not on the basis of charity but as a matter of right.

Here in the progressive State of California, which has always been first in such matters, we must remain ever zealous in our search for betterments which point toward ultimate solution. We must permit no circumstances to arise which mar the benefits now afforded. We must realize that with the increased cost of living, people cannot maintain themselves on $40 per month. Whatever the amount fixed by the Legislature, we must see that it is distributed to those entitled thereto in a manner free from needless red tape and humiliating delay. It must be distributed in a manner reflecting the cheerful willingness and concern of a warm-hearted State.

The committee now being appointed, constituting as it does a cross-section of the pension thought of the State, should be able to eliminate those political considerations which have so often confused discussions of pension matters and not only initiate immediate reforms within our present abilities but also bring us nearer the day of final solution of the problem. It is with hope and expectation that I have called into service the committee which is now launching its study.

The chairman of the committee subsequently received the following letter from the Governor which further commented on the scope of the committee:

FEBRUARY 25, 1943

Mr. Ralph T. Fisher, Chairman, Citizens Committee on Old Age Pensions Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. FISHER: I desire to thank you for your gracious acceptance of the chairmanship of my Citizens Committee on Old Age Pensions. It is both an important and a difficult assignment but I know that your experience and ability to approach involved problems in a fair and judicial manner will make it possible for you to lead the committee in formulating a sound pension program for our State.

It is not necessary, I presume, for me to say to you that the committee, as constituted, represents a wide divergence of opinion concerning both the present needs and the ultimate solution of the old age security question. However I believe that the members, selected as they were by groups interested in the problem, will make an earnest effort to reconcile these differences, at least to a degree that will bring forth a sound program based upon present conditions, including our relationship with the Federal Government. They will do this, I trust, in a sincere effort to improve the present condition of our senior citizens and to pave the way for the ultimate solution of the problem.

It seems to me that there are at least four fields for exploration by the committee.

First: The sufficiency of the present pension.

Second: The reasonableness of administrative practices for the present system.

Third: The basic question of qualification for pension.

Fourth: Forward looking legislation expressing California's objectives and committing the State to immediate action if and when the Federal Government will authorize it under its Social Security legislation.

In the consideration of these subjects, it seems to me that, although California has gone as far as any of the States up to the present time, we must give full consideration to the continuing advance in the cost of living and to the fact that people can not now live on $40 a month.

It also seems to me that, whatever the pension amount may be, in this day when manpower is so badly needed, no one should be opposed to its being augmented with such earnings as might be derived through part time employment.

There is another opinion which I am prompted to express as a result of my observations and that is that to deny a pension to a thrifty senior citizen who has accumulated a home and a modest amount of other property (insufficient to maintain himself) is not only doing an injustice to that individual but is, generally speaking, putting a penalty on thrift and a premium on improvidence.

I also believe that the ultimate solution of our problem is a National pension system that will cut across state lines and be uniform in its application throughout the country.

Improvement can undoubtedly be made in present administrative practices involving as they do any excessive amount of time in the granting of a pension in the first instance and in reestablishing the right after temporary surrender, as well as bureaucratic practices humiliating to the recipient. These practices call for a reexamination looking forward to corrections. I realize that some of these defects can not be remedied by the State of California alone but, where such is the case, it would seem to be reasonable that the State should declare its policy and encourage the Federal Government to do likewise. We should, I believe, through legislation, declare our readiness to act if and when the Federal Government, through Act of Congress, authorizes similar action throughout the Nation.

I have expressed my views for the purpose of indicating to you what I had in mind in creating the committee. I do not intend thereby to limit the scope of your inquiry and trust that you will take any further action that, in your opinion, will tend toward a solution of our old age problem, which, in my opinion, is the greatest social problem of the day.

Inasmuch as there are conditions calling for immediate remedy, I trust that the committee will be able to report at a sufficiently early date to assist the present Legislature in the formulation of necessary legislation.

Again assuring you and the members of the committee of my appreciation of the valued public service which I am sure you will all render, I am, with best wishes,

Sincerely,

EARL WARREN, Governor

B—Present Status of Aged Assistance

In its briefest form the present system of old age assistance in California is as follows:

Any qualified citizen 65 years of age with five years' out of nine years' residence in the State, whose personal property does not exceed $500 in value and whose real property is not assessed at over $3,000, may receive up to $40 per month on what is known as the flat-payment plan; or may receive under the so-called "budget plan," income from other sources up to the amount of his actual needs. Under the latter plan the public contribution is limited to a maximum of $40 per month as in plan number one, but income from other sources may be enjoyed without penalty of deduction up to the amount of the individual budget. Plan one has been in operation for several years past; plan two was made available beginning only last October (1942). Of the amount allowed in each case, the Federal Government contributes 50 per cent up to a maximum of $20, plus certain administrative expenses. The State and county contribute the balance, share and share alike.

II—SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

1. A need exists for an increase in amount of assistance, and it is recommended that the amount of grant should be increased from $40 to $50 per month, to take effect as soon as possible, the State to assume the additional cost of this $10 increase.
2. Outside income should be allowed without deduction up to an amount which, added to the public assistance, does not exceed $75 per month, and up to this amount budgetary statements should not be required. However, since this recommendation was voted, the Federal Social Security Board through its executive director, Oscar M. Powell, has declared the recommendation to be inconsistent with the Federal Social Security Act.
3. Property eligibility should be amended to allow possession of real property in which the assessed value of the property does not exceed $3,500 (in place of the present limit of $3,000), in cases where a man and wife live together. Also, the code should be amended at this point to make allowances for those occasional cases where property is assessed at over $3,000 (or $3,500 for man and wife), but where encumbrances on such property operate to reduce the owner's actual equity therein to less than $3,000 (or $3,500 for man and wife). Upon the death of either husband or wife where they have jointly possessed real property assessed at between $3,000 and $3,500, the survivor should be allowed a period of one year to make the necessary adjustment to conform to the limit permitted for a single recipient of aged assistance. Personal property limit should be increased from $500 to $600 per person.
4. A duplicate warrant for a grant should be issued expeditiously when the original has been lost or destroyed.
5. In case of dispute, the confidential file of a person applying for or receiving aid should be open for inspection by either himself or an authorized agent.
6. Responsibility of relatives should be continued with a modification of the scale of contribution to allow for the contributors' increased cost of living and Federal taxes.
7. The present county administration under State supervision should be continued.
8. The statutes should be revised and rules and procedures should be simplified so that applicants for and recipients of aid will not be harassed or humiliated.

9. Medical, dental, and clinical care should be continued as a county expense as provided under existing law.
10. Attorney fees and court costs in case of court decision in favor of a recipient of aid should be borne by the State.
11. No advisory county welfare board should pass upon any application for aid, and it must be passed upon directly by the board of supervisors. Provision should be made to give 30 days' notice to an applicant or recipient to appear and show cause why the board's action is unsatisfactory. The right to appeal to the State Social Welfare Board shall not be impaired.
12. The committee reports the necessity for revision of the Federal Social Security Act as follows: (1) Contributions by the Federal Government to the State, to be on a matching ratio of two to one; (2) Age requirement to be reduced to 60 years; (3) Outside income to be allowed up to $15 per month without deduction; and recommends that Congress be memorialized to that effect.

III—REPORT ON RECOMMENDATIONS

In one of its early meetings the committee adopted a program of items for consideration in subsequent meetings. All members were privileged to and did participate in the adoption of this agenda. The recommendations which are submitted are in conformity with this adopted program.

1. Need for Increase in Amount of Assistance

The committee considered the increase in cost of living as it related to the amount of assistance. It was pointed out that the cost of living has increased from an index of 102.3 in 1940 to 123.9 in January 1943 (Los Angeles Area). It was unanimously agreed that the amount of assistance should be increased above the present $40 that amount. Consideration of the amount of increase included a range in payment from $45 to $75.

Many members of the committee were committed by previous actions of the groups which they represented to $60 per month.

A large amount of data relating to taxes and the taxpayer's ability to pay for increased governmental expenses was placed before the committee. However, the method of financing an increase in the amount of aid was considered, by the majority of its members, to be outside the purview of the committee.

If all other conditions remain the same, so that the case load would continue at approximately the same level, costs for varying amounts of grants would be as follows:

Biennial Cost of Assistance—State Department of Welfare Estimate

(From Appendix 3)

Age 65 and Over

Grant	Amount of total Cost	Distribution
		Federal	State and County
$40	$129,900,000	$64,900,000	$65,000,000
45	150,800,000	67,600,000	$83,200,000
50	168,400,000	69,800,000	98,600,000
60	203,600,000	70,200,000	133,400,000

It was noted that the cost of a $50 grant without any increase in case load would be $168,400,000. In view of the fact that the Federal Government now contributes on the basis of its limit of one-half of $40, the increased cost would be placed entirely on the State or the State and counties. The Federal cost would amount to $69,800,000 as compared with a cost to the State and counties of $98,600,000. Since the committee recommends that the additional cost be assumed by the State, the counties cost would continue at $32,500,000 and the State cost would amount to $66,100,000 or an increase of $33,600,000 for the biennium.

Opinion was expressed in the committee that the case load for aged assistance is now declining. All statistical evidence indicated, however, that the present reduction is due to increased employment of persons in the aged group who might otherwise apply for assistance. Also many responsible relatives are now receiving greater earnings so that they are in a position to provide for their parents.

Statistical evidence presented to the committee indicates that the number of assistance may increase substantially after the war and thus increase the cost materially.

A majority voted to increase the grant from $40 to $50.

2. Outside Income (Earnings)

Prior to July, 1941, the law provided that recipients of aged assistance could earn and retain income of several types in the amount of not to exceed $15 per month. The Legislature repealed this provision in 1941 at the instance of the Federal Social Security Board.

In September, 1942, the State Social Welfare Board with the consent of the Federal Social Security Board issued a directive which permitted persons on aged assistance to earn and retain certain sums of money provided that a need was demonstrated for the additional amounts. It was required that a budget be developed to show the need in each individual case and a supporting affidavit was required to be signed by the recipient. The Federal Social Security Board has given approval to this procedure on an experimental basis.

It may be of interest to state that in the relatively brief period since October, 1942, some 16,500 individuals or about 9 per cent of the total have elected to adopt the budget procedure.

The committee considered that an extensive use of the budget and affidavit procedure was not without its drawbacks because of the necessity of investigation into the individual's living conditions; and agreed that it would be better to allow persons to earn and retain income which together with the public grant would not exceed $65. It was felt that this latter alternative would encourage industry and thrift on the part of those receiving assistance, would relieve the draft on public funds and would contribute additional manpower in the present emergency. It would likewise improve the living standards of the recipients.

To determine whether such practice would be within the provisions of the Federal Social Security Act, a hypothetical amendment to the California Welfare and Institutions Code was approved by the committee and telegraphed to the Federal Social Security Board in order to get their reaction to the principle involved. The proposed amendment was as follows:

2020. The minimum income per month on the basis of need for the support of any aged person in this State is hereby determined and declared to be sixty-five dollars ($65) per month.

The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be that sum, not to exceed forty dollars ($40) per month, which when added to the income (including the value of currently used resources, but excepting casual income and inconsequential resources) of the applicant from all other sources, equals sixty-five dollars ($65) per month. If, however, in any case it is found the actual need of an applicant exceeds sixty-five dollars ($65) per month, such applicant shall be entitled to receive aid in an amount, not to exceed forty dollars ($40) per month, which when added to his income (including the value of currently used resources, but excepting casual income and inconsequential resources) from all other sources, shall equal his actual need.

On March 19th the committee received notice of disapproval from the executive director of the Federal Social Security Board. The telegram is as follows:

MARCH 19, 1943

Ralph T. Fisher, Chairman

*Governor Warren's Committee on Old Age Pensions
306 State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

Proposed amendment of Section 2020 of California Welfare and Institutions Code as quoted your telegram of March 17, 1943, in effect provides for flat assistance payment of $40 per month without regard to individual's income or resources, unless individual's income and resources are in excess of $25 per month. This is because amendment assumes existence of a universal minimum need of $65 per month, which is $25 or approximately 60 per cent higher than maximum grant payable under the law. Any plan developed pursuant to this amendment that would give effect to a universal minimum of need, thus excluding from consideration income and resources up to a specific amount, could not be found by the Social Security Board to be consistent with the act of Congress which requires that all other income and resources of the individual claiming old age assistance be considered in determining his need.

OSCAR M. POWELL

It is assumed that the State can continue (on an experimental basis) the present practice of allowing earnings to be retained when a need is demonstrated. However, the Federal Social Security Board presumably must ultimately approve the procedure or reject it.

The committee went on record as believing the basis of need should be established at $75. However, in view of the decision of the Federal Social Security Board above quoted, no ceiling of "determined need" can become effective under the present Federal law.

3. Property Eligibility

The Welfare and Institutions Code provides that the ownership of real property shall be limited to $3,000 of assessed value. This limitation applies both to a single person (Sec. 2164) and to the combined real property of husband and wife (Sec. 2165). It appears to the committee that the $3,000 limitation for husband and wife may be too stringent and that the limitation might be increased to $3,500 in such cases.

In some instances applicants are denied aid because the assessed value of their property exceeds $3,000 although their equity in such property may be less than $3,000 by reason of the fact that money is owing against it. The committee does not believe that this is the intent of the act.

The Committee Recommends:

(3) The provisions of the code relating to property eligibility should be amended to allow possession of real property in which the assessed value of the property does not exceed $3,500 (in place of the present limit of $3,000), in cases where a man and wife live together. Also, the code should be amended at this point to make allowances for those occasional cases where property is assessed at over $3,000 (or $3,500 for man and wife), but where encumbrances on such property operate to reduce the owner's actual equity therein to less than $3,000 (or $3,500 for man and wife). Upon the death of either husband or wife where they have jointly possessed real property assessed at between $3,000 and $3,500, the survivor should be allowed a period of one year to make the necessary adjustment to conform to the limit permitted for a single recipient of aged assistance. Personal property limit should be increased from $500 to $600 per person. The latter recommendation was transmitted by the Governor and originated with Colonel Archibald Young, Chairman of the State Welfare Board.

4. Issuance of Duplicate Warrants

It has been brought to the attention of the committee that county warrants which are issued for aged assistance are lost occasionally and that statutes regulating counties in the issuance of warrants have provisions which prevent expeditious issuance of duplicate warrants. A long delay in the receipt of assistance in such cases will, of course, work hardship on individuals.

The Committee Recommends:

(4) That the Welfare and Institutions Code be amended to provide an expeditious procedure for the issuance of duplicate warrants by the county auditor.

5. Inspection of Confidential File by Applicant

It was brought to the attention of the committee that the case or confidential file of the applicant or recipient of aid is not always available for his inspection and is not open to the authorized agent of the applicant. The origin of this practice is found in the Federal Social Security Act requiring that all records be kept confidential. The committee believes that it may be essential at times that the individual or his authorized agent examine the files.

The Committee Therefore Recommends:

(5) That the Welfare and Institutions Code be amended to provide that applicant or recipient of aid or his authorized agent be permitted in case of dispute to inspect his case or confidential file.

6. Responsibility of Relatives

The committee inquired into the cost of and social factors relating to full or partial support of aged persons by responsible relatives. The cost of collections from responsible relatives was also analyzed.

At the present time there are about 25,000 cases for which contributions are made by relatives. The contributions to this group average over $9 per case per month and total $5,500,000 per biennium or $2,750,000 per year.

It was developed by the committee that if relatives' responsibility were eliminated many persons not now on assistance could legally apply for and receive aid. Estimates from independent sources indicate that the cost of providing aged assistance to this group would increase the cost by over 15 per cent or $12,000,000 per annum for new cases at the present rate of $40. The total increase would thus be $15,000,000 per year for present and new cases due to the abandonment of relatives' responsibility.

The total cost of administering aged assistance (both State and county) is around $3,000,000 per year. The committee was unable to ascertain what part of this amount was due to the cost of making collections from responsible relatives, but it was agreed by welfare administrators that it was only a fractional part of $3,000,000. The committee concluded that the cost of collections is insignificant in comparison with the increased cost of relieving relatives from responsibility.

The committee inquired into social factors relating to relatives' responsibility but makes no report thereon.

The committee reviewed the relatives' responsibility scale in the Welfare and Institutions Code in the light of increased cost of living and Federal taxes as affecting the contributing relative.

The Committee Recommends:

(6) That the responsibility of relatives be continued, but that the relatives' responsibility scale be modified according to the following schedule. It is believed this will in considerable measure answer present complaints arising from this provision and remove some of the asserted hardships connected with it.

Relatives' Contribution Scale
A. Monthly income of responsible relatives in one family	B. Number of persons dependent upon income
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10 and over

7. Present Type of Administration to be Continued

The committee examined into the present form of administration of aged assistance wherein the counties are responsible for the administration of aid and the State supervises the counties. Taking everything into account, representatives of the State Social Welfare Board state that the combination of county administration and State supervision is the best procedure.

No factional material was presented which would warrant the committee recommending a change in the form of administration. It appeared that State law and State Department of Welfare rulings were in some part responsible for criticism of county administration. (See 8 following.)

The Committee Recommends:

(7) That the present county administration of assistance under State supervision of counties be continued, but with some relaxation in administrative requirements.

8. Revision of Statutes, Rules, and Regulations

It was related to the committee that the enforcement of the Welfare and Institutions Code together with rules and regulations of the State Social Welfare Board and the counties sometimes exposes applicants or recipients of aid to humiliation and embarrassment. The committee has no sworn testimony on this matter or knowledge of the number of such instances which may have occurred. However, it was apparent that both the law and rules and regulations should be amended so as to decrease the number of points of friction between social workers and recipients of aid.

The Committee Recommends:

(8) That the Welfare and Institutions Code and rules and regulations of both the State Social Welfare Board and the counties be modified.

A subcommittee was appointed to look into and recommend to the committee as a whole on these matters. While the limitations of time prevented the committee as a whole from discussing them to the point of recommending specific action, nevertheless, the committee recognizes that there are many of these items which are entitled to earnest consideration and with that in view a copy of the subcommittee's report is appended in full to this report.

9. Medical, Dental, and Clinical Aid

Analysis of medical assistance to recipients of aged assistance showed that the statutes now provide and the counties give medical assistance, including hospitalization and clinical service. The Welfare and Institutions Code permits individuals to stay in a county hospital two months without deduction from their monthly aid.

The Committee Recommends:

(9) That medical, dental, and clinical assistance should be continued at county expense.

10. Attorney's and Filing Fees

The committee examined into filing fees and attorney costs when a court decision favored the recipient of aid. Testimony indicated that court cases are rare.

The Committee Recommends:

(10) That the law be changed with respect to court costs or attorney's fees in litigation with respect to aged assistance, so that the State pays the costs when the decision is in favor of the recipient.

11. Board of Supervisors' Responsibility for Approval of Aid

It was brought to the attention of the committee that several counties have welfare boards which are established by charter, and that those welfare boards, instead of the board of supervisors, approve or reject applications for aged assistance. However, in the case of rejections, the applicant is informed that the board of supervisors has rejected the application.

The committee concluded that advisory welfare boards do not provide uniform procedure in the administration of aged assistance, and further concluded that it is properly a responsibility of the board of supervisors to pass on applications for aged assistance.

It was also brought to the attention of the committee that in some counties, especially large ones, the board of supervisors passed on recommendations in a perfunctory manner. The committee concluded that a procedure should be established which permits applicants for aged assistance to carry an appeal on decisions directly to the board of supervisors.

The Committee Recommends:

(11) That no advisory county welfare board should pass upon any application for aid, but it must be passed upon directly by the board of supervisors. Provision should be made to give 30 days' notice to an applicant or recipient to appear and show cause why the board's action is unsatisfactory. The right to appeal to the State Social Welfare Board shall not be impaired.

12. Revision of the Federal Social Security Act

The committee gave careful consideration to the Federal Social Security Act. Considerable material was presented on Title II, relating to old age and survivors insurance, and Title I, relating to assistance to the needy aged.

It was pointed out that some 55 per cent of workers in California were under old age and survivors insurance prior to war activity and that in large part those who are under the act will not receive benefits which the committee believes are adequate for a reasonable standard of living. The committee has concluded that Title II, which gives a pension to a person as a right, does not provide an adequate long-term program.

In view of the fact that Title II (Old Age and Survivors Insurance) does not provide an adequate solution for the support of the aged in California, the committee has concluded that Federal participation under Title I (Aid to the Needy Aged) should be liberalized.

The Committee Reports the Necessity For:

Revision of Title I of the Federal Social Security Act as follows: (1) Contributions by the Federal Government to the State to be on a matching ratio of two to one; (2) Age requirement to be reduced to 60 years; and (3) Outside income to be allowed up to $15 per month without deduction; and recommends that Congress be memorialized to that effect.

Other Points Considered by Committee

A number of other items were discussed extensively. These included lowering of age eligibility, allowances for funeral expenses, and also self liquidating stabilization credit and gross-transactions tax as a means of pension financing.

Report of Subcommittee on Improvement of Administrative Practices

MARCH 30, 1943

Mr. Ralph T. Fisher, ChairmanGovernor's Old Age Pension CommitteeState Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. FISHER: Your Subcommittee on Improvement of Administrative Practices would suggest points of correction in the law that the administration of the so-called old age pension in California might be more dignified and humane. In order to accomplish the task we have been given, we have gone into minute detail and considered section by section the Social Welfare Code.

- (1) Inasmuch as the State Social Welfare Board administers a very large department, it is our opinion it should be a full-time board.
- (2) The members of the board should be compensated on a full-time basis and their terms should be staggered so that no one Governor could control the board.
- (3) Much severe criticism was presented to the general committee regarding the activities of social workers and it is our opinion that there is room for much reform in this department in administering old age assistance.
- (4) Every applicant shall be given an itemized report setting forth the amount of deductions, if any, made from his grant.
- (5) Any new rules and regulations shall be filed with the Secretary of State 30 days prior to effective date, and copies shall be available to people upon request.
- (6) The State department should be given authority to try social workers accused of maladministration or order the case to be tried before the State Personnel Board, and if found guilty the State shall have the power to suspend the social worker for a reasonable period of time, and after two such suspensions the employee may be dismissed.
- (7) The unnecessary language in Section 2180 of the Welfare and Institutions Code should be stricken out and the section should be made to read as follows:
"Application for aid under this chapter shall be made to the board of supervisors of the county in which the applicant resides. An applicant may apply in person or the application may be made by another in his behalf. This application may be made in writing or reduced to writing upon the standard form prescribed by the State Department of Social Welfare, and a copy of his application shall be furnished to each applicant at the time of application. The form shall contain questions, the answers to which will provide the information necessary to establish eligibility for aid under this chapter. All statements in the application shall be verified, under oath, by the applicant."
- (8) The clause pertaining to insurance policies shall be so worded that no insurance policy may be valued at more than its present cash value to the recipient, and premiums on insurance policies may not be deducted from the recipient's award—no matter by whom paid.
- (9) Personal effects include clothing, furniture, household equipment, food-stuffs and fuel, and shall not be considered as personal property, and the assessed value shall be considered in both real and personal property and then only net values after deductions of all encumbrances.
- (10) Trust deeds should be considered as mortgages, and not as personal property, in the matter of determining eligibility bearing on personal property.
- (11) Applicant's affidavit shall be deemed prima facie evidence, and the county given 30 days' time in which to investigate and to affirm or deny the application.
- (12) Payments shall begin as of the first day of the month following date of application.
- (13) The county board of supervisors may reconsider previous denials eliminating necessity in those cases of appeal to the State Board, and must upon written request of the applicant hold a public hearing to determine the sufficiency of the application.
- (14) A transcript of the hearing shall be made and the cost borne by the department.
- (15) The present provision of the law should be amended to provide that the applicant may reapply when the condition which resulted in his application being rejected has been eliminated.

- (16) Add language to Section 2003 to read: "In case of doubt the applicant shall be given the benefit of the doubt."
- (17) In Section 2005 after the words, "other suitable home", add the words: "of his own choosing."
- (18) In Section 2008 add this language: "Any applicant or recipient of aid under this chapter, and any person connected with the administration of such aid, or other person, who knowingly violates any provision of this chapter for which no penalty is specifically provided, is guilty of a misdemeanor."
- (19) In Section 2009 provide "that the public designation of any building or place used for aid under this chapter may not make any reference to charity or indigency."
- (20) Require that the State or County Welfare Department shall mail a copy of any bulletin, policy rule or the law itself to any recipient upon demand.
- (21) In Section 2160 provide under (7) "that free board and lodging supplied to an applicant, because of his necessity, by a friend or relative who is not responsible for his support, shall not be grounds for refusing aid."
- (22) Any place of abode of recipient or applicant, whether it be a house, boat, trailer, or other habitation, shall be deemed to be real estate for the purposes of this act.
- (23) All means of determining eligibility filed by applicant on affidavit before a judge of the superior court, shall be deemed to be sufficient evidence, in the absence of other factual data.
- (24) Add "that no person connected with the administration shall dictate how the recipient shall spend the aid granted to him."
- (25) Provide that all offices used for administration shall easily be accessible to the aged or maimed, and shall be either on the ground floor or served with an elevator and operator.
- (26) Provide that absence from the State, not in excess of 90 days of any calendar year, shall not be considered evidence to establish residence elsewhere, nor to interrupt receipt of aid.
- (27) Estates shall not be considered until they are available to the client for occupation or use, or until an income is available therefrom to the client.
- (28) Provide an urgency clause for immediate passage of enactment.
- (29) Provision should be made for the simplification of the responsible relatives affidavit form; for instance, a very brief initial form could be sent to the relative for the purpose of determining whether that relative has an income in his or her own right. This relates to the married daughter, primarily. Unless the married daughter has a separate income she shall not be required to make relatives' contributions. If the answer indicates a separate income, then a more elaborate form could follow.
- (30) The committee should recommend that the state department review all present requirements of the State and counties governing the complete operation of the application and renewal process, and that anything of an unnecessary nature be eliminated.

Respectfully submitted.

GEORGE SEHLMAYER

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WELFARE

Miss Martha A. Chickering, Director

SACRAMENTO, NOVEMBER 25, 1942

DEPARTMENT BULLETIN No. 143—Revised, D

TO: COUNTY BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS
COUNTY WELFARE DEPARTMENTS
COUNTY AUDITORS

SUBJECT: Old Age Security—Budgetary Method of Determining Need
Food Allowance

On the basis of recent pricing, the Social Welfare Board on November 19, 1942, adopted $15.97 as the food requirement for an individual living alone. This figure should be substituted for $12.85 in the budget schedule appearing in Department Bulletin No. 143—Revised, B, page 3. When all meals are purchased in restaurants, $27.95 is allowed rather than $22.49 as stated in the budget schedule.

When new applicants or those requesting restoration of aid elect to have need determined on a budget basis, the revised food item shall become effective immediately. Any necessary adjustment in the grant of those currently receiving aid shall be made as soon as administratively possible following the request of the recipient. If no request is made, any necessary change shall then be made when there is occasion to adjust the grant for other reason, but in no event shall the adjustment in the grant be made later than the anniversary month for reinvestigation of eligibility.

Very sincerely yours,

MARTHA A. CHICKERING,
Director, Department of Social Welfare

SACRAMENTO, SEPTEMBER 26, 1942

DEPARTMENT BULLETIN No. 143—Revised, B

TO: COUNTY BOARDS OF SUPERVISORS
COUNTY WELFARE DEPARTMENTS
COUNTY AUDITORS

SUBJECT: Old Age Security—Budgetary Method of Determining Need

I. Statement of Policy

The Social Welfare Board on September 15, 1942, adopted the following policy:

California wishes to provide, on an actual individual measurement of requirements, a type of public assistance to its aged citizens commensurate with the maintenance of the continued well-being of the recipient as well as the provision for the necessities of life.

In order to adjust California's methods of computing aged aid to the general rise in cost of living since July 1, 1941, and provide under the law for facility in computing excess need occasioned by increased cost of items required for the standard of living in California, a schedule will be set up as a guide by which recipients having income or desiring to earn additional income in agriculture or otherwise and desiring further to be of service to their country in the emergency may receive such assistance as is necessary which, together with such income, will meet their needs as determined under such guides.

The object is to secure grants of aged aid in an amount which, when added to their income, will meet the entire need of the recipient of aged aid so determined.

The range of items in the guide shall be adjusted to the quantity and quality required by each individual recipient in determining his continuing need. Consideration of income and resources will be made in the light of the total need so established.

The guide will, of course, be indicative only and will be modified as the operating experience of the agency dictates such modification.

II. Nature of New Rulings

Rulings to implement the above stated policy were adopted on September 23, 1942, and became effective October 1, 1942. The new rulings established under the excess need provision of Section 2020, provide that income (except casual income and inconsequential resources) received may be applied toward total need as measured by a budget which takes into consideration the general rise in the cost of living since July 1, 1941. The difference between total need, as measured by the budgetary method, and the income, represents the amount of aid to which the recipient is entitled except that in no case may the grant of aid exceed $40 a month, and in no case may the grant of aid plus income be less than $40.

Bulletins 143 Revised, 143 Revised A, and 170 remain in effect, and the policies and procedures as set forth herein are to be followed in addition to those appearing in the above-mentioned bulletins.

III. Recipients to Be Notified

It is important that each recipient be informed of the new policy and that an explanation be given of the possible advantages accruing to him should he elect to have his total income applied to his total needs as determined by a budget guide. Therefore, a statement shall be mailed to each recipient of aid not later than November 1, 1942, as follows:

Old Age Security Notice to Recipient of Aid

The Social Welfare Board, in view of the increase in the cost of living since July 1, 1941, adopted on September 15, 1942, a policy with the object of securing grants to recipients of old age security in the amount which, when added to their income, will meet their entire needs.

The policy recognizes that under the California Old Age Security statute, all income (except casual income and inconsequential resources) must be considered in determining the grant of aid, and it is necessary that you continue to notify the county welfare department promptly of any changes in your income.

The grant of aid to which you may be entitled has not heretofore been determined on the basis of a budget. With the exception of those recipients having need in excess of $40 a month, the aid paid has been the difference between the income received and $40 a month. In accord with the above policy adopted by the Social Welfare Board, if you have income from any source and wish to have the grant of old age security computed on the basis of your total need as determined by a budget, it is your privilege to request the county welfare department to determine your grant of aid in that manner. If you decide to have your old age security so computed, it will be necessary for you to give detailed information to the county welfare department in regard to your expenditures and living plan as otherwise it will not be possible for the county to prepare a budget to establish the amount of your individual needs.

The largest amount of aid that may be granted remains at $40. Therefore, if your grant of aid is now $40 for the reason that you have no income, and if you are not in a position to earn additional income in agriculture or otherwise, there could be no advantage to you in requesting that your need be determined on a budgetary basis, and you will wish that no change be made.

If you have income from any source, and are uncertain which is the better method to choose, the county welfare department will tell you the effect, if any, a change to the budget basis will make in your grant of old age security.

IV. Recipients Who May Benefit by New Rulings

Under the provisions of Section 2020 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, the excess need provision of the section is of benefit only to those applicants or recipients who are in receipt of income other than casual income or that resulting from the use of an inconsequential resource. Thus the determination of the grant on a budgetary basis will probably be of immediate benefit only to those recipients who are in receipt of income which is ordinarily considered in determining the grant of aid. However, should recipients at present without income and therefore receiving a $40 grant, secure employment, or begin to receive income from another source, they may elect to have their grant computed in accord with the budgetary method which takes into account excess need resulting from the general rise in the cost of living.

When a recipient elects to have his total need computed by means of the budgetary method, any necessary adjustment in the grant shall become effective as soon as administratively possible.

V. Measurement of total need by use of budget schedule.

A. Budget Schedule

The following schedule has been set up as a guide for measuring the requirements of an individual living alone.

Food -----	$12 85	($22.49, if all meals are purchased in restaurants)
Housing—as paid, for example -----	20 00
Utilities—as paid with following minima -----
Electricity -----	1 72
Gas -----	2 10
Water -----	1 50
Other, for example, heat -----	2 00
Household operations -----	3 31
Clothing -----	4 57
Incidentals and personal needs -----	10 00
Transportation -----	3 00
Other needs -----
	$61 05

B. Explanation of Items of Need in Budget Schedule.

1. Food.

If the recipient prepares his meals at home or eats with a household group, the figure $12.85 is used. If he takes all his meals out, use $22.49. If he boards or pays room and board, the amount as paid is used.

2. Housing.

(a) If the recipient pays rent, the amount paid is used. If two or more persons share the same quarters, the recipient's prorated share of the total rental is used.

(b) If the recipient receives free rent, the estimated value of such free housing as determined by the county represents the amount of housing need. While due regard may be given to the actual value of such housing, the evaluation shall take into consideration the worth of the housing to one who has only limited funds available for his needs.

(c) If the recipient lives in a home which he owns or in which he has an interest, the item of "Housing" is the sum of the costs of ownership and the net value of occupancy, if any, as determined under Bulletin No. 142 Revised. The expenses of ownership include taxes, insurance, assessments, required encumbrance payments, and in addition, the average cost of minor repair and upkeep, which shall be allowed at the rate of $2 a month. (The expense of occasional repair which is not met through the normal upkeep allowance and which is necessary to provide safe, healthful housing or to minimize deterioration, should be included as a separate item of need.)

When the recipient has an interest in the home with other persons, his prorated share of the expenses of ownership shall be added to the value of occupancy, if any, in determining the item of housing, i.e., home owned jointly with wife, one-half of expenses of ownership plus occupancy value, if any; if owned jointly by three persons, one-third of the expenses of ownership plus occupancy value, if any.

3. Utilities.

Those utilities or services actually used by the individual represent his need. The amounts given in the budget schedule are the minima for a person living alone. If there is need for wood, coal, oil, garbage service, etc., the items are specified in the amount of the average cost as reported by the recipient.

When there are two or more members of the household, the recipient's prorated share may be less than the minimum established for those living alone. If he reports that he pays only such prorated share, the amount as paid by him is the item of need. Should he pay in full the utility bills because others in the household, such as an ineligible spouse, are unable to meet their share, the recipient may be allowed the amount as shown in the budget schedule since this amount represents the extent of his need which would have to be met were he living alone.

4. Household Operations.

This includes cleaning supplies, replacement of ordinary household supplies and equipment, etc., and is the minimum for the individual recipient.

5. Clothing.

This covers minimum need for purchase of new clothing and for clothing renovation.

6. Incidentals—Personal Needs.

This item includes a wide variety of expenditures, as determined by the individual's personal habits and needs; for instance, haircuts, toothbrushes and tooth powder, home medicine cabinet supplies, insurance, recreation, newspaper, community activities, etc.

7. Transportation.

This is for ordinary transportation needs. There may be recipients who, because of their physical condition, have little use for transportation as such, but in lieu thereof require extra messenger and delivery service. In the rare case in which there is no need for transportation, this item will be omitted.

8. Other Needs.

In addition to the items specifically set forth in the budget schedule, there may be other requirements in the individual case such as those indicated in Bulletin No. 143 Revised A, under "Excess Need," as medical care, dentures, etc.

C. Examples of Determination of Grant by Means of Budget Schedule.

VI. Recording in the County Case Record

A. Budget Work Sheet (Form Ag M518) Required

In all cases in which the amount of the grant is determined on the basis of total need as established by the budgetary method, the case record shall include Form Ag M518, Budget Work Sheet, on which shall be recorded the full detail of the budget, the source and amount of income to be applied toward total need, and the verifications. Casual income or the value of the use of an inconsequential resource is not considered in determining the grant of aid and shall not be entered on Form Ag M518.

B. Instructions for Use of Budget Work Sheet, Form Ag M518

The Budget Work Sheet, Form Ag M518, a copy of which is appended, will ordinarily be completed in longhand and shall be retained in the county record. Complete the identifying data in the upper right hand corner, and indicate if the recipient is living as a member of a household group. If so, enter the number of individuals in the household.

Need

1. Food (Leave blank if board and room is paid)

Enter the amount for food in accord with the recipient's living plan, i.e., $12.85 if living alone or as a member of a household group, and $22.19 if he eats all meals in restaurants. No verification of the amount is required and no entry is necessary in the "How verified" column.

If the recipient takes his meals on a board basis, enter the amount paid for board. Verification shall be made, either through receipts in the recipient's possession, by his personal affidavit, or otherwise, and the method used is indicated in the "How verified" column.

If the recipient pays board and room, leave the "Food" item blank, and also leave blank all other items above Item 5, "Board and room." (See instructions for Item 5)

2. Housing (Leave blank if board and room is paid)

If the recipient lives in other than his own property, enter the rental paid or his prorated share if two or more persons share the same quarters. If free rent is contributed by another, enter the estimated value as determined by the county.

When rent is paid, the amount shall be verified, either through receipts or the recipient's personal affidavit or otherwise, and the method of verification entered in the "How verified" column. In the case of free rent contributed by another, enter "worker's evaluation" or some other appropriate statement in this column.

If the recipient lives in his own home, complete the appropriate items for costs of ownership, including a $2 allowance for upkeep. If there is a net value of occupancy under the provisions of Bulletin 143-Revised, enter this amount also. If there is no net value of occupancy, enter "none" for this item. Record the total expenses of ownership and net occupancy value, if any. (See page 4 (c) regarding expenses of ownership when the recipient owns an interest in the property with one or more persons.)

In the "How verified" column, indicate the method by which taxes, encumbrances, etc. were verified, i.e., tax receipts, mortgage book, etc.

3. Utilities (Leave blank if board and room is paid)

Enter the average cost for the particular utility in the appropriate space. When there is no need for the particular utility enter "none." If an amount is allowed for a utility or service other than as listed, specify opposite "other." (See page 4, Item 3)

4. Household Operations (Leave blank if board and room is paid)

Enter the amount shown in the budget schedule. No entry is required in the "How verified" column. (When household furniture or equipment is inadequate or substandard to a point where the expense of securing necessary items is in excess of the cost of ordinary household operations, the cost of necessary replacement or of augmenting the present supply should be included under item 9 of Form Ag M518. Refer to Bulletin 143 Revised A, page 2, Item 6.)

5. Board and Room

Enter the amount as paid. Verification is necessary, either through receipts in possession of the recipient or by his personal affidavit, or otherwise. In the "How verified" column state how the amount was verified.

(Items of need above Item 5 do not apply to persons living on a board and room basis.)

6. Clothing

Enter the amount shown in the budget schedule. No entry is required in the "How verified" column. (See Bulletin 143 Revised A, page 2, Item 6, if additional need for clothing exists, and enter under Item 9 of Form Ag M518.)

7. Incidentals

Enter the amount shown in the budget schedule. No statement is required in the "How verified" column.

8. Transportation

Enter the amount as shown in the budget schedule unless the facts definitely establish that the recipient has no need for transportation and does not have other expenses in lieu of it, such as expense for delivery or messenger service, etc. No entry is necessary in the "How verified" column unless the transportation item is omitted, in which case give the reason either in that column or under "Remarks."

9. Other Needs

Specify the particular need and show the amount for each need. In this space is entered only those needs which are in addition to the need items specifically set forth in the budget schedule. Verification must be made in accord with the provisions of Bulletin 143 Revised A for the particular item of need, and be recorded in the "How verified" column, together with a statement of the probable period over which the need will continue.

10. Total Need

Enter the sum of the individual items of need.

Income

Include only that income which is other than casual income or results from the use of an inconsequential resource. (The necessary detail regarding casual income and inconsequential resources must, however, be recorded elsewhere in the case record. See Bulletin 143 Revised A, page 10, item 4.)

Specify each source from which income is received, including the net value of occupancy, if any, and the amount received from each source, together with the method of verification. Record the total amount of income received from all sources.

Summary

Total Need. Enter the total need which is the amount recorded opposite Item 10 in the "Need" section of the form.

Total Income. Enter the total income received from all sources as recorded in the section immediately above the "Summary" section of the form.

Difference between Need and Income. Enter that amount which is the result of subtracting the total income from the total need. If the difference between total need and total income is in odd cents, the grant may be computed in that figure which represents the next highest whole dollar.

Amount of Aid Recommended. Enter the amount of aid recommended.

Remarks. For comment as the worker may desire.

Budget Computed By. The signature of the work computing the budget, and the date, are to be shown here.

Affidavit of Recipient

When the amount of need for board and/or board and room, rent, or utilities, is verified by the recipient's statement of his expenditures for one or more of these items, his affidavit is required and may be secured in this space. (This space is otherwise left blank.)

C. Recording of Grant Adjustment Under Budgetary Method

A copy of the notice of change (Form Ag 232) making any necessary adjustment in the grant records the adjustment amount and date on which the adjustment became effective.

VII. Reporting to State Department of Social Welfare

A. Current Cases

When a recipient elects to have his grant determined by the budgetary method and adjustment in the grant is necessary that fact shall be reported in the usual manner by submission of a Notice of Change, Form Ag 232, to the SDSW. The amount of total need is entered in Column 6 and in Column 7 the notation "Form Ag M518 on file" is made.

It is no longer necessary to report on the Notice of Change the particular items of need which resulted in total need exceeding $40 or the method of verification which established the need to be in excess of $40. The verification of those items of need for which verification is required shall be included in the case record, usually on Form Ag M518, Budget Work Sheet.

B. Applications

When the grant of aid is computed by applying income to total need as determined by the budgetary method, that fact shall be reported on the Certificate of Eligibility, Form Ag 201, under "Conditions of Eligibility." Complete Item 11 of Form Ag 201 by entering the amount of total need in the "yes" space. Under "How verified" enter "Form Ag M518 in file."

The verification of those items of need for which verification is required shall be included in the case record, usually on Form Ag M518, but the method of verification of any particular item of need shall no longer be reported to the State Department of Social Welfare.

C. Restorations

When the grant of aid is computed by applying income to total need as determined by the budgetary method, that fact shall be reported on the Notice of Change, Form Ag 232, by inserting on that form in Column 6 the amount of total need. In Column 7 of Form Ag 232 insert "Form Ag M518 in file."

It is no longer necessary to report on the Notice of Change the particular items of need which resulted in total need exceeding $40, nor the method of verification which established the need to be in excess of $40. The verification of those items of need for which verification is required shall be included in the case record, usually on Form Ag M518, Budget Work Sheet.

A supply of the Budget Work Sheet, Form Ag M518 is forwarded to each County Welfare Department under separate cover. Additional forms may be obtained upon request to the Department of Social Welfare, 616 K Street, Sacramento. A supply of the Notice to Recipient of Old Age Security is also forwarded to each county welfare department.

Very sincerely yours,

MARTHA A. CHICKERING
Director, Department of Social Welfare

APPENDIX 6

Excerpt from Assembly Journal of January 8, 1943, pages 174-176

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, and on motion of Mr. Kilpatrick, ordered printed in the Journal:

SACRAMENTO, January 6, 1943

*Mr. Vernon Kilpatrick, Member of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

MY DEAR MR. KILPATRICK: The following information is being sent to you in response to your verbal request of December 28, 1942. I am writing to Mrs. Buhler of the Office of Legislative Counsel, as per your instructions, to say that we are sending the information directly to you.

Present Basis

If the law remains unchanged, we estimate that the total cost of Old Age Security for the 1943-1945 Biennium would approximate $130,000,000 shared as follows:

Federal .....	$65,000,000
State .....	32,600,000
County .....	32,400,000

This estimate is based upon the assumptions of an average case load of 147,000, and an average monthly grant of $36.75. It may be that the case load will run somewhat lower, and that the average grant may run somewhat higher, but this is our "best guess" at this time.

$60 at Age 60

The total cost for Old Age Security for the 1943-1945 Biennium, if the maximum grant were increased to $60 and the minimum age decreased to 60 years, is estimated at $233,000,000 shared as follows:

Federal .....	$70,400,000
State .....	81,800,000
County .....	81,100,000

Here we have assumed an average grant of $56.75 and have assumed that approximately 36,900 persons aged 60-64 years would be added to the case load over a period of 18 months beginning July 1, 1943. If this group were on aid for the entire biennium, the total cost would be more than $250,000,000. Under peace time conditions the number aged 60-64 would probably exceed 48,000 persons. Assuming that many additional recipients aged 60-64 were on aid for an entire biennium, the total cost of the program would exceed $265,000,000.

As you are aware, of course, the Federal Government does not participate in aid to aged persons under 65 years.

The above estimates are based upon our case load estimate for recipients aged 65 and over, shown under "Present Basis" above.

We have no tangible evidence upon which to estimate the probable increase in case load which might result from the increase of the maximum grant to $60. It is very likely that intake would increase substantially, and that discontinuances would decline somewhat under these circumstances.

$60 at Age 65

If the maximum grant were increased to $60 without changing the minimum age, we estimate the total cost of Old Age Security for the 1943-1945 Biennium at approximately $200,700,000 shared as follows:

Federal .....	$70,400,000
State .....	65,400,000
County .....	64,900,000

The case load and average grant assumptions are the same as above. Here again we are unable to predict the effects of such a change upon the size of the case load.

$50 at Age 65

If the maximum grant were increased to $50 without changing the minimum age, the total cost of Old Age Security for the 1943-1945 Biennium would probably approximate $165,300,000 shared as follows:

Federal -----	$69,000,000
State -----	48,300,000
County -----	48,000,000

If the county share were limited to $10 per case, the Federal share would be unchanged, the State share would approximate $60,900,000 and the county share $35,400,000. If the county share were set at one third of the total grant, less the Federal share, the State share would approximate $64,200,000 and the county share $32,100,000.

It is likely that such an increase in maximum grant likewise would have the effect of increasing intake and decreasing discontinuances, just how much we are unable to say.

If the maximum grant were increased to $50 and the minimum age decreased to 60, the total cost of Old Age Security for the 1943-1945 Biennium would approximate $192,000,000 shared as follows:

Federal -----	$69,000,000
State -----	61,700,000
County -----	61,300,000

This estimate assumes an average grant of $46.75, and approximately 36,900 persons aged 60-64 added to the case load in 18 months beginning July 1, 1943. If this group were on aid for the entire biennium, the total cost would approximate $206,000,000. Moreover, if one assumes that 48,000 persons aged 60-64 (our estimate of the probable addition under peacetime conditions) were on aid for the entire biennium, the total cost of old age security would approximate $230,000,000. As you know the amount of the Federal share would not be affected by the addition of persons under age 65, hence, the increased cost due to such an addition would have to be met by the State and counties.

Support from Responsible Relatives

You asked what would be the probable cost of changing the minimum income, below which no support from responsible relatives is required under the Relatives Contribution Scale (Section 2181 of the Welfare and Institutions Code) from $95 to $195. The only information we can give you on this question is as follows:

Such a change might very well result in discontinuance of relatives' contributions to 90 per cent or more of old age security recipients now receiving such contributions. We estimate the total value of such contributions would approximate $5,400,000 per biennium. (We expect to have a revised estimate based upon more recent information some time during the next three or four weeks.)

How many persons now fully supported by responsible relatives would cease to receive such support and successfully apply for old age security if the proposed change were made effective is anybody's guess. The number might be very substantial, but we have no tangible basis for an estimate.

State Support and Administration of General Relief

In November, 1942, there were approximately 31,300 persons who received a total of $411,411 in aid payments. General relief at this rate would cost approximately $9,900,000 per biennium. At $20 per person the cost would approximate $14,800,000 per biennium.

It is probably not very realistic, however, to assume the present wartime situation as typical. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940, the average monthly case load for county indigent aid included approximately 72,000. Such a case load at $20 per person would cost approximately $34,600,000 per biennium.

The administrative cost for county indigent aid as reported to this department for September, 1942, (latest month available) amounted to $128,315. (This includes $11,700 reported as the administrative cost of "other welfare programs.") If the administrative cost continued at this level for a biennium, the total biennial administrative cost would approximate $3,100,000.

In addition to the above questions which you discussed with me personally, the letter from Mrs. Buhler raises this question:

What is the estimated increase of cost under the present law which the department believes will be incurred due to the liberalization in granting aged aid which the department has recently put into effect?

It is practically impossible for us to give any sort of definitive reply to this question at the moment. According to the best evidence at hand, there were, at the end of December, approximately 8,500 old age security recipients receiving aid on the budget basis. The average grant in October, 1942, was $36.52. This increased to $36.75 in November, and we tentatively estimate a further increase to about $36.92 for December. This would amount to an increase in the average grant of 40 cents since October. The average grant had remained relatively static at about $36.50 since October, 1941.

We expect to have more information on this subject very soon and will communicate with you when it becomes available.

You will appreciate that the above estimates are "best guesses" from the information at hand, and that the dynamic character of economic developments might make them "bad guesses" six months hence. Should more recent information relevant to these problems become available to us, we will call any major revisions in the estimates to your attention.

We hope this information will be helpful to you, and we shall be glad to give you any further information we can.

Very sincerely yours,

MARTHA A. CHICKERING, Director

Notes for Governor's Pension Committee

California Taxpayers' Association has been working in the field of governmental finance since 1926. Its staff works constantly with public officials and civic groups to furnish information on expenditures, revenues, tax burdens, and governmental efficiency. It is the purpose of the association to assist State and local officials to keep tax burdens at a minimum consistent with adequate public service. We are submitting for your consideration these notes on taxes and expenditures, with especial reference to public assistance. We hope they will be helpful to you in your study and recommendations, regarding the establishment of an amount of assistance which is within the taxpayers' ability to pay.

Population

The population of California and its distribution in age groups is of primary importance in considering the cost of aged assistance. The population for the State has grown consistently. The census for each decade is as follows:

California Population

1910	-----	2,377,549	census
1920	-----	3,426,861	census
1930	-----	5,677,251	census
1940	-----	6,907,387	census
1943	-----	7,660,000	estimated

California Taxpayers' Association's estimate of population for California for January, 1943, is 7,660,000. The distribution of this estimated population by counties is shown in Appendix Table 1 (January, 1943, Tax Digest).

The growth of the total population, however, does not show the growth by age groups. The aged portion of California's population is increasing constantly both in number and in relation to total population, as shown in the following table:

Persons in California Over 60 and 65

	60 and over	65 and over
1920 Census	321,819	200,301
1930 Census	573,687	366,125
1940 Census	854,966	555,247
1943 Estimate	930,000	610,000
1945 Estimate	980,000	640,000
1950 Estimate	1,120,000	730,000
1960 Estimate	1,390,000	910,000

The influx of war workers in the State is composed mainly of younger persons. The estimates included in the above distribution are for aged persons, based on a projection which is independent from the total population. This has been agreed by statistical authorities to be a reasonable procedure in forecasting for the purpose of estimating old age assistance.

It is evident from the increase in the aged group that it is not safe to make estimates of cost at the present level. The trend in the aged group of 65 and over has been so definite for 30 years that an estimate can reliably be made for 1945 and perhaps for 1950. The estimate for 1960, being based on a past trend which may be upset, may not be fully accurate but is of sufficient value to be indicative.

California Governmental Expenditures

Public expenditures for all governmental purposes by all jurisdictions in California, including Federal payments for welfare, have increased from $497,725,000 in 1931-32 to $765,391,000 in 1941-42. ("Income and Expenditures of Government in California," Table 6, page 60.) This is an increase of $267,666,000, or 54 per cent.

The largest increase in expenditures is for welfare which increased from $28,127,000 in 1931-32 to $122,876,000 in 1941-42 (Appendix Table 6); this is an increase of $94,749,000. This increase was for all forms of public assistance. However, the largest increase was in aged assistance which cost $2,991,000 in 1931-32, and had increased to $69,182,000 in 1941-42.

Tax Burden Increase

The tax burden for State and local government increased from $43.83 per capita in 1920 to $78.74 in 1930, $91.86 in 1940, and $100.51 in 1942. ("Income and Expenditures of Government in California," Table 3, page 54.)

The Federal tax burden in California has also increased markedly. In 1931-32, Federal tax collections were $19.82 per capita; this was a decrease from the range of $30.44 to $33.42 from 1925 through 1929. In 1941 the burden increased to $73.13 and the 1943-44 Federal Budget calls for taxes which will average $310 per capita in California, without additional taxes which apparently will be imposed.

The combined Federal, State and local tax burden in California was $117.13 in 1930 and dropped to $81.76 in 1933. The 1944 burden is estimated to be at least $410 per capita.

CALIFORNIA PER CAPITA TAX COLLECTIONS

Year ending June 30	State and local	Federal collections in California	Total
1930	$78 74	$38 39	$117 13
1931	77 84	28 56	106 40
1932	70 84	19 82	90 66

1944*	100 00	310 00	410 00

* Estimate based on budget.

State General Fund Income

Any increased expenditure for aged assistance by the State of California would have to be paid from State General Fund revenues, as other fund revenues are earmarked for specific purposes. The tax structure of the State of California was greatly changed in 1933. The biennial revenues for the General Fund since that time are as follows:

General Fund Revenues

1933-35	$192,190,000
1935-37	287,497,000
1937-39	347,071,000
1939-41	378,093,000
1941-43 Estimate	497,473,000
1943-45 Estimate	468,044,000

It is evident from these figures that the revenues for the General Fund, prior to the war expenditures in California, were considerably less than $400,000,000 per biennium. The present large revenues due to war expenditures cannot be expected to continue in the postwar period. Revenues in the postwar period will probably fall well under $400,000,000 per biennium. The sources of revenue for the General Fund are numerous but the major portion of the income is received from a few taxes, as shown in the following tabulation estimating General Fund revenues for 1943-45 and taken from the Governor's Budget:

Estimated General Fund Revenues 1943-45

	Amount	Per cent
Retail sales and use tax	$201,000,000	42.9
Bank and corporation franchise taxes	103,000,000	22.0
Personal income tax	71,400,000	15.3
Alcoholic beverage taxes and licenses	25,300,000	5.4
Insurance tax	19,350,000	4.1
Inheritance tax	15,000,000	3.2
All other income	32,990,000	7.1
Total	$468,040,000	100.0

General Fund Expenditures and Deficits

During the 1930 decade, expenditures of the General Fund generally exceeded the revenues, indicating that expenditures were too great for the revenue structure to support, thus causing a deficit. The General Fund deficit for the decade is as follows:

General Fund Deficit

1931-33	-----	$42,413,000	Deficit
1933-35	-----	26,108,000	Deficit
1935-37	-----	745,000	Surplus
1937-39	-----	23,652,000	Deficit
1939-41	-----	8,127,000	Deficit

In addition to this deficit, the State of California went into long-term debt by issuing bonds for $44,000,000 for unemployment relief, and redemption requirements are being paid over a period of years. One of the bond issues was for $20,000,000, and this is being paid by the counties in the form of deductions from gas tax subventions.

Most of the more important State taxes are definitely related to business activity. When the volume of business increases, the tax yields increase. An extreme accentuation of this condition is being experienced as a result of wartime expenditures in California. In the postwar period and in later periods of economic depression, the present State taxes will probably decrease very substantially in yield and deficits will probably occur unless expenditures are reduced.

The present basic tax structure was developed, as previously stated, after 1933 and did not experience the full impact of the depression. What the yields of the several taxes would be in the event of a depression as serious as the last is difficult to estimate, but the several indexes, which are useful in forecasting, indicate that the loss of revenue would be quite serious. Therefore, the State would either have to levy new taxes, increase tax rates, or reduce present forms of expenditures drastically. The setting up of new expenditures or new expenditure levels must, therefore, be seriously studied.

An inspection of the General Fund revenues as shown above indicates that increases in rates of taxes, other than retail sales and income, would not produce large returns in revenues.

California has utilized practically all forms of taxation. The few remaining types would be unlikely to yield large amounts of revenue. Other forms of taxes would be borne by approximately the same taxpayers.

Property Taxes

Ad valorem taxes on property have been used exclusively to meet local expenditures since 1911, when the State discontinued this tax for general purposes. Property taxes have proved in the past to be the most stable type of revenue producer. During the depression, however, tax delinquency was very serious and many local governments experienced difficulty in obtaining enough revenue to meet expenditures. It was necessary to curtail expenditures as much as possible. Salaries were reduced in some instances and capital outlay was greatly curtailed. Some jurisdictions issued long-term bonds to meet relief costs (in addition to the State's issues).

Property taxes are believed by many to be so burdensome at the present time that many plans have been proposed to decrease them.

Taxpayer Ability to Pay

In considering tax burdens, it is necessary, of course, to consider Federal taxation. All Federal tax rates are now very large: corporation and personal income taxes take up to 80 per cent of net income. Federal taxes will very likely be increased further before the war is over and must bear more heavily on the smaller income groups. While burdensome taxes have been imposed to pay a substantial part of war expenditures out of current income, it is inevitable that heavy taxes will be required in the postwar period to pay war obligations.

The Federal income tax exemptions at the present time are $500 for a single person, $1,200 for married persons or heads of households, and $350 per dependent. The exemption for a family without dependent children is $1,200, which is well above the subsistence level, but the single person and children exemptions may be considered to be near subsistence. From the table of income distribution in California (page 6), it is evident that a large part of the burden of increased taxes will have to be borne by persons making between $500 and $1,800 per year. Any additional taxes which are imposed on this group will reduce the standard of living of individuals correspondingly, and in the lower range will bring additional persons closer to subsistence levels. This will, in turn, engender new social problems. Whether these taxes are direct, indirect, or multiplying (such as a transactions tax), makes little difference in the purchasing power of the individual.

Old-Age and Survivors Insurance

Congress passed a Social Security Act in 1935, which includes a plan for annuities (Title II) in which the employer and the employee match in contributions into a fund. This plan gives to each person included under the act a pension as a right.

The plan is intended to eliminate public assistance to aged persons. It also provides insurance to the dependents of persons in the system. The act, however, does not include all workers. In 1940 (prior to war expansion of industry) it was estimated that there were two and one half million workers in California. Of this number, an average of 1,384,000, or 55 per cent, were under old-age and survivors insurance and were making contributions into the system. (Average income $1,620 per year.) Domestic and agricultural employees are not included in the system; employees in agricultural packing or processing plants are, however. Many governmental employees in California are under an actuarial pension system, adding 4 per cent to the 55 per cent under old-age and survivors insurance.

Average individual contributions into, and benefits from, the system will differ between States, as the average income in the several States is extremely varied, and the contribution is based on a percentage of earnings. Correspondingly, the annuity which employees will receive in lower income States will be substantially less than that in the higher income States. California had one of the highest average individual incomes in the United States in 1939; this information, secured in the 1940 census, does not show the effect of war expenditures. States with over $900 of average income were as follows:

States With Median Income Over $900—1939

Nevada -----	$1,061	Ohio -----	$ 964
Michigan -----	1,058	New York -----	962
California -----	1,020	Washington -----	959
New Jersey -----	998	Illinois -----	954
Connecticut -----	975	Massachusetts -----	937
Utah -----	969

Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Benefits

Persons under old-age and survivors insurance contribute 1 per cent of their earnings into the system up to $3,000 per year; the employer matches the contribution, making a total of 2 per cent.

According to the United States census, the income in the various income brackets in California for the 1939 period was as follows:

Income Distribution in California—1939

	Per cent distribution		Per cent distribution
Less than None -----	6.3	Less than $1,600 -----	73.8
$100 -----	8.3	1,800 -----	78.3

1,200 -----	56.8	5,000 and over -----	98.8
1,400 -----	66.1	Not reporting income -----	1.2

It is evident that slightly over one-half of the persons in California earned less than $1,200 per year, or $100 per month during 1939. A person in the Federal Social Security Insurance System, after working 40 years at an average salary of $100 per month, would receive a benefit of $35 per month if he were living alone, and $52.50 per month if he had a wife (over 65) or one dependent. Additional dependents would result in larger annuities.

Contributions into and benefits from old-age and survivors insurance are limited to an income of $3,000 per year. According to the above income distribution only 4 per cent of the people in California earned more than $3,000 a year in 1939. In peace time, it is unlikely that there would be many persons who would earn at least $3,000 a year at age 25 and thereafter for 40 years so as to produce a maximum benefit which would amount to $56 monthly for an individual, and for an individual with a wife and one dependent $84.

Under the Federal Social Security System, the combined contributions of the employee and employer are placed in a trust fund where they accumulate, together with interest earnings, to meet the annuity payments. The old-age and survivors insurance is not on a full actuarial basis; the system was established that way at the beginning but it appeared that the fund would become so huge that contributions were modified. It will be necessary, as the benefits paid out become greater, to increase the amount of tax on the employee and employer.

The important consideration is that the payments into the fund at the present time by the employee and employer are actuarially insufficient to meet future payments from the fund. In order to build up actuarial benefits which would afford anything more than subsistence living, it would be necessary to require average contributions amounting to about 8 per cent of an individual's pay. These would be met by the employee and the employer, and should be considered as a part of salaries and wages.

Benefits for persons who are in income brackets materially less than $100 a month, under any acceptable system, will be small and it is likely that they will be near subsistence levels.

Governmental Employee Pensions

Federal, State, and local government employees are not included under old-age and survivors insurance. Several governmental jurisdictions in California (including the State) have retirement systems wherein the employee and the unit of government match contributions paid into actuarially sound systems. Pensions to governmental employees are considered to be deferred compensation; thus they are a part of the salary plan. For governmental employees, as for example the State of California, the average contribution is around 4 per cent for the State and 4 per cent for the employee. The contribution is dependent upon the age at which the employee entered the system. If an employee were to enter at age 45, the percentage of contribution would necessarily be higher in order to build an annuity than if he entered at age 21.

An employee in the service of the City of Los Angeles, for example, for 40 years at an average pay of $100 per month, would receive somewhat less than $60 per month benefit, as compared with $35 for the single person under old-age and survivors insurance and $52.50 if he has a wife or one dependent.

History of Amount of Aged Aid

Needy aged assistance was approved by the electorate of California in a constitutional amendment which was ratified in 1928. The Legislature established this form of assistance by statute in 1929 and authorized assistance up to $1 per day; the amounts of assistance were based on budgetary needs. In 1935 the Legislature amended the act to provide aid of $35 per month to needy persons not living with relatives or in a private home. When the Federal Government began to participate in aged aid, the maximum participation was one-half of $30 per month. When the Federal amount was increased to half of $40, the Legislature passed the $5 difference to the recipients of aid and not to the taxpayer. The amount of aged aid in California, as shown above, has been established by arbitrary procedures.

Prior to the time the Federal Government entered the aged aid program, the eligible age in California was 70 and the residence requirement was 15 years immediately preceding the application, or 40 years with five years immediately before application. With the entry of the Federal Government into the program, the State was required to decrease its residence requirement from 15 years to five years and its age requirement from 70 to 65 years.

Aged Aid in Other States

Colorado is the only State which has authorized aid in excess of $40 per month. While $45 has been authorized, the State has generally been unable to pay the amount; the average aid in December, 1942, was $41.06.

There are only 13 States which allow as much as $40 per month. The maximum amounts of assistance permitted by law in each State are shown in Appendix Table 5. The average monthly amount of assistance paid is shown in Appendix Table 2.

The number of persons receiving aged assistance varies among the 48 States; some States have a larger percentage of population over 65 than others. The number per 1,000 persons over 65 receiving aged aid and the percentage of population 65 years and over (according to the 1940 U. S. census) are shown in Appendix Table 3.

Ability to Bear Increased Welfare Costs

As previously stated, there is considerable doubt that the revenue structure of California in peace time could bear increased governmental expenditures other than those which have already been established. This is also evidenced by the fact that, whenever a cost becomes burdensome and difficult to pay, attempts are made to transfer it to some other government where the effect is less visible. For example, it is commonly believed that property cannot bear so much of the aged aid cost as is now being levied upon it and there are many persons who believe that all or part of the burden should be transferred to the State. If the amount of aid were to be increased to some very large amount, let us say $60, it would become evident to many people that the State could not bear the burden, and an attempt would be made to transfer the burden to the Federal Government. In the whole process, it is forgotten that a taxpayer is a taxpayer no matter to which layer of government he is paying taxes. During the 1930 decade the State had to go deeply into debt to finance its welfare costs. The increased cost of welfare and other expenditures of the Federal Government during the 1930 decade (expenditures so great that Federal taxes to pay them were politically inexpedient) showed up in the Federal debt which on June 30, 1941, totaled $48,961,000,000.

When property taxes are deemed too high to continue carrying or to meet a burden of expenditures in a community, it should be considered an indication of lack of ability to pay; and so, instead of attempting to transfer the cost to invisible sources, it may be better to investigate the public expenditure program to determine where curtailments can be made.

Postwar Effect on Employment

Analysis of acceptances and severances from the old age rolls indicates that the rolls are declining mainly because there have been fewer applications and, therefore, fewer additions. This is, in large part, due to the increased war activity and demand for manpower. In December, 1940, 27.5 per cent of the persons aged 65 and over in California were receiving aged aid; in January, 1943, the percentage had dropped to 25 per cent.

The elderly person is generally in the marginal group so far as employment is concerned. It may be presumed that in the postwar period many such persons will be released from war industry and other employment, and will apply for aged assistance. It is conceivable that 35 per cent of the persons 65 and over will be eligible for and receive aid without any relaxation in the present laws.

California's Economic Future

In order to pay taxes, it is necessary to have pay rolls, and payrolls come from agriculture, industry, and commerce. If the tax burden in California becomes excessive in comparison with other States, it will have the inevitable effect of strangling agriculture and driving industry out and thereby decreasing pay rolls. Taxes are a part of business overhead and must be met in the price structure.

Migration to California Because of Increased Benefits

It is the belief of many persons that there has been migration of aged persons to California, not only due to the climate but also because the amount of aged assistance is larger than that of most States. It may be considered that the amount of benefit paid in California is already so out of line with that of the Nation (see Appendix Table 2) that additional amounts will be further inducement to migration to this State. The tax burden in California is already great and it is doubtful that the California tax system could care for the aged from other States.

Cost of Living in Relation to Recipients of Aged Assistance

The cost of living for an individual is dependent to a large extent on whether a person is living alone or with his family, whether he owns his own home or rents, whether he lives in a metropolitan or rural area, his health condition, and other factors.

Complete statistics are not available as to the number of recipients of aged assistance who are living alone. In 1940-41 they numbered 31 per cent of acceptances. In 1940-41, 24 per cent of acceptances were home owners.

The cost of living index as reported by the United States Bureau of Labor is based on the average of persons renting their homes. The 24 per cent of persons on aged assistance who own their own homes are not affected by the increased cost of rentals, as reported by the United States Bureau of Labor for the two metropolitan areas in California. It may be presumed that the fixed charges which they may have in carrying the debt on the home would remain the same.

The rents which are reported in the United States index are for the two metropolitan areas: Los Angeles and San Francisco. There are many places in the State where rents have not increased at all. Also there are areas where rent ceilings have been fixed. These considerations, together with the fact that nearly 24 per cent of aged aid acceptances in 1940-41 owned their own homes, indicate that the United States cost of living index, as relating to rents, is not valid either for general usage or in the problem this committee is considering in California.

The cost of living index includes many items. Among them is the operation of automobiles, which has been distinctly curtailed by gas rationing. Many items of merchandise which are included can no longer be purchased. The items which are needed by all individuals are clothing and food. Food is being rationed and it will be necessary for every person in the United States to adjust himself to restricted menus. While the price of meat is very high at the present time, in many areas it is impossible to purchase it. In future rationing, it has been announced that each person will receive  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pounds of meat per week.

The cost of food index, as developed by the United States Bureau of Labor, is based on a peacetime condition and has not been corrected for a wartime economy wherein shortages have developed and rationing is in effect. While the cost of food has unquestionably risen, the extent will not be known until the effect of rationing is known. The index, as reported by the United States Bureau of Labor, is not valid under present conditions and should not be used to evaluate current living problems.

Many persons on old age assistance are living in households wherein other members of the family are receiving public assistance. The report for 1940-41 shows that out of a total of 28,200 acceptances, 8,291 lived in households with other forms of public assistance; this is close to 30 per cent.

Estimates of Cost

The number of persons who are receiving old age assistance in California reached a maximum of 158,723 in December, 1941. Since that time the roll has decreased and, in December, 1942, numbered 153,896. The number receiving assistance is approximately 25 per cent of the total number of people in California who are 65 and over.

The saturation point in aid to the aged has been discussed and attempts to determine it have been frequently made. Some persons may believe that, in view of the fact that old age assistance has leveled off at approximately 25 per cent of the number 65 and over, the saturation point has been reached. There appears to be no saturation point with respect to aged assistance. The number who apply for and receive aid is dependent on the generosity of the people as expressed in statutory eligibility requirements. A liberalization of any feature of eligibility in the past has brought a greater number on the roll.

If the present legal provision for the responsibility of relatives for support of needy members of their families is eliminated and assistance is regarded as a right, rather than based on need, the cost will become huge. It is estimated that to give $60 per month per person over 60 years as a right would cost nearly $700,000,000 per year in California in 1943 and would increase. The cost under similar conditions for persons over 65 would be over $400,000,000. The total expenditures for all forms of government in California, exclusive of direct Federal expenditures, totaled $765,000,000 in 1941-42. Thus a liberalized program of aid to the aged could nearly double expenditures.

If relative responsibility were eliminated in determining eligibility, the costs of aged assistance would increase. There are around 25,000 cases at the present time in which relatives contribute $5,750,000 each biennium, or $2,875,000 per year. This cost would be transferred from the relatives to the public.

Statements have been made that the cost of administering relative responsibility is greater than the amount offset. The entire cost of administering old age assistance is around $3,300,000 per year; so it is obvious that, aside from other factors, the return of $5,750,000 would warrant the expense.

Eliminating relative responsibility would result in additional persons applying for aid and qualifying for it. It is not unlikely that a number would thus qualify which would be more than equal to the number on the roll with relatives at the present time, thus causing an increase in cost of at least $12,000,000 per year which, together with the $2,875,000, would amount to $14,875,000. If all persons were to shift the responsibility of relatives to the public, the cost would be very much more.

The cost can increase substantially even though assistance is given as a matter of need instead of right. Calculating on a need basis, the following estimates of cost have been made for varying amounts of assistance in the post-war period:

Estimated Annual Cost at Age 65

Amount of Aid		Per cent to receive assistance	Annual cost
Full rate	Average because of deductions
$40	$38	35	$102,000,000
50	46	45	159,000,000
60	54	55	228,000,000

Annual Cost Distribution

Federal	State and County	Total
$51,000,000	$51,000,000	$102,000,000
69,000,000	90,000,000	159,000,000
84,000,000	144,000,000	228,000,000

When it is considered that earnings in California have been less than $100 per month for half the population, it can readily be conceived that the number qualifying for large amounts of assistance would become large and would approach the number who are 65 and over. In estimating costs, it may be well to remember this and consider every bar in eligibility that is let down brings the number closer to the entire group over the age limitation.

The continuity of reporting as between these several agencies is limited; the data will therefore be affected by accrual periods. The SRA expenditure for 1934-35 is in most part from the $24,000,000 bond issue. Data designated with (*) is partly estimated. State Department of Social Welfare also administers probations. Data designated with (**) includes surplus commodity and WPA cooperation administrative expense.

APPENDIX 7(a)

Notes for Governor's Tax Committee

California Taxpayers' Association has been working in the field of governmental expenditures and revenues since 1926. Its staff works constantly with governmental officials and civic groups to furnish information on expenditures, revenues and tax burdens. It is the purpose of the Association to keep tax burdens at a minimum consistent with adequate public service. The work includes State and local governments.

In local government the amount of expenditure determines the property tax levy, as, in most part, expenditures are paid from this form of revenue. In local government, tax levies are determined each year and tax rates are fixed accordingly.

In State government the expenditure budget is adopted biennially, but State taxes are fixed only periodically by the Legislature and are not systematically regulated with the adoption of each budget. The result has been that at times tax yields have been inadequate to pay for expenditures and the State has incurred a deficit, and at other times taxes are in excess of expenditure needs and a surplus has accumulated.

California Taxpayers' Association, in its work with reference to State taxes, would not take a stand on the reduction of any particular State tax. Its Board of Directors, however, has resolved that the association recommend that the Legislature reduce the flow of revenue into the State General Fund during the 1943-45 biennium, so that the General Fund shall be more nearly in balance by Jan. 1, 1945.

We are submitting for your consideration, in an appendix, tables relating to both taxes and expenditures. In part, these tables are published regularly as an integral part of our work. Other tables are being supplied which have been especially prepared for your committee.

The association has periodically published a series of data called "Income and Expenditures of Government in California." This series is now complete from 1900 through 1942. In 1940 the material was published as a supplement to the January number of the Tax Digest and includes a description of California taxes and expenditures. In the official reports of State and local governments, expenditures relating to subventions are generally duplicated; we have eliminated such duplications and show the expenditures in the final agency. The data are brought up to date in the February, 1943, Tax Digest, but the descriptive matter has not been repeated.

Included in the February issue are also other data relating to the work of your committee. The expenditures of State government are included in summary, and in departmental detail, for the period 1937-38 through 1941-42. Also included are tax levies by the counties, schools, and special districts for each of the 58 counties for the period 1939 through 1943.

A summary of population estimates with percentage of change since 1940 is shown in Table 18, page 81. The counties are segregated into significant groups, which include the bay area, southern California, Sacramento area, counties which are gaining, and those which are static or losing. Of the total estimated increase for the State since the last census amounting to 752,000, 330,000 is shown in the bay area and 366,000 in southern California.

California Taxpayers' Association has estimated population by counties since the 1930 census. These population estimates have been used in deriving per capita expenditures and revenues and are also used in dealing with administrative problems in government.

Income in California

In the period prior to the tremendous war expenditure in California, nearly half of the wage or salary workers received from salaries, wages, and income from other sources less than $1,000 per year; and nearly three-quarters received less than $1,600 per year. According to the United States census, the income in various income brackets was as follows:

Income Distribution—1939

	Per cent distribution		Per cent distribution
None -----	6.3	Less than 1,800-----	78.3
Less than $100 -----	8.3	Less than 2,000-----	84.1
Less than 200 -----	11.8	Less than 2,500-----	92.1
Less than 400 -----	20.9	Less than 3,000-----	94.8
Less than 600 -----	29.6	Less than 4,000-----	97.1
Less than 800 -----	39.0	Less than 5,000-----	97.8
Less than 1,000-----	48.7	5,000 and over-----	1.0
Less than 1,200-----	56.8	Not reporting income-----	1.2
Less than 1,400-----	66.1
Less than 1,600-----	73.8	Total-----	100.0

These data show income far less than those which are commonly supposed. It has been observed that there is a tendency on the part of the public to believe that the earnings of most individuals are materially larger than actual.

The census income data, being prewar, do not show the effect of war expenditures. In 1939 California had one of the highest average individual incomes in the United States. In that year the median income for California salaries, wages, and other sources was $1,020, which was exceeded only by Nevada with $1,061 and Michigan with $1,058. States over $900 are as follows:

States With Median Income Over $900—1939

Nevada -----	$1,061	Ohio -----	$ 964
Michigan -----	1,058	New York -----	962
California -----	1,020	Washington -----	959
New Jersey -----	998	Illinois -----	954
Connecticut -----	975	Massachusetts -----	937
Utah -----	969

Only three States had a median which exceeded $1,000, and eight States ranged between $900 and $1,000. The States are arranged in $100 brackets as follows:

Income Range	No. of States	Income Range	No. of States
$ 372 to $ 400 -----	2	$ 700 to $ 799 -----	5
400 to 499 -----	5	800 to 899 -----	11
500 to 599 -----	6	900 to 999 -----	8
600 to 699 -----	8	1,000 to 1,061 -----	3

The National income of the United States was estimated by the United States Department of Commerce to be $70,674,000,000 in 1939. Current estimates of the National income for 1943 vary from $110,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000. This tremendous increase in the National income is caused by war activity; it has been reported that California is receiving 10 per cent of war contracts. The effect of this, together with increased agricultural activity, will be increased individual incomes in California.

Manpower

The manpower problem as it relates to the war effort has two effects on government in California—in the first place, government has in some instances been required to increase some services because of the increased population around the war industry centers and Army camps; in other instances, the need for governmental service has decreased. In the second place, government has a manpower problem of its own. Many employees have felt it their patriotic duty to become more closely allied with the war effort by going to the armed forces or war industries; many have been inducted into the Army.

Some governmental jurisdictions have attempted to maintain the same amount of service as previously rendered, in spite of the fact that most civilian services have seriously declined. In most instances, governmental employees are working a short week and certain jurisdictions are attempting to recruit new employees in a war labor market. Many jurisdictions have tried to retain their employees through increased salaries and raises, which has caused a substantial increase in governmental expenditures. There are few instances where increased working hours have been required to offset increased pay.

The recent order of War Manpower Commission requiring a 48-hour week for both essential and nonessential workers includes State and local governmental employees according to statements publicized on February 11. The order is now effective in limited areas, but must be extended to cover most of California in order to be fully useful.

Government Should Show Decreased Expenditures

With the exception of the Federal Government in its relation to the war effort, all units of government should show both decreased spending and tax requirements. Capital outlays in the form of equipment and buildings are no longer purchasable because of priorities. Materials and supplies containing critical materials are closely rationed. This reduction should more than offset the increase in commodity prices of other items. Personnel has decreased and will continue to do so, as nonessentials are curtailed by the War Manpower Commission. As previously stated, decreases in employment have been offset by increased salaries and wages.

Governmental Units in California Counties

Governmental units in California are shown by counties for 1940-41 in Table 19, page 82, of the appendix. The total is 4,287 and the distribution between the several units is as follows:

Incorporated cities .....	284*	Junior college districts .....	14
Elementary school districts .....	2,533	County special districts .....	1,094
High school districts .....	266	Number of counties .....	58*
Unified school districts .....	39
		Total .....	4,287

* San Francisco City and County included.

** Figure not complete.

Each one of these units has the power to levy a tax. In the case of school districts, the board of supervisors fixes the tax rate, but has no authority to reduce the tax requirement established by a school district, so long as statutory limits are not exceeded.

State and Local Expenditures

During the first three years of the 1930 decade, expenditures for the State, counties, cities, schools and districts totaled close to $500,000,000, as shown in Table 6, page 60, which gives the amount for each type of government and the total. With an increasing population, the per capita expenditure decreased from $87.16 in 1930 to $83.71 in 1932 (Table 7, page 61). In 1934 the expenditure turned upward, but the per capita was still decreasing.

In 1942 expenditures swelled to $765,391,000, an increase of $302,733,000 in a decade. The per capita jumped from $83.71 to $103.08, an increase of $19.37 or 23 per cent. Of the $19.37, the State increased $10.43 and the counties $8.78. The State increase does not include aid to the needy aged, blind, and dependent children which is shown in county costs, nor does it include State apportionments for public schools, shown as a part of public school costs under the school heading. State expenditure increases are discussed later.

Expenditures for cities have fluctuated, dropping from $21.01 in 1932 to $18.41 in 1934, they climbed to a peak of $24.85 in 1939, and in 1942 dropped to $22.13. Per capita expenditures for schools followed a somewhat similar fluctuation; they were $25.89 in 1932 and $26.86 in 1942 for each man, woman, and child in the population.

State and Local Income

Income for State and local governments totaled $520,728,000 or $91.72 per capita in 1930 (Table 2, page 53). In 1933 per capita income dropped to $71.49 and in 1942 it increased to $118.29, with a total income of $878,287,000. State revenue in 1942 is in part diverted to local governments.

Subventions to Local Government

The major purpose in giving subventions to local governments is to transfer a part of the burden from property taxes to other forms of taxation. In the State of California this process has occurred repeatedly.

In several of these subventions to local governments, larger subsidies proportionately are given to smaller units of government than to the larger ones: For example, each county receives $30,000 of gasoline tax subventions from the one-cent gasoline tax receipts allocated to counties, and the balance is divided in proportion to motor vehicle registrations. Smaller elementary, high school, and junior college districts, because of the formula of apportionment, receive proportionately more State aid than do the larger districts. The effect of these larger subventions to the smaller units is shown in Table 37, page 124, which shows a larger per capita subvention to such counties and school districts.

As local expenditures and property tax levies get larger because of increased governmental activities, pressure develops to shift the burden from the property tax base by transferring it to State taxes. This form of diversion of State revenue has been accomplished by two methods: (1) Part of the tax receipts are apportioned to local governments; and (2) the State assumes an expenditure from its treasury and taxes for such purpose.

The taxes which the State collects and shares locally are: gasoline, motor vehicle "in lien," motor vehicle and liquor licenses, and horse racing fees and licenses. In apportioning these moneys to the counties, the State has imposed rather rigid restrictions on their expenditure. The local expenditures which the State shares and pays for from State taxes deposited in the General Fund are: needy aged, dependent children, and needy blind assistance; apportionments to elementary, high and junior college districts, vocational education, contributions to the teachers' retirement benefits, free textbooks, aid to tubercular patients in county institutions, and salaries of superior court judges.

The taxes which the State levies and apportions directly to local government are shown in Table 20, pages 83 and 84, for the period 1933 through 1942. In 1942 the amounts totaled $94,212,000, of which the State retained $46,359,000, the counties received $29,642,000, the cities $16,147,000, and the agricultural districts $2,064,000. The taxes levied by the State and apportioned from its treasury in 1942 for local expenditures totaled $231,215,000, of which the State retained $127,819,000; $24,896,000 was apportioned to counties and $78,500,000 for ADA apportionments to school districts.

The totals of these two categories are as follows:

State	$174,178,000	Schools	$78,500,000
Counties	54,538,000	Other districts	2,064,000
Cities	16,147,000
		Total	$325,427,000

The total State and local tax collections in California and the amount of taxes collected by these governments per capita are shown in Table 3, page 54. Starting in 1900, the per capita tax burden was $19.42. By 1929-30 the amount had increased to $78.74. In 1933-34, with the change in taxation and depression forced economies, the per capita burden dropped $59.80. The amount collected has increased each year since that time, and in 1941-42 amounted to $100.51 per capita.

State Tax Revenues

A history of tax collections for the State government since 1900 is contained in Table 5, pages 57 to 59. The period covered is from the fiscal year 1899-1900 through 1941-42, and the fundamental changes in the State tax structure are clearly evident. Through 1911 the property tax was the main source of revenue for the State; it yielded $7,891,000 in that year out of a total tax revenue of $11,651,000. It was succeeded in the following year by the utility gross receipts tax, which brought in substantial revenues through 1935 and was discontinued with the return of utility property to local rolls for taxation. The utility gross receipts tax increased from $6,617,000 in 1912 to $27,913,000 in 1935. This then was a minor revenue compared with tax revenue amounting to $154,177,000. With the repeal of the utility gross receipts tax, the corporation tax was modified to include utilities with other corporations.

The retail sales tax came into effect in 1933-34 with a yield of $33,244,000; in 1941-42 the receipts had swelled to $132,576,000.

The personal income tax became effective in 1935-36 and brought in $6,526,000; in 1941-42 the yield was $29,039,000.

The unemployment insurance tax was started in 1936-37 and jumped from $62,562,000 for the fiscal 1938, the first full year of collections, to $102,676,000 in 1941-42. These tax receipts are held in trust in the Federal Treasury for the specific purpose of providing benefits for unemployment, and they are not available for general State expenditures. It is, however, a tax upon all persons affected by the act and must be considered in determining the individual's total tax burden.

The General Fund of the State of California is dependent at present on a few taxes for its major income. These, for the biennium 1943-45, unless taxes are reduced by the Legislature, are estimated in the State Budget to be as follows:

	Amount	Per cent
Retail sales and use tax	$201,000,000	42.9
Bank and corporation franchise taxes	103,000,000	22.0
Personal income tax	71,400,000	15.3
Alcoholic beverage taxes and licenses	25,300,000	5.4
Insurance tax	19,350,000	4.1
Inheritance tax	15,000,000	3.2
All other income	32,994,000	7.1
Total	$468,044,000	100.0

The General Fund receives revenue other than taxes: the amount, however, is relatively small in relation to the total. The period 1932-33 through 1939-40 is shown in Table 21, pages 85 to 90. Similar data for 1940-41 and 1941-42 are shown in Table 22, pages 91 and 92.

State Expenditures

Expenditures for State purposes have increased markedly in a decade, as previously indicated in citing the rise from $14.63 in 1932 to $25.06 in 1942. Expenditures are shown in summary for the five-year period 1937-38 through 1941-42 on page 43, and by department and function on page 44. Similar data for the decade 1929-30 to 1939-40 are shown in Table 23, pages 93 to 98. Significant trends in State expenditure will be discussed in the section relating to the State Budget.

State Postwar I Expenditures

The expenditures for the State of California for 1915-16 (exclusive of the San Francisco Harbor) are shown to be $33,317,000 in Table 24, page 99. In 1941-42 the expenditures had increased to $50,348,000 and in 1923-24 to $85,633,000. These increases were largely found in expenditures of the Industrial Accident Commission, State Highway Commission, University of California, Department of Agriculture, Reclamations Commission, mental hospitals, bond requirements, and payments to local governments in the form of motor vehicle licenses, gas tax, and support for elementary and high schools.

Comparison of Prewar I Expenditures With Prewar II—State

Prewar I expenditures for the State of California (1915-16) compared with Prewar II (1940-41) are shown in Table 25, pages 104 and 105. In this period, State expenditures increased from $35,274,000 to $277,244,000.

The major expenditures or functions which contributed to this large increase were: The State Board of Equalization (with its Liquor Control Division), Department of Industrial Relations, Department of Motor Vehicles, Division of Highways, University of California and State colleges, Department of Agriculture, Department of Natural Resources, unemployment relief, mental hospitals, bond interest and redemption, State employees' retirement, and subventions to local governments.

Subventions to local governments increased from $9,067,000 to $148,525,000. These were for elementary and high schools, junior colleges, categorical aids, gasoline and other taxes.

State Bonded Debt

State bonds outstanding totaled $140,804,000 in July, 1942. The detail of the several issues is shown in Table 26, page 106. Totals by general and special funds are summarized in Table 27, page 107.

Local Government

Counties, cities, schools, and other districts receive most of their revenue from property taxes (Table 1, page 52, lines 11 and 12). The expenditures for those jurisdictions (excepting special districts) are detailed in succeeding sections but are summarized by counties in Table 33, page 118. This table shows the 1941 expenditures for each type of government, the total for each county, and the per capita expenditure. The average per capita expenditure for all jurisdictions within the counties was $80.15; Napa was lowest with $52.32; and Alpine highest with $174.87.

Also marked in variation are per capita property tax levies which for 1941-42 ranged from $21.46 in Solano County to $62.60 in Kern. Both total levy and per capita levy are shown for each county for 1938-39 and for 1941-42 in Table 34, page 119.

Property Valuations

Per capita assessed valuations vary materially among counties, ranging in 1941 from $739 for San Diego to $3,853 for Alpine (Table 32, page 113). The total valuation for each county for the period 1938 through 1942 inclusive is shown in Table 28, page 109. The succeeding tables show for each county for 1942 the operative and nonoperative values (Table 29); land, improvements, personal property, and exemptions (Table 30).

County Tax Rates and Levies

County tax rates are widely variable, both among the 58 counties and from year to year in the same county, as illustrated in Table 35, page 120. This table shows for the three years, 1941 through 1943, not only the total rate for each county, but also the respective rates for general county purposes, county bonds, county library, junior college tuition, and road districts. (Cities and special districts are not included.) The lowest rate for countywide purposes in 1942-43 was in Kings County.

County Expenditures

County expenditures per capita are summarized by major classification in Table 36, page 124, for the period 1935-36 through 1941-42. Some classifications show increases and others show decreases. Protection to person and property has increased in cost from $1.77 to $2.22 in the period. Interest on debt has decreased from $0.36 to $0.16, and redemption of debt has decreased from $0.56 to $0.46.

The cost of charities and corrections has more than doubled in the last six years, going from $7.82 to $16.94 for 1941-42. This is a slight drop from the $17.56 high for 1940-41.

Per capita payments in each county for 10 types of county activities for 1940-41 are shown in Table 37, page 124. Per capita county payments for general government averaged $3.74 throughout the State, and ranged from a high of $34.40 for Alpine County to $2.52 for Tulare County. Payments for charities and corrections averaged $17.56 per capita, and ranged from $41.45 in Trinity County to $7.42 in Solano County. Detail for each county for per capita payments for protection to persons and property, health and sanitation, highways and bridges, recreation, education which includes county payments only for education, interest on debt, redemption of debt, and miscellaneous are also shown.

Per capita costs have increased yearly in almost every county during the period 1935-36 through 1940-41 (Table 38, page 125).

County Subventions

Up to 1937 common property taxes were the main source of revenue for county expenditures other than highways, which have benefited from large subventions in the form of shared State taxes for many years. Following the adoption of the Federal Social Security Act in 1938, subventions particularly for social welfare, play a much greater part in county finance. The first subvention to counties was for children's aid and started before 1900. The second was the apportionment from motor vehicle license fees in 1915. In 1924 the gas tax was put into effect and apportionments started. Blind aid was started in fiscal 1930 and aid to the needy aged started in fiscal 1931. In 1935 the Legislature transferred automobiles from property taxation by the counties to the State, and the first apportionment of the motor vehicle "in lieu" tax to the counties and the cities was made in fiscal 1936. Liquor licenses were first apportioned in 1933-34. Data shown in Tables 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, pages 62 to 66, inclusive, are Federal and State subventions.

Tax Burdens in Counties

Expenditures, assessed valuations, population, and geographical and economic factors enter into property tax burdens. The population at January 1, 1941, of the 58 counties, county expenditures per capita, valuations per capita, and population in unincorporated areas, and the subventions per capita are shown in Table 39, page 126. The counties are listed in the order from the lowest rank in expenditures, and are grouped and averaged in series of 10. The results of such averages are extremely interesting and are as follows:

County Government

1940-41

Rank for lowest expenditure	Expenditure per capita	Valuation per capita	Population in unincorporated area	Subvention per capita	Property tax burden per capita
1 - 10-----	$23.93	$ 595	38%	$10.03	$13.90
11 - 20-----	29.55	1,080	50	13.98	15.57
21 - 30-----	35.24	1,364	60	15.27	19.97
31 - 40-----	41.23	1,322	65	17.15	24.13
41 - 50-----	49.52	1,308	73	22.29	27.23
51 - 57-----	77.35	1,894	84	40.94	36.41

The subventions are largely for welfare and highway purposes. Expenditures per capita vary from an average of $23.93 for the least expensive group of counties to an average of $77.35 in the highest—this is more than triple the lowest average. Assessed valuations vary from an average of $959 per capita to $1,894, which is nearly double. The population in unincorporated areas varied from 38 per cent to 84 per cent, which is more than double. The average subventions per capita vary startlingly, ranging from an average of $10.03 in the first group to $40.94 in the last, leaving for local revenue payments $13.90 in the first group to $36.41 in the last group.

From this table and summary it is apparent that the State and Federal Governments already give large subventions to the counties with higher per capita expenditures.

Local Bond Requirements

Bonded debt for counties, cities, schools, and special assessment districts, together with the total, is shown for each county in Table 40, page 127, for June 30, 1941. The per capita total debt in each county is also shown; the variations are extreme, ranging from an average of $3.70 in Plumas County to $143.42 for Los Angeles, with no debt in Alpine and Mono counties.

The interest and redemption requirements for the corresponding debt are shown for 1940-41 in Table 41, page 128, in both total amount and per capita. The per capita payments range from $0.11 in Plumas County to $14.80 in Los Angeles, with no payments in Alpine and Mono.

Tax Rates of Cities

Tax rates in at least 78 California cities dropped for 1942-43, the current fiscal year, when compared with rates for 1941-42. In 109 cities the rate showed no change, and in 54 of the cities reporting the city tax rate went up. Table 42, pages 129 and 130, shows tax rates for 283 California cities for 1941-42 and rates for 241 cities reporting for 1942-43.

Property Tax Levies of Cities

Total and per capita tax levies for each of the California cities for 1939-40, 1940-41, and 1941-42 are shown in Table 43, pages 131 to 134. The per capita levies for cities are based on 1940 census data and, where population has changed considerably, levies will be either higher or lower than that shown. It should be noted that the levies shown are for cities only; counties, schools, and frequently special districts also have property tax levies. Cities receive revenues from State and Federal subventions and, in a great many cases, from licenses and other fees.

Bonded Debt of Cities

Thirty-nine California cities had no bonded debt outstanding at June 30, 1941. Per capita debt outstanding for cities ranged from a high of $4.110 per capita in Vernon, a next to the highest of $263.05 in San Clemente, to a low of $0.43 in Gridley followed by 39 cities with no bonded debt owing. Vernon, an industrial area, had a population of 850 in 1940, and a bonded debt outstanding of $3,493,209 at June 30, 1941. Table 44, pages 135 to 138, shows total and per capita bonded debt outstanding at June 30, 1941, population according to the 1940 census, and debt payments of each California city for fiscal 1941.

Due to the $1 tax limitation for sixth class cities, and limitation of charters in others, tax levies have not increased in cities as they have in other units of government.

School Enrollment

The number of children enrolled in the public schools does not follow population trends. To study school cost trends it is necessary to examine school enrollments. Elementary school unit costs are lower than those of the high school; so it is desirable to summarize trends in the respective grades. It is also useful to segregate kindergarten enrollments from the elementary grades. Day school enrollments since 1928 are detailed in Table 45, page 139, and are summarized for selected years as follows:

	Kindergarten	1-8	Grades 9-12	13-14	Total
1931-32	78,573	770,436	258,315	22,006	1,129,330
1934-35	63,925	755,446	284,211	26,835	1,130,417
1937-38	65,110	782,529	331,542	31,870	1,211,051
1940-41	70,596	767,957	362,534	44,059	1,245,146

It may be observed that kindergarten enrollment was less in 1940-41 than in 1931-32. This is also true of the elementary school (grades 1-8). High school enrollment (grades 9-12), however, increased by 104,219 to 362,534 or 40 per cent. Junior colleges, with a total enrollment of 44,059 in 1940-41, almost exactly doubled in the period. High school and junior college enrollments today are down in most places, due to the demands of the armed services and war industries.

While enrollments determine, in a large degree, the number of teachers required, costs are measured by attendance, the unit being average daily attendance (hereafter referred to as A.D.A.) Costs vary widely between grades, schools, and districts.

Elementary School Costs

Average elementary school costs per A.D.A. have increased yearly from 1933-34 as follows:

School year	Average cost per A.D.A.	School year	Average cost per A.D.A.
1932-33	$86.67	1937-38	$98.13
1933-34	85.17	1938-39	102.36
1934-35	88.74	1939-40	105.17
1935-36	92.60	1940-41	105.99
1936-37	93.68

The total expenditure for current purposes by elementary school districts in California during 1940-41 was the greatest on record, despite the fact that the average daily attendance was 24,807 less than it was nine years before. The all-time high record of A.D.A. in elementary schools, including kindergarten but excluding grades 7 and 8 in junior high school, was 655,455 in 1931-32. Only 630,648 A.D.A. were reported for 1940-41, yet the current expenditure by elementary school districts was several millions of dollars greater.

Each year since 1933-34 there has been an increase in the total current expenditure of elementary schools exclusive of capital outlay and bond interest and redemption. In 1933-34 the total current expenditure was $55,099,193; for 1940-41 it was $66,839,494.

The state-wide averages indicate that the general trend of school expenditures has been sharply upward. The range of current expenditure per A.D.A. is wide, certainly far greater than the difference in the quality or quantity of education offered to the pupils.

The expenditures of the 209 elementary districts in California with more than 450 A.D.A. have been broken down into their major elements of teachers' salaries, auxiliary expense, and other current expense, and the results are shown in Table 47, pages 140 to 143. The 209 districts account for about 75 per cent of the total attendance and 80 per cent of total elementary expenditures.

Table 46, page 140, shows averages for groups of districts within certain limits of size as measured by A.D.A. For example, one group contains all districts having attendance of more than 4,000, the next takes in those districts with attendance between 2,000 and 4,000.

The reason for tabulating the data in Table 46 in several small groups, rather than in one large group, is to illustrate the effect of the size of the district upon the unit costs. Groups IV and V, which include districts ranging from 676 A.D.A. to 1,250 A.D.A., have unit costs which "on the average" are noticeably lower than the median or average unit costs in groups above or below that range in size. Districts with over 4,000 A.D.A. average $20 to $25 higher total current expenditure per A.D.A. than the middle-size districts. Spot checks of districts with less than 450 A.D.A. indicate that their unit costs are frequently somewhat higher than in the larger districts.

The expenditure for teachers' salaries is and should be the largest single item in the cost of schools. However, the fact that it varies from a low of $36.76 to a high of $122.40 per pupil in the 209 elementary school districts indicates that many districts might make substantial economies and still maintain a high standard. In particular, the number of pupils per teacher and the trend of enrollment should be studied to see if positions that fall vacant need be refilled.

School accounts carry a classification called auxiliary agencies and coordinate activities, in which are recorded the expenditures for a number of services, such as pupil transportation, civic center activities, cafeteria expense, and nursing services, all adjuncts of the regular school program, but not a part of it. The cost per pupil for these auxiliary items varies from a low of $0.02 to a high of $25.87. The smaller rural schools which have a pupil transportation problem usually spend more per pupil for auxiliary agencies than the larger urban districts.

Current expense other than for teachers' salaries and for auxiliary agencies includes administration, schoolroom and library supplies, maintenance of school plant, operation of school plant, and certain fixed charges, such as rent and insurance. Among the 209 elementary districts studied, the extreme variation for the "Other Current Expense" per pupil was from a low of $10.72 to a high of $77.39 per A.D.A. The group medians range from a low of $21.01 in the districts with 451 to 550 A.D.A. to a high of $28.07 in those with over 4,000 A.D.A.

Secondary School Costs

The unit costs of secondary schools, which include high schools and junior colleges, are materially higher than those for elementary grades. Secondary school costs per A.D.A. from 1932-33 through 1940-41 average as follows:

School Year	High Schools	Junior Colleges
1932-33 -----	$148.21	$171.87
1933-34 -----	140.70	187.06
1934-35 -----	148.34	176.94
1935-36 -----	151.24	190.18
1936-37 -----	153.54	199.68
1937-38 -----	157.78	199.68
1938-39 -----	160.59	183.33
1939-40 -----	166.48	182.78
1940-41 -----	170.90	201.49

During the eight years from 1931-32 to 1939-40 A.D.A. in the high schools of California increased about 33 per cent and in the district junior colleges by about 100 per cent. During 1940-41 high school A.D.A. increased only a little more than 2 per cent, and preliminary checks indicate that for this current 1942-43 school year there will be a substantial decrease. The shortages of children observed for eight years in our elementary schools have carried through to the upper school grades. In addition, young people are going into the armed services, war industries, or less essential employment. Careful studies made in the past indicated that if school enrollments and attendance followed their normal prewar trends, declines might be expected in junior high schools (grades 7 to 9 inclusive) until 1946 and in the senior high school level (grades 10 to 12 inclusive) until 1949. In former years, high school and junior college budgets were often increased year after year in anticipation of larger attendance.

On the junior college level (grades 13 and 14), the wartime economy has introduced a new factor not previously anticipated. Many of our young people, who in normal times might have remained in junior college, are now being drawn into the armed forces of the Nation and into both war and civilian industry. Junior college A.D.A., which in eight years grew 100 per cent, decreased 1.4 per cent in 1940-41, the school year immediately preceding Pearl Harbor. While this was a small loss, it marked a turning point in the trend which is now obvious.

The amount of the loss in A.D.A. in each high school and junior college will vary according to the circumstances within the district, and some may even increase, contrary to the general trend.

Per Pupil Costs Rising

The average current expenditure per A.D.A. in California high schools and junior colleges was higher in 1940-41 than for any year since 1932-33. While the average was higher, there are many districts which were below the average and others which exceeded the average. Table 49, page 145, shows the unit costs for 1939-40 and 1940-41 of the 176 California high school districts which had more than 300 A.D.A. in 1940-41 and of the 17 junior college districts in the State. The statewide averages show a sharp upward trend in the cost per pupil during recent years. Each district, of course, has its own peculiar problems, which are reflected in its expenditures; however, the range of current expenditure per A.D.A. is so wide that the costs of many districts appear to be distinctly out of line with the averages.

In Tables 48 and 49, pages 144 to 148, the total unit costs have been broken down into three major elements: Teachers' salaries, auxiliary agencies, and other current expense. Each of these three major classifications of costs is governed by a different set of circumstances. Frequently districts are quite similar in one of these three major classes of expenditure and differ widely in another.

Comparisons

High school and junior college costs are directly affected by the number and level of grades maintained. The cost of instruction in grades 7 and 8 in junior high schools is usually less than in the regular four-year high schools, and in grades 13 and 14 of the junior college level it is frequently greater; therefore the districts in Table 49, pages 145 to 148, have been grouped by levels of instruction offered. In order to furnish a ready measure for comparison, Table 48, Part 2, shows median or midpoint averages for groups of districts within certain limits of size measured by A.D.A. For example, one group contains all districts having an attendance of more than 5,000; the next group takes in those with an A.D.A. between 1,000 and 5,000.

In addition, size appears to have a decided effect upon the unit costs of high schools in this State. Lower median costs have a tendency to appear in the group between 1,000 and 5,000 A.D.A. The median average unit cost of districts with more than 5,000 A.D.A. is substantially higher than for other groups in the same type of school. Below 1,000 A.D.A. there is a definite trend toward high unit costs in the smaller schools.

Because teaching is the basic function of schools, the expenditure for teachers' salaries should be a more equitable basis of comparison among the several districts than the other classifications of expenditure. In the regular four-year high schools (grades 9 to 12 inclusive) the cost per A.D.A. for teachers' salaries varies from a low of $60.04 to a high of $161.38. The median average per pupil cost of teachers' salaries for the group of high school districts with more than 5,000 A.D.A. is from $14 to $32 higher than the median average for the groups below 5,000 A.D.A.

The cost per pupil for auxiliary items in the high schools and junior colleges varies from a low of less than one-half cent to a high of $43.45. There is a very definite tendency for the per pupil cost of auxiliary agencies to be low in the larger districts and high in the smaller districts. Here, again, the principal factor in this trend is pupil transportation, which is a relatively unimportant factor in the thickly populated urban areas but becomes an item of major importance in the rural districts.

Among the 176 high school districts and 17 junior college districts studied, the extreme variation for "Other current expense" per pupil was from a low of $27.65 to a high of $121.75.

Elementary School District Tax Rates

Property tax rates in the numerous elementary school districts in California show wide variations (Table 48, page 144). No tax was levied in 299 districts in 1941-42. The distribution of tax rates in 10-cent brackets is as follows:

	No. of districts
No tax	299
Less than $0.10 per $100	362
Over $0.10 and including .20	375
Over .20 and including .30	311
Over .30 and including .40	254
Over .40 and including .50	225
Over .50 and including .60	196
Over .60 and including .70	128
Over .70 and including .80	257
Over .80 and including .90	80
Over .90 and over	17
Total	2,504

Many of the very small school districts receive enough money from the school apportionments to pay for all teacher and current expense cost. Occasionally a tax is levied for extraordinary building maintenance. The higher rates are caused in some part by bond interest and redemption requirements.

California's School Costs Compared With Nation

California's average school cost per pupil in A.D.A., amounting to $148.43 in 1940-41, was exceeded only by costs in the State of New York, according to data published by the United States Office of Education. Only 16 States had costs which exceeded $100 per A.D.A. Only eight States exceeded $120 per A.D.A. These are as follows:

1. New York	$160.24	5. District of Columbia	$136.71
2. California	148.43	6. Illinois	125.89
3. New Jersey	147.05	7. Connecticut	123.14
4. Nevada	138.07	8. Massachusetts	120.86

The average cost for the continental United States in 1940-41 was $92.38 per A.D.A.; the annual costs for the period 1879-1880 through 1940-41 are shown in Table 51, page 150, together with the data by states for 1940-41 showing average daily attendance, instructional staff, expenditures and average salaries, current expenditures, and the average per pupil in A.D.A. cost.

The average salaries paid teachers show California to be the third from the highest, with $2,373. New York was highest, with $2,591, and District of Columbia second, with $2,456.

Federal Income and Expenditures

Federal income and expenditures, other than Federal subventions to the State and local governments, are not included in "Income and Expenditures of Government in California." Both Federal Government receipts and expenditures for 1941 and 1942, shown in Tables 52 and 53, page 162, are taken from a statement by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury. In this statement expenditures are classified as general, war activities, revolving funds, and transfers to certain administrative funds. General expenditures are shown to drop from $6,221,000,000 in 1941 to $6,050,000,000 in 1942. War activities have, of course, increased tremendously in this period and continue to increase.

Federal aid to States, Territories, and local governments, by purpose, is shown in Table 54, page 163, for the year 1941; and Federal aids to States by purpose are shown in Table 55, page 163, for selected years from 1925 to 1941. These show an increase from $113,600,000 in 1925 to $744,200,000 in 1941. Federal subventions to California governments for the years 1929 to 1942 are shown in Table 14, page 67.

Federal aid in each of the 48 States, including both grants and shared revenues for State and for local government, are shown for 1941 in Table 56, page 164.

A description of the Federal Tax System starts on page 165. The description relates to the Federal Tax System as a whole, describing the several sources of revenue and detailing some of the larger taxes. Customs revenue made up a substantial part of the Federal total prior to World War I, as shown in Table 57, page 172. Total revenue has varied materially up to 1939-40. In 1919-20 the total revenue amounted to $5,738,000,000. The amount declined to reach a low of $1,878,000,000 in 1932-33, and then went to $5,679,000,000 in 1939-40, which may be considered to be the last of the Prewar II expenditures. The Federal Budget estimate of revenue under existing taxes for 1943-44 is $34,767,000,000.

Federal taxes related to the population of the United States are shown in Table 58, page 173. In 1919-20 the per capita tax amounted to $54.28. The drop during the depression brought the burden to an even $15 in 1932-33. By 1940-41 the burden was again above the 1919-20 level, amounting to $58.45. The budget for 1943-44 calls for $255 per capita, based on existing tax laws.

Details of receipts from the personal income, pay roll, and corporation income taxes are shown in Tables 59 and 60, pages 174 and 175. Taxes on commodities, services, and occupations are contained in Table 61, page 176. The detail of motor vehicle taxes is shown in Table 62, page 177, and that for inheritance, gift, and other taxes on transactions in Table 63, page 178.

Federal Tax Burden in California

As previously shown, income in California is high compared with that of the Nation. For that reason people in California pay a larger part of Federal taxes than taxpayers in most other States. The average of the Federal burden for the Nation as a whole is $755 as previously stated. Figuring the portion of the burden which will fall on California (Table 64, page 181), it becomes evident that the California burden will be about $310 per capita in 1943-44 (based on existing laws). This is an increase from $30.59 in 1933-34. Increases in Federal taxation will increase this burden.

California's Ability to Bear Tax Burden

A Federal tax burden in California of $310, plus an estimated State and local tax burden of about $100, gives a total of $410 per capita. This is a terrific burden of taxation. Under normal conditions a tax as severe as this would curtail the standard of living of most persons. However, the stopping of production of many items which go into a normal standard of living, together with the rationing of many essential items, is going to reduce the standard of living of almost every person in California.

It has been pointed out by authorities in State Departments that the reduction of several of the State taxes, including corporation and income taxes, will not be a complete reduction to the California taxpayer. It is estimated that a large part of such reduction would flow into the Federal treasury because such items would not be deductible in making out the Federal tax statements. Thus, the taxpayers in California would still have a very heavy tax burden in spite of any State tax reduction that the Legislature in its wisdom may make.

Salaries and Wages

Salaries and wages have been increased by a large number of governmental jurisdictions in the State of California, including the State Government, to offset increases in the cost of living. While these increased costs have been in some degree offset by vacancies in positions, with the corresponding savings in pay rolls, the cost of service has frequently increased to the taxpayer.

In 1942 the State placed in effect a salary increase of $15 for each employee. This $15 increase was included in the Governor's Budget for the Fiscal Biennium 1943-45 and was stated to amount to some $10,000,000.

The Legislature recently passed an act providing, for the balance of the current biennium, salary increases of $25 per month for employees receiving under $300 a month, and $20 for those over $300. The increased salary cost by the recent action is roughly estimated to amount to $6,000,000, and would give salary increases totaling $16,000,000. In considering the total revenues of the State and the surplus, this amount is apt to appear small. However, it exceeds the estimated yield of inheritance taxes, which are expected to yield $15,000,000 for the biennium.

The cost of living index, as reported by the United States Bureau of Labor, is based on the purchase of commodities, many of which are no longer being manufactured, services which have been reduced, and food items, some of which are no longer available or are being rationed. There is considerable question as to whether the index ever was thoroughly sound for salary purposes. At the present time its use is thoroughly discredited.

Aid to the Needy Aged

The number of persons who are receiving old age assistance in California reached a maximum of 158,723 in December, 1941. Since that time the roll has decreased and, in December, 1942, numbered 153,896. The number receiving assistance is approximately 25 per cent of the total number of people in California who are 65 and over.

The saturation point in aid to the aged has been discussed and attempts to determine it have been frequently made. Some persons may believe that, in view of the fact that old age assistance has leveled off at approximately 25 per cent of the number 65 and over, the saturation point has been reached. There appears to be no saturation point with respect to aged assistance. The number who apply for and receive aid is dependent on the generosity of the people as expressed in the eligibility requirements. A liberalization of any feature of eligibility in the past has brought a greater number on the roll.

If the present legal provision for the responsibility of relatives for support of needy members of their families, is eliminated and assistance is regarded as a right, rather than based on need, the cost will become huge. It is estimated that to give $60 per month per person over 60 years as a right would cost nearly $700,000,000 per year in California in 1943 and would increase. The cost under similar conditions for persons over 65 would be over $400,000,000. The total expenditures for all forms of government in California, exclusive of direct Federal expenditures, totaled $765,000,000 in 1941-42. Thus a liberalized program of aid to the aged could nearly double expenditures.

Conclusion

The data presented show that governmental costs and taxes in California have increased materially in the last decade, despite the depression. Total State and local expenditures in California in fiscal 1932 were $498,000,000; in fiscal 1942 they amounted to $765,000,000. Per capita State and local expenditures in fiscal 1932 were $83.71; in fiscal 1942 they were $103.08. State expenditures per capita accounted for $10.43 of the increase; expenditures of the counties, cities, schools, and other districts for the remainder.

In considering the State surplus, taxes, and expenditures, it must be remembered that California, in its future growth, is in business competition with all the other States. And, for the duration of the war, it must not interfere with the war effort in its demands for men, materials, or tax money.

While the desire for expanded government services may be great, we must respect the limits of our ability to pay—not only State and local taxes, but the Federal tax bill for the war. We must take the long view and build soundly for a better postwar future, which to the taxpayer—in fact everyone—means the best government service necessary at the least possible cost.

APPENDIX 8

Statement to Governor's Pension Committee

Presented by A. J. McFADDEN

Past President, California State Chamber of Commerce

LOS ANGELES, MARCH 12, 1943

In his letter of February 25, 1943, to the chairman of this committee, the Governor set forth four fields which he thinks warrant the attention of this group, and in addition made certain statements with respect to his own opinions or conclusions as to certain changes in the old age security laws or administration which should be made. By formal action, we have indicated our approval of the objectives stated by the Governor, and have thereby established a basis for our own consideration of the many grave problems connected with old age security in California.

The California State Chamber of Commerce has long been concerned with the matter of old age security, not only from the standpoint of the taxpayer, but equally from that of maintaining as adequate a program as is consistent with the welfare of all the other groups which together make up our State's economy. As early as 1935, even before the public assistance provisions of the Federal Social Security Act went into effect, the chamber established a special committee on old age aid to investigate the possible effect of anticipated Federal legislation, and to report its findings thereon. The interest thus expressed has not waned, and the chamber's tax, research and social security committees have continued to follow both legislative and financial developments closely.

It is with the feeling that perhaps something of the experience gained during the past eight years may be helpful to us in our deliberations that this statement is presented. Neither the factual material, nor the financial estimates by way of illustration, should be regarded as indicative of the position of the State Chamber of Commerce with respect to any of the proposals before this committee or introduced as bills in the present Legislature. The position of the chamber can be determined only by action of its appropriate committees and the board of directors.

History of Old Age Security

Before entering into a discussion of the fields of exploration enumerated in the Governor's communication, it might be well to review briefly the chronology of old age security in California, both before and after the advent of Federal assistance.

California was probably the first State in the Union to extend assistance from State resources to her aged citizens, as a class distinct from the general body of indigent. Section 22 of Article IV of the Constitution of 1879 empowered the State to grant aid to private institutions for orphans, or aged persons in indigent circumstances, provided such aid was granted by uniform rule, and further empowered similar grants to local subdivisions on the same basis. Beginning in 1883, grants were made to the counties at the rate of $180 per year per case. Costs were entirely controlled by the counties, and rose so rapidly that the law providing the grants was entirely repealed in 1895, when the expenditure was 7 per cent of total State revenues.

After this experience, it was 30 years before our Legislature again seriously considered the problem of the needy aged. In 1925, an aged assistance law passed the Legislature, but was vetoed. It was not until 1929, after an intensive investigation, that the present Old Age Security Act, in its original form, was enacted. This act was not the first State aged assistance law to go into actual operation, but it did establish the present pattern in several important respects: It was the first truly state-wide law, being mandatory on the counties; and it was the first to bring in the broader tax base of a State Government to help carry the financial burden.

Major provisions of this original law were relatively few and simple:

1. County administration, with county and State dividing the cost of aid equally;
2. Seventy-year age limit;
3. Fifteen-year residence requirement;
4. Fifteen-year citizenship requirement;
5. Aid plus income from all sources could not exceed $1 per day; and
6. The applicant could not own property of more than $3,000 actual value.

Experience during the first four or five years under this act demonstrated that an adequate amount of aid could be granted without unduly burdening either counties or the State, though both caseload and cost rose rapidly. From approximately 6,000 cases in June, 1930, the number increased to 22,300 by June, 1935, from $2,213,000 in 1930-31, total aid cost multiplied to $4,965,000 for Fiscal Year 1934-35.

Congressional consideration of National legislation for the aged again brought the terms of California law under review in 1935. Anticipating the terms of the Social Security Act as it was finally enacted, the Legislature rewrote our law in order to qualify for Federal grants to meet specific National requirements. It:

1. Lowered the residence requirement to five within nine years;
2. Lowered the citizenship requirement to simple citizenship;

Over and above these requirements, however, the Legislature made further liberalizing changes not required by the Social Security Act:

1. It lowered the age limit to 65, effective September, 1935, when Federal law did not require it until 1940;
2. It changed the valuation of permitted property from actual to assessed basis, thus practically doubling the effective amount;
3. It increased the maximum grant to $35 per month, and set a minimum of $20.

The California Act was approved by the Social Security Board, and Federal grants became available in April, 1936.

The effect of these major amendments to our law were startling, even to those who had anticipated their results. By June, 1936—only 12 months after the last figure mentioned above—caseload was more than 42,000—almost double in one year; at the peak in 1940, 158,000 aged received assistance. Costs skyrocketed, from $8,000,000 in 1935-36 to $23,000,000 in 1936-37, and to a peak of $68,478,000 in 1940-41.

In 1937, the Legislature made the flat $35 grant fully effective by exempting $15 of earnings, and certain other income. The next major change was enabled by our Legislature in 1939 but made effective by the 1939 amendments to the Social Security Act. Effective January, 1940, Congress raised the maximum Federal share to $20 per case month, and it was ruled that this automatically raised the California maximum to $40 per case.

Viewed in the light of the flat grant basis established in our California law, an equally significant 1939 change in the Social Security Act was the requirement that, beginning July 1, 1941, the States should, "in determining need, take into consideration any other income and resources of an individual claiming old-age assistance." The results of this latter requirement have been discussed at length by this group, and need not be touched upon here.

This chronology of old age assistance demonstrates two things: First, California has been neither slow nor niggardly in providing for her aged indigent citizens. Generally, we have preceded other States and the Federal government in our enactments, and the average monthly grant we pay—Colorado with its generosity and its difficulties notwithstanding—has consistently provided a mark for other jurisdictions.

Second, we have not always paid sufficient attention to the obvious limitations on our own ability, within our law, to pay the assistance we grant. As witness, early in 1937, Del Norte County found it impossible to pay its aged recipients on a cash basis, and consequently for a time the Federal grant was threatened; in that same year, Los Angeles County was obliged to ask for help in meeting its administrative cost; and in 1938-39, the Legislature felt obligated to relieve the counties of $6,000,000 in aged aid costs they would otherwise have had to bear.

Reflected in terms of tax rates, the average burden on real property rose from one cent per $100 in 1930-31 to three cents in 1934-35, and 24 cents in 1940-41. Stated differently, while the total assessed valuation fell 30 per cent (10 billion dollars to 7 billion dollars), the county cost of old-age aid multiplied 1600 per cent (1 million dollars to 17 million dollars).

This chronology also would seem to demonstrate that we must approach the task before us with due regard for all of the factors involved in order to arrive at recommendations which will be equitable both to the aged and to the whole population of California, and which our economy will support under conditions far different from the present. If we fail in this, it is entirely conceivable that what happened in 1895 may repeat itself.

Suggestions of Governor Warren

The first of the fields of exploration suggested in the Governor's letter of February 25 is the sufficiency of the present pension. In connection with this matter, the Governor indicated that "we must give full consideration to the continuing advance in the cost of living and to the fact that people can not now live on $40 a month."

It would seem that no reasonable person could deny the validity of the first factor in this statement of the Governor's—that with respect to the continuing advance in the cost of living. It might well be borne in mind, however, that this advance affects not only the aged, but every citizen in California and the Nation. Despite recent sizable increases in California and National income, most citizens and taxpayers are confronted by a two-edged attack on their finances—a ceiling on income, and enormous increases in Federal taxation necessary to win the war. This is in addition to the attack on their standard of living caused by rationing and shortages of civilian supplies.

As for the second factor, that relating to the inadequacy of $40 a month, there are a number of important considerations which might properly be borne in mind. To enumerate, these are:

1. The effect of present law upon total income available to old-age assistance recipients;
2. The outlook with respect to employment for aged persons both at present, and in the future;
3. The ability of the State and counties to pay a larger grant, during and after the war, regardless of Federal participation in the addition; and
4. The possible effect of proposals for increased payments upon State and county finances.

The discussion of these matters at this point will be without consideration of Federal legislation or administration, which will be referred to later. Nor will comparisons with other States be mentioned.

1. Effect of Present Law. We have been informed that under present law, and with the consent of the Social Security Board, all recipients are now being offered, on an experimental basis, the option of having their needs budgeted, and that many of them are accepting the option. For those who accept the option, and whose grants are still less than $40, there is the possibility of increasing the budget allocation for certain items, as has been done recently in the case of food, and thus provide a larger grant. For those now receiving the full $40, apparently only legislation could enable any increase. The payment of $40 under the budget plan would seem to leave room for a considerable amount of part-time earnings from essential work.

It would seem obvious that the value of the present $40 varies wildly as between individuals, and generally, between counties. Cost indices vary even between the two metropolitan centers, and it would appear that there can be no equity, either between aged or taxpayers, in granting a disproportionate excess over a decent amount.

2. Employment Outlook for the Aged. The continued stringent lack of manpower for both agriculture and industry has greatly improved the demand for services of the aged. A recent report of the State Department of Social Welfare reveals that case closings because of earnings were five times higher for the period July-December, 1941, than they were during July-December, 1940, and we are informed that the trend is still upward. Employment Service placements of aged persons reveal the same strong trend. A question which the committee might wish to consider is, "Would an increase in the benefit amount now deter the aged from seeking employment during the National emergency?"

What employment conditions will be after the war is anybody's guess. It seems logical to presume that many aged now working will require this form of assistance, so it would seem advisable to maintain it on a basis we can afford after the war.

3. Ability to Pay a Larger Grant. This matter divides itself into two closely inter-related parts, first, the ability of the State to increase its contribution, and second, that of the counties.

With respect to State finances, much is being made of the present and prospective surplus in the General Fund. Admittedly this surplus is accumulating because of war activity. It would therefore appear exceedingly unwise to regard it as anything more than a windfall which, in the Governor's words, "constitutes a sacred trust" collected from all the people and should be expended or preserved only for uses which will redound to the benefit of all."

Certain plain facts concerning State finance are: (1) The Governor has appointed another committee, whose assigned task it is to recommend appropriate reductions in State taxes, and thus decrease the prospective surplus; (2) there are other functions of government upon which war is making great demands, and those of necessity will compete with the aged for whatever additional funds are available; and (3) our postwar financial situation is still a matter of conjecture, and it would therefore seem downright unfair to the aged as well as to our whole body politic to enact a program we could not support after the emergency.

Concerning the ability of California counties to participate in financing payment of larger grants, there also appears abundant evidence of need for extreme caution. The proposal of the Supervisors' Association that county participation in the present program be limited to a maximum of $5 per case month has been put before this committee. The fact that taxes on real and personal property are the only source of county revenue has been mentioned, and the substantial decrease in total assessments since 1930 has already been cited. We have also been informed that the removal of taxable property from the rolls by Federal acquisition for war purpose has created a problem of great magnitude.

Converting the admittedly conservative estimates of cost in the Governor's Budget to tax rates per $100 value gives another indication of the difficulties with the present program, which confront most counties. Necessary rates range from a minimum of 7 cents in King and Kern counties, through 15 cents for Marin and San Francisco, 25 cents for Los Angeles, to 55 cents for Santa Cruz and to a maximum of 74 cents for Trinity.

When we view this situation in connection with the probability that county revenues will also undergo major readjustment after the war, we can really begin to appreciate the significance of the question, "Can the counties participate in larger grants?"

4. Proposals for Expansion and Increased Payments. Members of the committee are acquainted with the various proposals submitted to it for increased grants, for expansion to cover the age 60-64 group, or for both, so there is no necessity to enumerate them here. From the foregoing, the importance of weighing these proposals in accordance with their effect on State and county costs should be apparent.

At the request of a member of the Legislature who is also a member of this committee, estimates of cost covering the Biennium 1943-45 for these proposals in their varying combinations have been prepared by the State Department of Social Welfare, and have been published in the Assembly Journal. Subject to later slight changes, these estimates reveal that, for instance, the State's share of paying $60 per month only to the group 65 and over would exceed $65 million per biennium ($32.5 million per year) as compared to approximately $33 million per biennium ($16.5 million a year) for the present program. Bringing in the 60-64 group, for which the Federal Government would not contribute, and paying only $50 per month, would increase State costs to approximately $75 million a biennium, $37.5 million per year. Similar sizeable increases in cost would be created by any other such proposals.

Using these same department estimates as a basis for considering county costs, and converting them to tax rates per $100 assessed value to make readily apparent their effect, we find that the additional burden would vary widely as between counties, and generally speaking, would strike hardest at those counties least able to pay. For example, using the cost forecast with a 60-year age limit, a $50 grant, cost divided as under present law, we find that for 1943-44 under present law Trinity County's rate would jump to $1.41 as compared to 74 cents; Santa Cruz would go to $1.04 as compared to 55 cents; Los Angeles, 48 cents as against 25; and Alameda, 34 cents as compared to 18. It might perhaps be well to give a thought to what this doubling of costs would mean to the security of the small homeowner.

With reference to the estimates of the Social Welfare Department, some doubt has been expressed on the grounds that they are too conservative, do not reflect to any extent the additional increment of cases which might be expected from certain changes, and relate principally to the next biennium, which is obscured by the war. On the thought that it might be helpful to the committee to prepare estimates taking into account these factors as far as possible, certain forecasts have been made independently. However, it is acknowledged that there is no actuarial basis upon which estimates of old-age assistance costs can be made; the best that can be prepared are only "informed guesses." Therefore, assumptions based on these estimates are merely presented by way of illustration of what might happen.

Assuming that present provisions of law were to continue, on the basis of these estimates total California old-age costs during postwar 1945-46 would total $67,000,000. State and county shares would each be slightly more than $16,000,000. Assuming, however, a $60 per month grant, the 60 year age limit, and no relatives responsibility, the total cost would approach $177,500,000, and the total State and county contribution would be $133,000,000. With the further assumption that this amount would be divided two-thirds State, one-third county, the county share would total $44,000,000. On this basis, tax rates for selected counties would be: Trinity, $2; Santa Cruz, $1.47; Alameda, 49 cents; San Francisco, 41 cents; and Los Angeles, 68 cents.

Administrative Practices

The second suggested point for investigation mentioned in the Governor's letter is the reasonableness of present administrative practices.

In connection with this matter, there are only two points which it seems advisable to raise for committee consideration. First, it is apparent that many recipients confuse the aid granted by the present program with an outright pension, and resent the investigation necessary to establish their need. Second, other States, such as Oklahoma, Texas and Ohio have had Federal old age subventions withdrawn for various periods because of maladministration; such action with respect to California for the same reason has apparently never been considered.

Eligibility—Conformity with Federal Legislation

The third point—eligibility for pension, and the fourth—"Forward Looking Legislation" committing California to immediate action if and when the Federal Government will authorize it under its social security legislation—are so closely interrelated that they will be reviewed together at this point.

In passing, however, it might be appropriate to indicate that within the fourth point, it is conceivable that this committee might be precluded from considering any proposed programs which can not be "authorized" under existing Federal social security legislation. Separately, the Governor has stated his belief that we might adopt legislation declaring our readiness to act when Congress authorizes similar action throughout the Nation, but there is no indication that our recommendations should encompass programs or provisions which might threaten stoppage of Federal aid.

The principal points concerning eligibility to which the attention of the committee has been directed are:

1. The income of an applicant from earnings;
2. The imputed value of real and personal property; and
3. The responsibility of relatives.

Each of these factors affects not only the rights of present recipients to larger grants, but also the rights of otherwise eligible nonrecipients to qualify for any grant.

From material already presented to the committee, and from our discussions, it would appear that no satisfactory solutions to these problems can be developed until we succeed in framing such questions to the Social Security Board as will elicit some understandable and firm statement as to the limits beyond which the Federal Government considers it can not go under present Federal law. It would appear useless for us to recommend legislation exempting any type of income, or repealing any requirement that certain resources be applied against the grant, as long as the Social Security Board insists that "any other income or resources" means any income or resources, regardless of derivation.

This conclusion leads to a consideration of the somewhat embarrassing plight in which the Social Security Board finds itself—a plight which probably reflects itself into our California situation. The Federal Old Age Insurance and Survivors System has not previously been referred to herein, but its existence should not be overlooked. Old age insurance is the nation-wide, permanent pension system; old age assistance is merely, and designedly so, the stop-gap program established to care for the group already aged when social security went into effect and for those not covered under the contributing program. Throughout the Nation, some 50,000,000 workers, including perhaps 3,000,000 in California, are through their own contributions slowly acquiring rights to a pension which may not average $25 for the worker, $13 for his wife. Yet, under an aged-aid system as liberal as our present California program, an aged couple without resources can qualify for $80 per month. It would take a worker earning $250 per month 35 years to qualify himself and wife to receive $80 per month under old age insurance.

The Social Security Board has a responsibility to those 50,000,000 workers to see that the insurance for which they pay and which is their right is available when due, and that the amounts they receive are not overshadowed by those paid to another class of the aged. With these facts in mind, perhaps we can appreciate as very pertinent the concern of the Social Security Board that the declared intent of Title 1 of the Social Security Act be preserved; namely, to provide assistance to the needy aged in accordance with their resources and needs, on as liberal a basis as possible.

2182. If any applicant or recipient is dissatisfied with the action of the [board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged, he shall upon filing a petition with the State [Department of] Social Welfare Board, have the right of appeal and shall be accorded an opportunity for a fair hearing. The [Social Welfare Department shall set such] appeal shall be set for hearing before the State Social Welfare Board and [shall give] all parties concerned shall be given written notice of the time and place of such hearing. At such hearing the applicant or recipient may appear in person with counsel of his own choosing or in person and without such counsel.

The State Social Welfare Board shall consider the appeal, and shall dismiss the appeal or award aid as prescribed in this chapter. The [county board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged shall then pay to such aged person the sum awarded, if any, by the State Social Welfare Board, the payments, if awarded, to commence from the date the applicant was first entitled thereto.

Payments of aid shall be commenced as of the first day of the month in which the application is granted, unless otherwise directed by the State Social Welfare Board in cases in which an appeal is taken; but in no event shall the aid commence prior to the date of application.

An applicant whose application for aid under this chapter has been rejected may not again apply for such aid until the expiration of one year from the date of the previous application, except with the consent of [the county or an order of] the State Department of Social Welfare.

If the applicant or recipient feels himself aggrieved by any decision of the State Welfare Board, he may file with the superior court of the county in which he resides, a petition, praying for a review of the entire proceedings in the matter, upon questions of law involved in the case.

SEC. 17. Section 2183 of said code is amended to read:

2183. [If the application for aid is granted, the clerk of the board of supervisors shall report the fact to the auditor of the county.] All payments of aid under this chapter shall be made monthly in advance by the [treasurer of the county] department.

[A county] The Division of State Aid to the Aged shall have a period of 90 days after the date of application within which to determine whether or not the applicant is eligible for assistance, and the aid shall be granted to him from the first day of the month in which the determination is made that he is eligible but in no event shall the aid commence prior to the date of application. If the investigation is not completed at the end of the 90-day period, the investigation shall continue until completed and if eligibility is established, aid shall begin as of the first day of the month following the end of the 90-day period.

Such payment shall be paid by warrant and shall be delivered to the applicant at his residence if he so requests. If the recipient of old age assistance is, on the testimony of reputable witnesses, found incapable of taking care of himself or his money, [upon recommendation of the board of supervisors and with the approval of the Department of Social Welfare] the aid authorized in this chapter may be paid to any responsible person acceptable to the recipient for the benefit of the recipient of this aid, but it shall be unlawful for the [board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged to order any part of the aid granted under this chapter to be paid in the form of merchandise orders for food, rent or otherwise.

[The State Department of Social shall

SEC. 16. Section 2182 of said code is amended to read:

2182. If any applicant or recipient is dissatisfied with the action of the [board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged, he shall, upon filing a petition with the State [Department of] Social Welfare Board, have the right of appeal and shall be accorded an opportunity for a fair hearing. The [Social Welfare Department shall set such] appeal shall be set for hearing before the State Social Welfare Board and [shall give] all parties concerned shall be given written notice of the time and place of such hearing. At such hearing the applicant or recipient may appear in person with counsel of his own choosing or in person and without such counsel.

The State Social Welfare Board shall consider the appeal, and shall dismiss the appeal or award aid as prescribed in this chapter. The [county board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged shall then pay to such aged person the sum awarded, if any, by the State Social Welfare Board, the payments, if awarded, to commence from the date the applicant was first entitled thereto.

Payments of aid shall be commenced as of the first day of the month in which the application is granted, unless otherwise directed by the State Social Welfare Board in cases in which an appeal is taken; but in no event shall the aid commence prior to the date of application.

An applicant whose application for aid under this chapter has been rejected may not again apply for such aid until the expiration of one year from the date of the previous application, except with the consent of [the county or an order of] the State Department of Social Welfare.

If the applicant or recipient feels himself aggrieved by any decision of the State Welfare Board, he may file with the superior court of the county in which he resides,

SEC. 17. Section 2183 of said code is amended to read:

2183. [If the application for aid is granted, the clerk of the board of supervisors shall report the fact to the auditor of the county.] All payments of aid under this chapter shall be made monthly in advance by the [treasurer of the county] department. [A county] The Division of State Aid to the Aged shall have a period of 90 days after the date of application within which to determine whether or not the applicant is eligible for assistance, and the aid shall be granted to him from the first day of the month in which the determination is made that he is eligible but in no event shall the aid commence prior to the date of application. If the investigation is not completed at the end of the 90 day period, the investigation shall continue until completed and if eligibility is established, aid shall begin as of the first day of the month following the end of the 90-day period.

Such payment shall be paid by warrant and shall be delivered to the applicant at his residence if he so requests. If the recipient of old age assistance is, on the testimony of reputable witnesses, found incapable of taking care of himself or his money. [upon recommendation of the board of supervisors and with the approval of the Department of Social Welfare] the aid authorized in this chapter may be paid to any responsible person acceptable to the recipient for the benefit of the recipient of this aid, but it shall be unlawful for the [board of supervisors] Division of State Aid to the Aged to order any part of the aid granted under this chapter to be paid in the form of merchandise orders for food, rent or otherwise.

SEC. 18. Section 2184 is added to said code, to read:

2184. Whenever a warrant for aid under this chapter has been lost or destroyed before it has been paid, the amount due thereon may be recovered by the payee by filing with the State Controller an affidavit setting forth the fact of the loss or destruction of the warrant, together with all material facts relative thereto known to the affiant, the amount, the name of the payee, and the date and number of the warrant if the same are known to the affiant. Upon receipt of the affidavit, and without the filing of any bond by the payee, the State Controller shall issue and deliver to the payee of the original warrant a duplicate warrant for the full amount of the original warrant, and the State Treasurer shall pay the duplicate warrant in lieu of the original warrant.

A warrant shall be considered to have been lost if it has been mailed, and has not been received by the addressee within 20 days after the date of mailing.

SEC. 19. Section 2186 of said code is amended to read:

2186. During such time as grants in aid are provided or made available by the United States Government for old age assistance in this State, the State Treasurer shall pay to [each county] the State Department of Social Welfare from the sums so granted (1) an amount which shall be used exclusively as old age assistance equal to one-half of the total of the sums expended therefor under this chapter, not counting so much of such expenditure with respect to any individual for any month as exceeds the maximum fixed by the United States Government in granting or making such sums available, and not counting so much of such expenditure as represents aid granted to any individual who has not attained the minimum age specified by the United States Government in granting or making such aid available; and (2) an additional amount equal to [such county's proportionate share of] any amount so granted or made available to this State by the United States Government for the costs of administering such aid, which additional amount shall be used exclusively for paying such administration costs. [The State Department of Social shall determine the portion of the amount so granted or made available for administration costs to be paid to the counties, which portion shall be not less than one-half of the amount so granted or made available. The State Department of Social Welfare shall adopt rules and regulations which shall be of uniform application for determining the proportionate shares of the respective counties of the portion so determined to be paid to such counties.]

(1) For each such person receiving the maximum amount of aid, at the monthly rate of ten dollars ($10).

(2) For each such person receiving less than the maximum amount of aid, at that monthly rate which bears such proportion to ten dollars ($10) as the amount of aid received by the person bears to the maximum amount of aid.

(b) The State Department of Social Welfare shall report monthly to the board of supervisors of each county, relative to aid to residents of the county during the preceding month, the number of applications granted, and the grants of aid changed, revoked, or suspended under this chapter by the department, together with copies of all applications received and a statement of the action of the department thereon.

(b) The State Department of Social Welfare shall then certify to the State Controller the amounts so estimated by it for each county [, reduced or increased as the case may be, by any sums by which it finds that its estimate for any prior quarter was greater or less than the amount which should have been paid to the [county] department under this chapter for such quarter, except to the extent that such sum has been applied to make the amount estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare for such prior quarter.

(c) The State Controller shall thereupon draw the necessary warrants, and prior to audit or settlement by [the State Department of Social Welfare and] the State Controller, the State Treasurer shall pay to the [treasurer of each county] State Department of Social Welfare the amount so certified.

Upon the order of the Department of Social Welfare, the amount approved for the quarter may be paid in monthly installments, and, if paid in monthly installments all necessary adjustments for the prior quarters shall be made by additions or deductions from the allowance for the first month of each new quarter or in the manner prescribed by the State Department of Social Welfare.

SENATE BILL

No. 974

INTRODUCED BY SENATOR DONNELLY

January 30, 1943

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON REVENUE AND TAXATION

An act to raise revenue and to provide for the payment of annuities therefrom.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The term "gross income" means the gross receipts of the taxpayer received as compensation for personal services and the gross receipts of the taxpayer derived from trade, business, commerce, or the sale of tangible or intangible property and including interest, dividends, discounts, rentals, royalties, fees, commissions, bonuses, or prizes or any other emoluments however designated and without any deductions on account of the cost of property sold, the cost of materials used, labor employed, taxes, royalties, interest or discount paid, or any other expenses whatsoever.

SEC. 2. When used in this act the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash.

SEC. 3. The term "State Welfare Board" means the present State Welfare Board of the State of California.

SEC. 4. The term "property" means real and/or personal property and includes stocks, bonds, and choses in action: It includes also any right, interest, or estate whatsoever in such property.

SEC. 5. The term "persons" or "companies" shall include every individual, partnership, society, unincorporated association, joint venture, group, joint-stock company, corporation, trustee, executor, administrator, trust estate, decedent's estate, trust or other entity, whether doing business for itself or in a fiduciary capacity, and whether the individuals composing it are residents or nonresidents of the United States and whether the corporation or other association is created or organized under the laws of the United States or of another jurisdiction.

SEC. 6. The term "California," when used in a geographical sense, means all areas in the State of California; and the term "employee" includes an officer of a corporation.

SEC. 7. In addition to all other excises, duties or taxes, there shall be levied, collected, and paid a premium of 2 per cent of the gross income of all persons or companies derived from any and all sources, over and above one hundred dollars ($100) for each calendar month. Such one hundred dollars ($100) shall be deducted monthly if received as wages or salary, and may be deducted on quarterly, semiannual or annual basis if derived on any other basis.

SEC. 8. The premiums imposed by this act shall be collected by the State Welfare Board and shall be paid into the treasury of the State of California and allocated to a special fund solely for the purpose of this act.

SEC. 9. The State Welfare Board may distrain any goods, chattels, or intangibles, represented by negotiable evidences of indebtedness, of any premium payer who is delinquent under this act, for the amount of all premiums, penalties and interest accrued and unpaid hereunder.

SEC. 10. The State Welfare Board shall be empowered to designate the manner and place for filing returns and payment of premiums, and shall provide such forms and instructions as may be necessary for the proper administration of this act.

SEC. 11. The premiums shall be computed on the total gross income of all persons and companies at the end of each calendar month, and a complete return must be filed with the State Welfare Board before the twentieth day of the calendar month following the month in which the premium accrues, unless no premium is due under the exemptions as provided in Section 7.

SEC. 12. All remittances of premiums imposed by this act shall be made to the place designated by the State Welfare Board on or before the twentieth day of the second month after they accrue; such returns shall be verified by the oath of the premium payer if an individual, or by oath of an officer or director, if made in behalf of a company. If made in behalf of a partnership, firm, society, unincorporated association or group, joint venture, joint-stock company, corporation, trust estate, decedent's estate, trust, or other entity, any individual delegated by such partnership, firm, society, unincorporated association or group, joint venture, joint-stock company, corporation, trust estate, decedent's estate, trust or other entity shall make the oath in behalf of the premium payer. If for any reason it is not practical for the individual premium payer to make the oath, it may be made by any duly authorized agent, who shall then be held entirely responsible for the correctness of such return.

SEC. 13. If the premium payer shall make any error in computing the premium assessable against him the State Welfare Board shall correct such error, reassess the proper amount of premium and notify the premium payer of its action by mailing to him promptly, by registered mail, return receipt requested, a copy of the corrected assessment, and any additional premium for which such premium payer may be liable shall be paid within 10 days after the receipt of such notice.

SEC. 14. If the amount already paid exceeds that which should have been paid on the basis of the premium so recomputed, the excess so paid shall be immediately refunded to the premium payer by the State Welfare Board out of the funds collected under this act. The premium payer may, at his election, apply an overpayment credit to premiums subsequently accruing hereunder.

SEC. 15. If any person having made the return and paid the premium as provided by this act feels aggrieved by any assessment so made upon him for any specified period by the State Welfare Board, he may appeal from said assessment by filing a petition in the manner provided by law.

SEC. 16. The State Welfare Board shall enforce the payment of the premiums required by this act to be paid, and shall promptly deposit in the State treasury all moneys received by it through or from the collection of such premiums.

SEC. 17. The provisions of this act shall not apply to the following persons: (1) Fraternal benefit societies, orders, or associations, or for the exclusive benefit of the members of the fraternity itself, operating under the lodge system, and providing for the payment of death, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such societies, orders, or associations, and to their dependents or beneficiaries; (2) corporations, associations, or societies organized and operated exclusively for nonprofit, religious, charitable, scientific, or educational purposes; (3) business leagues, chambers of commerce, labor organizations, boards of trade, civic leagues, and other similar organizations operated exclusively for the benefit of the community and for the promotion of social welfare, and not for commercial trading in any form, and from which no profit inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual; (4) hospitals, infirmaries, and sanatoria, from which no profit inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual; (5) amounts received under life-insurance policies and contracts paid by reason of death of the insured; (6) amounts received under property-insurance policies; (7) amounts received by any person under any accident-insurance or health-insurance policy or contract or under workmen's compensation acts or employer's liability acts, as compensation for personal injuries, death, or sickness, including also the amount of any damages or other compensation received, whether as a result of action or by private agreement between the parties on account of such personal injuries, death, or sickness; (8) amounts received by any person as compensatory damages for any tort injury to him, or his character or reputation, or received by any person as compensatory damages for any tort injury or destruction to property, whether as the result of action or by private agreement between the parties; except amounts received by any person as punitive damages for tort injury or breach-of-contract injury; (9) amounts received by any person as a benefit payment so-called or like payments by virtue of acts passed by the Congress of the United States relating thereto and disbursed to others as such benefit payment; but the State Welfare Board may by regulation require any such deductions to be set forth specifically by the taxpayer in his return: Provided, however, that exceptions, (1) to (9) inclusive, shall apply only to the gross income received from nonprofit activities.

SEC. 18. It shall be unlawful for any person to refuse to make any returns provided for in this act; or to make any false or fraudulent return, or false statements in any return with intent to defraud the State of California, or to evade the payment of the premium imposed by this act or any part thereof; or for any person to aid or abet another in any attempt to evade the payment of the premium imposed by this act or any part thereof; or for any officer or director of any company to make, or permit to be made, or any company, corporation, association, or other legal entity to make any false return, or any false statement in any return required by this act, with the intent to evade the payment of any premium hereunder. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or by imprisonment not exceeding 10 years, or both. In addition to the foregoing penalties, any person who shall knowingly swear to or verify any false or fraudulent return, or any return containing any false or fraudulent statement, shall be guilty of the offense of perjury, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished in the manner provided by law. Any corporation for which a false return, or a return containing a false statement, shall be made, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000). If the premium imposed under this act is not paid when due, there shall be added as part of the premium, interest at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent per month, from the date the premium became due until it is paid.

SEC. 19. There is hereby created an account of the treasury of the State of California to be known as the General Welfare Account, hereinafter referred to as the "account." There are hereby authorized to be appropriated annually amounts equal to the estimated revenue derived under this act. On the twentieth day of the month succeeding the month in which this act is enacted, and on the twentieth day of each calendar month thereafter, there shall be credited to the account a sum equal to the amount of revenue to be collected under the provisions of this act, as indicated by the returns filed during the preceding calendar month. Such sums shall be available for making the payments as hereinafter provided. The State Treasurer shall submit annually to the State Welfare Board an estimate of the appropriations to be credited to the account.

SEC. 20. Amounts estimated by the State Treasurer to be necessary for monthly expenditures in the administration of this act shall be deducted from amounts credited to the account each month. The remaining amount credited to the account for each month shall be prorated and paid monthly to each qualified annuitant for the first month after the amounts are credited to the account except that no payment shall exceed one hundred dollars ($100) for any one month. Any surplus remaining in the account after the maximum monthly payments are made to each such annuitant shall be applied toward the liquidation of the State debt, if any exists, until the State debt is paid, after which it shall go into the General Fund of the State.

SEC. 21. Every citizen who is 60 years of age or over, and every physically incapacitated person unable to sustain himself, shall, upon filing an application under such as hereinafter provided, be entitled to receive an annuity payable in monthly installments during the remainder of his life, or until he is physically able to sustain himself.

SEC. 22. (a) The annuity shall be spent within California for goods or services (except gambling), giving preference to commodities grown, produced, or manufactured within California and for services rendered by citizens of the United States in the State of California.

(b) Each installment of the annuity shall be spent by the annuitant within 30 days of the time of its receipt.

(c) An annuitant shall not engage in any occupation, business, or other activity from which a profit, wage, or other compensation is realized or attempted, except that nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit an annuitant from collecting interest, rents, or other revenues from his own investments. No annuitant shall support an able-bodied person in idleness except a spouse. No annuity shall be paid to any person for any period that such person is forcibly confined in a penal institution or an institution for mental incompetents, and no person shall be entitled to an annuity when released, until a new application is approved for him.

(d) Any annuitant may waive all or any part of his right to an annuity under this act by filing a notice thereof with the State Welfare Board in such manner as it shall prescribe. Any such waiver shall not affect the right of any person to apply for an annuity at any time thereafter.

(e) Any sum received by an annuitant which represents the proceeds of a sale of any real property acquired through the use of money received as an annuity under this act shall be expended by the annuitant within six months after the receipt of such proceeds of such a sale.

(f) An annuitant shall not pay to any person any salary, wages, or other compensation in disproportion to the services rendered.

(g) It shall be the duty of each annuitant while receiving an annuity to pay his just obligations for purchases, rents, or services rendered, and to pay at least 10 per centum of any monthly installment on just obligations incurred before such annuitant received any money under this act.

(h) Each annuitant shall covenant and agree in his application for an annuity to comply with all the provisions of this act and all rules and regulations prescribed by the State Welfare Board to carry out the provisions of this act.

SEC. 23. (a) Payments of the amounts due to each annuitant under this act shall be made at regular monthly intervals so that the payments will be in possession of each annuitant as near the first day of each month as possible.

(b) The State Welfare Board shall furnish application blanks and other necessary forms to their branch offices, for distribution to persons who wish to apply for benefits under this act.

(c) Applications for annuities and any returns required to be made by an annuitant may be filed in local State Welfare Board offices and forwarded by them to the State Welfare Board. Welfare Board employees designated by them and notaries public shall have power to administer oaths where required under this act and may collect a fee of twenty-five cents ($0.25).

SEC. 24. (a) State Welfare Board is authorized and directed to prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act.

(b) The State Welfare Board is hereby empowered to call upon other departments or agencies of the State to aid in the administration of this act.

(c) The State Treasurer is also empowered to make adjustments with respect to the time in which installments shall be expended in case payments to any person may have been delayed and there is an accumulation of two or more installments.

SEC. 25. The right to receive any payment under this act shall not be transferable or assignable, at law or in equity, and none of the moneys paid or payable or rights existing under this title shall be subject to execution, levy, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process, or to the operation of any bankruptcy or insolvency law.

SEC. 26. Whenever any person, in an application or when making a payment under this act knowingly or wilfully makes a false statement of a material fact, or fails or refuses to obey any rule, or regulation, issued by the State Welfare Board under this act, or violates any provision of this act, shall be prosecuted by the Attorney General in the court in the county in which the offense occurred, and upon conviction the annuitant shall forfeit for the remainder of his life one-fourth of the annuity to which he would otherwise be entitled each month, but shall suffer no other penalty, regardless of the number of counts on which he was convicted. Upon a subsequent commission and conviction for such misdemeanor he shall forfeit an additional one-fourth of the annuity to which he would otherwise have been entitled, for a third conviction, another one-fourth, and for a fourth conviction he shall forfeit entirely his right to any annuity under the terms of this act.

SEC. 27. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of the act are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict.

SEC. 28. Any person who accepts an annuity under this act shall not be entitled, for any period that such annuity is received, to any pension, unemployment insurance, or other benefit to which he would otherwise be entitled under State law.

SEC. 29. If any part of this act is held to be unconstitutional, it shall not affect the validity of any other part of this act.

January 26, 1943

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON WELFARE AND INSTITUTIONS

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 12—A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State by adding Article XVIa thereto, relating to pensions.

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring. That the Legislature of the State of California, at its Fifty-fifth Regular Session commencing on the fourth day of January, 1943, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses of the Legislature voting therefor, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that the Constitution of the State be amended by adding Article XVIa thereto, to read:

Article XVIa

Pensions

Section 1. The Legislature shall have power to provide for the payment of pensions to disabled or aged citizens of the United States who reside in this State, and who have such qualifications in respect to age, length and place of residence, property holdings, and income, as the Legislature may prescribe. The Legislature shall have power to provide by taxation the necessary funds for the payment of such pensions, whether such pensions are paid by the State, or by the Federal Government and the State jointly.

Sec. 2. If the Federal Government establishes a uniform Nation-wide retirement system of old-age pensions for citizens of the United States not less in amount than the pensions provided by the State of California, such National pensions shall be in lieu of the State pension provided pursuant to this article; but if a National pension is provided in an amount less than the amount of the pension provided by the laws of the State of California, the Legislature shall provide for the payment of the difference between the amount of the National pension and the amount of the pension provided by State law, such payments to be administered and the conditions of eligibility therefor to be as provided in this article.

Sec. 3. No applicant for or recipient of a pension shall be denied a pension because of the property holdings or income of any other person, whether child, spouse, or other relative, of the applicant or recipient, or because of any provision of law requiring any such relative to support the applicant or recipient, or because of the financial ability of any such relative to support the applicant or recipient.

Sec. 4. Any recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article shall be permitted to own, hold, or convey to others real estate, cash, or other personal property in such amount as the Legislature shall provide, without thereby becoming ineligible to receive the pension.

Sec. 5. Any recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article may receive remuneration for his labor or services, or rentals of property owned by him, in any amount provided by the Legislature, without thereby becoming ineligible to receive the pension.

Sec. 6. Any legislation providing pensions pursuant to this article shall be administered by a department established for that purpose, which shall be separate and distinct from any agency or organization engaged in the administration of laws governing the distribution of public or private charity. Any citizens' pension provided pursuant to this article shall be deemed a right accorded to citizens by virtue of their status as citizens, and the receipt thereof shall never be considered as an act of indigency or pauperism, nor shall any legislation granting such a pension be deemed to be nor administered as legislation providing aid to indigents or paupers.

Sec. 7. No pension granted to a citizen under legislation pursuant to this article shall be terminated except by the death of the pensioner, nor shall the amount of any such pension be reduced, until the pensioner has been granted a hearing before a court of record in the county in which he resides, and accorded full opportunity to defend his right to continue to receive the pension in the amount which has been granted.

Sec. 7.5. Any applicant for or recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article who feels that he has been discriminated against by reason of any ruling by any administrative officer or body empowered by law to administer laws enacted pursuant to this article shall have the right, upon cause shown, to obtain a writ of review from any court of record in the county in which he resided at the time the action complained of occurred, and to have the question or questions judicially determined and proper relief granted.

Sec. 8. No grant of a pension to an aged person, or the enjoyment of a pension, shall create the relationship of debtor and creditor between a pensioner and the State of California, or any political subdivision of the State, save where the pension has been obtained by fraud. When a pension has been obtained by fraud, action may be maintained against the recipient, in such manner, and the person who obtained the pension fraudulently shall be subject to such penalties, as the Legislature may provide.

Sec. 9. No action shall be hereafter maintained in any court of the State of California against any person for the recovery of any sums heretofore or hereafter paid as a pension pursuant to this article, or as old-age assistance, except to recover such pensions or such assistance obtained by fraud.

Age Pension Stabilization Proposal Submitted to Governor Warren's Committee on Age Pensions

We quote Governor Warren from his statement of October 4, 1942:

The senior citizens of California have been deceived and misled long enough. They are entitled to pensions, not as a charity or a dole, but as a matter of right—as something they have earned in their productive years by their contributions to the upbuilding of the community. I do not believe a senior citizen should have to be in need in order to secure a pension. I do not believe he should be forced to relinquish any outside income he may have or any property he may have acquired. I don't believe he should be forced first to look to his children for support. I do not believe that a pension should be longer considered or called "Old Age Charitable Relief."

It is not just the number of years people have lived that should determine their right to a pension, because many people are efficient and able to work to very advanced ages, but rather the limit beyond which they are not permitted to obtain productive employment because of the stern dictates of a machine age. In order to be both realistic and humane, therefore, we must proceed upon the theory that a system which arbitrarily freezes people out of industry and declares them to be obsolete, merely because they have lived a fixed number of years, must make honorable provision for their support during the years of their enforced idleness.

The State of California must proceed upon this principle, and in doing so adopt a new policy of promptness, courtesy and cooperation in dealing with its citizens who are entitled to pensions.

We quote from Governor Warren's address to the Associated General Contractors, Palace Hotel, San Francisco, December 11, 1942:

We must provide a job with good living wages for every person wanting work; and from the abundance these enthusiastic workers produce provide adequate pensions for those unable to work.

* * * I am creating in California a scientifically planned model State, after which the Nation and the world may pattern.

and again from the Governor's statement of February 17, 1943, given at the time of the naming of this committee:

Every thinking person must realize that old age security is our most fundamental social problem and that an industrial system which arbitrarily rules out productive employment because of age and irrespective of fitness must provide an honorable means of livelihood in lieu thereof.

GENTLEMEN: We are face to face with an economic, social, financial situation that is without parallel or precedent. It was born years ago. It grows apace. The business sag of the thirties which generated the acuteness of our social problems of unemployment and old age, has been temporarily offset in the forties by a stupendous pouring out of Federal Government tax financed war material and supply orders which are now supporting the California economy to the extent of around $10,000,000,000, so far.

Many of our younger people are out of private life now and in the services. We have less unemployment and more people on pay rolls than in any previous period. Less employable people but more people employed. For the first time women are being employed extensively in all crafts; they will not return to the kitchen voluntarily.

The 45 year hiring age limit which previously prevailed has been pigeonholed for the duration so that any man or woman who can walk without crutches may now find a place on the production line. Employment is still increasing. Unemployment is at low tide. The needy unemployment and old age case load is at a bottom below which it probably can not further recede, but prices and the cost of living are increasing despite all efforts at stabilization.

Every citizen of every age and of every employment or unemployment classification now carries a ration book in one pocket and a purse, we hope, in the other. Such goods as are available for civilian use are thus universally advertised as available to every person regardless of his or her financial status. Each has his basic ration, theoretically.

If we deal with old age aid as aid and not as pensions as a matter of right, we do so without reckoning the political and economic implications and the consequences which will follow almost before tomorrow's sunrise.

We have only about 150,000 persons in and above the 65-year age bracket reduced to pauperism, for whatever reasons, who are now being supplied out of tax moneys at an official rate of $40 per month per person. This involves total tax money in the estimated amount of $65,000,000 per 12 months, $32,500,000 of which is Federal, $16,300,000 State and $16,200,000 county.

The cost of decent mere-existence for these people—even without anticipating further price increases—demands 50 or 100 per cent increase—all or nearly all of which would have to be raised out of State and county taxes because of the Federal aid contribution limit of $20 per person per month—a total of not less than $200,000,000 for the 1943-45 biennium—and that at the lowest case load point which may be by any means anticipated. What then of those under 65; what of those frozen out of their jobs in their late forties? What of those between 45 and 65 who, at the moment, find a few short months of temporary employment in war or allied work?

What of those younger men and women whom we hope will soon be returning from the services in high hopes for their peacetime future? Shall we, by the recommendations of this committee, deal with upper-age abject poverty and again postpone the inevitable day of financial and political reckoning with the basic realities of the problem?

We submit that the solution either to the immediate present or to the immediate future problem is not to be found in any further raids upon the taxpayers. That cow is well nigh dry.

With the present demonstration of full employment resulting almost exclusively from Federal war orders, we ask also from the standpoint of industry, agriculture and business—where are the orders for produce and product to come from to replace the inevitable recession of war-generated orders which at the moment reduce our unemployment and our social case load to the present lows?

Far from any hope for reductions in the tax burden which social displacements have engendered the present burden must shortly become not only intolerable to the average taxpayer, but an insuperable impediment to private enterprise and to competitive trade intercourse with low standard areas in America or abroad.

Cost of production efficiencies brought forth by the remarkable intelligence of the workman, the engineer, the scientist and of management must not and need not be canceled out by a system of taxes, tax assessments and tax accounting constantly aggravated by old age unemployed people who are the end product of those very efficiencies.

The way is simple enough. It leads to placing age pensions on the assets side of the taxpayers' ledger instead of on the liabilities side. The Payroll Guarantee Association, whom I represent, proposes:

1. That private enterprise, public works and government shall employ as many people as in their judgment may be required for the efficient conduct of such undertaking; that employment preference be given to younger men and women.

2. That those remaining after manpower demands have been satisfied will be men and women who temporarily or permanently have been functionally disqualified and arbitrarily frozen out as unemployable for reasons of age or disability.

3. That all unemployed who have resided in California for some prescribed duration shall be granted pensions.

4. That since responsibility for disemployment does not necessarily rest with the applicant no burden of proof of his right to a pension shall exceed his or her affidavit as to residence requirements and that weekly application to the nearest employment office for employment suitable to his or her qualifications has resulted in no employment during the four weeks immediately preceding his or her original application for pension.

5. We propose that pensions should be of two classes—temporary and permanent.

6. That pension payments must at all times represent purchasing power equivalent to $20 a week at the price level which prevailed in January, 1942, as determined by Heller Reports, University of California, United States Department of Labor and other recognized statistical authority.

7. That "permanent" irrevocable pensions shall begin at an arbitrary age which is five years above the prevailing employment age level established by industrial practice.

8. That "temporary" pensions shall begin at the arbitrary permanent age and be reduced automatically by units of six months each as, for example, from age 50 to age 49 years and six months—then to age 49 years and so on down until the number of applicants for pensions whose age is below the current temporary pension age bottom exceeds the total number of men and women in the next succeeding lower six months age group.

9. That as and when demands for manpower exceed the supply of available workers then those temporary pension recipients in the lowest six months age group whose qualifications for work are in demand shall be obligated to accept such employment and be stricken from the pension rolls with the privilege of being returned to the pension rolls immediately upon further cessation of their work assignment.

10. That all paid employment shall be reserved as opportunities for younger people. That pensions must be really adequate and that pension recipients be required to abstain from odd-job extra income except in periods officially declared to be of public emergency.

11. We strongly emphasize that California should not be made a mecca for the elders of other areas but that it should be operated as a safe haven for those whose extended years of residence and service in this State yet finds them without further opportunity for productive earnings.

- 12.—We submit that such a program by stabilizing basic income will at once stabilize not only the social but more particularly the economic environment so necessary to the health of sound industrial, agricultural and business development.

- 13.—We propose that such a stabilization program be financed by a line of credit which the State of California will establish with the banks of California and that this Stabilization Exchange Fund shall be used exclusively for the payment of pensions.

- 14.—We propose that an account shall be opened in the nearest bank for each pension recipient and that the State shall "deposit" to the account of each pension recipient each week, the amount of the pension due for that week.

15—We propose that each pension recipient shall draw "Stabilization exchange checks" on his account in bank in payment for his supplies and that his stabilization account will then be debited to the account of the pension recipient and credited to the merchant, the landlord or the supplier in whose favor the pensioner's check is drawn.

16—We propose that the merchant will then draw "Stabilization checks" against his "Stabilization exchange account" in settlement of his bills payable and so on.

17—We propose that receipts of "Stabilization exchange" shall not be regarded as income and not subject to income taxes and that merchandise distributed by means of stabilization exchange shall not be subject to sales or use or excise taxes.

18—We propose that the bank shall debit each private "Stabilization exchange" account 2 per cent and credit the State stabilization exchange account 2 per cent at the close of business on some prescribed day each week to the end that all drafts by the State on its line of "Stabilization credit" at bank shall be liquidated and canceled out 50 weeks after the drafts are made.

19—We propose that by this method all financial costs of pensions are in effect paid out of the business generated by pensions and not out of taxes assessed against real or personal property and not out of taxes assessed against sales or ordinary income.

20—We propose the example of a grocer who takes $100 worth of stabilization exchange checks. Assuming that he does not immediately transfer this credit to his wholesaler or other supplier, the grocer's account at bank would be debited 2 per cent at the fiscal week end. The grocer has transferred $100 of merchandise at an expense of $2. If the grocer does transfer the $100 credit to his wholesaler within the week then the 2 per cent debit would be charged to the account of the wholesaler and $100 at retail and another $100 at wholesale of business will have been done for a total cost of $2 or an average of 1 per cent on the turnover. Let this occur once each week for the ensuing year and the total debits at 2 per cent weekly will cancel out the credit while in that same period that $100 worth of stabilization credit, passing from merchant to wholesaler to farmer to merchant, will account for the transfer to $50,000 worth of goods and services and each merchant or farmer has enjoyed whatever his profit markup is, minus 2 per cent.

21—We propose that this method will take care of the immediate need on a matter of right basis and thus meet Governor Warren's objective and not on a dole or charity basis, which must be abhorrent to every American. We propose further that this method holds the answer to where are the orders to come from to take the place of the soon-to-end government war orders which now sustain our economy.

22—We ask bold foresight in the matter of a million or more people who will be looking for nonexistent jobs in California at war's end—people with ration books but little or no money left over.

MARCH 18TH, 1943

To the Members of the Fifty-fifth Legislature of the State of California

Statement

For the past two years the members of the board of trustees of the Citizens' Committee on Old Age Pensions have been engaged in an active exploration of conditions surrounding the lives of old age pensioners of California. By word of mouth and by thousands of letters the senior citizens have told us of the way of their lives, not in the spirit of complaint but with the seasoned courage to meet every condition which may confront them. They have even smiled at the telling of their efforts to stretch their small incomes to win the comforts of life.

We have discussed with these senior citizens the difficulties they have met as old age pensioners and we are in possession of the facts. These difficulties do not all arise from the limited amount of pension payments. They must also carry the mental burden of worry over trying provisions of existing law. They have been harassed and even persecuted by unfeeling social welfare visitors whose sole qualifications are political pull for county appointments. The cause of old age pensions has too long been a football in the political arena of local governments. Anyone who has been in personal touch with these old age pensioners must realize the demand for a change in the administration of the law.

A Prayer

In the name of thousands of old age pensioners throughout the State we beg consideration for their present condition and action looking to their immediate relief.

We respectfully represent that 50 per cent or more of the $40 monthly income of the old age pensioners of California goes to the purchase of foodstuffs. We represent, and challenge successful contradiction, that a dollar today in California will buy not more than half as much human food as it would two years ago.

We represent that the Federal Government surplus commodity food stamps, which enabled the old age pensioners of California to purchase half as much food again with their dollar, have been withdrawn.

We represent that the ever increasing cost of living and the withdrawal of the surplus commodity food stamps, has reduced these old age pensioners of California to a starvation diet which they can not long survive.

Responsibility for their immediate relief rests with the State. This can be accomplished through urgency legislation increasing the amount of pension payments, and to take effect not later than April 1, 1943.

We pray that in the name of the people of the State of California, you share in the enactment of such legislation as a temporary measure of relief. We feel that you will do your part.

Permanent Legislation

The old age pension system of California can be put upon a humane and adequate basis through simple amendments to existing law. There is no present need to resort to any scheme for raising additional money. It is well within the ability of the State to meet larger payments for old age pensions. Governor Warren has stated that in these days people can not live on $40 a month. Then there is nothing left to do except for the State to increase its contribution to the payment of old age pensions. There is no alternative in the liberal State of California.

Sixty Dollars a Month

Our study of conditions has convinced us that an old age pension payment of $60 a month should be provided. It is true that in these days of higher costs this sum will afford only a skimpy living for the modest demands of these older people, but it is to be hoped that conditions will change with the coming of peace. It is also to be considered that under changes in existing laws the old age pensioners of California who still possess the physical strength, will be permitted to augment their income by casual employment. In normal times a total payment of $60 a month is the lowest possible sum to maintain an old age pensioner in reasonable comfort and investigations that might last over years would prove nothing to the contrary.

Sixty Years of Age

Private industry, as though by stated agreement, has adopted a rule that it will give employment to no person who is 40 years old or more. In some respects this rule has been relaxed in the quest for manpower for wartime activity, but in many of the war industries it is still strictly enforced. The same rule is frequently invoked in civil service and other governmental agencies. If it runs against a man or woman 40 years old, how much stronger must it run against a person 60 years old?

Making persons 60 years old and upward eligible for old age pensions does not necessarily mean crowding of the pension rolls. It has been proved that men and women who can obtain employment carry on as long as they are physically and mentally capable of holding their jobs. Reducing the age eligibility to 60 years merely provides for those who would otherwise be subjects of public charity and therefore adds no great burden to the taxpayers of the State.

Responsible Relatives

There is a provision in existing law in California that the sons and daughters of recipients of old age pensions can be held legally responsible for contributions toward the payment of these pensions in accordance with their ability to pay. Our research reveals that in most cases where children are able to pay they willingly support their parents and will not permit them to apply for old age pensions. In any event, this provision of law yields but an insignificant sum toward the payment of old age pensions and with the high cost of sniping by an army of welfare workers, is an added expense to the taxpayers. It has been a source of harassment and persecution both to old age pensioners and their children. It is a noxious provision of the law and should be repealed.

Administration of Counties

Administration of the Old Age Security Law by the county governments of the State has proved a costly mistake. It should be returned to the State, where it rightfully belongs, in order to give an even administration of the law.

Administration of the Social Security Laws by the counties has injected local politics into the situation and has built up an army of tax-eating so-called welfare visitors whose competency is measured solely by their political influence. The consequence has been petty and despotic practices on the part of many of these political favorites and has brought downright misery to thousands of old age pensioners. An even administration of the law can only be conducted through a State agency. This reform is strongly recommended.

Conclusion

Provision that the State shall grant $100 for funeral and burial expenses of old age pensioners whose estate will not take care of such expense, is simply a humane provision of law. Reissue of lost checks will prevent unnecessary hardships. Opening of records to old age pensioners or their authorized agents merely gives them the opportunity to correct faulty records.

We have outlined for the members of your honorable body the major reforms which we believe to be necessary to the establishment in California of a humane and adequate form of old age pension relief. We have made to you our prayer for immediate relief of thousands of the aged, infirm and helpless who find themselves face to face to starvation and with the fear of the morrow ever present in their hearts. We ask you to accept our testimony as the truth, and the whole truth, and to use your best judgment in the ameliorating of a condition affecting our aged citizens which can not be permitted to persist in our great and liberal State.

We beg leave to subscribe ourselves

Respectfully,

"The Only Way to Prosperity"

California Prosperity Plan

AN AMERICAN PLAN FOR AMERICAN PEOPLE

No Obligation on the Part of the State

Self Liquidating—Self Redeeming
Prosperity for All—Poverty for None!

SECURITY A BIRTHRIGHT

Sponsored by

PROSPERITY LEAGUE OF AMERICA

307 S. Hill Street, Los Angeles, California

California Prosperity Plan Fully Explained
Self-Liquidating Credits Offer Easy Solution

THE PREMISE

The Prosperity League of America recognizes the principle that the American Nation is not only virtually self-sustaining, but in a position to produce the necessities and luxuries of life in abundant degree for all its citizens, provided a method of enabling their distribution could be developed.

It further accepts the principle that the distribution of goods, merchandise and services has been obstructed by a slowing up of the circulation of money, and the restriction of credits, thus reducing the Nation's purchasing power.

THE PROSPERITY PLAN

It is proposed that the State, by an act of Legislature, put into immediate effect the California Prosperity Plan whereby every (American citizen) man or woman, 21 years or over, shall receive a credit in the bank of $100 each month. Such credit shall be authorized by the State of California, and shall be liquidated by a self-redeeming method described herein.

That the Governor shall appoint commissioners in the respective communities throughout the State for the purpose of registering every man and woman eligible for such credit. That upon the qualification of the applicant, the local commissioner shall issue a signed order authorizing a bank, selected by the applicant, to credit to the account of the applicant, the sum of $100 per month for a period of 48 months. The applicant may then draw upon said account by check, in any denominations up to the amount of $100, monthly.

When each prosperity credit is granted, the bank shall open up a "special prosperity account" for this purpose, in a separate ledger or set of ledgers, so that all transactions in prosperity credits can be kept separate from all ordinary cash and credit transactions. The bank will also open similar accounts for each individual, merchant, manufacturer, corporation, or any other body of men or organizations or associations, on request, so that prosperity checks accepted by them may and shall be deposited in such separate accounts.

For the purpose of writing checks, or drawing upon such prosperity bank credits or accounts, the State shall cause to be printed and issued a special red, white and blue prosperity check, form or blank. Each time a citizen shall draw upon his account, he shall be obliged to use such red, white and blue checks for that purpose, and the same applies to merchants, business firms, individuals, etc., who receive same in exchange for merchandise, services, etc.

LIQUIDATION OF ACCOUNTS

At the end of each calendar month—the bank—which is to say all the banks of the State considered jointly—shall charge each depositor 2 per cent of the total deposits or credits made during the month in his prosperity account.

But, however, this charge must be paid in ordinary credits or cash, and shall not be considered interest, commission or otherwise, but a return of principal to the State for the purpose of creating a redemption or liquidating fund.

Since ordinary credits turn over at the rate of five times per month, it can be expected that prosperity credits shall turn over at least five times monthly if not faster, since these credits will be used for spending purposes, in the purchase and turnover of consumption goods.

The banks will, therefore, collect for the account of the State each month, through this turn-over, 10 per cent of all outstanding credits, or $10 for each $100 of credit money in circulation. In 12 months, if all credits were allowed to circulate, the State would have received 120 per cent of the amount of each individual month's credit issue.

In round figures, there being approximately 4,000,000 adult citizens of 21 years and over, the State would have put into circulation $400,000,000 in prosperity credits each month.

However, to permit the assimilation of the credits by business and industry and to further permit the absorption of unemployed workers, the State would probably decide to apply its accrued collections for the liquidation of the prosperity credit accounts two or three months after the first month's issue. Millions of dollars would have been received, and these could be applied on a sliding scale to wipe out the credits.

There would be a sufficient surplus or revenue to operate the State without it being necessary to derive a single dollar through taxation of any kind, or from any other source whatever. This would eliminate all State taxes.

It would permit the State to go on a cash basis and stay there. There would be a substantial amount to apply on the State deficit. The repayment of the loans or credits would have been accomplished through a small, painless 2 per cent on transactions.

At the end of the four-year period, the State can stop issuing prosperity credits, and allow a 12 months redemption period for the credits outstanding, paying back to the last holders the full amount in ordinary cash or credit. It could then determine by a vote of the people or their representatives, whether or not it wishes to continue the plan.

During the operation of the plan, the banks would be paid as compensation for acting as depositories, a fair and equitable service charge, to be mutually agreed upon between the banks and the State.

The advantage of this plan is that it is self-liquidating. It permits the restoration of purchasing power without the necessity of the State going farther into debt in order to catch up with unemployment, and it is the only way the State can work its way out of its deficit.

Under this plan, every man or woman may earn all that he or she can in addition to his or her $100 monthly prosperity credits, for in no way will it interfere with their present or future income. The plan is not designed to supplant or disturb our ordinary credit currency system. It will not set aside or interfere with the profit system.

To be eligible for the credit, each applicant must be regularly employed, unless he or she be at least 50 years of age, an invalid, or a housewife. If the applicant is not employed, he or she shall be obliged to work for the State, at such type of employment the State shall designate. Such work will be furnished by the State, but at lesser wages than those paid by industry.

It shall be specifically understood that no one shall be compelled to work who can furnish satisfactory evidence of their incapacity or physical deformity, or anyone over the age of 50, or any married woman who has a husband or children.

But it shall be specifically understood that every able bodied man under the age of 50 shall be expected to work, and a regular certificate of employment shall be required of the borrower each month, which shall be inspected by the commissioners in each district.

If the applicant refuses to work, he or she shall be denied the prosperity credit, which shall be a most effective penalty for preventing idleness. Those who are habitual drunkards or users of narcotics shall not be eligible for the credit until they have been cured of their habit, and their cure certified to by a city or State physician.

The plan will also be an inducement to criminals to "go straight" since they would forfeit their right to the credit through habitual criminality. Those discharged from our penitentiaries and other institutions would have a place in the scheme of things, and would not be obliged to return to their criminal pursuits in order to exist, through inability to obtain employment.

It will be impossible to hoard any of the prosperity credits, as they will incur a levy or deduction of 2 per cent each month. If, for example, your monthly credit is not spent immediately, there will be no penalty apart from this 2 per cent charge. But in this way the State is assured of always receiving a sufficient return to liquidate every dollar put into circulation. However, where the credit is put into circulation, the State receives its redemption fund much faster due to the "turnover."

The only benefit the State receives is the surplus left over, at the end of each year, which shall be used for operating the State and wiping out any existing indebtedness.

While this idea may seem almost unbelievable at first thought and too good to be true, it merely puts into application some simple, fundamental and well-known principles of arithmetic and finance, but employs to the advantage of the State and the whole people, instead of a chosen few.

Obviously the plan will make business better almost immediately, and should create sufficient jobs in ordinary business and industry for every man or woman capable or desirous of working. The State will allow each person a reasonable period of time (not exceeding 45 days) in which to find regular employment before obliging them to accept work furnished by the State, in order to promote the greatest degree of satisfaction and fitness.

This program is not merely one of "goals desired," but a specific provision of the ways and means to place into immediate operation a plan which has been analyzed and should be endorsed and approved by bankers, business men, credit houses, expert accountants, economists, advertising and merchandising experts, as it is "foolproof" in every particular.

SUMMATION OF BENEFITS

By increasing the State's purchasing power, through the medium of the self-liquidating prosperity plan, the following summation of benefits to be derived is respectfully offered as being possible of fulfillment:

A—The prosperity plan will prevent criminality, as all habitual criminals will lose their rights to receive prosperity credits.

B—It will eliminate poorhouses, as each person will receive a definite income and there will be no need for poorhouses.

C—It will eliminate charitable institutions of every kind, including welfare organizations, county hospitals, and all relief organizations.

D—It will protect thousands of girls now out of a job and in desperate need, thereby raising the moral standards of the State.

E—It will relieve all present burdens of the cities and municipalities to carry the tremendous load of taking care of those in need.

F—It will make it possible for parents now depending on their children to be self-supporting.

G—It will make it possible for children now depending on their parents to be self-supporting.

H—It will raise the present standard of living and treat all alike.

I—It will eliminate the various taxes from the shoulders of the manufacturers and producers, so they in turn can put more money into circulation and increase labor.

J—It will put the State on a cash basis and will make it possible for every man and woman to purchase the things that he or she wanted and could not have.

K—It will make it possible for anyone with a family desiring to acquire a little ranch or to build a home, to pay for it out of these monthly credits, without affecting their regular income.

L—It will increase life insurance as it will give each one the assurance that they can pay the premiums when due.

M—It will eliminate taxation, stimulate business, stabilize the State, normalize the people, and make all happy and contented, without them being obliged to "beg" for their very existence, from a State which has more wealth and natural resources than any other State in the Union.

N—It will make it possible for the farmers who have been paid to "under plow" their farms, to go back into production so that every man, woman, and child can have all they want to eat and to wear, instead of denying it to them and putting a premium on the curtailment of production.

O—It will put a premium on honesty, and a penalty on crime. It will put a premium on morality and a penalty on vice. It will start turning the wheels of industry to produce the additional items necessary to absorb the $400,000,000 placed into circulation each month.

P—It will increase marriages and encourage larger families, as everyone desiring larger families will be assured of a definite income to care for and educate these children.

Q—It will protect widows and orphans so that they will not become a charge on the State.

R—It will stabilize real estate, and fill up vacant houses, factories and office buildings. It will give a prisoner leaving the penitentiary an opportunity to start life all over again, and it will provide for his family while he is serving his sentence and paying his debt to society.

S—It will not inflate prices. On the contrary, it will stabilize them. It will save the State millions of dollars annually now paid out in interest on the outstanding obligation. It will not interfere with industry, it should increase profits of industry by removing the present tax and by increasing the volume of business at the rate of $400,000,000 per month.

T—It does not soak the rich nor the poor, but divides the burden equally and equitably. It is self-liquidating and self-redeemable through the income of 2 per cent per month from four million people revolving at the rate of five turnovers per month.

U—It will help finance wars, if necessary to protect our country, and will prevent wars by eliminating the need for them. It does not in any way interfere with the present currency, or cause any change in the present monetary system.

V—It will not affect the outstanding bonds or obligations of the State. On the contrary, it will strengthen the value of such bonds and securities.

W—It will have a tendency to eliminate radicalism, of which we hear so much lately, as radicalism is caused mainly by economic conditions that deny a man the opportunity of earning a livelihood to sustain himself and family, through no fault of his own.

X—It will protect the crippled and the homeless, help the church and the minister, support institutions, lodges, fraternities, and other organizations.

Y—It is not confined to old age or middle age. It is a plan for all of the people of this State, designed to prevent suffering and poverty in a State of plenty.

Z—Prosperity credits will not be subject to attachment or liens, judgments or any debts created prior to the issuance of the prosperity credits.

What this State is in need of is a better understanding of arithmetic.

DISTRIBUTION OF INCOME AND PRODUCTION

Intelligent people who advocate "spreading" or "sharing the wealth" really mean increasing and sharing the production and income of the Nation.

By production is meant the goods, merchandise and services created by the farms, factories, mines, mills, and fisheries of the country. It also means the entertainment provided by the theatres, the services of the doctor, dentist, nurse, attorney, accountant, advertising man, etc.

A man on a desert island with a barrel of gold would be in a sad fix indeed, and would soon be willing to trade his whole barrel for a good cow, or a laying hen. If he were marooned on an ice floe, he would probably favor a fur coat, or a good boat.

These are simple, fundamental facts which we sometimes forget in our eagerness to remedy conditions as we see them about us. We forget the simple rules and tables of our arithmetic and algebra, if we do not have occasion to use them, often.

Therefore any plan to divide up existing wealth accomplishes no worthwhile purpose or permanent results, and—

We could even go so far as to say that the man who promises you to divide up the wealth of the country would also promise you a cow, if you were on the island, or the coat if you were on an ice floe. For either he is not sincere, or he is not sound. Either he seeks to win your vote, or your barrel of gold, or he has not investigated to find out if there are any cows, coats or boats in the vicinity.

If, for example, the $5,000,000,000 in money which exists in the United States were divided up, each person would receive something like $41.66. One payment on his back rent, and it would be gone. He would be as bad off as he was before.

If we decided to divide up all the property, stocks, bonds, factories, locomotives, automobiles, farms, mines, etc., while we would have a total of $300,000,000,000, thus giving each person a bookkeeping interest of around $2,400, nevertheless, to actually utilize such wealth, it would be necessary to group several families together in some of our larger residences. Others would wind up with an interest in a locomotive, or a balloon. Still others would find they had been allotted a lighthouse, or fish hatchery, or a motion picture set.

In any event, the confusion and dissatisfaction would soon offset the prospective pleasure involved, besides which it would be obviously unfair to any man or family who had worked honestly and saved thriftily.

On the other hand, to make it possible to increase our production and share it, so that every family would have an automobile, a radio, a home or farm, good food and nice clothes, entertainment, medical care and the other things people really want, is an entirely different matter.

America is capable of producing plenty for all. That fact has been expounded and explained so often and so thoroughly that there are few who even question it. We have only to recall, how, during war times, we not only produced some $10,000,000,000 worth of commodities which we presented to Europe, but we produced silk shirts for ourselves which even laboring men found it possible to possess. Economists assert that even then we were only producing at 20 per cent to 25 per cent of our capacity. Surely we remember that millions of our young men were either under arms or in the training camps, and had been withdrawn from industry.

But with all this production ability, we have been unable or unwilling to devise or adopt a method of "bridging the gap," between the manufacturer or producer, and the consumer. Through the blindness, stubbornness or unwillingness of those who have gravitated to the head of affairs in business, industry, finance and government, no specific remedy has been advanced, or if it has, it has been lost in the shuffle, side-tracked, derided, condemned, or ignored.

The California Prosperity Plan appears to be a permanent cure for all depressions. It puts purchasing power into the hands of the public at large. It will start the wheels of industry turning. It will make business good. It will make it possible for any man to patronize the doctor, practitioner, attorney, or other man or woman who has services to sell. It will bring about the exchange of merchandise, goods and services, permitting the man to exchange what he has to offer with what the other man has.

But through this plan, the result will be to distribute income—and not wealth. Production, as it is made * * * not the property that belongs to someone else.

The Depression—a Rank Failure

"The American public has been lulled into a state of insecurity. They have been slowly becoming 'depression conscious,' in a Nation of workers, and a land of plenty. Americans now realize that the depression has failed!"

The American mind is no longer willing to listen to excuses. There is a solution to every problem; beyond each dark cloud there is a silver lining; out of each abyss there is an entrance to pure sunlight. Americans have unwittingly let themselves become the slaves of the machinery they created until, like a Frankenstein monster, it has all but engulfed them. No longer are we willing to sit by and let the other fellow show us the way out. The depression is an enemy, a hideous monster that we must fight with every fiber of our being. The Prosperity League of America, has declared ruthless warfare on this arch enemy of society.

We have the most modern equipment yet devised, (in the California Prosperity Plan) with which to fight it, and with the wholehearted support of our people, we can and will "hew a path" to a land of happiness and plenty!

Pension Feature in Plan Attracts "Old Age" Workers

For those who have been working far, and advocating an old age pension plan, attention is called to the fact that the retirement of men and women over 50 at their option is an outstanding feature of the California Prosperity Plan.

Moreover, for those who feel that the injection of a new idea into the economic upsurge in which the Nation is engaged at this time, will "muddy the water," it may be pointed out that if the Prosperity Plan were adopted for the sole purpose of paying an old age pension to start with, in order to acquaint the Nation with its workability, it still would have accomplished a worthwhile purpose.

It is recognized by the Prosperity League of America that many well-meaning people who do not understand the principles involved in money and credit turnover can not understand "how and where the money is coming from" to put any such plan in operation.

The California Prosperity Plan outlines the ways and means of financing any and all such constructive proposals in a manner which can be understood by all, if they will take the time to study the facts and analyze the features with an open mind.

A Dreamer's Vision

I see a Nation that is freed from slavery—a Nation where people are helpful, a country of peace—endowed with every form of contentment. Where people will live with words of love and truth. A Nation where labor reaps its full reward. Where work and worth go hand in hand. I see a country without the beggar's outstretched palm; the miser's heartless, stony stare; the piteous wail of want; the vivid lips of lies, the cruel eyes of unemployment, and the awful fear of penniless old age. I see a people without disease or pain, shapely and fair with married harmony of form and function; and as I look, life lingers, fear vanishes, joy deepens, and over all in the great dome above shines the eternal star of human hope.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT THE PROSPERITY PLAN

GENTLEMEN: At last! A workable, practical Plan and you are to be congratulated in the business-like manner in which you have gone about putting your plan before the general public.

It is so simple * * * a child could understand it.

I intend to interest my friends in your wonderful "Prosperity" ideas and I feel they will be forever grateful.

Sincerely,

MRS. W. C. JACKSON

GENTLEMEN: I have read a copy of the plan put out by the Prosperity League of America and I can not refrain from voicing a loud and lusty hurrah for the author of this amazing plan.

The Prosperity Plan is particularly interesting because it makes no discrimination because of age, sex, creed or color. Can you picture those who will stand in line for their prosperity checks?

To my mind the most notable feature of this unique idea is the fact that while theoretically a loan, it is, in the final analysis, more of a gift. After all, the countless plans and arguments that have been offered in the recent past have evidently served a good purpose. More power to the Prosperity League, who has taken up the cudgels in behalf of this worthy program.

Yours very truly,

JENNIE LINDSTROM

GENTLEMEN: I am taking it upon myself to write in and tell you how wonderful I think your plan is for it is something everyone needs and everyone can understand. If there is any way I can be of actual assistance to you in your work, please know you can count on me. I also want to subscribe to your book "The Only Way to Prosperity."

Cordially,

N. S. DAVIS

GENTLEMEN: I have read with interest a copy of the California Prosperity Plan, and have just about come to the conclusion that it is the most reasonable plan that has, as yet, been offered. Most of the plans, thus, far, have done little else but arouse my curiosity, since all meant but one thing—additional tax burdens. If the public will get behind this plan, I predict it will surely be adopted since aside from antagonizing no group or class, its greatest value is in the fact that it does not impose an objectionable and additional tax feature in order to execute it.

Yours very truly,

C. M. SMYTHIE

GENTLEMEN: Congratulations! I have just read the California Prosperity Plan and wish to compliment the "Prosperity League" for taking up the cudgels in its behalf. I have had the pleasure of meeting the author, and should anyone doubt the feasibility of this "gold nugget," my advice is to meet him personally and in fifteen minutes they will be completely satisfied that he "knows his subject."

Very truly yours,

A BOOSTER

GENTLEMEN: I have read every word of your Prosperity Plan and I think it is the very thing all of us have been looking for. It is foolproof and I see no flaws in it. It is true there should be a balance and a more equal distribution of money * * and there is certainly one way to bring this about and it is via the Prosperity Plan.

I carry several extra copies in my pocket and pass them out to friends I meet on the street. Many have phoned me to thank me. I most certainly want the book "The Only Way to Prosperity."

Very truly,

MRS. VERNE WILLIAMS

DEAR SIR: Never thought I would see the day when I actually hastened to endorse any new "idea" along a prosperity plan. I was the kind of person who sits back and says "Well, we have been running things rather well all these years; let's leave well enough alone * * *" but I am head and heels enthused over your plan!

I want to be an early subscriber to the book "The Only Way to Prosperity" and please put me at the head of the list * * * I want one as soon as possible.

Very sincerely,

MRS. NAN OGDEN

GENTLEMEN: As a staid professional man may I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the inspiration your Prosperity Plan has brought me.

I seldom enthuse. Your Plan has joggled me loose and I want to support your League a hundred per cent. I have never seen a "remedy" like yours! I prescribe it to all patients suffering from the malady known as the "poor house blues" and I want a volume of the book as well as two extra copies for two of my friends.

Yours truly,

DR. J. B. EWALD

DEAR SIR: Yes, sir! From now on I intend converting every man and woman who cross my path to your wonderful plan. It is clear and easy to understand.

I certainly intend to purchase the book "The Only Way to Prosperity" and please send it to me by mail C. O. D. I have enclosed the necessary blanks.

Thanking you again, I am,

Most sincerely,

J. C. BOTHWELL

HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO HELP

The Prosperity League of America will depend entirely on "public support" to conduct its campaign, which is as it should be, since this is your campaign, and it should be your duty and privilege to support a program, the purpose of which is to put into operation, the California Prosperity Plan, as speedily as possible.

You have now received your primary affiliation with the Prosperity League of America. A portion of our program has been unfolded to you. There is, however, more to be unfolded, and this can be obtained only by the possession of additional literature. In the possession of this, you will necessarily learn more of our program. In order to make it possible for us to distribute additional literature and perhaps get on the radio, it will require funds and this we will accept only through voluntary contributions, from a postage stamp up. That is entirely up to you, as you are in no way obligated to contribute. Do not give until it hurts, but give until it feels good.

To anyone that will send a voluntary contribution, regardless of how small, we will send a free enrollment card, without any dues or further obligation on your part.

Do you seek advancement? Then send for your enrollment card at once

APPENDIX 9(g)

WHEREAS, The Los Angeles Chapter of the Old Aged Pensioners of California have had many and varied experiences in connection with the administration of the Old Age Security Law, as now written; and:

WHEREAS, We realize a woeful need for many amendments thereto; and

WHEREAS, We have given very earnest consideration to upward of 20 bills now pending in the State Legislature, proposing one or more desirable amendments each; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this organization endorses Assembly Bill No. 660 as embodying by far, the most complete coverage of meritorious legislation of any bill yet proposed; and, be it further

Resolved, That we hopefully urge its enactment, but wish to offer for consideration amendments thereto as follows:

For the purpose of further protection for our needy aged citizens and to minimize the chances for maladministration, to the disadvantage of such citizens, we deem it necessary and expedient that the following amendments to the present Old Age Security Law, other than those included in Assembly Bill No. 660, as introduced, should be enacted by the present session of the State Legislature.

We offer some of these amendments as amending Assembly Bill No. 660 and some that might be better handled in separate bills.

Underscore herein represent insertions. "Strikes" are indicated thus:

Amend 2003 to read:

2003 This chapter shall be liberally construed and in case of doubt the applicant shall be given the benefit of such doubt.

Amend 2007 to read:

2007 Any person who, knowing he is not entitled thereto, obtains or attempts to obtain aid to which he is not entitled, or a larger amount than that to which he is legally entitled, or the payment of any forfeited installment grant, is guilty of a misdemeanor and any person who has illegally obtained aid under this chapter shall make restitution, and all actions necessary to secure restitution may be brought against him.

(Sections 2007.5, 2160 (j), 2184, 2220, 2221, 2222 and 2225 of this chapter and Sections 12 and 13 of Article XVI of the California Constitution provide every safeguard and render the omitted portion of above section useless, confusing and a source of needless investigation and expense.)

Amend 2007.5 to read:

2007.5 No person shall be denied any aid under this chapter for any transfer of his property which transfer (1) does not diminish his current resources or income or (2) does not render him ineligible under Section 2163 or 2164.

Insert the following definitions somewhere: The term "income" shall not include matter, either cash or kind, that does not contribute directly to the current support of the applicant or recipient and "casual income" shall include any income received in any month, which is not recurrent in subsequent months or does not render the person ineligible for aid under Sections 2163 or 2164 of this chapter.

(We recommend the above be added to Section 2020, or entered into Assembly Bill No. 660 instead of 2000.2, which we think should be stricken from the bill to avoid probable complications with the Federal Social Security Board.)

2015 Insert a prefix to 2015, as "added" by Assembly Bill No. 660 to make the first part thereof read: "Application forms end" a copy of all laws relating to, etc.

2180 Amend this section, as it appears in Assembly Bill No. 660 by adding: and if such statements are in accord with all the requirements for aid under this chapter, they shall constitute sufficient evidence of the applicants eligibility and aid shall be granted.

2181 Amend the last portion of this section as it was introduced in Assembly Bill No. 660 to read: The board shall immediately notify the applicant in writing of its decision, and failure to notify the applicant within the 30-day period that his application has been denied, shall be construed as approval of his eligibility as provided in Section 2180 of this code and aid shall be paid accordingly. Also in line 31 of pamphlet, page 8 strike "and" insert "any".

Amend line 22 on page 10 of the pamphlet to read: The board of supervisors shall within 10 days pay to, etc.

Immediately preceding the last paragraph of 2182 as it appears in Assembly Bill No. 660, as introduced, insert: Provided, however, nothing in this chapter shall prohibit a county from reconsidering its previous actions on any application and adjusting same in accordance with the provisions herein contained, including retroactive payments, if any be due.

2183 On page 11 pamphlet Assembly Bill No. 660, lines 16 to 22, inclusive, are a repetition of Section 2181.

Lines 22 to 26, inclusive, are inconsistent with 2181.

(Sections 2181 of Assembly Bill No. 660 and 2184 of the present code furnish ample provisions to care for the same matter, therefore, all of the second paragraph of Section 2183 should be stricken from Assembly Bill No. 660.)

Insert as part of 2193 or as a new section: No person connected with the administration of this chapter shall dictate how any recipient shall expend the aid granted to him.

(Copied from Section 3003 of Chapter 1 of Part 1 of Division 5—Blind Persons.)

Amend the last paragraph of Section 2200 of the present code to read: The county through which a recipient has been receiving his aid shall continue to pay his aid during any absence from said county not exceeding one year.

2221 Amend by adding: Not more than one payment shall be suspended for the purpose of such inquiry.

2227 Repeal and replace with Section 12 of Article XVI of California State Constitution.

(This section (2227) appears outlawed by the constitutional amendment but is confusing.)

(If proposed legislation to give each applicant a copy of the law is enacted the confusion would be more widespread, therefore should be repealed.)

Unanimously adopted by Los Angeles Chapter Old Age Pensioners in regular session February 17, 1943.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 31, 1943

Honorable Earl Warren, Governor of California
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR GOVERNOR WARREN: We, the undersigned, members of the Citizens' Committee on Old Age Pensions pursuant to your appointment under date of February 17, 1943, beg leave to submit our findings and conclusions. It is a matter of regret that we should be forced to join in a separate report, but not to do so would be an evasion of our duty to the people of California, and to you as their Governor.

Sessions of the committee were held in Sacramento on February 25th; in San Francisco on March 2d and 3d; in Los Angeles on March 11th and 12th; and in Sacramento on March 17 and 18, 1943. A concluding meeting was held in Sacramento on March 30 and 31, 1943, to review the findings of the committee and to approve the report.

In preparing this report and particularly in the finding of facts much help was had from both the State Welfare and Finance Departments. Voluminous reports with compilations as to revenues and estimates of cost of the solution of the problem before the committee were voluntarily tendered by the chambers of commerce, taxpayers associations and other related groups. However, the members of your committee, parties to this report, relied chiefly upon and were guided by the information supplied by the departments of State.

There was laid before the committee your letter addressed to the chairman, in which you state:

It seems to me that there are at least four fields for exploration by the committee.

First: The sufficiency of the present pension.

Second: The reasonableness of administrative practices of the present system.

Third: The basic question of qualification for pension.

Fourth: Forward looking legislation expressing California's objectives and committing the State to immediate action if and when the Federal Government will authorize it under its social security legislation.

We herein submit our report on the matters referred to and in the order indicated.

Sufficiency of Present Pension

We recommend that the amount of grant be increased from $40 per month to $60 per month, the State to pay the $20 increase.

This recommendation is made with the apology that the amount is inescapably below any gauge of a today's decent standard of living.

In the past a recipient of old age assistance received up to $40 per month with a bonus in the form of Federal food and cotton stamps.

This recommendation and statement of fact is made having in mind the increase in living costs and the Federal withdrawal of the allowance of food and cotton stamps.

As an index to the committee's finding as to the increase in living costs the committee went on record as believing the basis of need should be established at $75 per month.

This in itself is evidence conclusive that in the committee's own mind "needy" citizens who are unable to work could not live decently on any amount substantially less than $75.

Supporting evidence as to minimum present living costs faced by old age aid recipients was submitted to the committee by the State Department of Social Welfare in the form of a budget developing the need as follows:

Food .....	$15 97	Incidentals and personal needs.....	10 00
Housing .....	20 00	Transportation .....	3 00
Utilities—Electricity .....	1 72	Other needs .....	-----
Gas .....	2 10
Water .....	1 50	Total .....	$64 17
Other (heat, etc.) .....	2 00	When meals purchased in restaur-
Household operation .....	3 31	ants add .....	12 00
Clothing .....	4 57
			$76 17

We note the amount allowed for food is $15.97 per month or 16½ cents per meal.

It is common knowledge that the price of every basic item of food with the possible exception of bread has, since 1939, increased anywhere from 50 per cent to 200 per cent. Even according to this budget based on need the allowance for food is so low as to spell one thing—malnutrition. Sixteen and one-half cents per meal with basic food costs, excepting bread, up 50 to 200 per cent, tells the aged recipient he can not eat what he wants nor can he have what he needs. It tells him that his State which he has served will not permit him food even approaching that which it gives the inmates of its prisons. They, the offenders against the State, can and do enjoy better food cost allowance paid for by the State and not a word about what the State can or can not afford. These and numerous related facts of rising cost, including the fact that the great majority of aged recipients are unable to work or by any means able to increase the allowance by budgeting or any other device forces the parties of this report to resolutely affirm the conclusion reached that the grant be increased to $60 per month.

Relative's Responsibility

We recommend the elimination of relative's responsibility.

The need for old age aid arises, in most cases, from causes and conditions over which the aged recipient has had no control and for which he is in no way responsible. By the same token the children are in no way responsible for the system or the conditions which deprived their parents of self support. It follows, therefore, that the people, or the society, or the State permitting conditions which deprive the aged citizen of his means of self support, should be charged with the full responsibility of providing the essentials of a decent living. The Federal Social Security Law wisely and justly requires no aid from relatives—on the other hand, the present State law has been the source of much annoyance and administrative malpractice and has provoked and estranged, and in some cases destroyed, that which binds the family one to another.

We concur with the forthright statement of the Governor of the State "We must proceed upon the theory that the system which arbitrarily freezes people out of industry and declares them to be obsolete, must make honorable provision for their support during the years of their enforced idleness" * * * "I don't believe they should be forced to look to their children for support."

Age Qualification

We recommend that the qualifying age be fixed at 60 years.

It is obvious that the aged citizens' need for aid is not postponed until he is 65. Neither are the causes or conditions which brought about that need delayed in their effect until he reaches the age of 65. Neither are these conditions and their effects delayed until he is 60. It follows that the relief tendered a few years earlier than is now being given would be progress toward a real solution of the problems of those deprived of self-support.

That progress in reducing the old-age aid below age 65 should be made, and at this time, is evidenced by a report submitted to the committee by the Research Division of the State Welfare Department.

This report stated that with a 15-year residence requirement the additional case load which would result from including that group may be 25,000 persons. This is probably the lowest case load to be expected in that age bracket and the most opportune time for the picking up of this load. On the other hand the State finance is at the highest potential in years. These two factors make for the advisability of action now.

We recommend that old-age-aid be extended to include the years 60 to 64 inclusive, with a 15-year residence requirement, and that the whole of the costs pertaining thereto be borne by the State.

Qualification and Administration

1. Outside income should be allowed without deduction up to an amount which, added to the public assistance, does not exceed $75 per month, and up to this amount budgetary statements should not be required.

2. Provisions of the law respecting property eligibility in old age assistance should be amended to permit possessions of real property of an assessed value not exceeding $3,500 instead of the present limit of $3,000 in cases where a man and wife live together, and that 12 months be allowed after the death of a spouse for property readjustment. An amendment should be adopted to make allowance for cases where encumbrances on such property operate to reduce the owner's actual equity therein to less than $3,000 or $3,500 for man and wife. Personal property limit should be increased from $500 to $600 per person.

3. A duplicate warrant for a grant should be issued expeditiously when the original has been lost or destroyed.

4. The confidential file in case of dispute of a person applying for or receiving aid should be open for inspection either by himself or an authorized agent.

5. The present county administration and State supervision should be continued.

6. The statutes should be revised and rules and procedures should be simplified so that applicants for and recipients of aid will not be harassed or humiliated.

7. Medical, dental and clinical care should be furnished by county administering aid.

8. Attorney fees and court costs, in case of court decision in favor of the applicant or recipient of aid, should be borne by the State.

9. No advisory county welfare board should pass upon any application for aid, but it must be passed upon directly by the Board of Supervisors. Provision should be made to give 30 days' notice to applicant or recipient to appear and show cause why the board's action is unsatisfactory. The right to appeal to the State Social Welfare Board shall not be impaired.

10. The committee recommends the passage by the Legislature of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 12.

11. We are in general accord with the report submitted by the sub-committee.

12. Congress should be memorialized for a revision of the Federal Social Security Act in respect to (1) contributions by the Federal Government to the States by making the ratio 2 to 1, (2) age requirements be reduced to 60 years, and (3) outside income up to $15 a month be allowed.

Long Range Planning

Any plan looking ahead and extending over an indefinite period of time must function with the least interference with the economic structure and with no impairment of free enterprise and with the least interference with the operative processes involved within the social structure.

In other words every principle, method and plan that has proved its worth or its value over a period, must be preserved.

At the same time the obsolete, the tried and failed, the ceased to serve methods and practices, must be set aside.

The inescapable fact that the aim of human security has not been achieved must be faced and the problem it presents, solved. There must be planned and provided some means by which the slack and the tension of the recurring breakdowns in our economic life must be met. There must be had some device or the employment of some means that will adjust itself and will respond to existing need—something that will yield itself to just what is required and at the time the need arises.

The parties to this report, directing their efforts to a complete solution of the problem of pensions as a right, suggest for serious consideration a gross income tax plan, a self-liquidating credit plan operated by the banks, or such other answers to the requirements as could have their founding and beginning in the State of California.

Respectfully submitted

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON WELFARE AND INSTITUTIONS

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 12—A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State by adding Article XVIa thereto relating to pensions.

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the Legislature of the State of California, at its Fifty-fifth Regular Session commencing on the fourth day of January, 1943, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses of the Legislature voting therefor, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that the Constitution of the State be amended by adding Article XVIa thereto, to read:

Article XVIa

Pensions

Section 1. The Legislature shall have power to provide for the payment of pensions to disabled or aged citizens of the United States who reside in this State, and who have such qualifications in respect to age, length and place of residence, property holdings, and income, as the Legislature may prescribe. The Legislature shall have power to provide by taxation the necessary funds for the payment of such pensions, whether such pensions are paid by the State, or by the Federal Government and the State jointly.

Sec. 2. If the Federal Government establishes a uniform Nation-wide retirement system of old-age pensions for citizens of the United States not less in amount than the pensions provided by the State of California, such National pensions shall be in lieu of the State pension provided pursuant to this article; but if a National pension is provided in an amount less than the amount of the pension provided by the laws of the State of California, the Legislature shall provide for the payment of the difference between the amount of the National pension and the amount of the pension provided by State law, such payments to be administered and the conditions of eligibility therefor to be as provided in this article.

Sec. 3. No applicant for or recipient of a pension shall be denied a pension because of the property holdings or income of any other person, whether child, spouse, or other relative, of the applicant or recipient, or because of any provision of law requiring any such relative to support the applicant or recipient, or because of the financial ability of any such relative to support the applicant or recipient.

Sec. 4. Any recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article shall be permitted to own, hold, or convey to others real estate, cash, or other personal property in such amount as the Legislature shall provide, without thereby becoming ineligible to receive the pension.

Sec. 5. Any recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article may receive remuneration for his labor or services, or rentals of property owned by him, in any amount provided by the Legislature, without thereby becoming ineligible to receive the pension.

Sec. 6. Any legislation providing pensions pursuant to this article shall be administered by a department established for that purpose, which shall be separate and distinct from any agency or organization engaged in the administration of laws governing the distribution of public or private charity. Any citizens' pension provided pursuant to this article shall be deemed a right accorded to citizens by virtue of their status as citizens, and the receipt thereof shall never be considered as an act of indigency or pauperism, nor shall any legislation granting such a pension be deemed to be nor administered as legislation providing aid to indigents or paupers.

Sec. 7. No pension granted to a citizen under legislation pursuant to this article shall be terminated except by the death of the pensioner, nor shall the amount of any such pension be reduced, until the pensioner has been granted a hearing before a court of record in the county in which he resides, and accorded full opportunity to defend his right to continue to receive the pension in the amount which has been granted.

Sec. 7.5. Any applicant for or recipient of a pension provided pursuant to this article who feels that he has been discriminated against by reason of any ruling by any administrative officer or body empowered by law to administer laws enacted pursuant to this article shall have the right, upon cause shown, to obtain a writ of review from any court of record in the county in which he resided at the time the action complained of occurred, and to have the question or questions judicially determined and proper relief granted.

Sec. 8. No grant of a pension to an aged person, or the enjoyment of a pension, shall create the relationship of debtor and creditor between a pensioner and the State of California, or any political subdivision of the State, save where the pension has been obtained by fraud. When a pension has been obtained by fraud, action may be maintained against the recipient, in such manner, and the person who obtained the pension fraudulently shall be subject to such penalties, as the Legislature may provide.

Sec. 9. No action shall be hereafter maintained in any court of the State of California against any person for the recovery of any sums heretofore or hereafter paid as a pension pursuant to this article, or as old-age assistance, except to recover such pensions or such assistance obtained by fraud.

Report of Subcommittee on Improvement of Administrative Practices

MARCH 30, 1943

*Mr. Ralph T. Fisher, Chairman, Governor's Old Age Pension Committee
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. FISHER: Your Subcommittee on Improvement of Administrative Practices would suggest points of correction in the law that the administration of the so-called Old Age Pension in California might be more dignified and humane. In order to accomplish the task we have been given, we have gone into minute detail and considered section by section the Social Welfare Code.

- (1) Inasmuch as the State Social Welfare Board administers a very large department, it is our opinion it should be a full time board.
- (2) The members of the board should be compensated on a full-time basis and their terms should be staggered so that no one Governor could control the board.

- (3) Much severe criticism was presented to the general committee regarding the activities of social workers and it is our opinion that there is room for much reform in this department in administering old age assistance.
- (4) Every applicant shall be given an itemized report setting forth the amount of deductions, if any, made from his grant.
- (5) Any new rules and regulations shall be filed with the Secretary of State 30 days prior to effective date, and copies shall be available to people upon request.
- (6) The State department should be given authority to try social workers accused of maladministration or order the case to be tried before the State Personnel Board, and if found guilty the State shall have the power to suspend the social worker for a reasonable period of time, and after two such suspensions the employee may be dismissed.
- (7) The unnecessary language in Section 2180 of the Welfare and Institutions Code should be stricken out and the section should be made to read as follows:

"Application for aid under this chapter shall be made to the board of supervisors of the county in which the applicant resides. An applicant may apply in person or the application may be made by another in his behalf. This application may be made in writing or reduced to writing upon the standard form prescribed by the State Department of Social Welfare, and a copy of his application shall be furnished to each applicant at the time of application. The form shall contain questions, the answers to which will provide the information necessary to establish eligibility for aid under this chapter. All statements in the application shall be verified, under oath, by the applicant."
- (8) The clause pertaining to insurance policies shall be so worded that no insurance policy may be valued at more than its present cash value to the recipient, and premiums on insurance policies may not be deducted from the recipient's award—no matter by whom paid.
- (9) Personal effects include clothing, furniture, household equipment, foodstuffs, and fuel, and shall not be considered as personal property, and the assessed value shall be considered in both real and personal property and then only net values after deductions of all encumbrances.
- (10) Trust deeds should be considered as mortgages, and not as personal property, in the matter of determining eligibility bearing on personal property.
- (11) Applicant's affidavit shall be deemed prima-facie evidence, and the county give 30 days' time in which to investigate and to affirm or deny the application.
- (12) Payments shall begin as of the first day of the month following date of application.
- (13) The county board of supervisors may reconsider previous denials, eliminating necessity in those cases of appeal to the State board, and must upon written request of the applicant hold a public hearing to determine the sufficiency of the application.
- (14) A transcript of the hearing shall be made and the cost borne by the department.
- (15) The present provision of the law should be amended to provide that the applicant may reapply when the condition which resulted in his application being rejected has been eliminated.
- (16) Add language to Section 2003 to read: "In case of doubt the applicant shall be given the benefit of the doubt."
- (17) In Section 2005 after the words, "other suitable home," add the words: "of his own choosing."
- (18) In Section 2008 add this language: "Any applicant or recipient of aid under this chapter, and any person connected with the administration of such aid, or other person, who knowingly violates any provision of this chapter for which no penalty is specifically provided, is guilty of a misdemeanor."
- (19) In Section 2009 provide "that the public designation of any building or place used for aid under this chapter may not make any reference to charity or indigency."
- (20) Require that the State or County Welfare Department shall mail a copy of any bulletin, policy rule or the law itself to any recipient upon demand.
- (21) In Section 2160 provide under "F"—"that free board and lodging supplied to an applicant, because of his necessity, by a friend or relative who is not responsible for his support, shall not be grounds for refusing aid."

- (22) Any place of abode of recipient or applicant, whether it be a house, boat, trailer, or other habitation, shall be deemed to be real estate for the purposes of this act.
  - (23) All means of determining eligibility filed by applicant on affidavit before a judge of the superior court, shall be deemed to be sufficient evidence, in the absence of other factual data.
  - (24) Add "that no person connected with the administration shall dictate how the recipient shall spend the aid granted to him."
  - (25) Provide that all offices used for administration shall easily be accessible to the aged or maimed, and shall be either on the ground floor or served with an elevator and operator.
  - (26) Provide that absence from the State, not in excess of 90 days of any calendar year, shall not be considered evidence to establish residence elsewhere, nor to interrupt receipt of aid.
  - (27) Estates shall not be considered until they are available to the client for occupation or use, or until an income is available therefrom to the client.
  - (28) Provide an urgency clause for immediate passage of enactment.
  - (29) Provision should be made for the simplification of the responsible relatives affidavit form; for instance, a very brief initial form could be sent to the relative for the purpose of determining whether that relative has an income in his or her own right. This relates to the married daughter, primarily. Unless the married daughter has a separate income she shall not be required to make relatives' contributions. If the answer indicates a separate income, then a more elaborate form could follow.
  - (30) The committee should recommend that the state department review all present requirements of the State and counties governing the complete operation of the application and renewal process, and that anything of an unnecessary nature be eliminated.
- Respectfully submitted.

*Hon. Earl Warren, Governor, State of California
 Sacramento, California*

DEAR SIR: The members of your state-wide committee appointed to study pensions are submitting to you both a majority and a minority report and recommendations.

Throughout the deliberations of this committee there was general, common agreement on most all points which you recommended that a study be made. The only general difference of opinion was on the following points:

1. Amount to be paid recipients.
2. Age at which payments should begin.
3. Whether relatives should contribute.

There was general agreement that the actual minimum need under present conditions was $65 to $75 per month. There was general agreement that there are a great many people below age 65 unable to secure employment and maintain themselves, especially in normal times. There was general agreement that the requiring of relatives to support recipients was very unsatisfactory and created much unhappiness and required much investigation by welfare workers, so often referred to as "snooping."

In spite of this general agreement that all three of the above major items were necessary to achieve your objectives as stated by you on several occasions and in your letter to the committee, several members voted against making these recommendations. The only reason these members offered for so doing was that the taxpayers could not pay the necessary taxes and that these increased benefits to our senior citizens would bankrupt the State. They took this position despite the fact that at no time did you ask this committee to investigate and recommend ways and means to finance a broadened old age assistance program. It seems to me, that function properly belonged to your "tax committee" and not to your "pension committee."

Why these pension committee members were so worried about the taxpayers and so little interested in the desperate condition of hundreds of thousands of our senior citizens, I can not understand.

They all knew well that you have indicated pensions should be paid as a "matter of right" and that they should be available without property qualifications and relative responsibility and in amounts to insure a decent American standard of living. Everyone knows no one can exist on $40 per month, or $50 per month, under present costs. Fifty dollars today will buy much less than $40 would a short time ago. In addition the food stamps have been discontinued, further reducing the income of the senior citizens and increasing their problem of existence. I ask you and the members of the Legislature of our great State, what are these pensioners—these fathers and mothers—to do? How can we deny them these simple and just needs in the face of such a large treasury surplus and which is rapidly increasing? How can we deny them the little they ask when we increase all State employees' salaries and travel expenses and we improve conditions for other groups? Why are they forgotten and neglected? Why are they left in such miserable poverty, want and distress with all of the unhappiness that follows? Is that their just reward for what they have given?

Governor Warren, the people of California believed you meant what you said about the needs and rights of our senior citizens and that the pension issue should be taken out of politics. I still think you are sincere in wanting to solve this great problem practically and fairly for all of our people. You have a great responsibility and also a great opportunity. It is to boldly face the issue as outlined in the enclosed suggested recommendation, a copy of which I delivered to you personally several weeks ago. I can not urge you too strongly to study this simple, equitable and practical proposal with an open mind. It is no idle theory! It has been proven beyond a question. We must not overlook its great possibilities, not only for meeting this pension issue fairly and practically, but to establish a system of taxation on a "pay-as-we-go" basis—taxing according to our ability to pay. It is so simple and equitable and could supplant the red tape and innumerable kinds of taxes we now have. It would raise large sums of money to meet all of our legitimate public needs. Think what such a system would mean for all of us, not only in California! Think of the value of keeping a large amount of money in circulation. Think of the happiness that would follow when all able persons could be assured employment and the aged and physically unfit would be assured the means to maintain themselves. Are not these objectives worthwhile? Think what it will mean if we of California can prove such a system which would be applied to meet our national problems to carry and liquidate the national debt.

I feel certain you will realize these opportunities. If you will assume leadership and take action to put this program into effect, you will render the highest service to our State, our Nation and to all people.

I am also enclosing a copy of Senate Bill No. 974, introduced by Senator Donnelly at my request. A close study of this bill will reveal how such a program as I am recommending could be initiated and operated. It may be desirable to add a section to this bill providing for a certain number of years' residence in California. It may also be advisable to start with a lower rate of premium for a test period of a year. These are details, but the basic principles are provided for in the attached copy of suggestion to you and in Senate Bill No. 974.

Please give these your most serious and careful consideration. There is so much at stake. Unless some such program can be developed to establish a plan of equitable, simple taxation on a pay-as-we-go basis and we make adequate provisions for support of our senior citizens, and provide jobs for our people able to work, there is a dark future ahead for all of us. Dissatisfied people are driven to follow radical leaders and programs. If we want to avoid this and take the pension issue out of politics, provide security and justice, we can not fail to take some such action as is herein recommended. I hope that you will see the wisdom of these constructive proposals and act boldly and promptly. Tomorrow may be too late and we will again have to admit that we did "too little, too late."

Yours for a better day in our Grand U. S. A.

JOHN C. CUNEO

P. S. If I can be of service, command me.

C. A. "CAPPY" RICKS, MAYOR

CITY OF MARTINEZ

County Seat of Contra Costa County, California

April 4, 1943

*The Honorable Earl Warren, Governor of California
Sacramento, California*

DEAR GOVERNOR WARREN: I beg leave to submit the following as a dissenting report from a member of your Committee on Old Age Pensions. I signed one report with the following reservations:

One half of the Committee recommended aid of $50, paid as follows:
65 years, Federal $20, State $20, Counties $10.

One-half of the committee has recommended aid of $60, paid as follows:
 65 years: Federal, $20; State, $20; Counties, $20.
 60 years: Federal, none; State, $60; Counties, none. I do not subscribe to either plan. I recommend:
 65 years: Federal, $20; State, $35; Counties, $5 and 60 years: Federal, none; State, $35; Counties, $5, until Federal adds to its aid or cost of living is lowered.

Relatives Responsibility

I am against relatives responsibility on account of the necessity of "snooping" and irritation to in-laws in families. It has no place in a pension system. But California has aged aid system on a basis of need instead of pensions. Case load increases in States where no relatives responsibility is demanded makes me hesitate on going all the way now on abolishing relatives responsibility. A compromise would be a new scale of requirements from relatives and less stringent investigation of relatives by department employees.

State and Counties Participation:

The State has a wide basis of taxation possibilities. The county has real estate only. The State should take over all the load until the Federal Government does the right thing.

Lack of State funds is no excuse. The sales tax should not be lowered from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent until all aged are fed and housed. Postwar nest eggs should not be provided when aged are in need. The spectre of returning soldiers in the distant future should not be considered as important as caring for the old folks right now. The soldiers will well be able to take care of themselves when that time arrives. I believe the average soldier would rather have the surplus spent on his parents now than to save it for public works for his benefit after the war.

I hope the Legislature will not conform to the usual practices of cutting down recommendations. I believe that $53 now will not establish the same standard of living as the old folks had in 1941. We were informed that if the Legislature were to raise the aged aid $10 that only a portion of the present case load would get the full $10. Investigators would cut down added payments according to the "need" of the case.

I am against all State aid and State pensions and believe it is entirely a problem of the Federal Government.

Sincerely,

CAPPY RICKS

MY DEAR MR. FISHER: Please be advised that the undersigned jointly concur on the compromised report as submitted by the Citizen's State-wide Committee on Old Age Pension, under date of March 31, 1943. However, this is not to be misconstrued as meaning that we have entirely disregarded the former joint stipulation as submitted on March 17, 1943, which in principle embodied Assembly Bill No. 660, but that we temporarily set this matter aside for reason that after careful consideration and study of all statistical, financial and factual matter submitted, together with the division of committee on said bill, we can do nothing other than to admit the inadvisability of forcing the issue at this time.

It is our sincere belief that under the circumstances the compromised report will to some extent bring about the desired effect in solidifying the committee and in receiving the necessary support of the Governor and the Legislature, which in our opinion is another successful step in advancing the Old Age Security Law and a further step towards complete liberalization, of which we still feel can only be ultimately accomplished by the enactment of legislation, similar to, or as embodied in Assembly Bill No. 660.

The undersigned want it known however, that they will not subscribe to any grant which is less than that stipulated in the above-mentioned compromised report, under date of March 31, 1943.

In conclusion may we request that this letter be made part of said report.

Respectfully submitted,

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Crittenden, ordered printed in the Journal:

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WELFARE
SACRAMENTO, January 28, 1943

*Honorable Bradford S. Crittenden
Senator, Twentieth District
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

IN REPLY PLEASE REFER TO: S.B.—Relating to Section 120 of the Welf. & Inst. Code
DEAR MR. CRITTENDEN: At the present time the department has among its functions cooperation with the Federal Government as it relates to public assistance, and certain other public services for children.

Since the United States entered into war, there are certain other functions which the department has been requested to perform: as example, I refer to public assistance for air raid wardens, services rendered in the evacuation of the Japanese, negotiations with the Swiss Consulate in obtaining money from Germany to take care of German Nationals. These latter functions and services have been performed by the department but without specific statutory authority. All of the functions and services listed have been paid 100 per cent by Federal funds, including the cost of personnel to perform them.

This proposed bill merely gives the department statutory authority, with the approval of the Department of Finance, to enter into such agreements to perform such functions or services—still without cost to the State, but rather to act as an agent for the Federal Government with the Federal Government furnishing all monies.

Very truly yours,

MARTHA A. CHICKERING, Director
Department of Social Welfare

Report of Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Agricultural and Industrial Manpower

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the Legislature

Your Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Agricultural and Industrial Manpower herewith submits a partial report of its investigations and public hearings held throughout the State on the meat shortage.

The committee was created pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 12, filed with the Secretary of State January 31, 1943. This resolution called upon the committee to "gather, assemble, study and analyze all facts relating to any and every phase of agricultural and industrial employment, with a view to formulating such a plan and preparing and submitting such legislative measures as will enable the State to solve the labor problems of agriculture and industry," and to "make a complete study, survey and investigation * * * of any and all laws in any wise bearing upon or relating to the encouragement of employment in agricultural and industrial enterprises," and to "report its findings and recommendations to the Senate and Assembly and to the people from time to time."

In the early part of February, 1943, California faced a meat crisis. The heavily concentrated industrial areas were most affected by a steadily increasing shortage of meat which found most of the retailers counters in those areas practically bare of meat. Reports of black markets were rife. Industrial plants were reporting a demoralized effect upon their employees. Meat retailers appealed for aid in obtaining sufficient supplies to give their customers at least some relief. Many of these appeals were directed to the Governor of the State. After taking full stock of the situation and upon determining the scope of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 13, the Governor requested this committee to make a complete investigation of the meat situation in California with a view toward possible State action designed to alleviate the problem. Pursuant to this request, this committee has devoted a substantial portion of its time to hearings on meat and now desires to submit a partial report dealing directly with the meat problem to the Legislature.

Among all the facts developed during the various hearings held by this committee on the meat problem, one stands as undisputed. There is no common agreement among anyone as to the solution of the meat shortage. Your committee, therefore, wishes to give a summary of some of the solutions advanced and to make several recommendations which are based on a consideration of all these various solutions advanced.

Meat Shortage Presents a Spotty Picture

Since the meat problem is an ever changing one, it is difficult to make assertions with respect to it with absolute certainty. In general, however, it may be stated that it has not been the same in every part of the State. It first began to be felt in the fall of 1942 and the first place to feel any decided shortage of meat was San Diego. As the fall months progressed, shortages began to appear in the Bay Area and the Los Angeles metropolitan area. Still later, certain areas in the interior valleys began to feel the pinch of meat shortages. At the same time, certain other areas were notably free from meat distress, particularly Sacramento and Visalia. In summary, it can be concluded that the areas most vitally affected were the large industrially concentrated population areas which had the problem of a large civilian population composed substantially of defense workers, an amazingly large contingent of service personnel on leave eating in civilian establishments, and ports of embarkation which have to depend upon large supplies of meat products for convoys.

From this information, the committee does not want to leave the impression that those areas that in the past have been fairly free from distress will continue to be so situated. Indications at hand point to eventual distress in every populated area in the State unless steps are taken to bring about sanity in the regulations affecting meat distribution.

Population Difficulties Developed

The outstanding factor in the meat picture so far as California's relation to the National program is concerned, has been that of population. Washington apparently has been under the impression that although there has been an increase in population in defense areas in California, that this has been more than offset by a decrease in rural areas. This view has prevailed in spite of the fact that official figures show an increase of over one million people in the State since April, 1940, exclusive of the military personnel which of course are a military secret.

Testimony brought forth the fact that a raise in quota had been obtained for industrial sugar users in California, based on population increase, as the result of a survey conducted by them in the Fall of 1942. This survey was made through the facilities of the United States Post Offices because the Price Administrator had indicated that this was the one type of survey which would be accepted as official. The results of the survey showed a very conservative increase of over 12 per cent which in round figures would be about a 500,000 population increase in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Exhibits submitted to the committee by San Francisco, Alameda County and Contra Costa County officials also indicate a substantial increase in population which in some cases totals several hundred per cent.

Problem of Service Personnel

Added to and directly related to the population problem in the large industrial centers of California has been the constant influx of service personnel for periods of time ranging from one day to a week or better. Since their average consumption is proportionately higher than that of civilians and since they usually come into the cities right around pay day, they play an important part in the total consumption of meat in those areas. One witness, representing the hotel and restaurant associations in the Los Angeles metropolitan area, testified to the effect that at least 100,000 members of the armed forces were coming into that area daily, most of whom were eating in restaurants and the remainder in private homes. This same testimony was reiterated in both San Diego and in San Francisco at the hearings held there, although it should be pointed out that in the case of San Diego the problem is probably most acute in view of the many different armed establishments concentrated in that area plus the tremendous increase in population which has doubled in the past three years.

Civilian Quota Inequitable

In spite of the existence of the twofold problem involving increased civilian population and released armed personnel so far as the population centers are concerned, a consideration of the method whereby the civilian quota system has been established reveals a startling failure by the Office of Price Administration to adjust the basic system to local conditions. At present the civilian quota in the case of beef, veal, and pork is established on a basis of 70 per cent of the corresponding period for 1941. It is also on a National basis.

The first inequity existing because of the method whereby this quota has been established results from the insistence by the OPA upon the use of the latter quarter of 1941 as the basis for the quota for the latter quarter of 1942 and yet the use of the first quarter of 1941 as the basis for the quota for the first quarter of 1943. At the present time, the quota is based upon the second quarter of 1941. An official of the OPA admitted to the committee that he was astonished when the directive from Washington established the quotas on that basis and that it had caused certain dislocations where a population increase had occurred in industrial areas in 1942.

Another inequity arising from the operation of the quota as now established is the actual result occurring because it is placed on a National basis. This committee has no quarrel with the need for a uniform National quota, but the net result of such a National quota is to place the small independent intrastate packer at a distinct disadvantage. This occurs because a packer is permitted to use his quota as he sees fit so long as he does not exceed 70 per cent of 1941. If he has more than one packing house he can operate them at whatever capacity he desires so long as the total output for civilian consumption does not exceed 70 per cent. Considering that fact that substantial population increases have occurred in California and the other Pacific Coastal States, while a commensurate decrease has occurred in other areas of the United States, it would only seem proper that those packers operating Nationally would so adjust their overall National 70 per cent quota as to give a fair increase to California population centers and at the same time decrease their output in those areas where a population decrease has occurred. Testimony from representatives of some of the National packers revealed that they were slaughtering close to 70 per cent of 1941 but in only isolated instances were they exceeding 70 per cent in any California industrial area. In one particular instance, however, a National packer did, after many public and private appeals in San Diego, release a substantial amount of meat above the 70 per cent quota for San Diego of that concern. However, the relief during December, 1942, was only short lived and the witness in this particular case could explain the reversal of policy only as an order emanating from the company's Chicago headquarters. As a general rule, however, the National packers have made no special arrangements for the large California population centers in determining their overall National operations under the quota system.

One of the biggest headaches under the quota system is the effect upon it of members of the armed forces on leave. Reference has already been made to the large numbers who come to the populated areas of California on short leaves, but the problem created by their presence is the fact that although they eat off the civilian quota when on leave, no method of adjustment has been made to equalize the situation. This committee is heartily in accord with the need for providing facilities for armed personnel on leave but it feels that there has been a failure to properly recognize it as a disturbing factor contributing to the general meat shortage in California.

One important fact that should be pointed out is that in spite of the fact that many packers are not slaughtering up to 70 per cent for civilians as permitted, that their total slaughter for civilians, armed forces and lend-lease is ranging well above 100 per cent of the corresponding period for 1941. Testimony from various witnesses revealed that the percentage varied from 125 to 150 per cent of 1941. This is important when we consider that the original 70 per cent quota was based on the theory that civilians would get 70 per cent and the other 30 per cent would go to the armed forces and lend-lease. It would therefore be safe to assume that at the present time the ratio would closely approximate a 50-50 basis.

Existing Ceiling Prices Unprofitable

The problem of unfilled civilian quotas already referred to has a direct relation to the ceilings now placed upon packers at the slaughter level. In the case of beef, which is typical, the prices established for California are as follows: Choice—$23.75 per hundredweight; Good—$22.75; Commercial—$20.75; Utility—$18.75; Cutter and canner—$16.25. This gives California an additional $1.75 above the midwest to allow for a freight differential. One witness pointed out to the committee that when the price ceilings were established, the price of cattle on the hoof jumped up approximately $2 a hundred almost immediately. His explanation of the reason underlying this immediate rise was that some packers had a financial cushion which induced them to pay a higher price for the cattle on the hoof. This same story occurred with respect to other types of animals. The obvious result was that a packer who unfortunately had no cushion was forced to pay the additional price on the hoof, and yet his ceiling at the slaughter level having been set to guarantee him a slight profit, placed him in the position where most of the animals he purchased were dressing out at figures running some two dollars higher than the ceiling price he could charge a jobber or retailer.

Since the ordinary packer has been caught in the squeeze created by the establishment of these ceiling prices he has looked around for accessible methods of relief. The most prominent method has been that of the black market which will be explained in more detail in another portion of this report. Those packers favored with a processing plant in conjunction with their packing plant have resorted to the practice of placing some or all of their slaughter through their processing operation. By converting carcasses into sausage and loaves it has enabled them to realize profits which would have been impossible under ceiling prices as established on carcass sales.

Another method utilized by those packers who have the facilities and personnel required, has been the practice of cutting up the carcass into hindquarters, ribs, etc., for which cuts substantially higher ceiling prices can be obtained than for the carcass as a whole. The resort to this practice to avoid losses at the cash register was admitted by many witnesses, but the abuse of this practice was evidenced by those who prior to ceiling prices had sold carcasses but under ceiling prices refused to sell other than in cuts thereby putting retailers and jobbers who depended upon them for supplies in a distinctly disadvantageous position.

The most common practice on the part of packers, however, has been a decrease in slaughter because every sale under ceiling prices has resulted in a loss. Quite a few packers have already closed their doors in California because they could not buck continuous losses. Some, on the other hand, happen to own feeder cattle in connection with their packing operations and therefore have had a supply of cattle on hand unaffected by the price squeeze. One of them, however, pointed out to the committee, that when these feeder cattle are gone, his packing operations will definitely be in jeopardy. In noting the general reluctance of packers to meet civilian quotas, the committee has noted with interest the fact that most packers have exceeded their total slaughter for 1941 when totaling their civilian, armed forces and lend-lease business. It can only be concluded that they are losing money in sales to the armed forces and lend-lease more willingly than to civilian outlets.

Black Markets

A great deal of testimony was received by the committee relative to black markets, as has been indicated already. A general air of confusion would appear to exist as to just what is and what is not a black market. The committee feels that maldistribution of meat supplies, which was found to exist substantially in the Los Angeles metropolitan area, does not properly fall within the category of black markets. Neither does it feel that the practice of placing carcass meat through processing and fabrication methods in order to obtain higher ceiling prices can be properly called a black market type of operation. For if either be called black market operations, then the OPA can be said to have caused black markets by its own regulations.

The real black market, the committee feels, goes back to the stockyard where the money cushion which has been used to bid up prices has come from jobbers and retailers willing to pay the price to packers in order to obtain meat supplies. The practice of betting a certain amount of cash over a carcass of meat is common knowledge among the trade, but the committee was unable to find a packer who would volunteer any information other than hearsay on the subject. The same held true with jobbers and retailers with one exception. An aircraft plant commissary operator volunteered to the committee that he was purchasing at least 500 pounds of meat a day at from 5 to 20 cents over ceiling prices, and that that was the only means whereby he was able to get that meat. He also referred to the practice of billing his company for 70 pounds of meat when in actuality he had received only 50 pounds of meat.

Another type of black market operation, more prevalent in the rural areas, is the sale of stolen animals. This practice is on the increase and is further complicated by the fact that it is uninspected. This problem bears very careful watching and possible legislative action.

Maldistribution

Closely related to the problem of black markets is that of maldistribution. It is not illegal like black market operations, but it appears to involve certain moral obligations which have been set aside in the interest of obtaining large profits. The OPA regulations of October, 1942, had the effect of eliminating meat peddlers and this has been a contributing factor to maldistribution because these peddlers were responsible for a wide distribution of meat in the largely populated areas and their elimination terminated the usual sources of supply for many small retail outlets in the outlying areas. At the same time, these OPA regulations permitted a packer who had been custom-slaughtering to discontinue the practice and to absorb the additional amount into his total quota. A dual problem was thereby created in which many retail outlets were discontinued and yet quite a few packers had a substantial increase in their quota. Where it was possible, some of the packers bought out or went into business with existing retailers. Other packers sold to peddlers who in the meantime had gone into the retail business. A decided factor bearing upon what occurred was the existence of family relationship or friendship between the parties involved, and the net result was the existence of ample stocks of meat in these particular retailers' shelves while other retailers, especially the chains, were getting along with very short rations.

This committee wants to commend the attitude of the chain stores who appeared voluntarily at hearings and pointed out how they had in some cases established voluntary rationing schemes in order to give their customers an equal share. This attitude was, and is, true of most retailers. On the other hand, the isolated instances of retailers who had working agreements with packers for large amounts of meat created a situation where people drove from long distances in order to obtain meat, and where the prices charged were in many cases out of line with their nearest competitors. The committee was aware of the apparent legality of these prices because of the method by which they were determined, but these retailers and packers apparently had no moral scruples about the confusion and dislocation they were causing to their customers who were using up their tires and gasoline to obtain meat supplies.

The committee feels that this whole maldistribution picture will be somewhat cleared up by the recent institution of specific dollars and cents price ceilings as well as rationing, since the ceilings will be uniform for the area and customers will be limited in purchases regardless of the amount of meat these particular retailers may have on hand. It is also the committee's understanding that the recent allocation authority vested in the local OPA officials has already brought about some measure of redistribution of this maldistributed meat.

Adequate Basic Meat Animals

More than one witness testified to the existence of adequate animals on the range. One referred to the recent statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard in which he said that there were more animals on the range today than ever before in the history of the United States. In view of the apparent shortage of slaughtered animals, the committee attempted to make some determination of the bottleneck in production. Testimony from cattlemen and feed lot operators bear out an ever increasingly difficult job of providing adequate animals for slaughter. The most trying problems have been those of manpower and feed. Selective service and volunteering on the part of experienced ranch hands have seriously depleted the existing labor force and the cost of available labor has skyrocketed. At the same time, many normal types of feed, such as cottonseed meal and soybean meal have become practically nonexistent and the price of hay and alfalfa have increased in price as high as 50 per cent. Since a feeder returns only the increase in price between his purchase and sale as may possibly be realized above the cost of feed, labor, etc., which are so out of line today, the practical result has found the feeder costing more each day while feeding than he will return. The only profit to the cattlemen and feed lot operators, then, is the price per pound gained on the original weight which is consequently conducive to quick sale of feeders as soon as they will meet any grade at slaughter time. As a result, a great deal of added weight per animal is being lost, which, according to OPA figures on cattle for December, 1942, averaged 30 pounds. This, therefore, is a substantial reason for the shortage of slaughter animals as compared to meat on the range. And the high prices of feeds have resulted from lack of ceiling prices while ceiling prices did exist at the retail and slaughter level on meat. The fact that ceiling prices have now been placed on feeds cannot create now the "finishing" of cattle and of other animals that has been lost forever. The roll-back technique of retail ceilings would appear to have failed to accomplish its true purpose.

The peculiar problem of California was also brought to the attention of the committee in the fact that this State is an importing market for meat animals, especially cattle and sheep and that the view that prevails in some quarters that California can take care of its needs from its own animals is therefore fallacious. One witness developed the fact that in 1942 some 385,000 head of cattle were imported into this State.

Ceiling on the Hoof?

Considerable divergence of opinion was expressed regarding the efficiency of ceiling prices on the hoof. It should be noted that the strongest supporters of such a ceiling were consumer representatives, butchers, and retailers. Cattlemen and packers on the other hand expressed opposition to ceiling prices on the hoof mainly because of the difficulty in attempting to establish a workable system of ceiling prices on live animals. How, asked one witness, are you going to be able to grade an animal with its hide on and ensure that its carcass will retain the same grade with its hide off? Another point that was raised was the fact that many packers buy cattle by the penful and a system of ceiling prices on live animals would force them to purchase on an individual basis. It is evident to the committee that if an attempt is made to place ceilings on the hoof at the stockyards, it will be but a short time before the price increase on feeder cattle will create a demand for ceiling prices on them. At the same time, the failure to institute ceiling prices on all the various elements of production cost would seem to militate against the worth of ceiling prices on the hoof which would only add one further step to the outmoded roll-back technique of price control.

Is Rationing Adequate?

Much emphasis was placed upon the desirability of rationing during the hearings. It was felt by many witnesses that rationing would itself be adequate to give all civilians their proportionate share of meat and at the same time eliminate black market conditions. However, a proper consideration of all the factors contributing to the over-all meat situation would lead to a contrary conclusion. It is true, as has already been pointed out, that rationing will do its part to adjust the maldistribution situation in the heavily populated areas such as Los Angeles, but rationing alone is not going to bring more slaughtered meat into California's retail markets. It is likewise true that rationing will tend toward an adjustment of existing supplies in the retailers' counters but that it can not affect the ability to obtain additional supplies for those retailers' coolers. The main question mark that still remains now while the Country is still in the early phases of rationing of meat, is whether the time may come when ration coupon holders in California may go to a market and actually fail to get the meat they are entitled to. To this question, this committee only states that such is possible and even probable.

Even disregarding whether it will be possible for Californians to obtain sufficient meat in exchange for their ration coupons, this committee would like to point out certain testimony bearing upon the sufficiency of meat in the average diet. A great deal of testimony was heard regarding inability to obtain sufficient supplies of meat by housewives, defense workers at their plants and even workers on Government projects such as the Guayule Ranch near Indio, California. But specifically technical data was obtained by a scientific authority who had been making a survey on the particular problem at a large defense plant. It was his firm conviction, based upon his experiments, that 2½ pounds of meat per week was the absolute subsistence diet for the average defense worker. This would fit in with the original plans laid down by the Secretary of Agriculture last fall, but apparently he was speaking too prematurely, judging from the ration being allowed at the present time.

Giving serious consideration to this testimony and yet viewing it in the light of the present ration allowed, this committee is of the firm conviction that it will have a substantial effect on the continued operation of defense plants in California. A great deal of testimony was received by the committee from defense plant commissary people about their inability to obtain sufficient supplies of meat. A serious contributing factor to absenteeism, was the shortage of meat, according to another defense plant official. It is not difficult to piece the bits of testimony together and reach the conclusion that even under rationing, absenteeism will continue, although it must be admitted that it may be lessened.

Armed Forces Come First

This committee does not want to give the impression that it encourages a revision in plans of the armed forces in order to give civilians additional supplies. Everyone subscribes to the essential need for taking care of our armed forces first. It is that point, however, that the committee feels some thought should be given to an over-all view of the meat problem, rather than a piecemeal consideration as is the present case. As has been pointed out, California is an importing market for meat, and it would therefore appear that thought might be given to the possibility of the armed forces drawing more upon Mid-West sources of supply than they are doing at present, especially in view of the fact that railroad transportation for civilian freight will be increasingly curtailed as the war progresses.

With respect to the remainder of meat supply after the armed forces have been cared for, the committee feels a reappraisal should be made. No one denies the need for the continuation of the Lend Lease Program, but at the same time no one disputes that essential civilian needs of our own Country must be cared for. Therefore it would appear that lend-lease should be limited to the available supply remaining over and above the rationed consumer demand of this Country. This Lend Lease Program should be so established, that as new countries are assimilated to the program they will be adequately cared for without throwing the whole Lend-Lease Meat Program out of gear. This may require a scaling down of shipments to countries presently cared for in order to give assistance to countries assimilated to the program, but this will have to be done unless we intend to be placed in the position of having the civilian population of the United States go without meat and yet still not care for all the demands of foreign countries under the Lend-Lease Program.

Danger From Argentine Beef

In regard to the matter just referred to, the committee would like to refer to certain testimony presented relating to the Argentine beef situation. Without making any direct accusation, it was suggested to the committee that the whole shortage of meat, especially beef, might be artificially created in order to stimulate such a demand for meat that the bars against Argentine beef might be let down. The committee was particularly impressed with this testimony, not because of the possibility of Argentine beef coming into the State, but because of the danger of hoof and mouth disease. Reference was made to a previous experience about 20 years ago when an epidemic of this disease was started and resulted in the death of thousands of cattle, sheep, and other animals in California.

It has come to this committee's attention that Congressman Emanuel Celler, Administration spokesman in Congress, has just recently urged the letting down of bars against Argentine beef in order to satisfy the hunger of Americans for beef, and at the same time create better diplomatic relations with Argentina. Your committee advances the thought that regardless of diplomatic relations, the danger of hoof and mouth disease is still present, and regardless of whether or not the Administration wants to use the beef shortage as the means of attaining a lifting of the restriction, that every effort should be made to assure its continuance.

Recommendations

Your committee therefore recommends, in view of the foregoing facts developed at its hearings on the meat problem, the following things:

1. Live stock production must be encouraged, rather than discouraged as has been since the institution of price ceilings. Influence should be exerted by this Legislature to impress upon Congress, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Food Administrator and the Price Administrator, that the roll-back technique is unsatisfactory and the specific ceilings must be placed upon every element of agricultural production if the live stock producer is to be encouraged to "finish" his animals for market.

2. Proper adjustment of the National quota must be brought about so that California's proper share of civilian quota meat will be procured. Influence should be exerted by this Legislature to impress the Secretary of Agriculture and Price Administrator that they have as yet failed to give proper attention to the increase in population in California and to adjust the National quota system in line with this population increase.

3. The over-all demand for meat should be balanced with the supplies of meat available. Influence should be exerted by this Legislature to impress upon the Lend-Lease Administrator, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Price Administrator that although the armed forces must be taken care of, that the Lend-Lease Program must be integrated into essential civilian needs of this Country so that this Country's proper needs will be cared for and also the countries under the Lend-Lease Program will be cared for.

4. Some method of adjustment must be made for the substantial number of armed forces personnel who are now eating off of the civilian quota in California. Influence should be exerted by this Legislature upon the Secretary of Agriculture and Price Administrator that some form of ration coupon for armed personnel should be considered so that those serving these members of the armed forces can in turn obtain compensating meat supplies.

5. Legislation insuring proper prosecution of persons guilty of stealing or attempting to steal live or carcass meat.

6. Legislation insuring proper prosecution of persons guilty of stealing ration coupons or of attempting to obtain rationed food items without ration coupons.

7. Legislation insuring proper prosecution of persons guilty of placing uninspected meat in a cooler where inspected meat is stored.

Respectfully submitted.

The question being: Shall the Senate concur in the following Assembly amendments to Senate Bill No. 291?

Amendment No. 1

On page 1, line 12, of the printed bill, as amended, after "property", insert "of which property he is the owner and which property produces no revenue except from the mining of gold and silver, and against which property he has incurred obligations in connection with its purchase, or".

Amendment No. 1b

On page 1 of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 9 and 10, and insert "until causes of said distress have been removed by cessation of the war."

This act shall, therefore, be effective until six months after the termination of hostilities between the United States and all nations with which the United States is at war as determined by an act of Congress or proclamation of the President of the United States, or until October 1, 1945, whichever first occurs."

Amendment No. 3

On page 3 of said bill, as amended, between lines 8 and 9, insert

"SEC. 5. Subject to the limitations as to time provided in Section 1 hereof, any operator of gold or silver mining property who has ceased operating pursuant to the restrictions imposed on gold or silver mining by the United States, and who is in danger of forfeiture under any of the instruments named in Section 2 hereof, may file a petition in the superior court of the county in which such gold or silver mining property or machinery or equipment or the major portion thereof is situated, praying for an order postponing the sale of such property or machinery and equipment, or prevention of forfeiture under the instruments set forth in Section 2 hereof."

SEC. 6. A copy of such petition shall be served upon the trustee and the beneficiary under such deed of trust, upon the mortgagee under such mortgage upon the lessor in a lease providing for payment of minimum royalties and upon the holder of the contract of sale or chattel mortgage on machinery and equipment or the obligee in any contract mentioned in Section 2 hereof, as the case may be, in the manner provided by law for the service of summons in a civil action.

A notice of pendency of such petition shall immediately be recorded in each county in which any of such property is situated, and on the day of such recordation a copy thereof shall be mailed, postage prepaid, from a post office within this State, addressed to such trustee and beneficiary, such mortgagee, or the holder of the contract of sale or chattel mortgage on machinery and equipment, or upon the lessor in a lease providing for payment of minimum royalties or the obligee in any contract mentioned in Section 2 hereof, as the case may be, at their respective places of residence, if known to petitioner, if not, then at the county seat of the county, or at the city and county, where the proceeding is pending.

Such notice of pendency shall state the name of the petitioner, the nature of the petition, and the book and page of the records of the county recorder in which the mortgage or deed of trust or other instrument is recorded.

SEC. 7. Upon application of the petitioner, after service of such petition, or upon application of any other interested party after the filing of the petition, a hearing shall be had thereon within 20 days after such application, upon such notice as the court shall reasonably prescribe; provided, however, that the court if it finds equitable grounds therefor, may postpone such hearing for not to exceed 10 days.

After the filing of such petition and the recording and mailing of the notice of the pendency thereof as provided in Sections 5 and 6 of this act, no sale under the power of sale conferred by such deed of trust or such mortgage or other instrument shall be held nor shall any forfeiture be effected under any of the instruments set forth in Section 2 hereof until the court makes its order in the matter, but nothing herein contained shall prevent such sale or forfeiture at any time after October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever shall first occur.

SEC. 8. Upon such hearing the court may make its order, if it finds equitable grounds for relief, and finds that the security will not be unreasonably jeopardized thereby, ordering that such sale shall not be held or forfeiture declared until after such date as the court considers just and equitable, but in no event shall such date be beyond October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever first occurs, or may make its order dismissing such proceedings.

If the court orders the sale or forfeiture postponed it shall determine the reasonable value of the income from such property, or if the property has no income, then the reasonable rental value of such property, or if the property is unimproved, a reasonable sum to be paid by the trustor or mortgagor, or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof, as determined by the court, and by such order shall require the trustor or mortgagor to pay all or at least a reasonable part of such income, rental value, or sum so determined by the court, in or toward the payment of taxes, insurance, interest, or principal of the indebtedness at such times and in such manner as are determined to be just and equitable under the circumstances.

SEC. 9. The court must include in such order provisions requiring maintenance and repair by the trustor or mortgagor, or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof, regulating the disposition of any income from the property and such other provisions as it deems just and equitable for the protection of the security, but in no event shall the court order the payment by the trustor or mortgagor or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof of a lesser sum than necessary to pay (a) current taxes, (b) all delinquent taxes, except that such taxes may be paid in installments as may be provided by law, and (c) any insurance premiums required to be paid by the petitioner under the contract between the parties.

SEC. 10. When any mortgage or deed of trust upon property, or upon machinery and equipment attached to or used in operating gold or silver mining property or other instrument, has been foreclosed, and the property covered thereby has been sold in whole or in part under decree of foreclosure, and the period of redemption has not yet expired, the mortgagor or trustor thereof, or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof, having the right of redemption, may at any time not later than October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever first occurs, file a petition in the superior court of the county in which the property so sold or the major portion thereof is situated, praying for an order extending such period of redemption.

SEC. 11. A copy of such petition shall be served upon the purchaser of such property at the foreclosure sale, or, if there has been a redemption, upon the last redemptioner, in the manner provided by law for the service of summons in a civil action.

A notice of pendency of such petition shall immediately be recorded in each county in which any of such property is situated, and, on the day of such recordation, a copy thereof shall be mailed, postage prepaid, from a post office within this State, addressed to such purchaser or last redemptioner, as the case may be, at his place of residence, if known to petitioner, if not, then at the county seat of the county, or at the city and county, where the proceeding is pending.

Such notice of pendency shall state the name of the petitioner, the nature of the petition, and the book and page of the records of the county recorder in which the mortgage or deed of trust or other instrument is recorded.

SEC. 12. Upon application of the petitioner after service of such petition, or upon application of any other interested party, after the filing of the petition, a hearing shall be had thereon within 20 days after such application, upon such notice as the court shall reasonably prescribe; provided, however, that the court, if it finds equitable grounds therefor, may postpone such hearing for not to exceed 10 days.

Upon the filing of such petition and the recording and mailing of the notice of pendency thereof as provided in Sections 10 and 11 of this act, the period of redemption, if such period would sooner terminate, shall be extended until 10 days after the court makes its order in the matter, but in no event beyond October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever first occurs.

SEC. 13. Upon such hearing the court may make its order, if it finds equitable grounds for relief and finds that the security will not be unreasonably jeopardized thereby, extending such period of redemption for such additional time as the court considers just and equitable, but in no event beyond October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever first occurs, or may make its order dismissing such proceeding.

If the court by its order extends the period of redemption, it shall determine the reasonable value of the income from such property, or if the property has no income, then the reasonable rental value of such property, or if the property is unimproved, a reasonable sum to be paid by the operator as determined by the court.

The court shall require the operator to pay all or at least a reasonable part of such income, rental value, or sum so determined by the court, in or toward the payment of taxes upon such property, the cost of insurance and the sums to which the purchaser of such property at such foreclosure sale, or the last redemptioner, as the case may be, is entitled under the provisions of Section 707 of the Code of Civil Procedure, at such times and in such manner determined to be just and equitable under the circumstances.

Sec. 14. The court may include in such order provisions requiring maintenance and repair by the operator, regulating the disposition of any income from the property, and such other provisions as it deems just and equitable for the protection of the interest and security of the purchaser or last redemptioner, as the case may be.

In no event shall the court order the payment by the operator of a lesser sum than the greater of (1) the amount of such reasonable value of the income, or such reasonable rental value, or such reasonable sum so determined by the court, or (2) a sum sufficient to pay (a) current taxes, (b) all delinquent taxes, except that such taxes may be paid in installment as provided by law, and (c) a sum reasonably necessary for fire and other insurance upon any improvement upon such property.

Sec. 15. Any sums paid to a purchaser or redemptioner pursuant to Sections 13 or 14 of this act shall be a credit upon the redemption money to be paid as provided in Section 707 of the Code of Civil Procedure; but in the event no redemption is made, the same shall belong to such purchaser or redemptioner.

Sec. 16. Nothing in this act shall be construed as abridging or limiting the statutory right of redemption provided in Sections 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706 and 707 of the Code of Civil Procedure, or as shortening the period of redemption as therein provided, or as altering the mode or procedure for redemption as therein provided.

Sec. 17. In any decree rendered prior to October 1, 1945, foreclosing a mortgage or deed of trust upon real property, the court may provide that the sale of the property shall not be held until on or after such date as the court considers just and equitable, but in no event later than October 1, 1945. If the court provides in such decree that the sale shall not be held until on or after such date as it shall fix, it shall determine the reasonable value of the income from such property, or if the property has no income, then the reasonable rental value of such property, or if the property is unimproved, a reasonable sum to be paid by the trustor or mortgagor or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof, as determined by the court, and shall require the trustor or mortgagor or holder under other instrument set forth in Section 2 hereof to pay all or at least a reasonable part of such income, rental value, or sum so determined by the court, in or toward the payment of taxes, insurance, interest, or principal of the indebtedness at such times and in such manner determined to be just and equitable under the circumstances. The court may include in such order provisions requiring maintenance and repair regulating the disposition of any income from the property, and such other provisions as it deems just and equitable for the protection of the security.

After such hearing the court, if it shall determine that it is equitable and just so to do and that the security will not be unreasonably prejudiced thereby, may make its order postponing to a date not later than October 1, 1945, or six months after termination of the war, whichever shall first occur, the foreclosure, termination or forfeiture of the petitioners' interest under such contract of purchase on substantially the same terms and conditions as those prescribed in Sections 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of this act, or the court may make its order dismissing such proceeding.

Sec. 18. If the trustor, mortgagor or purchaser under a contract of purchase commits waste or defaults in any payment or act required by order or decree of court, the court, unless good excuse therefor is shown, shall order that the sale, foreclosure, termination or forfeiture postponed by its order or decree proceed as provided by law, or that the period of redemption extended by its order or decree shall expire on the making of its order or within the time provided by law, whichever shall last occur, and that the moneys to be paid on redemption, if theretofore reduced, be increased to the extent of such previous reduction, if it finds after hearing upon such notice to the original petitioner or his attorney as it prescribes, that there has been such waste or such default, unless good excuse therefor is shown, amounting to a material breach of the order or decree of postponement or extension.

Sec. 19. No suit or action shall be commenced against the guarantor of any note secured by a mortgage or deed of trust upon gold or silver mining properties, property, or upon chattels attached to or used in connection with gold or silver mining property, in any case while, pursuant to the provisions of this act, no sale may be made under any power of sale contained in such mortgage or deed of trust or while no sale may be made under the final decree of foreclosure rendered in an action to foreclose such mortgage.

Sec. 20. No sale shall be made under any decree of foreclosure, of, or under any power of sale contained in, any chattel mortgage upon any personal property located in and used in connection with the operation of any building located upon gold or silver mining property, until on or after such date as a sale of such gold or silver mining property is lawfully held under such mortgage, deed of trust, or contract of purchase, when such chattel mortgage was given as additional security for an obligation also secured by a deed of trust, mortgage, or contract of purchase, on such real property or other instrument mentioned in Section 2 hereof.

SEC. 21. Whenever the time within which an action may be commenced upon any obligation founded upon a written instrument secured by chattel mortgage, mortgage, deed of trust or contract of purchase, or founded upon any guarantee of such obligation or any contract of suretyship therefor or any endorsement of such instrument, would expire by virtue of Section 337 of the Code of Civil Procedure, or any other provision of law, during the period commencing with the effective date of this act and ending on the date upon which this act shall cease to be in effect, with respect to any property or chattel relating to which a petition has been filed under this act, such time is hereby extended so as not to expire until December 31, 1945, or nine months after cessation of the war, whichever shall first occur.

SEC. 22. Nothing contained in this act shall apply to or be deemed to affect:

(a) Any mortgage, deed of trust, lease agreement, operating agreement or contract of sale upon gold or silver mining property, or upon chattels attached to real property, executed after the effective date of this act.

The failure on the part of any trustor, mortgagor or purchaser or operator to file a petition within the times specified in this act, shall be deemed a waiver of the benefit of the provisions of this act.

SEC. 25. SEC. 28. If any section, clause or part of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is finally determined by the courts to be unconstitutional such section, clause or part shall no longer be effective or such application shall no longer control, but all other sections, clauses or parts or the application thereof to other persons and circumstances shall continue in full force and effect; it being the intent of the Legislature to make this act as effective as possible to relieve operators in the manner herein provided.

SEC. 29. Whenever any petition under this act is to be or is being heard by the court, the interested parties may submit to the court, in writing, a composition of the indebtedness involved in the proceeding, or a compromise settlement of the proceeding, and the court shall have jurisdiction and may by its order confirm and approve such composition or settlement.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 13, 1943

*Hon. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the State Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. BEEK: Attached hereto is a copy of the resolution adopted by the California Farm Production Council in a meeting held here in Sacramento, April 9 and 10, 1943, relating to the urgent need for an immediate return to standard time.

You will undoubtedly recall the California Farm Production Council was created by Assembly Bill No. 1 of the Second Extraordinary Session. A comparable bill to serve in the sense of a stop gap was Senate Bill No. 427, signed by the Governor on Wednesday, April 7th. On the same date, Governor Warren appointed the seven farmer members of the California Farm Production Council and requested them to work with me under the terms of Senate Bill No. 427.

As of this date, I have also transmitted a copy of this resolution to Senator Bradford S. Crittenden, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

Very sincerely,

W. J. CECIL, Director

CALIFORNIA FARM PRODUCTION COUNCIL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 9-10, 1943

Resolution Relative to the Necessity of Returning to Standard Time

WHEREAS, War time was adopted in place of standard time as a war measure and for the purpose of conserving electric power through the means of starting the working day one hour earlier; and

WHEREAS, Farmers accepted this action knowing that it would make farm operations difficult and, in a predominance of cases, inefficient; and

WHEREAS, Conditions have now generally changed with war industries on a 24-hour basis and, therefore, but little affected; with merchandising interests now operating on staggered hours without need for war time; and

WHEREAS, California's public and private power utilities have indicated clearly that the saving in power through the change to war time has been negligible and, therefore, of no real importance to production; and

WHEREAS, Food and fiber production has now definitely become the major problem of the State and Nation, both in winning the war and the peace, with known losses in this vital production now far exceeding anticipated losses; and

WHEREAS, The delay of one hour sets back the harvesting day accordingly for all crops, including hay, corn, beans, and cotton, which must dry out before being harvested, and thus one hour each day of valuable harvesting time is lost, thereby reducing the production of farm men and machine from 10 per cent to 20 per cent—delaying harvests in some cases to the extent that losses of entire crops occur—with comparable losses applying in sheep shearing and in other live stock activities; and

WHEREAS, These losses occur in the winter months also since it is then impossible to start work before daylight and, therefore, the work day is reduced 10 per cent, which in California results in delaying plantings to the point where crop yields are materially reduced; and

WHEREAS, In conclusion, we believe that a return to standard time would be equivalent to an 8 to 10 per cent increase in the farm labor supply and a 10 to 15 per cent increase in harvest equipment; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the California Farm Production Council, meeting in Sacramento, California, April 9 and 10, 1943, does urge the Legislature of the State of California to take such action as it may deem to be necessary to return California to standard time, to suggest to other States of the Western Area that they follow this same procedure, and to memorialize Congress to return to standard time in the United States to the end that the farmers may be enabled to make full use of available manpower and machinery and so secure the maximum production of food and fiber.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 12, 1943

*To the Senate of the State of California
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

ATTENTION MR. JOSEPH BECK, SECRETARY

GENTLEMEN: We are pleased to transmit herewith Report from the California Commission on Interstate Cooperation, which is required by the statute creating said commission.

Very sincerely,

W. C. JACOBSEN, Executive Secretary
California Commission on Interstate Cooperation

"SECTION 1. Section 73 is hereby added to the State Civil Service Act, to read as follows:

Sec. 73. Every State employee compensated on a monthly basis required and ordered to work in excess of a normal work week as established by the State Personnel Board for the class of his position, shall receive overtime compensation based on his regular rate of pay for all such overtime; provided, that no overtime compensation shall be paid on any portion of an employee's regular rate of pay in excess of two hundred fifty dollars ($250) per month.

Within 90 days of the effective date of this section, the State Personnel Board shall for each class in the State service for which a monthly salary range is fixed determine and establish the normal work week for the class. For purposes of determining eligibility for overtime compensation, the State Personnel Board shall allocate, and reallocate as the needs of the service require, each State civil service class for which a monthly salary range is fixed into one of the following groups:

(1) Classes with a normal work week of 40 hours;

(2) Classes with a normal work week of 44 hours;

(3) Classes with a normal work week of 48 hours;

(4) Classes which can not be included in any plan of payment for overtime because

(a) While requiring at least 40 hours per week, the duties and responsibilities are such that they do not adapt themselves to a maximum number of hours per week;

(b) The performance of duties is required on a part-time or intermittent basis and does not amount to a maximum of 40 hours per week.

Nothing in this act shall be construed as prohibiting the granting of compensating time off in lieu of overtime worked where such compensating time off can be granted within 30 days of the date worked and where it can be granted without impairing the services rendered by the agency. The State Personnel Board shall adopt rules and regulations governing overtime compensation as herein provided.

SEC. 2. Within 30 days of the effective date of this act, every department, bureau, board, commission, or office in which there are employees not subject to State civil service shall submit to the State Personnel Board all information necessary for a determination of the normal work week for each such employee. The State Personnel Board shall within the time limits herein designated determine and establish the normal work week for exempt employees in the same manner as that prescribed for civil service employees. All such employees shall be entitled to overtime compensation on the same basis as provided for civil service employees under Section 73 of the State Civil Service Act.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting said necessity is as follows:

During the present emergency, lack of manpower has demonstrated the necessity of immediately making some provision for the payment of overtime to State employees in order that their services may be utilized over and above the presently established normal work week. Unless their services can be used, it will be necessary to attempt to obtain much less experienced help from other sources, with the result that the cost of services rendered will be greatly increased. It is for the best interests of the State service that this act therefore go into effect immediately."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Tenney, ordered printed in the Journal:

CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL OF LOS ANGELES
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, April 12, 1943

Hon. Jack B. Tenney State Senator, Sacramento, California

MY DEAR SENATOR: It was with a great deal of interest that I read in Saturday morning's papers the announcement of the submission of your committee's report to the State Legislature, and while I have some criticism as to certain of its recommendations concerning legislation affecting the internal control of the affairs of local unions, I want to compliment you upon the report as a whole.

I can not help but feel that you and your committee have done the people of the State of California, yes, and of the whole United States, an immeasurable service.

You, of course, know my views upon the Communists, Nazi Bunds, and other organizations of that type, and particularly of the Communists, and that I think every American labor union ought to expel them from their ranks, and I think also, that during the war, at least, it should go further than that, that they should be prohibited from working in war plants or places where any information upon military matters could be secured that would be of value to an enemy of this Country.

The newspaper accounts of your report hint that the committee dwelt upon the subject of the activities of the Communists and the C. I. O. prior to the entrance of Russia into the World War in June of 1941, and refers to the many so-called strikes that took place in defense industries the months immediately preceding that time.

I earnestly hope that your committee went into that phase of Communist activity to a full extent, because I feel that if it did, it will find that there was a well-laid pattern by the Communists to do three things, first, to deliberately prevent any labor dispute from being settled without a strike, regardless of how good a settlement could have been made on behalf of the workers in an industry, without a strike. Second, that this portion of the program had a double purpose, one of them to hinder, interrupt, and make impossible the then program of defense preparations that was then being carried on by the United States Government in anticipation of the inevitable entrance of this Country into the World War. The other objective was a well-defined plan to capitalize upon the then mounting unpopularity of the trade union movement, which was reflected in the legislation that was then being proposed in Congress, and in the several State Legislatures, and which had for its avowed purpose the outlawing of labor unions and their legitimate activities.

The Communists felt that if a sufficient amount of labor disturbances, and particularly unjustifiable strikes like that at the North American Aviation Co. plant and the Harvil Die Casting Co. plant here in Los Angeles, that Congress would pass legislation depriving labor unions of the right of assemblage, and control of their own operations; of the right to strike; and of the right of collective bargaining.

The Communists felt that the American working people had enjoyed so many liberties for so many years, that if Congress could be fooled into passing legislation to take those liberties away from the working people of this Country, it would lay the foundation of what the Communists called the "Grand Strike," and would be a springboard from which it could incite general strikes all over the Country.

They pointed out in their letters of instructions to their organizers and directors, that even the most conservative trade unionists, mentioning many names, such as Bill Green, Dan Tobin, myself, and others, would rebel against such restrictive legislation, and that, as a consequence of the precipitation of a fight for freedom of action by the workers of this Country, there would be none to oppose the leadership of the Communist Party and thereby transforming the so-called "Grand Strike" into a plain revolution.

I know, and you know, that such a program sounds fantastic, and that there are few who would believe that it exists, but I have become firmly convinced that a very major part of the strategy of the Communists is to lay their plans in such a fantastic manner that the average layman would not believe them, and, in itself, it furnishes the finest cover-up and refuge for them when they are attacked in our unions and other places.

I earnestly hope that the Legislature will continue your committee and will supply it with ample funds to more thoroughly and exhaustively go into this matter, because I am sure that if that is done, that the people of the State of California will have the opportunity, at least, to learn what is going on under their noses, and, surely, when they do learn it, they will appreciate the fact that America has a greater menace, and a far more dangerous enemy within our own borders, one that we meet every day, than all the combined Axis forces put together.

I am also sure that such a continued investigation will bring out facts that if the American people will only read and understand, will prove to them that the babies that our Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are leaving behind them now, will be just about old enough to be again drawn into the armed forces of this Country to engage in a war that will be forced upon America by the Communist Government of Russia in order to prevent that government from doing the very same thing that the German Government under Hitler, and the Italian Government under Mussolini, and the Japanese Government under Tojo, are now doing.

You have done a splendid job so far, Jack, and the people of this State owe you a far greater debt of gratitude than they will ever realize.

I would appreciate it a lot if you would send me a copy of your complete report, which I would like to present, a part at a time, to the delegates of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council from the many unions that make up that splendid body, so they may take the story back to the membership of those unions.

With all good wishes, and a pat on the back for the splendid job you have done, believe me to be

Sincerely and fraternally yours,

J. W. BUZZELL, Secretary-Treasurer
Los Angeles Central Labor Council

P.S. If this letter is of any value to you, you may use it in any way you wish.
J.W.B.

WHEREAS, The war effort requires increased production of live stock and to that end various agencies of the Federal Government have requested and sought to encourage the increased production thereof; and

WHEREAS, Over one-half million acres of California's best range land are now in military reservations where live stock can not be grazed, and this loss must be replaced by other land if increased production is to be had; and

WHEREAS, There are within the State of California several National parks which have an over abundant supply of feed capable of supporting large numbers of live stock throughout the summer months without endangering the food supply for deer and other wild life and without interfering with the use and enjoyment of such parks by tourists who are now unable to use the park facilities to the same extent as in years past; and

WHEREAS, Thousands of acres of range lands adjacent to the Lassen Volcanic National Park heretofore used have been made unusable for grazing purposes because of threatened live stock trespass action against live stock owners in the event their live stock wanders into the park and by requiring fencing which was not heretofore required; and

WHEREAS, By reason of the aforesaid policy thousands of acres of feed in the Counties of Tehama, Shasta, Lassen, Inyo, Tulare, Fresno, Mono, Tuolumne, Mariposa, and others have been made unusable to producers; now, therefore, be it

(b) In a taxable year ending after December 31, 1941, the taxpayer is required to pay or repay to the United States or any agency thereof the amount of profits eliminated, or

(c) The amount of profits eliminated is applied as an offset against other amounts due the taxpayer,

Then the profits so eliminated shall be excluded from gross income for the prior taxable year if they were included in gross income for the prior taxable year.

SEC. 67. Section 17321.3 is added to said code, to read:

17321.3. As used in Section 17321, "renegotiation" includes

(a) Any amount which constitutes excessive profits within the meaning assigned to that term by subsection (a) of Section 403 of the Sixth Supplemental National Defense Appropriation Act (Public 528, 77th Cong., 2d Sess.), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1942,

(b) Any part of the contract price of a contract with the United States or any agency thereof, 17321.7. As used in Section 17321, "subcontract" includes any purchase order or agreement which is a subcontract within the meaning assigned to that term by subsection (a) of Section 403 of the Sixth Supplemental National Defense Appropriation Act (Public 528, 77th Cong., 2d Sess.), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1942.

SEC. 70. Section 17322 is added to said code, to read:

17322. In the case of a cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contract between the United States or any agency thereof and the taxpayer, if an item for which the taxpayer has been reimbursed by the United States or any agency thereof is disallowed as an item of cost chargeable to that contract, and, in a taxable year ending after December 31, 1941, the taxpayer is required to repay the United States or any agency thereof the amount disallowed, or the amount disallowed is applied as an offset against other amounts due the taxpayer, for the purposes of this part the amount so disallowed or so applied as an offset shall be allowed as a deduction in the taxable year in which the reimbursement for the item was received or was accrued to the extent that the taxpayer's taxable net income for the year in which the cost was incurred would have been reduced had no reimbursement been received or accrued.

SEC. 71. Section 17322.3 is added to said code, to read:

17322.3. The amount of the payment, repayment, or offset described in Sections 17321 and 17322 shall not constitute a deduction for the year in which paid or incurred.

SEC. 72. Section 17322.5 is added to said code, to read:

17322.5. Sections 17321 to 17322.2, inclusive, shall not apply in respect of any contract if the taxpayer shows to the satisfaction of the commissioner that a different method of accounting for the amount of the payment, repayment, or disallowance clearly reflects income, and in such case the payment, repayment, or disallowance shall be accounted for with respect to the taxable year provided for under that method.

SEC. 73. Section 17322.7 is added to said code, to read:

17322.7. Any overpayment in tax which results from the application of Sections 17321 to 17322.5, inclusive, shall be credited or refunded as provided in this part. Notwithstanding the provisions of any statute of limitations, credit or refund shall be made if claim therefor is filed within four years from the last day prescribed for filing the return or within two years from the date of payment, repayment, or offset described in Sections 17321 to 17322.5, inclusive, whichever is later.

SEC. 74. Section 17322.9 is added to said code, to read:

17322.9. If prior to the payment of the last installment of tax for the taxable year the taxpayer becomes entitled to the exclusions or deductions provided in Sections 17321 to 17322.5, inclusive, for its taxable year, the taxpayer may, under regulation prescribed by the commissioner, file a claim in abatement of any unpaid tax or portion thereof, but not in excess of the reduction in tax resulting from the application of these sections.

SEC. 75. Section 17332.11 is added to said code, to read:

17332.11. In any case in which a claim in abatement is filed pursuant to Section 17322.9, and the commissioner makes an abatement, the tax disclosed by the original return shall, for the purpose of Article 2 of Chapter 11 of this part, be deemed to be reduced by the amount of the tax abated.

SEC. 76. Article 1.5, comprising Sections 17324 to 17324.16, inclusive, is added to Chapter 4, Part 10, Division 2, of said code, to read:

Article 1.5. Plans Deferring Receipt of Compensation

17324. In computing net income, if contributions are paid by an employer to or under a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or if compensation is paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of the compensation, contributions or compensation shall not be deductible under Section 17301 but shall be deductible, if deductible under Section 17301 without regard to this article, under this article but only to the extent allowed under Sections 17324.1, 17324.2, 17324.3, and 17324.4.

17324.1. There shall be a deduction allowed in the taxable year when paid of contributions paid into a pension trust.

17324.2. If the taxable year ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is exempt under Article 3 of Chapter 8, the amount deductible is:

(a) An amount not in excess of 5 per cent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all the employees under the trust, but the amount may be reduced for future years if found by the commissioner upon periodical examinations at not less than five-year intervals to be more than the amount reasonably necessary to provide the remaining unfunded cost of past and current service credits of all employees under the plan, plus

(b) Any excess over the amount allowable under (a) necessary to provide with respect to all of the employees under the trust the remaining unfunded cost of their past and current service credits distributed as a level amount or a level percentage of compensation, over the remaining future service of each such employee, as determined under regulations prescribed by the commissioner. However, if the remaining unfunded cost with respect to any three individuals is more than 50 per cent of the remaining unfunded cost, the amount of the unfunded cost attributable to such individuals shall be distributed over a period of at least five taxable years.

17324.3. In lieu of the amounts allowable under Section 17324.2, the amount deductible may be

(a) An amount equal to the normal cost of the plan, as determined under regulations prescribed by the commissioner, plus

(b) If past service or other supplementary pension or annuity credits are provided by the plan, an amount not in excess of 10 per cent of the cost which would be required to completely fund or purchase the pension or annuity credits as of the date when they are included in the plan, as determined under regulations prescribed by the commissioner, except that in no case shall a deduction be allowed for an amount (other than the normal cost) paid in after such pension or annuity credits are completely funded or purchased.

17324.4. Any amount paid in a taxable year in excess of the amount deductible in that year under Sections 17324.2 and 17324.3 shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time to the extent of the difference between the amount paid and deductible in each succeeding year and the maximum amount deductible for that year.

17324.5. A deduction shall be allowed in the taxable year when paid, in an amount determined in accordance with this article, if the contributions are paid toward the purchase of retirement annuities and that purchase is a part of a plan which meets the requirement of Sections 18159, 18160, 18161, and 18162 and if refunds of premiums, if any, are applied within the current taxable year or next succeeding taxable year toward the purchase of these retirement annuities.

17324.6. A deduction shall be allowed in the taxable year when paid, if the contributions are paid into a stock bonus or profit-sharing trust, and if the taxable year ends within or with a taxable year of the trust with respect to which the trust is exempt under Article 3 of Chapter 8 in an amount not in excess of 15 per cent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all employees under the stock bonus or profit-sharing plan.

17324.7. If in any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, there is paid into the trust, or a similar trust then in effect, amounts less than the amounts deductible under Section 17324.6, the excess, or if no amount is paid, the amounts deductible, shall be carried forward and be deductible when paid in the succeeding taxable years in order of time, but the amount so deductible under this section in any succeeding taxable year shall not exceed 15 per centum of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during that succeeding taxable year to the beneficiaries under the plan.

17324.8. In addition, any amount paid into the trust in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, in excess of the amount allowable with respect to that year under Sections 17324.6 and 17324.7 shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time, but the amount so deductible under this section in any one succeeding taxable year together with the amount allowable under Section 17324.6 shall not exceed 15 per centum of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to the beneficiaries under the plan.

17324.9. As used in this article "stock bonus or profit-sharing trust" shall not include any trust designed to provide benefits upon retirement and covering a period of years, if under the plan the amounts to be contributed by the employer can be determined actuarially. If the contributions are made to two or more stock bonus or profit-sharing trusts, these trusts shall be considered a single trust for the purposes of applying the limitations in Sections 17324.6, 17324.7, and 17324.8.

17324.10. There shall be allowed a deduction in the taxable year when paid, if the plan is not one included in the preceding sections of this article, if the employees' rights to or derived from the employer's contribution or compensation are non-forfeitable at the time the contribution or compensation is paid.

17324.11. For the purposes of the preceding sections in this article, except Section 17324.10, a taxpayer on the accrual basis shall be deemed to have made a payment on the last day of the year of accrual if the payment is on account of the taxable year and is made within 60 days after the close of the taxable year of accrual.

17324.12. If amounts are deductible under any of the preceding sections in this article except Sections 17324.10 and 17324.11, in connection with two or more trusts, or one or more trusts and an annuity plan, the total amount deductible in a taxable year under these trusts and plans shall not exceed 25 per cent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to the persons who are the beneficiaries of the trusts or plans.

17324.13. In addition, any amount paid into a trust or under annuity plans in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, in excess of the amount allowable with respect to such year under Section 17324.12, shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time. The amount deductible under this section in any one succeeding taxable year together with the amount allowable under Section 17324.12 shall not exceed 30 per cent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable years to the beneficiaries under the trusts or plans.

17324.14. Sections 17324.11, 17324.12, and 17324.13 shall not have the effect of reducing the amount otherwise deductible under the preceding sections of this article, except Sections 17324.10 and 17324.11, if no employee is a beneficiary under more than one trust, or a trust and an annuity plan.

17324.15. If there is no plan, but a method of employer contributions or compensation has the effect of a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or similar plan deferring the receipt of compensation, this article shall apply as if there were a plan.

17324.16. Any deduction allowable under Section 17303 (as it read prior to its repeal in 1943) for a taxable year beginning before January 1, 1943, which was apportioned to any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, shall be allowed as a deduction for the years to which so apportioned to the extent allowable under this article as it then read if it had remained in force with respect to that year.

SEC. 77. Article 1.7, comprising Sections 17325 to 17350, inclusive, is added to Chapter 4, Part 10, Division 2 of said code, to read:

Article 1.7. War Losses

17325. In computing net income there shall be allowed as a deduction losses sustained during the taxable year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise of property destroyed or seized on or after December 7, 1941, in the course of military or naval operations by the United States or any other country engaged in the present war.

17326. Property described in Section 17325 shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized on a date chosen by the taxpayer in the manner provided in Section 17333, which falls between:

(a) The latest date, as established to the satisfaction of the commissioner, on which that property may be considered as not destroyed or seized, and

(b) The earliest date, as established to the satisfaction of the commissioner, on which that property may be considered as having already been destroyed or seized.

17327. For the purposes of this article property within an area which comes under the control of a country at war with the United States after the date war with such country is declared by the United States shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized in the course of military or naval operations by that country.

17328. The date specified in Section 17326 (a) shall not be later than the latest date determined by the commissioner as the date on which that area was under the control of the United States or a country not at war with the United States, and the date specified in Section 17326 (b) shall not be later than the earliest date determined by the commissioner as the date on which that area may be considered under the control of the country which is at war with the United States.

17329. Property within any country at war with the United States, or within an area under the control of that country on the date war with that country was declared by the United States, shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized on the date war with that country was declared by the United States.

17330. Any interest in, or with respect to, property described in Sections 17325, 17326, 17327 and 17329, including any interest represented by a security as defined in Section 17307 or Section 17312, which becomes worthless shall be considered to have been destroyed or seized, and the loss therefrom shall be considered a loss from the destruction or seizure. The destruction or seizure shall be deemed to occur on the date chosen by the taxpayer which falls between the dates specified in Section 17326, or on the date prescribed in Sections 17327 and 17328, as the case may be, when the last property described in the applicable section to which the interest relates would be deemed destroyed or seized under the applicable section.

17331. Section 17330 shall apply only if the interest would have become worthless if the property had been destroyed. For the purposes of this section, an interest shall be deemed to have become worthless notwithstanding the fact that the interest has a value if that value is attributable solely to the possibility of recovery of the property, compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of its destruction or seizure, or both. Sections 17311 and 17307 shall not apply to any interest which under this section is considered to have been destroyed or seized.

17332. Under regulations prescribed by the commissioner, a taxpayer who owns 100 per cent, excluding qualifying shares, of each class of stock of a corporation may elect to determine the worthlessness of his interest, described in Section 17331, in or with respect to the property of the corporation, without regard to the amount of the property of that corporation which would be excluded under Section 17349 in determining the adjusted basis of all the assets of the corporation for the purposes of Sections 17348, 17349 and 17349.5, but that amount shall be treated under Section 17334 as a recovery by the taxpayer in the taxable year with respect to such interest.

17333. The taxpayer's choice of a date under Sections 17326 and 17330 shall be effective only if made within the time and in the manner as may be prescribed by regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

17334. In the case of any property or interest in or with respect to property deemed to be destroyed or seized under this article, the amount of the loss on account of that property or interest shall be determined with regard to any recoveries with respect thereto in the taxable year but without regard to any possibility of recovering that property or interest, or of receiving any compensation other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of that property or interest in the taxable year or in any future taxable year.

17335. In the case of any property or interest in or with respect to property deemed to be destroyed or seized under this article, the taxpayer may choose to decrease the amount of the loss by all obligations or liabilities of the taxpayer with respect to that property or interest discharged or satisfied out of the property or interest upon its destruction or seizure, if the commissioner is satisfied that those obligations or liabilities are so discharged or satisfied in a subsequent taxable year, or that the taxpayer is unable to determine whether or not those obligations or liabilities are in fact discharged or satisfied.

17336. No loss shall be deemed to have been sustained upon the destruction or seizure of the property or interest to the extent that it is compensated for by the discharge or satisfaction of obligations and liabilities of the taxpayer out of the property or interest in the taxable year in which the destruction or seizure is deemed to have occurred. The taxpayer's choice under this article shall be effective only if made within the time and in the manner as may be prescribed by regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

17337. Upon the recovery in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under this article as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year, the amount of the recovery shall be included in gross income to the extent provided in Section 17338.

17338. The amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of property considered under this article as destroyed or seized shall be an amount equal to the aggregate of the money and the fair market value of the property, determined as of the date of the recovery.

17339. To the extent that this amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous recoveries do not exceed that part of the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in this article which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this part, this amount shall not be includible in gross income and shall not be deemed gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure.

17341. To the extent that this amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous recoveries exceed the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in this article, the amount shall be considered a gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure and shall be recognized or not recognized as provided in Section 17672.

17342. If for any previous taxable year the taxpayer chooses under Sections 17334, 17335 and 17336 to treat any obligations and liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of the property or interest described in Sections 17330, 17331 and 17332, and if such obligations and liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied, the amount of such obligations and liabilities treated as discharged or satisfied under Sections 17334, 17335 and 17336 shall be considered for the purposes of this article as a deduction by reason of this article which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this part.

17343. For the purposes of Sections 17338, 17339, 17340, 17341 and 17342, an allowable deduction for any taxable year on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in this article shall, to the extent not allowed in computing the tax of the taxpayer for the taxable year, be considered an allowable deduction which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this part.

17314. For the purposes of Sections 17337 to 17342, inclusive, the restoration in whole or in part of the value of any interest described in Sections 17330, 17331 and 17332 by reason of any recovery of money or property in respect of property to which the interest related and which was considered under Sections 17326 and 17327 as destroyed or seized shall be deemed a recovery of property in respect of property considered as destroyed or seized.

17315. The unadjusted basis of property recovered in respect of property considered destroyed or seized under this article shall be determined under Sections 17346 and 17347.

17316. The unadjusted basis shall be an amount equal to the fair market value of that property, determined as of the date of the recovery, reduced by an amount equal to the excess of the aggregate of the fair market value and the amounts of previous recoveries of money or property in respect of property considered under this article as destroyed or seized over the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in this article and increased by that portion of the amount of the recovery which under Section 17341 is treated as a recognized gain from the involuntary conversion of property.

17317. Upon application of the taxpayer, the aggregate of the bases, determined under Section 17346, of any properties recovered in respect of properties considered under this article as destroyed or seized may be allocated among the properties so recovered, in such manner as the commissioner may determine under regulations prescribed by him, and the amounts so allocated to any property so recovered shall be the unadjusted basis of the property in lieu of the unadjusted basis of the property determined under Section 17346.

(a) A taxpayer owns not less than 50 per cent of each class of stock of a corporation; and

(b) That corporation has property described under this article as destroyed or seized; and

(c) The adjusted basis for determining loss of that property is at least 75 per cent of the adjusted basis for determining loss of all the property of that corporation; and

(d) That corporation completely liquidates within one year after that property is deemed to be destroyed or seized, or by December 31, 1943, whichever is later; and

(e) The liquidation is accomplished by distributing all the assets which it is able to distribute and all its rights to assets which it is not able to distribute, including the right to the recovery of the property described in Sections 17326 to 17329, inclusive.

Then that part of the loss by the taxpayer on the liquidation which would be attributable to the destruction or seizure of the property, as established to the satisfaction of the commissioner, shall be treated for the purposes of this part as a loss by the taxpayer upon the destruction or seizure of the part of the stock or other interest of the taxpayer to which such loss is allocable. That part of the stock or other interest of the taxpayer shall be treated for the purposes of this article as property described in Sections 17330, 17331 and 17332.

17319. In determining the adjusted basis of all the property of the corporation, there shall be excluded money in the United States, bank deposits, the right to receive money from any person not situated in a country at war with the United States or in a territory under the control of that country, and obligations issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, except that there shall not be excluded any property which is destroyed or seized as described in this article within or before the taxable period.

17319.5. The adjusted basis of property of the corporation shall be determined as of the date immediately preceding the first date on which any property was destroyed or seized, as described in this article, or as of any later date falling within or before the taxable period on the basis of which the determination will produce a greater amount.

17350. The determination as to whether and to what extent an allowable deduction on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in this article did or did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter shall be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

SEC. 78. Section 17351 of said code is amended to read:

17351. In computing net income no deduction shall in any case be allowed in respect of:

(a) Personal, living, or family expenses [..], except extraordinary medical expenses deductible under Sections 17319, 17319.3 and 17319.5.

(b) Any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or estate.

(c) Any amount expended in restoring property or in making good the exhaustion thereof for which an allowance is or has been made.

(d) Premiums paid on any life insurance policy covering the life of any officer or employee, or of any person financially interested in any trade or business carried on by the taxpayer, when the taxpayer is directly or indirectly a beneficiary under the policy.

(e) Any amount otherwise allowable as a deduction which is allocable to one or more classes of income (whether or not any amount of income of that class or classes is received or accrued) wholly exempt from the taxes imposed by this part.

(f) Any amount paid or accrued on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase a single premium life insurance or endowment contract. For the purposes of this subsection, if substantially all the premiums on a life insurance or endowment contract are paid within a period of four years from the date on which such contract is purchased, such contract shall be considered a single premium life insurance or endowment contract; or

(g) Amounts paid or accrued for such taxes and carrying charges as, under regulations prescribed by the commissioner, are chargeable to capital account with respect to property, if the taxpayer elects, in accordance with such regulations, to treat those taxes or charges as so chargeable.

SEC. 79. Section 17357 is added to said code, to read:

17357. In computing net income no deduction shall be allowed under Section 17301 for any contribution or gift which would be allowable as a deduction under Sections 17315 and 17316 were it not for the 15 per cent limitation therein contained and for the requirement therein that payment must be made within the taxable year.

SEC. 80. Section 17503 of said code is amended to read:

17503. The method described in Section 17502 may be used

(a) Only in inventorying goods (required under Section 17501 to be inventoried) specified in an application to use such method filed at such time and in such manner as the commissioner may prescribe; and

(b) Only if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the commissioner that the taxpayer has used no procedure other than that specified in subdivisions (b) and (c) of Section 17502 in inventorying [to ascertain income, profit, or loss for credit purposes or for the purpose of reports to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or to beneficiaries] such goods for any period beginning with or during the first taxable year for which the method described in Section 17502 is to be used [to ascertain the income, profit, or loss of the first taxable year for which the method described in Section 17502 is to be used, for the purpose of a report or statement covering the taxable year to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or to beneficiaries, or for credit purposes].

SEC. 81. Section 17506 of said code is amended to read:

17506. If a taxpayer, having complied with Section 17503, uses the method described for any taxable year, that method shall be used in all subsequent taxable years unless

(a) With the approval of the commissioner a change to a different method is authorized; or

(b) The commissioner determines that the taxpayer has used for any [period beginning with or during any] such subsequent taxable year some procedure other than that specified in subdivision (b) of Section 17502 in inventorying [to ascertain income, profit, or loss for credit purposes or for the purpose of reports to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or to beneficiaries] the goods specified in the application [to ascertain the income, profit, or loss of such subsequent taxable year for the purpose of a report or statement covering such taxable year to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or beneficiaries, or for credit purposes] and requires a change to a method different from that prescribed in Section 17502 beginning with such subsequent taxable year or any taxable year thereafter.

In either of the above cases, the change to, and the use of, the different method shall be in accordance with such regulations as the commissioner may prescribe as necessary in order that the use of such method may clearly reflect income.

SEC. 82. Article 1.5, comprising Sections 17507 to 17516, inclusive, is added to Chapter 5 of Part 10 of Division 2 of said code, to read:

Article 1.5. Involuntary Liquidation Due to War Conditions

17507. As used in this article, "involuntary liquidation" means the sale or other disposition of goods inventoried under the method described in Article 1, either voluntary or involuntary, coupled with a failure on the part of the taxpayer to purchase, manufacture, or otherwise produce and have on hand at the close of the taxable year in which a sale or other disposition occurred such goods as would, if on hand at the close of such taxable year, be subject to the provisions of Article 1, if such failure on the part of the taxpayer is due, directly and exclusively:

- (a) To enemy capture or control of sources of limited foreign supply;
- (b) To shipping or other transportation shortages;
- (c) To material shortages resulting from priorities or allocations;
- (d) To labor shortages;
- (e) To other prevailing war conditions, beyond the control of the taxpayer.

17508. The net income of the taxpayer otherwise determined for the year of involuntary liquidation shall be adjusted according to the provisions of Sections 17509 and 17510:

(a) If, for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, and prior to the termination of the present war as proclaimed by the President of the United States, the closing inventory of a taxpayer inventorying goods under the method provided in this section reflects a decrease from the opening inventory of goods for this year; and

(b) If, at the time of the filing of the taxpayer's income tax return for such year, the taxpayer elects to have the provisions of this section apply and so notifies the commissioner; and

(c) If, at the time of such election, it is established to the satisfaction of the commissioner, in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner, that such decrease is attributable to the involuntary liquidation of the inventory as defined in Section 17511; and

(d) If the closing inventory of a subsequent taxable year, ending not more than three years after the termination of the present war as proclaimed by the President of the United States, reflects a replacement, in whole or in part, of the goods so previously liquidated.

17509. The taxpayer's net income shall be adjusted as follows:

(a) Increased by an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the aggregate cost of such goods reflected in the opening inventory of the year of involuntary liquidation over the aggregate replacement cost; or

(b) Decreased by an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the aggregate replacement cost of such goods over the aggregate cost thereof reflected in the opening inventory of the year of the involuntary liquidation.

17510. The taxes imposed by this part for the year of such liquidation and for all taxable years intervening between that year and the year of replacement shall be redetermined, giving effect to adjustments provided for in Section 17508. Any increase in taxes resulting from these adjustments shall be assessed and collected as a deficiency but without interest, and any overpayment so resulting shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer without interest.

17511. If, in the case of any taxpayer subject to the provisions of Section 17508, the closing inventory of the taxpayer for a taxable year, subsequent to the year of involuntary liquidation but prior to the complete replacement of the goods so liquidated, reflects an increase over the opening inventory of the goods for the taxable year, the goods reflecting such increase shall be considered, in the order of their acquisition, as having been acquired in replacement of the goods most recently liquidated (whether or not in a year of involuntary liquidation) and not previously replaced. If the liquidation was an involuntary liquidation, the goods reflecting the increase shall be included in the inventory of the taxpayer for the year of replacement at the inventory cost basis of the goods replaced.

17512. An election by the taxpayer to have the provisions of this article apply, once made, shall be irrevocable and shall be binding for the year of the involuntary liquidation and for all determinations for subsequent taxable years insofar as they are related to the year of liquidation or replacement.

17513. If the adjustments specified in Section 17509 are, with respect to any taxable year, prevented, on the date of the filing of the income tax return of the taxpayer for the year of the replacement, or within three years from such date, by any provision or rule of law (other than this article), such adjustments shall nevertheless be made if, in respect of the taxable year for which the adjustment is sought, a notice of proposed additional assessment is mailed or a claim for refund is filed, as the case may be, within three years after the date of the filing of the income tax return for the year of replacement.

17514. If, at the time of the mailing of the notice of proposed additional assessment or the filing of the claim for refund, the adjustment is so prevented, then the amount of the adjustment authorized by this article shall be limited to the increase or decrease of the tax imposed by this part previously determined for the taxable year which results solely from the effect of Section 17508. The tax previously determined shall be ascertained in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

17515. The amount of the adjustment shall be assessed and collected, or credited or refunded, in the same manner as if it were a deficiency or an overpayment, as the case may be, for such taxable year and as if, on the date of the filing of the income tax return for the year of the replacement, three years remain before the expiration of the periods of limitation upon assessment or the filing of claim for refund for the taxable year.

17516. The amount of the adjustment shall not be diminished by any credit or set-off based upon any item, inclusion, deduction, credit, exemption, gain, or loss, other than one resulting from the effect of Section 17508. The amount, if paid, shall not be recovered by a claim or suit for refund, or suit for erroneous refund based upon any item, inclusion, deduction, credit, exemption, gain, or loss, other than one resulting from the effect of Section 17508.

SEC. 83. Section 17560 of said code is amended to read:

17560. If a separate return is made on account of a change in the accounting period, the net income, computed on the basis of the period for which the separate return is made, hereafter referred to as the "short period," shall be placed on an annual basis by multiplying the amount thereof by 12 and dividing by the number of months [included] in the [period for which the separate return is made] short period. The tax shall be such part of the tax computed on such annual basis as the number of months in the short period is of 12 months.

SEC. 84. Section 17560.3 is added to said code, to read:

17560.3. If the taxpayer establishes the amount of his net income for the period of 12 months beginning with the first day of the short period, computed as if the 12-month period were a taxable year, under the law applicable to that year, then the tax for the short period shall be reduced to an amount which is that part of the tax computed on the net income for the 12 month period as the net income computed on the basis of the short period is of the net income for the 12-month period.

SEC. 85. Section 17560.5 is added to said code, to read:

17560.5. The taxpayer (other than a taxpayer to which the next sentence applies) shall compute the tax and file his return without the application of Section 17560.3. If the taxpayer was not in existence at the end of the 12 month period, then in lieu of the net income for the 12 month period there shall be used for the purposes of Section 17560.3 the net income for the 12-month period ending with the last day of the short period.

SEC. 86. Section 17560.7 is added to said code, to read:

17560.7. The tax computed under Section 17560 shall in no case be less than the tax computed on the net income for the short period without placing the net income on an annual basis. The benefits of Section 17560 shall not be allowed unless the taxpayer makes application therefor in accordance with and at such time as regulations prescribed hereunder require, but not after the time prescribed for the filing of the return for the first taxable year which ends on or after 12 months after the beginning of the short period.

SEC. 87. Section 17560.9 is added to said code, to read:

17560.9. The application, in case the return was filed without regard to Section 17560.3, shall be considered a claim for credit or refund with respect to the amount by which the tax is reduced under Section 17560.3. The commissioner shall prescribe such regulations as he may deem necessary.

SEC. 88. Section 17562 of said code is amended to read:

17562. The amount of all items of gross income shall be included in the gross income for the taxable year in which received by the taxpayer unless under the methods of accounting permitted under Section 17556 any such items are to be properly accounted for as of a different period. In the case of the death of a taxpayer [there shall be included in computing net income for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death if not otherwise properly includible in respect of such period or a prior period.] whose net income is computed upon the basis of the accrual method of accounting, amounts (except amounts includible in computing a partner's net income under Chapter 9 of this part) accrued only by reason of the death of the taxpayer shall not be included in computing net income for the period in which falls the date of the taxpayer's death.

SEC. 89. Section 17563 of said code is amended to read:

17563. The deductions and credits provided for in this part shall be taken for the taxable year in which "paid or accrued" or "paid or incurred," dependent upon the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed, unless in order clearly to reflect the income the deductions or credits should be taken as of a different period. In the case of the death of a taxpayer [there shall be allowed as deductions and credits for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death (except deductions for contributions and gifts) if not otherwise properly allowable in respect of such period or a prior period] whose net income is computed upon the basis of the accrual method of accounting, amounts except amounts includible in computing a partner's net income under Chapter 9, accrued as deductions and credits only by reason of the death of the taxpayer shall not be allowed in computing net income for the period in which falls the date of the taxpayer's death.

SEC. 90. Section 17567 is added to said code, to read:

17567. In the case of a taxpayer not in existence during the whole of an annual accounting period ending on the last day of a month, or, if the taxpayer has no annual accounting period or does not keep books during the whole of a calendar year, the return shall be made for the fractional part of the year during which the taxpayer was in existence.

SEC. 91. Section 17568 is added to said code, to read:

17568. If, in the case of a taxpayer owning any noninterest-bearing obligation issued at a discount and redeemable for fixed amounts increasing at stated intervals, the increase in the redemption price of the obligation occurring in the taxable year does not (under the method of accounting used in computing his net income) constitute income to him in that year, the taxpayer may, at his election made in his return for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, treat the increase as income received in such taxable year.

SEC. 92. Section 17569 is added to said code, to read:

17569. If any election is made as provided in Section 17568 with respect to any obligation, it shall apply also to all obligations owned by the taxpayer at the beginning of the first taxable year to which it applies and to all obligations thereafter acquired by him and shall be binding for all subsequent taxable years, unless upon application by the taxpayer, the commissioner permits him, subject to such conditions as the commissioner deems necessary, to change to a different method. In the case of any obligations owned by the taxpayer at the beginning of the first taxable year to which his election applies, the increase in the redemption price of obligations occurring between the date of acquisition and the first day of the taxable year shall also be treated as income received in the taxable year.

SEC. 93. Section 17672 of said code is amended to read:

17672. No gain [or loss] shall be recognized, but loss shall be recognized, if property, as a result of its destruction in whole or in part, theft or seizure, or an exercise of the power of requisition or condemnation, or the threat or imminence thereof, is compulsorily or involuntarily converted into property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or into money which is forthwith in good faith, under regulations prescribed by the commissioner, expended in the acquisition of other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property, or in the establishment of a replacement fund.

If any part of the money is not so expended, the gain, if any, shall be recognized [ , but in an amount not in excess of the money which is not so expended. ] to the extent of the money which is not so expended (regardless of whether the money is received in one or more taxable years and regardless of whether or not the money which is not so expended constitutes gain).

SEC. 94. Section 17673 of said code is amended to read:

17673. No gain or loss shall be recognized to a shareholder from a distribution of stocks or securities in liquidation of a corporation made pursuant to an order of the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission under authority vested in it by the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, as amended [prior to January 1, 1939].

SEC. 95. Section 17711 of said code is amended to read:

17711. "Capital assets" means property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business, or property used in the trade or business of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in Section 17313 [ . , or real property used in the trade or business of the taxpayer.

SEC. 96. Section 17713 of said code is amended to read:

17713. In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held property received on an exchange, there shall be included the period for which he held the property exchanged, if under Articles 4 or 5 of this chapter, the property received has, for the purpose of determining gain or loss from a sale or exchange, the same basis in whole or in part in his hands as the property exchanged. For the purposes of this section, an involuntary conversion described in Section 17672 shall be considered an exchange of the property converted for the property acquired.

SEC. 97. Section 17716.5 is added to said code, to read:

17716.5. In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held stock or securities acquired from a corporation by the exercise of rights to acquire the stock or securities, there shall be included only the period beginning with the date upon which the right to acquire was exercised.

SEC. 97.3. Section 17721 is added to said code, to read:

17721. For the purposes of this section and Section 17722, the term "property used in the trade or business" means property used in the trade or business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in Section 17313, and real property used in the trade or business, which is not

(a) Property of a kind which would properly be includible in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or

(b) Property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business.

SEC. 97.5. Section 17722 is added to said code, to read:

17722. If, during the taxable year, the recognized gains upon sales or exchanges of property used in the trade or business, plus the recognized gains from the compulsory or involuntary conversion, as a result of destruction in whole or in part, theft or seizure, or an exercise of the power of requisition or condemnation or the threat or imminence thereof, of property used in the trade or business and capital assets into other property or money, exceed the recognized losses from the sales, exchanges, and conversions, the gains and losses shall be considered as gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets. If the gains do not exceed the losses, the gains and losses shall not be considered as gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets.

Sec. 97.7. Section 17723 is added to said code, to read:

17723. In determining whether gains exceed losses, the gains and losses described therein shall be included only if and to the extent taken into account in computing net income except that Sections 17711 and 17717 shall not apply.

Sec. 97.8. Section 17724 is added to said code, to read:

17724. Losses upon the destruction, in whole or in part, theft or seizure, or requisition or condemnation of property used in the trade or business of capital assets shall be considered losses from a compulsory or involuntary conversion.

17743. If the property was acquired by gift after December 31, 1920, the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner by whom it was not acquired by gift, except that [for the purpose of determining loss the basis shall be the basis so determined or the fair market value of the property at the time of the gift whichever is lower.] if such basis (adjusted for the period prior to the date of gift as provided in Article 5 of this chapter) is greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the gift, then, for the purpose of determining loss, the basis shall be the fair market value.

Sec. 99. Section 17744 of said code is amended to read:

17744. If the property was acquired after December 31, 1920, by a transfer in trust (other than by a transfer in trust by a gift, bequest or devise) the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the grantor, increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the grantor upon such transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made.

Sec. 100. Section 17782 of said code is amended to read:

17782. Proper adjustment in respect of the property shall in all cases be made for expenditures, receipts, losses, or other items, properly chargeable to capital account, [including taxes and other carrying charges on unimproved and improvable real property,] but no such adjustment shall be made for taxes or other carrying charges for which deductions have been taken by the taxpayer in determining net income for the taxable year or prior taxable years.

Sec. 101. Section 17783 of said code is amended to read:

17783. Proper adjustment in respect of the property shall in all cases also be made for exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization and depletion, to the extent sustained prior to January 1, 1935, and for periods thereafter to the extent allowed (but not less than the amount allowable) under this part. However, if a taxpayer has not claimed an amortization deduction for an emergency taxider, an adjustment shall be made only to the extent ordinarily provided under Section 17313.

Sec. 101.5. Section 17784.5 is added to said code, to read:

17784.5. Proper adjustment in respect of the property shall in all cases also be made in the case of any bond (as defined in Section 17318.5) the interest on which is wholly exempt from the tax imposed by this part, to the extent of the amortizable bond premium disallowable as a deduction pursuant to Section 17318.1 (a), and in the case of any other bond (as defined in that section) to the extent of the deductions allowable pursuant to Section 17318.1 (b) with respect thereto.

Sec. 102. Section 17787 is added to said code, to read:

17787. Neither the basis nor the adjusted basis of any portion of real property shall, in the case of the lessor of the property, be increased or diminished on account of income derived by the lessor in respect of the property and excludable from gross income under Section 17131. If an amount representing any part of the value of real property attributable to buildings erected or other improvements made by lessee in respect of the property was included in gross income of the lessor for any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1943, the basis of each portion of the property shall be properly adjusted for the amount so included in gross income.

Sec. 105. Section 17817 of said code is amended to read:

17817. The allowance for depletion under Section 17314 shall be, in the case of coal mines, 5 per cent, in the case of metal, fluorspar, ball and sagger clay or rock asphalt mines, 15 per cent, and, in the case of sulphur mines or deposits, 25 per cent, of the gross income from the property during the taxable year, excluding from such gross income an amount equal to any rents or royalties paid or incurred by the taxpayer in respect of the property. The allowance shall not exceed 50 per cent of the net income of the taxpayer (computed without allowance for depletion) from the property[.], except in no case shall the depletion allowance under Section 17314 be less than it would be if computed without reference to this section.

A payment to a wife which is includible under Sections 17104, 17105, 17106 and 17107 or Sections 18172.3 and 18172.5 in the gross income of the wife shall not be considered a payment by her husband for the support of any dependent. If the taxpayer would not occupy the status of head of a family except by reason of there being one or more dependents for whom he would be entitled to credit under this section, the credit under this subsection shall be disallowed with respect to one of the dependents.

SEC. 108. Section 18133 of said code is amended to read:

18133. There shall be allowed as an additional deduction in computing the net income of the estate or trust [(a) the amount of the income of the estate or trust for its taxable year which is to be distributed currently by the fiduciary to the legatees, heirs, or beneficiaries, [and (b) the amount of the income collected by a guardian of an infant which is to be held or distributed as the court may direct,] but the amount so allowed as a deduction shall be included in computing the net income of the legatees, heirs, or beneficiaries whether distributed to them or not.

In the case of a nonresident beneficiary his income derived through such an estate or trust is taxable only to the extent it is derived from sources within this State.

SEC. 109. Section 18135 of said code is amended to read:

18135. If the taxable year of a legatee, heir or beneficiary is different from that of the estate or trust, the amount which he is required, under Section 18133, to include in computing his net income shall be based upon the income of the estate or trust for any taxable year of the estate or trust ending within or with his taxable year.

SEC. 110. Section 18156 of said code is repealed.

SEC. 112. Section 18157 is added to said code, to read:

18157. A trust described in Section 18156 is not taxable if contributions are made to the trust by the employer, or employees, or both, for the purpose of distributing to the employees or their beneficiaries the corpus and income of the fund accumulated by the trust in accordance with the plan.

SEC. 113. Section 18158 is added to said code, to read:

18158. A trust described in Section 18156 is not taxable if under the trust instrument it is impossible, at any time prior to the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees and their beneficiaries under the trust, for any part of the corpus or income to be, within the taxable year or thereafter, used for, or diverted to, purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries.

SEC. 114. Section 18159 is added to said code, to read:

18159. A trust described in Section 18156 is not taxable if the trust, or two or more trusts, or the trust or trusts and annuity plan or plans are designated by the employer as constituting parts of a plan intended to qualify under this subsection which benefits either:

(a) Seventy per cent or more of all the employees, or 80 per cent or more of all the employees who are eligible to benefit under the plan if 70 per cent or more of all the employees are eligible to benefit under the plan. The percentages shall exclude in each case:

(1) Employees who have been employed not more than a minimum period prescribed by the plan, not exceeding five years; and

(2) Employees whose customary employment is for not more than 20 hours in any one week; and

(3) Employees whose customary employment is for not more than five months in any calendar year, or

(b) Employees who qualify under a classification set up by the employer which is found by the commissioner not to be discriminatory in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees.

SEC. 115. Section 18160 is added to said code, to read:

18160. A trust described in Section 18156 is not taxable if the contributions or benefits provided under the plan do not discriminate in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees.

SEC. 116. Section 18161 is added to said code, to read:

18161. A classification shall not be considered discriminatory within the meaning of Sections 18159 and 18160 merely because it excludes employees the whole of whose remuneration constitutes "wages" under Section 1426 (a) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act) of the California Unemployment Insurance Act or merely because it is limited to salaried or clerical employees. Neither shall a plan be considered discriminatory within the meaning of these provisions merely because the contributions or benefits of or on behalf of the employees under the plan bear a uniform relationship to the total compensation, or the basic or regular rate of compensation, of the employees. Nor shall a plan be considered discriminatory merely because the contributions or benefits based on that part of an employee's remuneration which is excluded from "wages" by Section 1426 (a) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code or the California Unemployment Insurance Act differ from the contributions or benefits based on employee's remuneration not so excluded, or differ because of any retirement benefits created under State or Federal law.

SEC. 117. Section 18162 is added to said code, to read:

18162. A plan shall be considered as meeting the requirements of this article during the whole of any taxable year of the plan if on one day in each quarter it satisfied these requirements.

18163. The amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee by any trust shall be taxable to him, in the year in which so distributed or made available, under Article 2 of Chapter 3 as if it were an annuity the consideration for which is the amount contributed by the employee, but if the total distributions payable with respect to any employee are paid to the distributee within one taxable year of the distributee on account of the employee's separation from the service, the amount of distribution to the extent exceeding the amounts contributed by the employee, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset.

SEC. 119. Section 18164 is added to said code, to read:

18164. Contributions to a trust made by an employee during a taxable year of the employer which ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is not exempt under Section 18156 shall be included in the gross income of an employee for the taxable year in which the contribution is made to the trust in the case of an employee whose beneficial interest in the contribution is nonforfeitable at the time the contribution is made.

SEC. 120. Section 18172.3 is added to said code, to read:

18172.3. There shall be included in the gross income of a wife who is divorced or legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance the amount of the income of any trust which the wife is entitled to receive and which, except for the provisions of this section and Sections 18172.3 and 18172.5 would be includible in the gross income of her husband, and such amount shall not, despite any provision of this part, be includible in the gross income of the husband.

SEC. 121. Section 18172.5 is added to said code, to read:

18172.5. Section 18172.3 shall not apply to that part of any income of the trust which the terms of the decree or trust instrument fix, in terms of an amount of money or a portion of the income, as a sum which is payable for the support of minor children of the husband. In case the income is less than the amount specified in the decree or instrument, for the purpose of applying Section 18172.3, the income, to the extent of the sum payable for support, shall be considered a payment for support.

SEC. 122. Section 18172.7 is added to said code, to read:

For the purposes of computing the net income of the estate or trust and net income of the wife described in Sections 17104, 17105, 17106 and 17107, or Section 18172.3, the wife shall be considered as the beneficiary specified in Sections 18172.3 and 18172.5. A periodic payment under Sections 17104, 17105, 17106 and 17107 or any part of which the provisions of Sections 18172.3 and 18172.5 are applicable, shall be included in the gross income of the beneficiary in the taxable year in which that part is required to be included.

Such returns shall be in such form as the commissioner may from time to time prescribe, and shall be filed with the commissioner at his main office or at any branch office which he may establish. The commissioner shall prepare blank forms for the returns and shall distribute them throughout the State and furnish them upon application. Failure to receive or secure the form does not relieve any taxpayer from making any return required. Any individual who wilfully makes and subscribes a return which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof, shall be subject to the penalties prescribed in perjury by the Penal Code of this State.

SEC. 123. Article 4, comprising Sections 18470 to 18479, inclusive, is added to Chapter 10 of Part 10 of Division 2 of said code, to read:

Article 4. Returns by Persons Outside the Americas

If an individual is continuously outside the Americas after December 6, 1941, for longer than 90 days; that period of time and the next 90 days thereafter shall be disregarded in determining under this part the amount of any credit or refund (including interest) or in respect of any liability for taxes, interests or penalties of that individual, whether any of the following acts were performed within the time prescribed:

- (a) Filing any return of income tax (except income tax withheld at source);
- (b) Payment of any income (except income tax withheld at source);
- (c) Filing an appeal with the State Board of Equalization;
- (d) Allowance of a credit or refund of any tax;

- (k) Any other act required or permitted under this part.

18471. In any case to which Section 18470 does not apply in which it is determined by the commissioner, under regulations prescribed by him, that—

- (1) By reason of an individual being outside the Americas, or
- (2) By reason of any locality (within or without the Americas) being an area of enemy action or being an area under the control of the enemy, as determined by the commissioner, or
- (3) By reason of an individual in the military or naval forces of the United States being outside the States of the Union and the District of Columbia, it is impossible or impracticable to perform any one or more of the acts specified in Section 18470, then in determining, under this part whether the act was performed within the time prescribed therefor, in respect of any liability for taxes, interest or penalties affected by the failure to perform the act within such time, and in determining the amount of any credit or refund (including interest) affected by that failure, there shall be disregarded the period after December 6, 1941, as may be prescribed by the regulations.

18472. The period of time disregarded under this article shall not extend beyond whichever of the following dates is the earlier:

- (1) The fifteenth day of the third month following the month in which the present war with Germany, Italy, and Japan is terminated, as proclaimed by the President of the United States; or
- (2) In the case of an individual with respect to whom a period of time is disregarded under this article, the fifteenth day of the third month following the month in which an executor, administrator, or a conservator of the estate of the individual qualifies.

18473. Notwithstanding the provisions of this article, any action or proceeding authorized by Article 4, of Chapter 11 (regardless of the taxable year for which the tax arose), Article 5 of Chapter 8, Sections 18621 and 18622, as well as any other action or proceeding authorized by law in connection therewith, may be taken, begun, or prosecuted.

18474. In any other case in which the commissioner determines that collection of the amount of any assessment would be jeopardized by delay, the provisions of this article shall not operate to stay collection of that amount by distraint or otherwise as authorized by law. There shall be excluded from any amount assessed or collected pursuant to this section the amount of interest, penalty, additional amount, and addition to the tax, if any, in respect of the period disregarded under this article.

18475. In any case to which this article relates, if the commissioner is required to give any notice to or make any demand upon any person, that requirement shall be satisfied if the notice or demand is prepared and signed, in any case in which the address of such person last known to the commissioner is in an area for which United States post offices under instructions of the Postmaster General are not, by reason of the war, accepting mail for delivery at the time the notice or demand is signed. In that case the notice or demand shall be deemed to have been given or made upon the date it is signed.

18476. The assessment or collection of any tax or of any liability under this part, or any action in connection therewith, may be made, taken, begun, or prosecuted in accordance with law, without regard to the provisions of Sections 18470 and 18471, unless prior to such assessment, collection, action, or proceeding it is ascertained that the person concerned is entitled to the benefits of those sections.

18477. This section shall not operate to extend the time for performing any act specified in Section 18470 (g), (h), (i) or (j) if such time under the law in force prior to the date of enactment of this section expired prior to that date.

18478. For purposes of this article:

(a) The term "Americas" means North, Central, and South America (including the West Indies but not Greenland), and the Hawaiian Islands.

(b) For the purpose of determining whether any act specified in Section 18470 (g), (h), (i) or (j) was performed within the time prescribed therefor, if any period of time is disregarded under this section by reason of any individual being outside the Americas or within an area of enemy action or control, that individual shall not, if he returns to the Americas or leaves the area after the date of enactment of this section, be deemed to have returned to the Americas or ceased to be within that area before the date upon which the commissioner receives from that individual a notice thereof in such form as the commissioner shall by regulations prescribe. A similar rule shall be applied in the case of a member of the military or naval forces of the United States with respect to whom a period of time is disregarded under this section by reason of being outside the States of the Union and the District of Columbia.

18479. For the purpose of determining whether any act specified in Section 18470 (g), (h), (i) or (j) was performed within the time prescribed therefor, the month in which an executor, administrator, or conservator qualifies, if he qualifies after the date of enactment of this section, shall be deemed to be the month in which the commissioner receives from him a notice thereof in such form as the commissioner shall by regulations prescribe.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Swing asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following statement regarding the introduction of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 27 and Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 28, printed in the Journal:

Statement by Senator Swing

MR. PRESIDENT: The three major problems confronting the people of this State are: (a) Cost of State Government, (b) taxation as it affects all the people, and (c) care of our senior citizens.

These problems are so closely interrelated that a solution of one can not be properly approached without considering the effect any proposed solution of one would have upon the others. Assistance to the aged can not be materially increased and taxes at the same time materially reduced unless we also reduce the cost of government. The Governor's Tax Committee has recommended a material reduction in the sales tax, franchise, and income taxes. On the other hand, the Governor's Pension Committee has recommended a material increase in pensions to our aged citizens, but neither committee has suggested any material reduction in the governmental costs. The taxes sought to be reduced by the Governor's Tax Committee, and as embodied in the Assembly program, is the source of revenue for the State's General Fund, while the cost of old age pensions is paid from the General Fund. It is apparent that if both these recommendations are carried into effect without a reduction in the cost of government, a deficiency in our General Fund will inevitably follow.

Those familiar with the intricacies of our governmental system realize that no proper approach can be made to streamlining State Government and reduction in governmental costs unless the Legislature is relieved of the strait-jacket provisions of our Constitution which limit and control legislative action. Everyone admits that the care of the aged should be borne entirely by the Federal Government, but such Government has so far failed to assume its obligations in this respect. This has necessitated the States making a substantial contribution to such fund. In California we have passed a part of that cost on to the counties and the local taxpayer, where it does not now and never did belong. Care of the aged is not a local obligation but a State and Federal duty and no satisfactory solution can ever be had, and the regulations so irritating to our senior citizens removed, unless this burden is taken from common property and the local taxpayer and lodged in the Federal and State Government where it belongs.

There is nothing in the Assembly Tax Program as thus far adopted by it, nor in that recommended by the Governor's Tax Committee, that offers any relief to the common property taxpayer. He is the "forgotten man." Under either or both of these programs, everyone is to enjoy tax relief and tax reduction, except the class of people who most need it.

The small home owner, the farmer, and the people who depend upon rents and income from their farms are left "high and dry." They are harassed by the confusing OPA frozen rent regulations and labor shortage. They are confronted with ever-increasing cost of living and faced with a constantly declining income. Yet they comprise the great class of people who are told to "keep their chin up," maintain a high morale, and keep the home fires burning.

Unless some relief is afforded this group either by State grants to the counties or by the transfer of the counties' cost of old age pensions to the State, they will not be able to survive the ordeal. No tax reduction program is fair, equitable, or sound that does not include reduction in costs of State Government and relief for the common taxpayer.

In order to provide a sound basis for a permanent tax reduction and relief for the common property taxpayer, I have prepared and am this day submitting two constitutional amendments: one having for its purpose the streamlining of State Government and thereby materially reduce governmental costs, and the other to transfer from the common property taxpayer to the State, all of the costs of old age pensions not covered by Federal grants. If adopted, these amendments will afford permanent tax relief to both the State and to the counties.

I am asking that this statement be entered in the Journal immediately following the entry of the presentation of the two proposed constitutional amendments referred to, so that those giving consideration to these proposals will have a clear conception of the purpose sought to be obtained.

"CHAPTER 1. ZONES OF RESTRICTED LIGHTING

Section 1. The present situation requires as a matter of military necessity that a zone of restricted lighting be established within the areas described herein, and that illumination within said zone of restricted lighting be extinguished or controlled in such manner and to such extent as may be necessary to prevent such illumination from aiding the operations of the enemy.

Pursuant to said determination and statement of military necessity a zone of restricted lighting, as particularly described as follows, is hereby designated and established, and the entire area of each named county is included except where a portion of a county is specifically described: Alameda, Butte, Colusa, Contra Costa, Del Norte, Glenn, Humboldt, Kings, Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Merced, Monterey, Napa, Orange, Sacramento, San Benito, San Francisco, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Solano, Sonoma, Stanislaus, Sutter, Trinity, Ventura, Yolo, Yuba, Amador—all that portion situated westerly of El Dorado National Forest, Calaveras—all that portion situated westerly of Stanislaus National Forest, El Dorado—all that portion situated westerly of El Dorado National Forest, Fresno—all that portion situated westerly of Sierra National Forest, Kern—all that portion situated westerly of Meridian 118° 45', which runs approximately three miles west of Glennville, one mile west of Bena and seven miles east of Lebec, Los Angeles—all that portion situated southwesterly of Angeles National Forest and westerly of Mint Canyon, Madera—all that portion situated westerly of Sierra National Forest, Mariposa—all that portion situated westerly of Stanislaus National Forest and Sierra National Forest, Nevada—all that portion situated westerly of Tahoe National Forest, Placer—all that portion situated westerly of Tahoe National Forest, Riverside—all that portion situated westerly of the

Sec. 2. Illumination within the entire area of said zone of restricted lighting described in Section 1 shall be extinguished or controlled at all times at night from sunset to sunrise, as follows:

(a) Signs, Floodlighting, Display and Interior Lighting. Illuminated signs and ornamental lighting of every description which are located out-of-doors, and floodlighting which illuminates buildings or signs (including but not limited to all exterior advertising signs, billboards, display lighting, theater marquee signs, illuminated poster panels and building outline lighting), and all interior light sources (as hereinafter defined) which emit direct rays above the horizontal out-of-doors, shall be extinguished. The words, "light sources," as used herein are intended and shall be construed to mean and include any light generating elements and the bright portion of any reflector, lens, luminaire, transparency, or other equipment associated herewith for the control or diffusion of light. This Section 2 (a) shall not apply to illumination for industrial or protective purposes except to the extent provided for in Section 2 (b) hereof.

(b) Illumination of Outdoor Areas; Street and Highway Lights. Illumination of outdoor areas and industrial and protective illumination, shall be controlled as follows:

(1) Except as provided in Section 2 (b) (2) hereof, illumination on all outdoor areas (including but not limited to automobile service station yards, outdoor parking areas, recreation areas and outdoor structures and roofs) shall not exceed one foot candle at any point when measured on a horizontal plane at any level of such outdoor areas, and all outdoor light sources shall be shielded so that no direct rays from the light source are emitted above the horizontal. All interior lighting of every description shall be reduced or controlled so that it does not contribute more than one foot candle of illumination upon any outdoor area. All street and highway lights shall also be shielded so that each light source emits no more than 10 per cent of its total lamp lumens at angles above the horizontal. Provided the foregoing requirements are met, any further reduction or extinguishment of street or highway illumination which would unnecessarily aggravate traffic hazards is not required.

(2) Variations from the foregoing requirements shall be permitted in the case of illumination for industrial and protective purposes, and from industrial processes, whether interior or exterior, but not including street or highway lights, only when and to the extent that it is necessary to vary from such requirements in order to achieve and maintain maximum efficiency; but only with the written approval of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command or an agency designated by such commander to approve such variations, obtained in advance.

(c) Traffic Signs and Signals. Illuminated signs and signals which are authorized or maintained by Governmental authority for the purpose of controlling or directing street or highway traffic shall be shielded so that no direct rays from the light source are emitted above the horizontal in respect to lights mounted 10 feet or more above the ground, or above an angle of more than six degrees above the horizontal in respect to lights mounted less than 10 but more than three feet above the ground, or above an angle of more than 12 degrees above the horizontal in respect to lights mounted less than three feet above the ground. Relative variations in the upward limit of light are permissible to compensate for grades.

(d) Navigation and Railroad Lights. Authorized lights necessary to facilitate air or water navigation, authorized railroad signal lights, and headlights of railroad locomotives when in motion, are hereby excepted from all the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 3. Definition of "Visible from the Sea." The phrase "visible from the sea," as used herein, is intended and shall be construed to mean and include the following:

Visible at any time from the waters of the Pacific Ocean, or visible from any of those bodies of water located on the shoreline of the State of California generally known and described as follows: Santa Monica Bay, Santa Barbara Channel, San Luis Obispo Bay, Estero Bay, and Monterey Bay; provided, however, that the waters of San Francisco Bay, lying easterly of a line extending from Point Bonita through Mile Rock, is not intended and shall not be construed to be a part of the sea; and solely for the purposes of Section 3 (c) hereof, concerning street and highway traffic, the phrase "areas visible from the sea" is also intended and shall be construed to mean and include that portion of streets or highways which may not in fact be visible from the sea but which is within areas generally visible from the sea.

In addition to the restrictions hereinbefore imposed, illumination within that part of the zone of restricted lighting which is visible from the sea, as herein defined, shall be further diminished or obscured at all times at night from sunset to sunrise, as follows:

(a) Street, Highway and Traffic Lights. Street and highway lights, and illuminated signs (but not signals) which are authorized or maintained by governmental authority for the purpose of controlling or directing street or highway traffic and which are visible from the sea, shall be so shielded that they are not visible from the sea at night and so that no direct rays from the light source are emitted above the horizontal.

(b) Residential, Commercial and Industrial Windows. No lighting shall be permitted behind windows or glazed doors visible from the sea unless they are covered by drapes or shades.

(c) Street and Highway Traffic. Within areas visible from the sea, but subject to the exceptions hereinafter stated, vehicles shall operate at night with no more than two lighted driving lamps, regardless of the direction of travel, and each such lamp shall provide a maximum of not more than 250 beam candlepower. (d) Industrial and Protective Illumination. Light sources for industrial purposes and light from industrial processes within areas visible from the sea, shall comply with the requirements of Section 2 (b) hereof, and shall also be shielded so that they are not visible from the sea at night; provided, that variations from these requirements may be permitted in case of illumination for industrial and protective purposes, and from industrial processes, whether interior or exterior (but not including street or highway lights), only when and to the extent that it is necessary to vary from such requirements in order to achieve and maintain maximum efficiency; but only with the written approval of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command or an agency designated by such commander to approve such variations, obtained in advance.

(e) Other Illumination. Except as hereinabove provided in this Section 3, all other lights visible from the sea are prohibited at night, including but not limited to light from fires, bonfires, parked cars, flashlights and lanterns.

SEC. 4. Whenever the California State War Council, after such study, investigation or hearing as it may make, direct or conduct, shall find and determine that additional or different provisions restricting lighting or that restrictions on such lighting are required in other areas in order to prevent aiding the operations of the enemy, the said State War Council shall address its findings to the Governor, and if the Governor concurs therein, he shall proclaim such additional or different restrictions and regulations governing illumination which shall thereupon become effective as laws of this State and shall supersede to the extent of any conflict the provisions of this chapter and any other provisions of law governing illumination. The violation of any such regulations shall constitute a misdemeanor and be punishable as a violation of this chapter. In making such investigations and determinations, the State War Council is hereby directed to consider the findings and recommendations of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command, and in no event shall the Governor proclaim more restrictive regulations than those specified by said Commanding General, it being the intention that insofar as possible the regulations so adopted shall conform exactly to the orders or recommendations of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command.

SEC. 8. No person in control of lighting shall permit any such lighting visible from out-of-doors to be left unattended at night from sunset to sunrise. Lighting shall be unattended within the meaning hereof unless it is left under the control of a competent person who has undertaken responsibility for such lighting or unless the lighting is controlled by a mechanical device competent to control such lighting. Persons in control of lighting shall be responsible for the timely and proper functioning of any such mechanical device relied upon for the control of lighting.

SEC. 9. At the commencement of a period of air raid alarm (occurring during either the day or night), the operator of any vehicle shall forthwith bring such vehicle as far as possible to the side of the street, road or highway off the main traveled portion thereof, and the operator of such vehicle, and the operator of any street car, shall bring such vehicle or street car to a stop clear of any crossing, intersection, fire house, fire plug, hospital or other emergency depot or area, and during a period of blackout shall extinguish all lights therein or thereon, and said vehicle or street car shall remain so situated during the period of air raid alarm, unless directed or ordered to move by any highway patrolman, peace officer, auxiliary policeman, air raid warden or other authorized person.

SEC. 10. All persons within an area of air raid alarm in an unsheltered place shall immediately go to the nearest shelter and remain therein until the period of air raid alarm is ended except:

SEC. 12. The blackout provisions of this chapter shall not include the following:

(a) Incandescent electric lamps lawfully marked "Indoor Blackout—War Department Standard," and complying with the specifications therefor expressed in "War Department Specifications—Blackout of Buildings," may be left burning in commercial and industrial building interiors without the complete obscuration of doors and windows, only if such lamps are installed in accordance with the following specifications:

(1) In any one room, only one lamp shall be permitted for each two hundred (200) square feet of floor area or fraction thereof.

(2) Lamps shall be spaced not less than 10 feet apart in every direction.

(3) In hallways and corridors only one row of lamps shall be permitted, spaced not less than fifteen (15) feet apart, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (2) hereof.

(4) Lamps shall be placed at least three (3) feet from any window or other exterior opening in the building which is not completely obscured, and lamps shall not be pointed toward any such window or other exterior opening.

(5) All lamps shall be located or shielded so that they are not directly visible from out-of-doors when viewed from a point above the level of the bottom of the lamp.

(b) Red exit lights shall be permitted within buildings which are open to the public; provided, that all such lights are located or shielded so that no direct rays from such lights are emitted out of doors; and provided, that such lights shall be restricted to not more than one lamp of not more than fifteen (15) watts at each exit or at each turning point in the route to an exit.

(c) Flashlights may be used during periods of blackout in areas of air raid alarm, provided that such flashlights shall not be pointed above the horizontal and provided that the lens, cover glass or lamp of such flashlights shall be completely screened with material which is the equivalent, in density and light reduction properties, of three thicknesses of ordinary newspaper in the case of flashlights operated by two (2) dry cell batteries plus one additional thickness of such paper for each additional dry cell battery used in the operation of such flashlight.

(d) Lanterns may be left unattended and may be left burning during blackout periods in areas of air raid alarm for the purpose of marking excavations or obstructions in areas open to the public if such lanterns are equipped with red globes and if they are shielded so that no direct rays from the light source are emitted upward beyond twelve degrees (12°) above the base of the lantern flame, and if such lanterns are spaced at least ten (10) feet apart.

(e) Light emitted from industrial processes, such as furnaces, foundries and kilns, where the extinguishment of the light would involve serious difficulties in resuming operations after the blackout, shall be permitted during blackout periods in areas of air raid alarm; provided, that the light is shielded, obscured, reduced in intensity and otherwise controlled to as great an extent as may be practicable to reduce to a minimum the amount of light visible out of doors; and provided, that such light is specifically permitted in writing in advance by or under the authority of the State Director of Civilian Protection in respect to each individual case, and provided further, that the granting or denial of such permits shall be subject to review by, and rules and regulations of, the State War Council. Steam or smoke shall be reduced to the lowest practicable minimum except where such steam or smoke is used for protective concealment in accordance with plans approved by military authorities.

Sec. 13. All persons are forbidden to order, alter, publish, sound or simulate in any manner, any air raid or all clear signal unless authorized to do so as provided in this chapter.

Sec. 14. All persons are forbidden to wear, exhibit or use any arm band, pennant, permit, identification card or other identifying article or device unless lawfully authorized to do so.

Sec. 15. Whenever the State War Council after such study, investigation or hearing as it may make, direct or conduct, shall find and determine that additional or different air raid precaution regulations are required in order to protect life or property, the State War Council shall address its findings to the Governor and if the Governor concurs therein, he shall proclaim such additional or different air raid precaution regulations which shall thereupon become effective as law of this State. Such regulations shall supersede to the extent of any conflict the provisions of this chapter and also any other provision of law which interferes with the purposes of this chapter. The violation of any such regulations shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as a violation of this chapter.

CHAPTER 3

Sec. 16. Any lighting remaining visible out of doors contrary to the provisions of this act constitutes a public nuisance, and the same shall be summarily abated by any peace officer or highway patrolman. Such nuisance may be abated by authorized civilian defense personnel if forcible entry or destruction of property is not required.

Sec. 17. Any proclamation issued by the Governor pursuant to the provisions of this act shall be in writing and shall take effect immediately upon issuance thereof. As soon thereafter as possible such proclamation shall be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State. The Governor shall cause widespread publicity and notice to be given such proclamation. Sec. 19. This act shall remain in effect only until the cessation of hostilities in the present war in which the United States is engaged, as declared by the President or the Congress of the United States, or until such time as the Governor after recommendation made by the Western Defense Command or such other military agency as may be designated by the Secretary of War proclaims the provisions of this act are no longer necessary as a matter of military necessity, or to preserve life and property.

Sec. 20. If any section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be not in immediate effect, it is the express legislative intent that such decision shall not affect the immediate operation or validity of the remaining portions of this act.

It is the intent of the Legislature that this entire act shall take effect immediately and that if any portion thereof can not, under the Constitution of this State, so take effect, that all of the remaining provisions hereof shall take effect immediately and that such portion or portions, if any, that can not take effect immediately, shall take effect at the time provided by law. Any portion of this act that may for any reason be held to be not in immediate effect is hereby expressly declared to be severable from the remaining portions of this act.

Further, in the event it is determined that the inclusion of a provision in this act that can not take effect immediately would prevent this act from being construed to be an urgency measure, then any such provision in this act shall be held to be inoperative, and the remaining portions of this act shall take effect immediately.

Sec. 21. If any provision of this act or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of this act, or the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

Sec. 22. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the State Constitution, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety. The statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The Western Defense Command of the United States Army has found that military necessity requires the restriction of the intensity of lights in certain areas of this State, and has by order prohibited the use of lights of more intensity than that prescribed. While a violation of such order is a crime under the Federal law, there is no adequate available means by which the Federal Government can enforce such order and it is essential to the war effort that the State be enabled at the earliest possible moment to enforce the provisions of such order. The effect of this bill will be to permit such enforcement by the State.

Uniform air raid precautions are urgently needed to minimize the effect of enemy attack upon life and property and military installations within this State and uniformity is necessary so that all persons going from one area of the State into another may know their duties and conform to the law. It is therefore provided that this act shall take effect immediately."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Mayo, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 13, 1943

To the Members of the Senate

GREETINGS: I am herewith transmitting additional information received by my office relative to the pension problem. It is in the form of a statement submitted by John C. Cuneo, member of the Citizens Committee on Old Age Pensions.

Respectfully,

EARL WARREN, Governor

February 22, 1943

A Suggestion for Governor Warren and His Tax and Pension Committees

1. That present State tax programs be continued for one year with such minor changes as may be thought necessary for efficiency and equity.
2. That State surplus be held intact for the one-year period.
3. That a reasonable State Pension Plan be adopted, "as a right", payable to all citizens 60 years of age and over. As soon as the war ends, recipients to retire from gainful employment. The money for this purpose to be raised by a 2 per cent gross income tax on all business as now levied in Hawaii. The amount to be paid to be a pro rata share of money available after payment of operating expenses each month. The rate of tax and the minimum age to be raised or lowered by Governor and a committee, within certain limits, as conditions warrant.

At the end of a year after the 2 per cent gross income tax plan has been in operation we will know how successfully it operates and how much money will be available. At that time, if the results justify, a gross income tax plan can then be adopted with a rate high enough to absorb most all other forms of State taxes. The State surplus could then be allocated to the best advantage at that time. By lowering, or raising, the age requirement, the problem of unemployment should be under control. With a flexible rate of tax, the State could be on a "pay-as-we-go" basis and we would tax according to the ability to spend and at a time when the taxpayer has the money—MONTHLY, as sales are made. This plan need not interfere with the present old age assistance grants. The pro rata amounts available each month would apply on the assistance now paid to senior citizens each month and when such amount exceeds the sum they are now eligible to, they would automatically go off the old age assistance rolls.

Advantages of Transactions, or Gross Income Tax

1. Simpler—one tax, one report. No complicated formulas with deductions and additions.
2. More equitable. Collect the tax according to the ability to receive and as received.
3. On "pay-as-you-go" basis. No bonds issued or interest to pay.
4. Flexible. As costs rise, the revenue rises proportionately.
5. Governing body has full facts on kind and amount of business being done in area.
6. Taxpayer sees what he pays. Taxes not hidden.
7. With flexible rate, within limits prescribed, changing conditions can be met promptly without need for further legislation.
8. Keeps money in circulation. No large amount in treasury like on annual tax plan.
9. More people pay taxes, but more equitably. Raises more money.
10. Disadvantages—none known.

Respectfully submitted.

JNO. C. CUNEO

Modesto, California

(COPY)

TERRITORY OF HAWAII, BUREAU OF THE TAX COMMISSIONER
HONOLULU, T. H., January 18, 1943

Mr. Jno. C. Cuneo
Modesto, California

DEAR MR. CUNEO: I am sending under separate cover, two copies of the Gross Income Law. It is still working wonders for us. Regardless of whether it is used for pensions, it should be a Federal law. It's the solution of the tax problem due to its simplicity and the fact that it will produce the revenue for the war effort.

The gross income has more than doubled our receipts from that source. In fact, it has jumped from an estimated five million to over 14 million in a biennium. California needs this type of tax. So does the United States of America.

Sincerely,

W. BORTHWICK, Tax Commissioner

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Tenney, ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Special Committee Appointed by Department Commander Leon Happell to Investigate Japanese Relocation Centers in the State of California

Commander Happell and Members of the Executive Committee of the Department of California, The American Legion

In January of 1943 the executive committee of the American Legion, Department of California adopted a resolution directing the department commander to appoint "a committee of five members, or any other number of members that may be deemed advisable from the California Department" for the purpose of conducting "an impartial investigation of all the Japanese relocation areas in the State of California."

Pursuant to the provisions of the resolution, Commander Leon Happell appointed Lieut. Harper L. Knowles, William M. Sisson, H. J. McClatchy, L. F. Olson, George Contreras, Al D. Guasti, Harold A. Vogelsand and Jack B. Tenney as members of the special committee. Comrade Jack B. Tenney was designated as the chairman.

Purposes of the Investigation

The resolution creating the special committee recited certain conditions allegedly existing in the Japanese relocation areas in the State of California. Japanese evacuees are reported as being permitted to drive trucks and to roam at will throughout the Shasta and Klamath National Forests, and to have participated in disturbances, sit-down strikes, and numerous violations of rules and regulations. The resolution, generally speaking, called for a sweeping investigation of these allegations.

After considerable correspondence between the widely separated members of the committee, it was decided to base the investigation on the following points:

- (1) General living condition.
- (2) Camp government.
- (3) Food.
- (4) Stores. (Camp commissaries).
- (5) Cash allowance (or script) to internees.
- (6) Schools.
- (7) Dual citizenship.

Difficulties of Investigation

The committee faced several difficulties at the outset of the investigation. First and foremost, the members of the committee were widely separated geographically, and meetings with all of the members presented inconveniences of time, place, traveling accommodations, and expenses. The second difficulty faced by the committee was the authority to summon and interrogate witnesses and to freely inspect the relocation centers.

The first difficulty was solved by dividing the committee into two parts, a subcommittee for Northern California, consisting of Comrades Sisson, McClatchy, and Vogelsand (Comrade Knowles having resigned because of active duty in the Army) and a subcommittee for Southern California composed of Comrades Olson, Contreras, and Guasti.

The second difficulty was met to some extent by taking testimony before notaries under oath. The Joint Fact-Finding Committee of the California Legislature, interested in the same problem, assisted your committee by detailing Senator Hugh Burns of Fresno to the Tule Lake Area and Assemblyman Nelson Dilworth of Hemet to Manzanar. The Chief Investigator of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee, Mr. R. E. Combs of Visalia, accompanied Senator Burns to Redding and assisted Comrade Sisson in the investigation there, and later accompanied Comrades Contreras and Guasti to Manzanar, where, with the assistance of Comrade Commander Kenneth L. Williams of the fifteenth district, conditions at Manzanar were checked.

Many persons were questioned at both Manzanar, Bishop, Independence, Camp Newell, and the vicinity surrounding Tule Lake. Sworn affidavits were taken from Howard L. Dayton, George H. Frey, Ralph A. Ganger, Frank Mosebar, and C. W. Fensler on the conditions of Tule Lake. Comrade Sisson, who resides at Redding, was in possession of considerable information concerning the northern camp and also presented the committee with a sworn affidavit concerning the problems in which the committee was interested.

In presenting this report, the committee wishes to point out that the investigation is necessarily incomplete and that many reports and allegations made by numerous citizens of California have not been completely checked and verified. The committee therefore recommends that the Department of California of the American Legion continue its interest in the problem, and that every effort be made to determine conditions in the relocation camps with its effect upon the morale of our people and the war effort.

War Relocation Authority

The War Relocation Authority was created when the funds of the C. C. C. and the W. P. A. were exhausted. The job of constructing the relocation centers was given to the United States Army Engineers. A man by the name of Eisenhower was sent from Washington to decide where the Japanese centers were to be located, and, during the time that the evacuees were being placed, they were directly under the supervision and authority of the Army. Everyone assumed, including the Army authorities, that the Japanese evacuees were to continue under the supervision of the Army. Later, General De Witt declared that he did not have enough men in his armed forces to spare for the policing of the centers. About this time the W. R. A. came into being.

When the Japanese were evacuated and placed in the relocation centers, Government officials established the policy of treating the evacuees in a "most civilized manner" in order to secure decent treatment for American soldiers and sailors who might become prisoners of war of the Japanese. An overwhelming pampering of the Japanese evacuees has been the result of this policy under the War Relocation Authority.

Farmers in agricultural belts, such as San Joaquin Valley, requested that relocation centers be placed in such areas so that the Japanese might aid in farm work, but these requests were denied on the ground that such areas were too vital for the presence of the Japanese. Farmers and growers in the Tule Lake Area were given to understand that they would be able to hire the Japanese for farm work. After the center was established, a committee of Tule Lake agriculturists called at the relocation center to make arrangements for the hiring of the Japanese. The director of the W. R. A. refused to permit the committee to arrange for such employment.

The citizens in and around Tule Lake believe that the W. R. A. administration has become "very self-centered" and that it specializes in social service and pampering. Your committee learned that many citizens in this community are apprehensive and fearful, realizing that the military authorities could not intervene in any other than a dire emergency. In a sudden riot or outbreak, the citizens believe that, even though military forces moved with lightning speed, their assistance would come too late. Witnesses, in sworn affidavits, have declared that they look upon the situation at Tule Lake as alarming and "a potential danger * * * through the administration of the camp, to the citizens of the community."

Questions being asked by the citizens at Tule Lake include the following:

How many short wave radios are available in the camp?

Why are Japanese internees driven around through the forests and mountains in Government trucks?

Are saddle horses being purchased for the purpose of giving riding instructions at the camp?

Why are the Japanese internees permitted to make long distance phone calls in their native tongue?

When the internees go on strike, why does the W. R. A. hire Caucasian help for the unloading of lumber and other material sent to the camp for the use and comfort of the Japanese?

Citizens in and around Tule Lake declare that Caucasians were hired with trucks in 1942 to haul potatoes for the internees, and that the Japanese have gone on strike from time to time and have refused to participate in labors, the results of which are designed for their own benefit, such as unloading coal which had been brought to the camp for their particular comfort. It was stated, under oath, that between four and five hundred acres of barley was left unharvested in the Tule Lake Center, although there was abundant equipment and manpower available.

It was learned that passes permitting entrance to the Camp at Tule Lake were issued by the Japanese themselves.

Tule Lake

General Living Conditions

Housing at Tule Lake compares favorably to the housing constructed in our own military centers, and in many cases are said to be far better than housing in some military training centers being used by our own boys. At Tule Lake, up-to-date and modern facilities have been installed, and the camp is complete with community mess halls, recreation buildings, laundries, and bathhouses. Members of your committee who visited this camp report that they found much of the housing superior to quarters supplied for our armed forces while in training.

Furnishings in the homes of the internees at Camp Newell are not restricted, and in some of the quarters electric equipment, no longer available to our own citizens, was observed.

It was discovered that this same electric equipment, now denied to the citizenry of our country, can be purchased and delivered to the internees at Camp Newell.

Camp Newell is under civilian directorship. The restrictions, rules, and regulations in the camp are under the supervision of the Japanese themselves. It is briefly summed up as a matter of self-government generally referred to as the "Block System." The supervision and regulations, through this so-called "Block System" emanates from a governing body of the Japanese known as the "Japanese Block Councils." The civilian directorship of the camp is said to concern itself with social service work and problems.

Japanese evacuees from Camp Newell, without escort, have been observed by forest rangers at the Medicine Lake Guard Station inside the United States Forest Reserve, 40 miles from the restricted area. On this particular occasion, no one was permitted in the United States Forest Reserve because of the peril of fire. Many citizens declare that they have observed the internees riding around in Government trucks and cars without escort, far beyond the restricted area. Japanese have been arrested in the City of Tule Lake and questioned as to their reasons for being absent from the camp. They have been held in jail at Tule Lake until military authorities arrived to escort them back to the relocation center. Witnesses testified that the Japanese unnecessarily abuse Government equipment, particularly trucks and automobiles.

The situation became so bad at Camp Newell, according to sworn testimony, that a second camp was recently established 16 miles from Camp Newell for obviously disloyal and out-and-out insubordinate Japanese. The establishment of the second camp placed the Japanese internees on both sides of the Tule Lake area and this fact has caused considerable discomfort and alarm to about 400 farmers and the entire citizenry of the City of Tule Lake in between.

The general consensus of opinion in and around Tule Lake is that all restrictions over the internees have been abandoned. One sworn affidavit sums it up as follows: "You will find these foreigners, time and again, driving cars unescorted and assumed free-lance anywhere in this area. Approaching Camp Newell, you will see the inmates roving over the terrain like puppies unescorted and in some instances out of sight of the camp and its military attaches, and they have been known to be as far as 40 miles from the camp in Government vehicles."

Food is said to be procured on the same system per person as the armed forces are rationed through the quartermaster of the post. There is plenty of food, although the Japanese cooking staff at Camp Newell has gone on strike on occasion and refused to prepare it. The quality of the food is said to be excellent, and in many respects far superior to the food furnished our own armed forces. The Japanese are issued ration books, and it is reported that in some instances they receive coupons in addition to the number ordinarily issued by the Government.

There are around 3,000 hogs located near Camp Newell, and witnesses declare that around 300 are slaughtered each month, producing 1,200 hams and 600 sides of bacon every 30 days. Around 10,000 chickens are maintained in connection with the camp.

A general merchandise store is maintained at Camp Newell. It is under cooperative ownership, and is administered under Japanese supervision. There are no restrictions in buying, and the store carries many classes of merchandise offered for sale in unlimited quantities at prices considerably below the prices in retail stores in the Tule Lake vicinity.

The internees buy scrip at the general merchandise store. Those who work are paid in cash, and this they turn in for scrip. The purchases at the store through scrip and the cooperative ownership of the store by the Japanese result in accrued dividends, which the Japanese hope to take out some day in cash.

The Japanese are attending school at Camp Newell in the Recreation Building which is well furnished, heated, and adequately equipped with modern facilities. While the buildings now being used are said to be more than adequate, new school buildings are being erected. A new high school or schools is presently being constructed, and it is estimated that it will involve more than 2,000,000 feet of lumber.

Comrade Sisson, while visiting in the vicinity of Camp Newell, observed many vehicles loaded with essential fuel which could not be unloaded because the Japanese internees were on a sit-down strike. He was told by the military authorities that they could not enter the camp unless the Japanese rioted. In entering Camp Newell, he was forced to secure a pass from a Japanese, and upon leaving the camp surrendered the pass to the Military Police.

Manzanar

On Monday, March 29, 1943, Comrades George Contreras and Al Guasti, accompanied by R. E. Combs, Counsel and Chief Investigator of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, went from Los Angeles to Bishop, California, for the purpose of conducting a survey of the Manzanar Relocation Center.

March 5, 1942, Lieutenant General John De Witt issued an order excluding all Japanese from the area comprising the Western Defense Command. The execution of this order involved the removal of an estimated 110,000 citizens and alien Japanese to the several relocation centers, one of which was established in Inyo County near Independence, some 250 miles from Los Angeles. This center, Manzanar, received the first contingent of Japanese evacuees on March 21, 1942, when 61 men and 20 women arrived there from Southern California. By June of 1942, control of the project was transferred from the War Time Civil Control Authority to the War Relocation Authority, which now exercises jurisdiction over the center through the Civilian Project Director, Ralph P. Merritt, and his assistant, Robert L. Brown.

On March 30, 1943, the Japanese evacuee population was 9,500 persons at Manzanar.

Immediately prior to visiting the center, numerous persons were interviewed, including Comrade Kenneth L. Williams, District Commander of the American Legion, at Bishop, several officials of Inyo County, and responsible citizens in the vicinity of the project. Thereafter, Comrades Contreras and Guasti were conducted through the entire center by Mr. Robert L. Brown, who was most courteous and cooperative in every respect.

Prior to the administration of Mr. Merritt, the evacuees were permitted to leave the center and wander at will about the adjacent country. This practice quickly antagonized the residents of nearby communities, and is an example of the loose type of control exercised by some civilian administrators in this and similar projects in the State. The present administration does not permit such leniency.

The evacuees are adequately housed and fed. The men are occupied during the day in reclaiming desert lands and raising thereon a variety of vegetable produce. Many of the women are learning useful vocations, and others serve as waitresses in the various mess halls. For this work the evacuees are compensated at a rate of approximately $16 per month. Contrary to current rumors, the evacuees are not fed any better than the average citizen. They are given oleomargarine instead of butter, and their food, while not luxurious, is ample and nourishing.

The center has excellent hospital facilities, a nursery for the production of fruit trees, a guayule experimental nursery, a newspaper, a vocation training program, a department of internal security headed by experienced Caucasian peace officers with a Japanese staff, and the boundaries of the project are guarded by a company of U. S. Army Military Police.

Entertainment and recreational facilities include the exhibition of 16 millimeter motion pictures, athletics, a music and art center, dances, and libraries.

Caucasian teachers instruct children of school age in the standard school curriculum prescribed by State law.

No major disturbance occurred at the center until the riot of December 6, 7, and 8, 1942, when several hundred evacuees assembled at the front gate. Fred Tayama, of Los Angeles, who had testified in Los Angeles at a public hearing conducted by the State Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, was severely beaten by the insurgent Japanese. The mob demonstration finally became so critical that the soldiers were compelled to open fire, killing two of the rioters and wounding four others. The Manzanar Free Press, issue of March 20, 1943, commented on this disturbance as follows:

This basic calm which Manzanar residents had been enjoying was disrupted unfortunately by the "riot" of December 6th, which was aggravated by newspaper accounts that stressed only the sensational aspects of the event. The emotional outburst was an inevitable outcome of the internal strife caused largely by the concentrated nature of the population. The fact that other centers have had strife and difficulties reflects on the basic difficulty of any group to maintain a normal life under crowded circumstances. That the date of the Manzanar trouble coincided with Pearl Harbor, 1941, created in the public press ample opportunity to misinterpret the essential facts. The sheer coincidence in date was, perhaps, the most unfortunate aspect of the whole thing.

Despite the foregoing statement, reliable information is available to the effect that it was far from sheer coincidence that the riot at Manzanar and similar demonstrations at other relocation centers occurred on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Conditions at Manzanar are certainly not so crowded that congestion alone would cause such an outbreak of subversive violence. As for newspapers stressing only the sensational aspects of the affair, it would be difficult to imagine anything more sensational than a riot by Japanese evacuees which lasted three days and resulted in the death of two, the wounding of four, and the serious beating administered an evacuee because of his cooperation with Government investigative agencies.

It must be remembered that only a handful of leaders of the riot were removed from the center. Several hundred evacuees comprised the mob of rioters, and the great majority of them are still there.

No attempt has been made to segregate subversive from loyal evacuees, or the Kibei from the Nisei. There is no American course for Kibei.

Conferences with county officials and citizens indicated that there is the strongest sentiment for Army control at Manzanar. The great contrast between conditions in the center under the present administration and those which preceded it indicate that considerable latitude is given the individual administrator. Under Army supervision, the administration would be much more uniform, and public sentiment emphatically favors Army supervision.

It is felt that an Americanism course, which all adult evacuees are compelled to attend, would be an excellent thing. Under present conditions the disloyal Japanese are left pretty much alone to nurture their subversive broodings. These subversive tendencies were deeply ingrained as a vital part of the Japanese heritage, and after years of intense indoctrination of Japanism and a firmly planted sense of fanatic devotion to the Emperor. Unless some measures are taken to replace these concepts with the principles of democracy and Americanism, there is no reason to believe that there will not be other demonstrations like the one which occurred five months ago.

Unquestionably, the problem of segregation is a difficult one. There is no doubt that the older evacuees are, for the most part, loyal to Japan, and that they exercise considerable influence on the Nisei with whom they have the closest contact.

Only 90 evacuees volunteered for service in the United States Army out of the entire male population at Manzanar, and the report of a Congressional Subcommittee, headed by Senator Albert B. Chandler of Kentucky, indicates that "especially at Manzanar, with its heavy Japanese contingents from Los Angeles metropolitan area like Little Tokyo and Terminal Island, are a large number of actively disloyal young Japanese, all of American birth, who are constantly breeding hatred against the United States and fomenting trouble. * * * " (Los Angeles Examiner, April 1, 1943, Part I, p. 12.)

It is recommended that:

1. An appropriate course in Americanism be established, and that all adult evacuees be compelled to attend.
2. The English language be taught to all adult evacuees who are unable to speak English.
3. Some effort be made to segregate subversive from loyal evacuees.
4. Administration of all relocation centers be vested in the United States Army.

Respectfully submitted.

"SECTION 1. Section 1.94 is added to the School Code, to read:

1.94. The governing board of a school district may without complying with any other provision of law lease busses owned by, or under lease to, the district to any common carrier or to any other type of carrier for the transportation of persons employed by, or in the military service of, the United States of America and persons engaged in agriculture or other war industries upon such terms and conditions as the governing board of the district may prescribe except that such terms and conditions shall provide for the payment to the district by the lessee of an amount which shall not be less and may be more than sufficient to reimburse the district for all expense arising from, caused by, or incident to, such lease.

No bus shall be leased by the governing board of a school district under this section if by such lease pupils of the district will be deprived of necessary transportation to and from their homes and school.

The lease of a bus by a district under the conditions herein set forth shall not operate to make the district liable under any law now in effect, or hereafter enacted, for the payment of any fee, license, tax, or charge of any kind on account of such bus for which such district would not be liable if such bus had not been so leased.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature, or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect, it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with it, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted.

Sec. 2. Section 1.95 is added to the School Code, to read:

1.95. The governing board of a school district may operate any bus owned or under lease to the district for the transportation of persons employed by, or in the military service of, the United States of America and persons engaged in agriculture or other war industries and may require persons transported to pay a reasonable charge for transportation furnished.

Any such operation maintained for other than pupils of the public schools shall, if maintained on a fixed schedule between fixed termini for a period in excess of one week, be subject to such regulations as the State Railroad Commission may prescribe. Such operation of a bus shall not make the district a common carrier nor make the district liable under any law now in effect, or hereafter enacted, for the payment of any fee, license, tax, or charge of any kind on account of such bus for which such district would not be liable if such bus had not been so used.

Nothing in this section shall relieve a school district of any liability now imposed upon it by law and the governing board of a school district operating a bus under this section shall insure the liability of the district, other than that imposed by Division 4 of the Labor Code in any insurance company authorized to do business in California.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature, or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect, it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with it, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted."

(b) "Subdivision" does not include either of the following:

(1) Any parcel or parcels of land in which all of the following conditions are present: (i) which contain less than five acres, (ii) which abut upon dedicated streets or highways, (iii) in which street openings or widening is not required by the governing body in dividing the land into lots or parcels, and (iv) the lot design meets the approval of the governing body.

(2) Any parcel or parcels of land divided into lots or parcels, each of a net area of [two and one-half acres] one acre or more, a tentative map of which has been submitted to the governing body and has been approved by it as to street alignment and widths, drainage provisions and lot design.

(d) Nothing contained in this chapter shall apply to land dedicated for cemetery purposes under the Health and Safety Code of the State of California.

SEC. 2. Section 11552 of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11552. If there is no advisory agency, the clerk of the governing body shall submit the tentative map to the governing body at its next regular meeting, which shall act thereon within 40 days thereafter.

If there is an advisory agency, it shall report on the map or maps of any subdivision submitted to it within 30 days after the tentative map has been filed and the report shall approve, conditionally approve or disapprove the map or maps of the subdivision.

The governing body may authorize the advisory agency to report its action direct to the subdivider. If the governing body does not so authorize the advisory agency, the advisory agency shall make its report to the governing body, which body shall act upon the report within 10 days or at its next succeeding regular meeting after receipt of the report.

If the subdivider is dissatisfied with any action of the advisory agency with respect to the tentative map, the kinds, nature and extent of the improvements recommended by the advisory agency to be required, he may, within 15 days after such action, appeal to the governing body for a public hearing thereon. The governing body shall hear the appeal, upon notice to the subdivider and the advisory agency, unless the subdivider consents to a continuance, within 10 days or at its next succeeding regular meeting. At the time fixed for the hearing the governing body shall proceed to hear the testimony of the subdivider or any witnesses in his behalf and the testimony of the representatives of the advisory agency or any witnesses in its behalf. It may also hear the testimony of other competent persons respecting the character of the neighborhood in which the subdivision is to be located, the kinds, nature and extent of improvements, the quality or kinds of development to which the area is best adapted and any other phase of the matter with respect to which it may desire to inquire into.

Upon conclusion of the hearing the governing body shall within seven days declare its findings based upon the testimony produced before it. It may sustain, modify, reject or overrule any recommendations or rulings of the advisory agency and may make such findings as are not inconsistent with the provisions of the chapter.

[The governing body may, by a majority vote of its members, overrule any ruling of the advisory agency in regard to the tentative map and may make such findings as are not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter or local ordinance adopted pursuant to this chapter.]

SEC. 3. Section 11554 of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11554. Within one year after approval or conditional approval of the tentative map or maps, the subdivider may cause the subdivision, or any part thereof, to be surveyed and a final map to be prepared in accordance with the tentative map as approved, or he may proceed with the sale by metes and bounds or other similar definite description of the parcels or parts thereof as shown on an approved record of survey map. Upon application of the subdivider an extension of not exceeding one year may be granted by the governing body.

Whenever such duties are divided between the county surveyor and the city engineer, each officer shall certify to the duties performed by him. The county surveyor or the city engineer, or other public official or employee authorized to perform each function, shall complete and file with his governing body his certificate as required by this section within 20 days from the time said final map is submitted to him by the subdivider for approval.

SEC. 6. Section 11612 of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11612. In the event an agreement for the improvement of the streets or easements is entered into, the governing body may require that the agreement shall be secured by a good and sufficient bond in an amount not in excess of the estimated cost of the improvement. However, the subdivider, at his option, in lieu of the agreement to construct improvements, and the bond to secure it, may enter into a contract with the governing body, secured by a faithful performance bond, if required by the governing body, in an amount not to exceed the estimated cost of the improvement, by which he agrees, within such time as may be provided in the contract, to initiate and to consummate proceedings under an appropriate special assessment act for the formation of a special assessment district covering the subdivision or part thereof, for the financing and construction of designated improvements upon the streets or easements dedicated by the map. Said contract shall by its terms provide for the acceptance of the work as it progresses and for partial withdrawal of the deposit, in money or bonds, upon certificate of the county surveyor or the city engineer, or other public official or employee authorized to perform such function in a manner similar to cash payments under cash contracts and under rules established by the governing body."
